If we know anything about the general public, and we think we do we'd say N would be enraged if the police with due authority, refrained from tapping the wire of some suspected FLQ terrorist.

That CBC-TV reporter said to the Prime Minister:

"My choice is to live in a society that is free and democratic, which means that you don't have people with guns running around in it."

Mr. Trudeau replied with the one apt word: "Correct."

To which we would add that the only people running around" with guns were the abductors, and they are the only ones still threatening to use them as murder weapons.

The Christian View-and the Agnostic's

World Council of Churches Split on Ecumenism

Editor
The Intelligencer.

A few days ago a "member of the now generation" was speaking his mind in these columns and a few weeks earlier a guest speaker on CJBQ spoke on the necessity of ecumenical unity. On both occasions pobus were lead I would like to discuss further.

The writer claimed that: people attend churches because "they have been conditioned to do so from infancy." Maybe he did make a point here as there are some people to whom church attendance is only a family tradition. But I am sure the majority go for a different reason.

Some people may use religion as a "crutch" as the writer claimed. They have found a certain religion which they like. It appeals to them and therefore they have accepted it as gospel truth. But there is still another group of people who are more serious about the welfare of their souls and will not just look at all the denominational names and pick out a church for themselves. Nor will they say: "How confusing! This keeps me from God." These people have ventured to go in deeper than that and in their search for truth have encountered the living Christ — they are the ones who know where they are going.

The other statement by the writer that anyone 'who kicks the addiction habit' does it on his own, is hardly accurate as we know people more than one, who have tried it for years in vain, but were instantly freed without any effort of their own, the moment Christ entered their lives.

I would however agree with the writer on his third point he raised; that is: "No intellectual argument moves people to believe in God." This is exactly what the Bible says in several places. Those who are wise or intelligent in their own eyes, are fools in the sight of God. After all God knows us better than we can begin to know ourselves.

You can figure out in your human mind and place Him in one of the compartments of your brain, God is bigger than that. If He wasn't, He wouldn't be God. God must be discovered with the heart and the understanding will soon follow. True knowledge has never kept anyone from finding God. Many learned men, including scientists who are leaders in their own fields, still agree with this.

Now about the problem of Ecumenical Unity. I agree with the speaker that unity is helpful, especially on the field of foreign mission, where the different denominational factions and teachings are often confusing to the prospective converts. The question is however, on whose terms shall unity be achieved?

The World Council of Churches wants everybody in, as sponsored by them in Lebanon in March, 1970. They would include Buddhists, Hindus, Muslims, and others. Some members of the Council do not agree with this. A statement drafted by Dr. P. Beyerhaus of the Ecumenical Theology at Tubingen and signed by more than a dozen German University professors would exclude not only them, but many others.

Here are some excerpts:

"Christian mission discovers its foundation, goals, tasks and the content of its proclamation solely in the commission of the resurrected Lord Jesus Christ and His saving act."

The first and supreme goal of mission is the glorification of the name of God throughout the entire world and the proclamation of the Lordship of Jesus Christ, His Son . . . Humanization is not the goal of church and mission. It is rather a product of our new birth.

"Jesus Christ our Saviour, true God and true Man, as the Bible proclaims Him is the personal mystery and His saving work, is the basis, content and authority of our ministry."

"The offer of Salvation in Christ is directed without exception to all . . . the adherents to the non -Christian religions can receive this salvation only through participation in faith. They must let themselves be freed from their former ties and false hopes in order to be admitted into the Body of Christ. Israel too, will find salvation in turning to Jesus Christ."

"We refute the Utopian ideology that . . . all of mankind is already moving toward a position of general peace and justice and will finally before the return of Christ — be united under Him in a great world fellowship. We reject the scientific-Marxist ideology of classless society with progress, development and social change."

"We do however, affirm the determined advocacy of justice and peace in the churches. And we affirm that 'assistance in development' is a really realization of the divine demand for mercy and justice as well as of the command of Jesus: 'Love thy neighbor!'"

This is only part of the document which according to Dr. Beyerhaus has greatly stirred up the whole German-speaking missionary world. The question has further split the council. The main cause of the division is that unregenerate members want to replace fundamental Bible-truth with a social gospel.

Until a united council takes it over I do not see little change for progress.

UK Supports Trudeau

World Reaction Is One of Revulsion Over FLQ Murder Act

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath and Sir Alec Douglas-Home, foreign and Commonwealth secretary, were keeping a close and fingers-crossed watch Sunday night on the fate of James (Jasper) Cross.

Heath was at Chequers, the country home of British prime ministers, and Sir Alec in London. Both were being posted hourly on developments in Montreal, where the kidnapped British trade commissioner's life apparently hung in the balance.

Informants said Heath was in direct touch with Prime Minister Trudeau's office while Douglas-Home was consulting "on an hourly basis" with that of External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp.

Sir Alec, flying into London Sunday from his home in Scotland, condemned the abductors' killing of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

"I cannot find words strong enough to condemn this horrible crime," he said.

"No cause can be advanced by such methods. I hope and pray that those who are holding Mr. Cross will see reason and be moved to humanity before it is too late."

"We are very intensely involved by radio, telegraph and telephone," a spokesman at 10 Downing Street said.

He added that the British government is bringing pressure on the Canadian government to get Cross free and is not blaming Canada for the double abduction and subsequent shooting of Laporte.

The Sunday Telegraph, in an editorial headed "Gun Point," said:

"Mr. Trudeau has moved with . . . the necessary determination . . . by acting with strength and determination (he) will be serving the interests of all French-speaking Canadians who care for civilized values, no less than those of their English-speaking fellow citizens."

The Observer said:

"It is hard to stand by and see innocent life threatened. . . . Despite the horrible anguish of the wives and families . . . and despite the obvious political and social risks, Mr. Trudeau is right to harden his heart and challenge the FLQ to do its worst."

The Guardian in an editorial takes a backslander at former French president Charles de Gaulle, whose 1967 "vive le Quebec libre" declamation in Montreal led to the cutting short of his visit to Canada. De Gaulle has just come out with a best-selling book of memoirs.

Says the Guardian:

"Ex-president de Gaulle, who would never condone kidnapping, ought perhaps to look again at some of the unhelpful words he uses about Canada in his memoirs, now being published at an untimely moment.

Richard Marsh, a former Labor transport minister and an old friend of Cross, writes in the Sunday Express that, with sorrow, he must say negotiations with the kidnappers should not have been opened.

"It is a hard thing to say," he writes, "but even against the threat of death to an innocent man, these negotiations should never have been begun. . . ."

Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann of France sent condolences Sunday to Premier Robert Bourassa of Quebec. He said he was "distressed by the dramatic death" of Laporte, who he said had played a major role in co-operation between Quebec and France when he was culture minister in 1965 and 1966.

In Algiers, Algerian rebels say they never used such cold-blooded tactics as the FLQ in the slaying of Laporte.

Therefore, unofficial sources speculated Sunday, the official reaction of the Algerian government, which has welcomed revolutionaries of all kinds since independence from France in 1962, might not be favorable to the FLQ.

In Tel Aviv, a leading Israeli newspaper has placed scene of the blame on de Gaulle. The daily Yediot Aharonot said in an editorial Sunday:

"The events in Quebec province are the harvest of the seeds de Gaulle planted three years ago, when, during a tour of Canada, he openly called on its French inhabitants to revolt. . . ."

The daily Maariv called for an "uncompromising, merciless counterattack" on organizations such as the FLQ.

The Frankfurt Allgemeine Zeitung said in an editorial:

"That world opinion would not take the events in Canada seriously enough has been confirmed. The murder . . . is just as purposeless and brutal as the murder of diplomats in South America. Yet Laporte was a man who was probably as much a French-Canadian patriot as others.

Severe British newspapers, including the Communist Morning Star, criticized the FLQ.

The Times says if Trudeau "had temporized longer, he would have gone far to show that any violent and determined men in modern urban conditions . . . can impose their will on free but frightened men who do not put first the defence of the liberties they inherited."

The Morning Star, daily voice of the British Communist party, described the killing of Laporte as "a shocking affair which is to be condemned in the strongest possible terms."

However, The Daily Sketch says Trudeau "is an indecisive man who has tried to play it tough."

In New York, The Times describes the death of the Quebec cabinet minister as "cold-blooded" and says "the traditional image of Canada as one of the world's most stable democracies has been weakened."

"No one has forgotten the lively support which General de Gaulle gave to Quebec separatism three years ago. . . ."

Le Figaro says of the FLQ: "These direct-action romantics also are desperate people. . . . They have a feeling that the Quebec people, which up to now have refused extremism, do not sufficiently understand and follow them."

Le Figaro said the kidnappers made a number of errors which "led them to an irreclevable act."

warrant FLQ members or adherents.

By early today 319 persons were being detained in the investigation, 183 in Montreal, the others in Quebec City, Sherbrooke, Hull and five other Quebec centres.

Laporte's death would not deter progress toward social change.

The prime minister said the entire population of Canada "shares a single emotion and sense of deep unity in the face of events."

A "small band of twisted men" have tried to turn Canadians against Canadians. "Their scheme has been a deliberate provocation of hate.

"No cause can be advanced by such methods. I hope and pray that those who are holding Mr. Cross will see reason and be moved to humanity before it is too late."

"Mr. Trudeau has moved with . . . the necessary determination . . . by acting with strength and determination (he) will be serving the interests of all French-speaking Canadians who care for civilized values, no less than those of their English-

He urged that everything possible be done to save Mr. Cross's life and said the federal government, by taking a hard line with the kidnappers, bore "a heavy responsibility" for Mr. Laporte's death.

Prime Minister Trudeau flew to Montreal Sunday to confer, under heavy security, with Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa and Mayor Jean Drapeau.

Mr. Trudeau returned to Ottawa after going to the heavily-guarded courthouse on Notre Dame Street where Mr. Laporte is lying in state.

Mr. Laporte is survived by his wife, daughter Claire, 20, and son Jean, 19. His grief-stricken mother was among members of the family to view the body.

Later thousands of Montrealers began filing past the open coffin. Burial will be Tuesday.

The Sunday letter from Mr. Cross was found in an east-end church after an anonymous telephone call to a local radio station.

"Early this morning I have seen my death announced on television," the British trade commissioner said in the letter. "This was terrible."

He asked that the Red Cross and Cuban consulate act as intermediaries in trying his freedom for that of 23 men in prison or about to be tried for terrorist acts.

He reiterated the FLQ's claim — and demands of police activity in the kidnappings.

The FLQ later offered to trade the life of Mr. Cross for the release and safe conduct of the prisoners. But it demanded fulfilment of all ransom demands for Mr. Laporte's life.

Last Thursday, three days of talks between Robert Lemieux, 29, acting as lawyer for the FLQ, and Robert Demers, negotiator for the provincial government, collapsed when Mr. Lemieux rejected a government offer to recommend parole for five of the prisoners and safe conduct for the kidnappers on release of Mr. Laporte and Mr. Cross.

Mr. Lemieux was among those rounded up by police Friday and jailed.

During the negotiations, a letter from Mr. Laporte, found in a garbage can after the usual phone tip to a radio station, said the FLQ would carry out more kidnappings if demands weren't met.

The letter said hat if politicians are protected "they will strike elsewhere in other classes of society."

Politicians in Quebec and Ottawa have been under close guard since the Laporte-Cross kidnappings.

Saturday, the man in the street was chilled to read that a 27-year-old woman in Hull, near Ottawa, was abducted Saturday night and the letters FLQ carved in her stomach.

The woman, Monique Deschamps, said she was told to tell Prime Minister Trudeau that if he didn't call off his campaign against the FLQ, children would be attacked.

Although the FLQ has been closely identified with separatism in Quebec, the six victims of its bombings . and armed robberies have been mostly French-speaking Canadians of modest means.

In its manifesto, it identified itself as an internationalist revolutionary group and called upon Quebecers to rebel against a host of social ills. It offered no political program.

His "execution" of Mr. Laporte came in a country where the death penalty hasn't been carried out in almost 10 years and where capital punishment is under trial suspension.

Mourners Pay Respect

Under tight police security, relatives and members of the Laporte family were first to be allowed into the courthouse.

As mourners approached the massive, bronze doors of the courthouse they were frisked by police enforcing a no-camera rule.

Inside, people from many walks of life shuffled past the coffin. Overhead, the rattle of police and military helicopters was heard.

Narrow streets in the area were filled with curious onlookers, but the rest of the normally-busy Montreal was unusually quiet.

A decline in activity on main thoroughfares was noticed last Thursday after federal troops arrived in the city.

It hit a low as news of Mr. Laporte's murder spread early Sunday through the city's nightclubs and restaurants.

Rolland Daoust, owner of the Lorelei Ballroom, said:

"At 12:30 Sunday morning I had 500 people in here. By 12:50 there were 75 people left. Everyone wanted to get to TV sets and radios."

A spokesman for the Bonaventure Hotel said some patrons in the cocktail lounge became angry and worried when they learned of the slaying.

"The tourists in the city seemed worried. Some of them are asking if it is safe to go out on the streets."

Nation Shocked

Premier G. I. Smith of Nova Scotia described the slaying as "a brutal and senseless crime against all Canadians."

Premier Louis J. Robichaud of New Brunswick expressed sorrow and cancelled visits scheduled for Sunday in his campaign for the Oct. 26 provincial election.

Premier Harry Strom was away from the provincial capital and unavailable for comment, but Alberta's Opposition Leader Peter Lougheed said Albertans "should rally around the federal authorities to ensure there is unity in this nation."

Manitoba Premier Ed Schreyer was shocked but said "the possibility had remained in my mind."

"After all they are a terrorist group," he said.

Maillot's Highways Minister Joe Bucovetsky said "the butchers should be hunted down like mad dogs and shot."

Mayor Ivor Dent of Edmonton, president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, said:

"It is apparent that we are dealing with a vicious people. . . . To kill an innocent man and to blackmail a country into submission . . . so that it would agree to illegal demands has to be reprehensible out of all proportion."

Pierre Siraud, French ambassador to Canada, expressed "horror and indignation."

Church and community leaders added their voices.

Maurice Cardinal Roy said on behalf of Quebec Roman Catholic bishops that violence nourished by injustice is closing in around Quebec society and urged Quebecers to act responsibly in the face of present events.

Gold Cord for Patricia Akey

Girl Guide Patricia Akey receives top award for Guide work as Mrs. A. Bannon, right, assisted by Mrs. P. Stallkovitch, Captain, fasten the Gold Cord on Patricia's shoulder. The Guide's mother, Mrs. M. Akey, presented a Gold Cord pin at a ceremony held in St. Columba Church.

Girl Guides Hold Fly-up and Walk-Up

Mrs. A. Bannon, Area Camp Advisor presented the Gold Cord to Patricia Akey, Point Anne, with her mother presenting the Gold Pin during the ceremonies held on Wednesday Oct. 14 when Co. 9 Girl Guides entertained members of Pack 1, Point Anne. Packs 14 and 15 Belleville Brownies at the St. Columba Church Hall.

After brief opening exercises, Rev. S. Gentle was presented with a set of desk pens and a clock, gifts in appreciation of the welcome and assistance he has given the Brownies and Guides who meet in St. Columba Church. Carol Thacke, Gold Cord Guide, Kathy Dixon All Round Cord Guide and Brownie Lynne Hannah made the presentation.

When he designs jewelry for a customer, he watches her hands and notices the way she speaks. Eyes and skin tone play a part because they stay constant when hair color and clothing styles change.

If you are buying good jewelry, having jewelry appraised or reset, he says it pays to go to the best jeweller available.

T. R. Colden presented Carol Thacke with the Gold Cord and Kathy Dixon with an All Round Cord. They had received their cords officially at the area dinner held in May but the presentation was repeated in the presence of the Co. 9 Guides.

Captain Mrs. P. Stallkovitch having completed ten years of service to Guiding received a ten-year bar, a gift from the Co. 9 Guides. This was presented by Mrs. J. Miles in charge of Public Relations.

Skits and games followed and a lunch was served by the girls who were trying hostess duties. The meeting closed with taps.

Expert Advises on Buying Jewelry

TORONTO (CP) — When you buy good jewelry, consider your eyes, your skin tone, your personality and what you want most—a ring, a bracelet or whatever. Then if you throw in a little good taste, the chances are you will choose something you will enjoy wearing for years, advises jeweller C. V. Secrett.

"You know who he is because there is always a reputation. If you don't know a community, go to a larger, well established firm—people who can't afford not to be honest.

"Sometimes a small jeweller may not be backed up enough to replace a stone if he chips one.

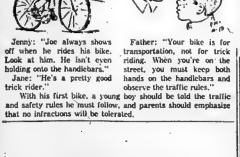
"If it's old it's antique, but the word doesn't mean anything if it wasn't good. A lot of it was terrible stuff.

"In most old pieces the value is in the workmanship, not in the stone. Much of it has inferior stones. They didn't have the mining and cutting techniques we now have. All they wanted was color.

"Gold was expensive, labor was cheap, so people pounded the gold out thin and made big pieces. The workmanship is what you pay for."

He says the interest in antique jewelry is stronger in some years than in others and has slackened off a bit now because women are buying big, chunky modern pieces.



"Right now rings are the big thing. Women are coming into their own, being a little flamboyant. Some women are wearing 10 beautiful rings at once."

"You can be flamboyant with large jewelry.

"I'm glad the Zodiac fad came in. We are selling as many Zodiacs to men as to women. Men are wearing necklaces and bracelets and dress watches. I hate to see a man out dressed for the evening with a big underwater watch on."

Points for Parents

Jenny: "Joe always shows off when he rides his bike. Look at him. He isn't even holding onto the handlebars."

Jane: "He's a pretty good trick rider."

With his first bike, a young boy should be told the traffic and safety rules he must follow, and parents should emphasize that no infractions will be tolerated.

Father: "Your bike is for transportation, not for trick riding. When you're on the street, you must keep both hands on the handlebars and observe the traffic rules."

Talk on Drugs at Kente School

Michael Mahoney, research technician for addiction studies, Queen's University, will be the speaker at the fall meeting of the Ameliasburg Township Home and School Association to be held on Wednesday, Oct. 21 at 8 p.m. at Kente School. Mr. Mahoney who was educated in the Separate School System and Mc Gill University, Montreal, spent 12 years working Montreal's skid row, counselling and helping in the rehabilitation of drug addicts. At present he counsels addicts of drugs and alcohol.

He will be speaking on the non-medical use of drugs by youth, and the public is invited to attend.

* * *

Dear Doris: Thank you for the travel tips.

On the train home we had several adventures. We ran into a washout of tracks and had to retrace our steps 250 miles. Then, just as we got going again, bang, we were stopped again. A bridge had burned down. Next try, we had to go on a spur line which was used only for mining. It took us four hours to go 80 miles; and talk about wild country!

Next morning breakfast was skimpy. At lunch time, a ham sandwich materialized and we were all grateful.

It was wonderful to see how everyone banded together. We had a minister aboard and he kept everything going with his funny jokes. Thank goodness it was that way because no one knew what was coming next.

I wouldn't hesitate going back tomorrow though, as everything was done for our comfort. — Canadian Tripper.

Dear Tripper: I gather you eventually got home. It seems the delay and all the uncertainty were worth enduring for the adventure. Isn't it great how people who appear colorless and drab when days are humdrum and normal, can react to an emergency and really shine when they have to?

* * *

Dear Doris: My parents are having their 25th wedding anniversary soon. My brother and I would like to throw a very small surprise party.

1. Would 10 guests be too few? We must keep in mind that there will be some language barrier between my uncle (here from Holland) and some of the guests.

2. Do you know of any suitable games, just in case?

3. Is it acceptable to ask a close neighbor to handle everything for us and later give us the bills?

4. My parents don't want to bother with anything this year and have told us to save our money, but we think differently. We, of course, will give them a gift, but should we state on the invitations, "No gifts, please"?

5. How far bf advance should invitations be mailed?

On Our Own.

Dear O. O.:

1. Not if this includes all of their inner circle, without leaving out someone - they would very much like to have.

2. Ten sending you my 16-cent pamphlet of Party Games.

3. How close? Is he like a brother? Has he offered to manage everything? Then yes. Otherwise, it might be an imposition.

4. No, indeed.

5. Three weeks.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

It's Time to Make X'mas Cookies

By MARY MOORE

Plans and recipes for Christmas functions are in the making.

Shirley, my former beloved secretary, had a big part in supplying some highly recommended cookie recipes that that may be made in advance and frozen. So I am hoping to give you about nine of these cherished cookie recipes over the next few weeks so that you can do some Christmas baking well in advance.

Shirley's Auntie Cora was her staunch right arm in helping her with refreshments for a dedication service in June for their new little daughter, Donna. The following two recipes come from Auntie Cora's store of goodies.

PECAN BALLS
(Courtesy Auntie Cora; will freeze)

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 tsp. vanilla
½ cup butter or margarine (room temperature)
¼ cup brown sugar
1 cup broken pecans.

Cream together flour, vanilla, butter or margarine and sugar. Add pecans and mix in. Patiently roll into 1" balls and place on greased cookie sheets. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr, 20 min. Do not burn. While warm sprinkle with icing sugar. (They crush if you try to roll them in it.) Cool, freeze/wrap and freeze.

COCONUT CHERRY JUMBLES (courtesy Auntie Cora; will freeze)

½ cup margarine
1 cup light brown sugar
1 egg
1 tsp. vanilla
1 tsp. almond extract
¾ cup desiccated coconut
¾ cup quick-cooking rolled oats
1 cup flour
½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. baking soda
¾ tsp. salt
½ cup drained quartered maraschino cherries

Cream together the margarine, brown sugar and egg. Add flavorings, then coconut, rolled oats, flour, baking powder, baking soda, and salt. Mix well. Add and mix in cherries. Drop by small tsps. onto greased cookie sheets. Bake exactly 10 min. at 350 deg. Fahr. Cool, freeze/wrap and freeze. (Shirley had 140 little jumbles.)

Ann Landers

Write for Free Book On Cancer Prevention

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The recent letter in your column concerning the untimely and tragic death of a young woman from breast cancer made me realize that you can do more to conquer this beastly disease than any person in the United States. Everybody reads Ann Landers. By printing this letter you could alert millions of readers to a tool which could bring the largest killer of women to a halt.

The American Cancer Society has a free booklet on B.S.E. (Breast Self-examination) which, instructs women how to detect any change in breast tissue. These changes may or may not be malignant. The woman who practices B.S.E. every month has an excellent chance of discovering a lump while it may have just started. An immediate visit to her doctor for further examination and a possible biopsy could save her life.

ANN LANDERS

Will you suggest to your readers that they send for the free booklet, Ann? No greater service could be rendered to the women of the world. — WILLIAM M. CENTER, M.M. SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS.

DEAR DR. CENTER: Thank you for your letter. Before I spread the word about a free booklet I decided to write to the American Cancer Society Headquarters in New York to learn if they were equipped to handle the inevitable barrage of requests. Here is the reply:

Dear Ann Landers: Thank you for your co-operation. The American Cancer Society will be pleased to send free of charge to anyone who writes, a copy of the booklet "Personal Memo For Today, B.S.E."

We have arranged for a special Post Office Box, to expedite the handling of these requests.

All of us here wish to express our deep appreciation to you for your splendid support of this life-saving endeavor.

The address is American Cancer Society, P.O. Box 444, New York, New York 10017. — Joseph Clark, Director of Press.

And now a word from Ann Landers: I urge every female from 13 years of age up to write for this free booklet at once. Can you think of a better return on a 6c investment? I can't.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing about something I consider a serious social problem, or I should say a social disgrace. It is Blondes versus Brunettes. I see from your pictures that you are a brunette so I am hoping I can count on you to stand with me in this fight.

I was unfortunately, born a brunette. I have lived as a semi-outcast ever since. Every man I ever cared about chose a blonde when he could have had me. I'm convinced that 95 per cent of the so-called male adults IN our society would rather have an ugly blonde than a beautiful brunette. Why? Because they have been brainwashed by Madison Avenue. The propaganda has decided that blondes have more fun. Every male — both able-bodied and not-so-able-bodied — is looking for as much excitement as he can get, so it makes sense to pick the girl who promises the most fun. I am convinced my life would have been much different had I been a blonde. The world is unfair to brunettes and we need a spokesman. Are you game? — REJECT.

* * *

DEAR RE: Sorry, I'm busy. Any woman who is so firm in her conviction should be willing to dye for it. So why don't you?

Attract Young Or Regret It Says Stanfield

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The national Progressive Conservative party must improve its performance, appeal to the urban voter and attract young people or it will be in trouble, says Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield.

During a bear pit session at the 60th annual meeting of the Western Ontario Progressive Conservative Association, the federal party leader said: "Certainly we've no cause for complacency."

Ontario Premier John Robarts said the same factors are of "deep concern" to the provincial party, the only Conservative party in Canada now in power.

When asked how they view the party's future after the defeat in Nova Scotia last week of Premier G. I. Smith's PCs, Mr. Stanfield said: "I always assume I'm in trouble."

Said Mr. Robarts: "I'm very interested in why Mr. Smith got into difficulty in Nova Scotia."

Earlier, provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton said he was pleased to see the New Democratic Party elect Stephen Lewis leader of the Ontario party.

As a result, he said, "the choice is going to be whether the people of Ontario are ready to espouse a socialist philosophy or whether they want to retain free enterprise."

Darcy McKeough, Ontario minister of Municipal affairs, said better public understanding of government programs now makes the party's future appear brighter than it did a year ago.

Mr. McKeough also told the meeting he will soon start a round of meetings with groups concerned about the proposed amalgamation of Kitchener and Waterloo.

He said he will wait until all pertinent briefs from the area have been received before calling meetings.

Dr. Bette Stephenson, president of the Ontario Medical Association, told the conference that if Ontario specialists were ever faced with the situation Quebec specialists face she would recommend a strike.

But Dr. Stephenson said the Ontario government maintains close relations with doctors and a strike would be a remote possibility.

The Ontario PC Student Association elected a third-year student at Toronto's York University, Douglas Jure, 20, as its 1970-71 president.

Plowing Winners

—Doug Reid, Bramalea, tractors, open, two or more furrows mounted or trailer;

—James Campsall, Uxbridge, Ont., tractors, mounted or trailer, three or more furrows;

—James Tran, Clairmont, Ont., tractors, mounted, two or more furrows for plowman under 18 years;

—Francis Morgan, Woodville, Ont., tractors, four or more furrows, mounted or trailer.

Council Suggested Pollution Answer

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An environmental council should be established to help control pollution, at least two seminars on the problem were told Saturday.

The seminars, held throughout the province, were sponsored by Ontario community colleges and the Ontario Federation of Labor.

Al Sarnia, Liberal Leader Robert Nixon said an environmental council could consist of "a group of concerned people with academic ability for full objective surveys of the Great Lakes basin" where the pollution problem is reaching crisis proportions.

He advocated heavier fines for polluters to act as a deterrent and said a source of revenue must be established to deal with the problem.

At Kingston, Dr. Martin Edwards of the Royal Military College physics department also was in favor of an environmental council with all available resources of technology, personnel and equipment to deal with pollution.

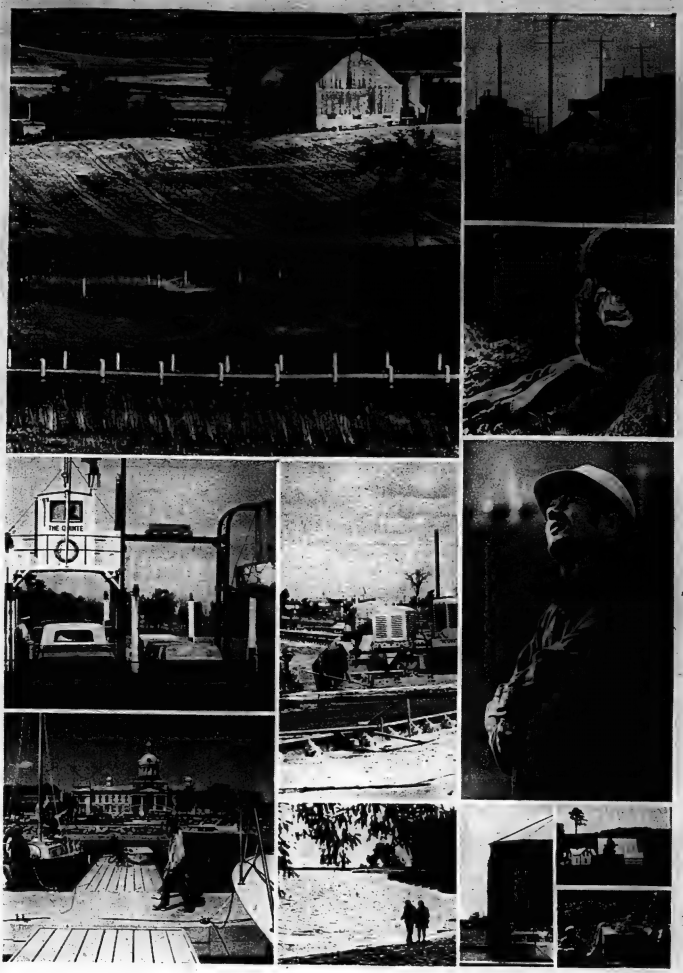
Dr. Edwards warned the seminar of the dangers of thermal pollution of Lake Ontario which could be the result of discharge of heat from power generating plants.

He said a rise of the water temperature would favor the proliferation of undesirable fish species such as carp and would increase growth of algae, already a problem in the Great Lakes.

Dr. Edwards suggested that generating plants should have cooling towers installed to dissipate excess heat into the air where it would do minimum harm.

A seminar at Brantford was told by Kenneth Trent of the Ontario department of energy and resources management, that pollution is being compounded by society's drive for a higher standard of living.

He said society will be doing well if air pollution can be kept at its present level and stated that everyone "must accept some responsibility. . . ."



At Windsor, Sol Baltimore, director of Wayne County's air conservation department in Michigan, said that breathing the city's air is equivalent to smoking 50 cigarettes a day.

Mr. Baltimore, whose department includes jurisdiction over Detroit, supported his statement from a study made by the University of California at Los Angeles.

His comparison, he said, applied to Los Angeles and Detroit and "Windsor is not that much different from Detroit."

A Sudbury audience was told by Mayor Joe Fabbro that pollution control depends on the public's willingness to pay for it. He said public support is needed before politicians can raise taxes to pay for pollution control.

After sessions at North Bay, delegates said they would form committees to study specific suggestions in the fight against pollution in the Lake Nipissing area.

Ontario. Is there any place you'd rather be?

Ontarians are the kind of people who would not be here if there was any place better. They're people who came from troubled lands and stayed to build. People with backbone and brawn and a hunger to succeed. Men and women who've created a standard of living in decades that other lands worked centuries to build. If we have a flaw it's our chronic modesty. Ontarians may be proud to be Ontarians and Canadians . . . they just seldom tell anyone. From an economic point of view that's wrong. The more people we have boosting Ontario and Canada the better it is. And we've got a lot to boost with. In the fight against pollution for example, Ontario has become a world leader. Everyone talks about pollution, we do something. More than a billion dollars has been invested to date to build water supply and sewage systems in dozens of communities throughout the province. We've got laws to prosecute industries that pollute the air and water; loans and grants to help industries that want to do something to stop it. We need a vigorous economy of course, to support these important programs. And, that's where you come in. Though our productivity has doubled in ten years and our incomes in twelve, Ontarians don't sit on their successes. There's a demanding decade ahead full of challenges and opportunities to make the quality of our lives better yet. To meet these challenges we've got to believe in ourselves. Which, when you think about it, isn't such a bad idea.

Government of Ontario ⓘ John Robarts, Prime Minister.

Canada's Best-ever Pacer, R. Yankee Wann Dies

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

R. Yankee Wann died a winner.

The seven - year - old stallion the most successful pacer in Canadian harness racing history, died early Sunday on the Archambourg Township farm of owner Campbell Wannamaker.

Eight days earlier, "The Bull", as he was known around the Wannamaker stable, had been a special entry in the Richard Ellis Memorial Stake Race on the Quinte Riding and Driving Club's weekly card.

With no betting permitted on the big circuit celebrity R. Yankee was handily in 2:09.3 on a muddy track and owner Wannamaker refused to accept the $400 winner's purse.

"We just ran him to help promote harness racing in Belleville," explained Rejean Bolly, the only man to drive R. Yankee since he began racing as a two - year - old.

He was there when Wannamaker traded a brood mare for six - month - old R. Yankee; he was in the sulky when "The Bull" ("We called him that because there wasn't any horse on a track he couldn't beat' says Bolly) — won a Canadian - bred record $208,000 lifetime winnings; and he was in the Wannamaker barn around 4 a.m. Sunday when the prize pacer died.

"He'd never been sick a day in his life," said Bolly, who said the horse took sick Tuesday, three nights after his exhibition appearance in Belleville.

Owner Campbell Wannamaker, only recently released from hospital after a heart seizure, was shaken by the loss.

"We noticed it a week ago" said Cam Wannamaker. "He wasn't eating and Reg said he wasn't quite right when we raced him in Belleville last week. But it got acute around Tuesday. There's no cure for it."

An autopsy by a Brighton government veterinarian revealed the cause of death was colitis, a bowel disorder.

In August, the stallion had established a native-bred mile mark of 1:57.1 at New York's Vernon Downs. The time also set a record for North American aged pacers for this year.

In 20 races this year, R. Yankee had picked up $81,000 and was well on his way to surpassing last year's $70,000 winnings.

Mr. Wannamaker, 59 said the horse was insured against fire and transportation injury "but not just against dying."

"I was offered $100,000 cash for him this summer, but I said he wasn't for sale."

Half - brother J. J. Wann, himself over the $100,000 lifetime earnings mark, was a Christmas present from Wannamaker to Bolly for his driving success with R. Yankee.

But, says Bolly, "the Bull" can't be replaced.

"You figure it out," says Bolly. "There must have been 500,000 horses raised in Canada, and there's never been one as good as that."

R. Yankee was to race this Saturday night at Montreal's Blue Bonnets's raceway with several members of Mr. Wannamaker's 20-horse stable.

R. Yankee Wann was being buried today behind the Wannamaker barn.

Happier Days

One of Canadian harness racing's most successful combinations was broken up Sunday with the death of seven-year-old pacer R. Yankee Wann (left), shown here with Consecon owner Campbell Wannamaker, half-brother J. J. Wann, and driver Rejean Bolly. R. Yankee was the winningest ($208,000) and fastest (1:57.1) native-bred pacer in Canadian harness racing history.

Mo-Hawks Have Road Doldrums

GALT (Special) — If things keep up the way they are going, Belleville Mo-Hawks will win 30 games this season — and lose the other 30 on the road!

For the second OHA Senior A weekend, the Mo-Hawks won an Friday hosts, and were convincing road losers.

Saturday night Galt Hornets had an easy 7-3 time of it with the Mo-Hawks after dropping a 5-3 loss in Belleville Friday.

"It was a lousy effort all around," was coach Dave Jones' assessment. "We just came up flat."

One of the bright spots in

LES COLLIGAN
Rivers' Shutout

an otherwise dismal Mo-Hawk picture was Kingston import Les Colligan, who got one of the three third - period Belleville goals and dug out the puck for another by Greg Marchen.

"Les was looking really good out there," said Jones. "He was about the only guy who hustled all night for us."

Wayne McConnell opened the scoring in the third period with the Hornets enjoying a 5-0 margin. George Gotzon, who earned assists on all three Belleville goals, got the draw back to McConnell, and the lanky right winger blasted the puck past "Stout" Hurley for his first goal of the season.

Marchen's goal, combined with the two in Friday night's home win over the Hornets, gave the husky rearguard the distinction of being the club's only - schedule top scorer.

The first was a shocker coming only six seconds after the opening face-off.

The Hornets held a 40-28 shooting advantage.

Galt drew eight of the game's 13 minor penalties, with Colligan and Nickerson drawing fighting majors for a minor second - period skirmish.

Mo-Hawk winger Al Ferguson continued to be plagued by a shoulder injury, sitting out the third period. The Mo-Hawks' leading goal - getter last year, Ferguson reinjured the shoulder in the third period of Friday's game in Belleville.

Tonight's 8.15 Memorial Arena workout is one of three the Mo-Hawks will have in preparation for a tough home-and - home weekend with defending league champion Orillia Terriers.

The Mo-Hawks have not defeated Orillia in ten meetings over the past two seasons.

Lupenette Pulls Big Trigger

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

To Belleville Junior B fans, at least, last night's exhibition hockey action at the Memorial Arena could very well have been termed the "Danny Lupenette Goodtime Hour."

The sophomore centre with the fuel - injected hockey pants zipped through, over and around the defending league champion Kingston Aces for four goals to earn the Fairways a 5-5 split.

Coach Floyd Crawford was reasonably pleased with his team's showing but admitted that, "we need some defensive work back there."

The defending Eastern Ontario Champion Frontenacs opened on a 4-1 lead in the first period as the Fairways failed to cover up in their own end, as some shoddy goaltending from Ron Jury and were often out of position on the forward lines.

Tom Goodfellow, John Rudan and Tom Nesmith all managed to slip the puck past Jury before Lupenette backhanded a shot past a beleaguered D'Arcy Walters who had halled his first two efforts. Kingston then added a final marker to head for the dressing room with a two - goal cushion.

Play picked up tremendously for the home team in the second period, as they outshot the Frontenacs by almost a 2-1 ratio. Jury looked much sharper in the final two frames turning aside all but one of the final shots on goal. At the other end, sub goalie Brian Harrison played a fine game, facing a total of 22 shots.

Harrison's best stop came midway through the period, when after Peter Ackerman had beaten him with a low screened shot for the Fairway's second goal, he slid out to poke the puck away from John Mulvihill on a breakaway.

Lupenette's second goal of the game, coming with a two-man advantage narrowed the margin to 4-3. The Frontenacs were dealt 11 of their 14 infractions in the middle frame, while Belleville picked up all six of their penalties.

Included in the totals halfed out by referees Ted and Bill Hurst were majors to Joe Clarke and Dave Horwood of Belleville and a double major to Kingston's Gord Rivoire.

Kingston's lead lasted only ten seconds, however as Lupenette fleshed in from the face-off, stole the puck at the Frontenac blueline and labelled a drive into the top right-hand corner for the final goal of the game.

Linesmates Cliff Janitsch and Dave Smith trailed Lupenette in the scoring column with three assists each, while Ackerman added a helper to his second period tally.

Doug Jones appeared to begin hitting his stride last night playing a strong, two-way game on the right side. Terry Meagher dressed for the third period and while he failed to show the shot and ability to go to the net that made him one of the top scorers last season, the right winger was skating well and handed out some telling bodychecks.

Parsons Win Sentimental Cup

Back in 1963 it was the first cup the Parsons won in Bay of Quinte Soccer Association play.

But Sunday, winning the annual Hellyer round - robin competition was just another feather in the Parsons' 1970 soccer cap.

Their Hellyer Trophy win over five other entries gave the Parsons a clean sweep of all four cups up for grabs in Bay of Quinte men's soccer competition.

The Parsons had already won the Kent Trophy as league winners, as well as the Trenton Challenge and Belleville Charity Cups.

Sunday, they closed off the area soccer season on a convincing note, winning 3-0 and drawing the other of their five half - hour matches in the Hellyer Trophy competition without having a goal scored against them.

The only team that could have upset the Parsons' applecart was Belleville United, who had won three and tied one in their first four Sunday games, as had Parsons.

United, who handed Parsons their only loss of the entire season, had to win the game, since a tie would have given the Parsons the Hellyer Trophy on their goal average.

Peter Clinkard put the damper on United hopes by splitting the defense in the 14th minute of play and driving home the first Parsons goal. Goals by Kevin Kirby and another by Clinkard in the last 15 minutes of play salted away the Parsons' win.

Dennis Jones, Kevin Kirby, Trevor Kirby and Don Fletcher had been the Parsons' scorers in their first win of the day - long competition, a 4-0 success over the Belleville Minor Soccer All-stars. Kevin Kirby gave the Parsons a 1-0 win over Kingston and Graham Egerton got the only goal in a 1-0 win over Quinte Transport before the Cleaners played to a scoreless tie with CFB Trenton.

Tarkenton's Talented Feet Steal Joe Kapp's Thunder

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

They all came to see Joe Kapp's highly-touted arm and went home talking about Fran Tarkenton's highly-talented feet.

Kapp's debut as starting quarterback for Boston Patriots, turned into a bust Sunday as the scrambling Tarkenton ruined the Patriots' party by directing a 16-6 New York Giant victory in National Football League action.

"We had the opportunities but I didn't take advantage of them," said disappointed Kapp, who last started with Minnesota in the 1969 Super Bowl.

Tarkenton's antics scrambled the Boston defense, offsetting the hard charging Patriots' line while he dodged them with short, screen passes. He passed 14 times, completing eight, for 102 yards.

Bob Lilly and Lance Rentzel of Dallas
Los Angeles 21 Green Bay 21
New Orleans 20 San Fran 20
St. Louis 35 Phila 20
Denver 31 Atlanta 16
Detroit 41 Cleveland 24
N.Y. Giants 16 Boston 0
San Diego 20 Chicago 7

Angeles Rams whipped Green Bay Packers 31-21; San Diego Chargers downed Chicago Bears 20-7; Miami Dolphins belted Buffalo 33-14; St. Louis Cardinals cut down the doormat Philadelphia Eagles 35-20; Baltimore Colts avenged its Super Bowl defeat of two years ago by beating the New York Jets 29-22 and Kansas City Chiefs defeated Cincinnati Bengals 17-10.

Coach Clive Rush of Boston said the Patriots' game plan was to stop Tarkenton's screen passes.

"We just didn't do it," Rush said.

Said Kapp: "We were somewhat disjointed. A quarterback's job is to win. Our entire offense had to be a little shaky. They're just not used to the quarterback."

Kapp, who played in the Canadian Football League before coming to the U.S., completed 10 of 22 passes. He also carried eight times for 41 yards, tops among Boston rushers.

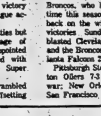
"It's a blow, it really was," said Nance. "No team should be able to stop our rushing because Carl Garrett and myself, I'm not boasting myself, but I don't think there's a better fullback-halfback combination in the league.

Coach Tom Landry of Dallas was philosophical about the Cowboys' biggest loss since their inception in 1960.



"We've the whole rest of the year ahead of us," said Landry.

Ed Sharockman, a defensive back, set the tone of the game as he ran two touchdowns on a deflected punt and an intercepted pass and set up another with an interception in Minnesota's first half.

Bobby Howfield kicked a 31-yard field goal and Pete Liske, also a former CFL player, pitched a 10-yard scoring pass in the final quarter to break open a close game and help the Bronco beat the Falcons.

Bill Munson fired two touchdown passes and Mike Wegrr scored another on an interception in a 24-minute period that

Argos Jam First, But Als in Driver's Seat

It's a three-way log jam on the Eastern Football Conference after weekend action and with two games to go, the team expects picked in pre-season polls to trail the four-team circuit in the driver's seat.

Montreal Alouettes dropped a 16-13 decision to Toronto Argonauts Sunday to create the three-way deadlock with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, but the Als have their final two games at home where they've won all five starts this year.

Toronto and Hamilton each play one of their last two games on the road. The Ticats moved into the top rung Saturday with their 22-15 victory in Ottawa where the Rough Riders made things interesting after a late-total collapse in the first half.

At Toronto, Don Jonas, the Argos' quarterback and place-kicking specialist, collected 13 points on a touchdown, two field goals and a convert.

His touchdown came after he replaced starting pivot Tom Wilkinson early in the final quarter. The former Continental League star ran for 18 yards, connected on a 49-yard pass to flanker Billy Gambrell to the Montreal three, then spun off back for the clinching score.

Punter Dave Mann kicked a single and the Toronto defensive unit was responsible for the other two points, nailing Montreal quarterback Tony Pasmore in his own end zone.

Dennis Duncan, on an 85-yard run, and Moses Denson were the Montreal scorers. George Springate added a convert.

The Argos, playing in front of a sell-out crowd of 23,135, dominated first-half play but were unable to carry the ball into the touchdown territory and held a 9-0 lead at the intermission.

Sonny Wade, who replaced Pasmore mid-way in the second quarter, settled the Montreal offence and two minutes after the half-time recess Duncan broke into the clear for his scoring jaunt.

While the Argo offence stalled, their defence remained strong and prevented Montreal's complete recovery with three interceptions of Wade passes and recovered a fumble in the last minute by Bob Storey.

The loss of 21,265 fans, hosting the "Riders' season attendance to 170,000, 20,000 ahead of last year's championship figure, turned to cheers as Ottawa fought from a 30-1 halftime deficit.

Key play of the game came in the first quarter when Hamilton's Garney Henley, playing both ways, took a pitchout from quarterback Ron Lancaster on the Ottawa goal line. The touchdown was the second of three for Fleming.

Fifth straight as quarterback Ron Lancaster, who took relief from rookie Gary Lane, scored a touchdown on a three-yard run and passed for four yards to Dave Denny for another eight points. Jack Abendschan, the scoring leader, kicked two field goals, two converts and a single to boost his points total to 102.

Eskimos Win Sixth Straight

Saskatchewan Roughriders extended their first-place lead in the Western Football Conference and Edmonton Eskimos assured themselves of a playoff spot during the weekend but the action kept the Idle British Columbia Lions alive in the playoff race.

In Winnipeg Saturday, Edmonton won their sixth consecutive game, defeating the collapsing Blue Bombers 20-17, while Saskatchewan took advantage of Calgary Stampeders' casualties Sunday to win 21-14 in Calgary.

Saskatchewan is assured of a first-place finish with 24 points. The Eskimos moved two points ahead of Calgary with 16 points to give themselves the inside track for second place.

The Calgary loss gave B.C. a mathematical chance of making the playoffs, based on the Lions winning all three of their remaining games and Calgary losing both their remaining contests.

Quarterback Don Trull piloted Edmonton as Terry Swarn and defensive halfback Joe Hernandez scored touchdowns and Dave Cutler added two field goals and two converts. Cutler's eight points put him in a two-way tie for scoring place in the WFC scoring race with B.C.'s Ted Gerela. Both have 80 points.

Winnipeg coach Jim Spavital alternated quarterbacks Benji Dial, who started, and Ron Johnson. Both connected with touchdown passes to Rick Shaw. Gene Lakusiak converted one of the touchdowns with Winnipeg's other points coming on two safety touches.

The Clubs were close statistically with Winnipeg getting 13 first downs compared with nine for Edmonton. Winnipeg had a 222-yard total offence while Eskimos gained 251.

Each club had two passes intercepted and each fumbled twice. Edmonton recovered one of theirs but Winnipeg lost both.

Saskatchewan's win was its

Cowboy McKenzie Takes Up Bruin Slack

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Check the heavy artillery, and Boston Bruins still have enough flack in reserve.

Vancouver Canucks, new to the ways of the National Hockey League, found this out Sunday afternoon against the defending and Stanley Cup champions.

The Canucks kept the Bruins' big shooters off the score sheet, but John McKenzie, the pugnacious off-season cowboy from Higher River, Alta., took up the slack with two goals and two assists.

Better known among NHL coaches for his rodeo riding and aggressive play which often finds him in the middle of on-ice skirmishes, McKenzie finally reached all-star status last year when voted the NHL's No. 2 right winger behind Detroit's Gordie Howe.

His 78 points, including 29 goals, was his most productive in eight big league seasons even though his 116 minutes in penalties represented nearly two games.

It has been his non-stop, heavy-hitting style of play that has earned the stocky, 175-pounder the admiration of friend and foe alike despite playing behind such established stars as Bobby Orr, Phil Esposito, Ken Hodge and Ted Green.

In other Sunday games, New York Rangers nipped Montreal 1-0, enabling the Bruins to move into a third-place tie in the East Division with the Canadiens, Philadelphia Flyers downed Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2, Minnesota North Stars edged Detroit Red Wings 2-1, Pittsburgh Penguins and Los Angeles Kings tied 1-1, and St. Louis Blues and Chicago Black Hawks played a 2-2 tie in a game bringing together the West Division leaders.

Saturday, the same new Montreal romp 6-2 over Chicago, Detroit down Minnesota 3-2, St. Louis defeat Buffalo 7-4, New York trample Toronto 6-2, Los Angeles Kings drub California Golden Seals 5-1, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia play to a 0-0 stalemate.

Wali Tkaczuk's third-period goal stood up against Montreal and Dave (Tiger) Hrechkosy, Ed Giacomin registered his second shutout of the young season before 17,228 at Madison Square Gardens.

Referee Brian Lewis called 84 minutes in penalties and handed Boston's Reed Fleming after 39 seconds of play as the former Chicago, Boston and New York goaltender was tagged with 29 minutes in penalties, plus the game misconduct.

JOHN McKENZIE

St. Louis and Chicago failed to break their co-hold atop the West Division. Jim Roberts' second-period goal was the tying marker for the Blues in a game that saw Sh Louis take an early lead before the Hawks rallied with two goals.

Two-goals each by Pete Mahovlich and Yvan Cournoyer, the latter bringing the season total to six in five games, propelled Montreal to its fourth straight victory Saturday night and ended Chicago's unbeaten string at three.

At St. Louis, the Sabres finally scored after being blanked in two previous games. But the Blues, paced by Red Berenson with his fifth and sixth goals of the season, had scored three times in the second period before Fleming put Buffalo on the board.

The Rangers, playing a rookie-laden Toronto team, scored three first goals in the second period. Rod Gilbert and Wal Tkaczuk scored twice each and the Rangers might have increased their 6-2 margin except for veteran Jacques Plante in the Toronto goal.

Los Angeles won its second game fi three starts, sparked by the two-goal efforts of Mike Byers and Gord Labossiere and the goaltending of Denis Dorely whose shutout was spoiled by California's Tony Featherstone with less than three minutes remaining.

Referee Art Skov ruled on goal in the only game of the Philadelphia as the Flyers and Pittsburgh played to the season's first scoreless tie. Although the red light went on, Skov said Pittsburgh's Keith McCreary didn't score and Philadelphia goalie Bernie Parent's shutout was preserved.

But the Philadelphia netminder wasn't out of hot water and he was called on to make a sensational stops off Penguins' Jean Pronovost and Nick Harbaruk later in the game while his counterpart at the other end of the ice, Les Binkley, had an easier time turning aside 24 shots.

NEWMARKET, England (AP) — Nijinsky, whose reputation as a wonder horse was tarnished two weeks ago in the Prix de L'Arc de Triomphe, bowed out of racing Saturday with still another defeat, losing to longshot Lorenzaccio in the $82,000 Champion Stakes. After the race, speculation that the Canadian-bred colt owned by Charles W. Engelhard of New Jersey might race one more time was ended when it was announced that Nijinsky will be sent to stud in Kentucky. The three-year-old colt, a son of Northern Dancer and bred in Canada by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, has been syndicated for $5.4 million. Nijinsky, the favorite at 4 to 11 under top English jockey Lester Piggott, came up in a late burst to finish a length behind Lorenzaccio, a 100-to-7 shot, and just held on to beat 7-to-1 Hotlook by a head over the 1¼ miles. Lorenzaccio won $60,291, Nijinsky $8,779, boosting his career earnings to about $670,000.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Cool-putting Brian Barnes of Britain stormed out of the pack to win the Wills Masters Open golf tournament here by a single stroke Sunday. Barker it looked as though the lead would be shared between Guy Wolstenholme, who shot a final 68, Wally Gale of Australia and third-round leader George Knudson of Toronto, who all finished with 283 aggregates. Knudson, defending Wills champion, slumped to a 75 in the fourth round. The winner's cheque was worth $5,700. Knudson, Gale and Wolstenholme, who now lives in Australia, picked up $2,850 apiece.

Garrett Behind Petes' Success

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goalie John Garrett is one of the reasons Peterborough Petes are in first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Garrett put on an outstanding performance as his team fought Oshawa Generals to a 4-4 tie Sunday night and earned the praise of the opposing coach.

Oshawa coach Eddie Reigle said he must be "the top goalie in the OHA this year."

Oshawa outshot the Petes 33-16 before a home crowd of 2,047 and only managed the tying goal with 17 seconds left. The tie left Peterborough as the only undefeated team in the 10-team circuit.

In other action Sunday, the Black Hawks trounced Niagara Falls Flyers 9-2, St. Catharines, Kitchener Rangers stopped the Junior Canadiens 6-4 at Montreal and Toronto Marlboros beat the Knights 5-3 at London.

Oshawa gained the tie when defenceman Gary Methe scored from a scramble after the Generals had rallied their goalie in favor of an extra attacker. Other Oshawa goals were scored by Jack Lynch, Gary Mahon and Terry O'Reilly, while Paul Perras scored twice for Peterborough and Colin Campbell and Brian Shortreed got the others.

Marcel Dionne scored three consecutive goals for St. Catharines in the third period as he powered his team in its fourth straight victory. The Hawks took a 2-0 first-period lead on goals by Bill MacMillan and Mike Bloom and maintained it when Steve Stone of the Flyers traded goals with Bob Peuplar of St. Catharines. Defenceman Don McLean scored the other Niagara Falls goal in the third period.

Toronto extended its unbeaten streak to four games on goals by Bob Dailey, John Harris, Greg McGuire, Glenn Goldup and Dave Gardner. London, which suffered its fourth straight loss, got goals from Dennis Verveegaert, John Raynak and Dick Decloe.

A's Drub Aces

Orillia Terriers, winners of all but nine of 40 regular-season games in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior B series last year, romped to their fourth straight triumph of the new season Sunday, 9-1 over Owen Sound Crescents.

Barrie Flyers kept two points off the pace of idle Oakville Oaks 7-5 in Oakville, while Woodstock Athletics posted their first win of the year, 8-3 over Kingston Aces.

The Terriers were dominant at Owen Sound with a 41-22 shooting edge. Clare Alexander paced the win with four goals, Mike Draper, with two goals, Grant Moore, George Westfall and defenceman Don Chasenewold completed the rout. Mayo Paquette scored the only goal for the Crescents.

Woodstock goalie Sonny Pennington was within 11 minutes of a shutout, but Bob Rawson and Rob Clayton scored for the Aces.

Penalties played an important role for both sides at Oakville. Only 13 minor infractions were called, two in Barrie, but the two teams combined to score seven power-play goals.

The Flyers banked a 5-5 two-period tie by scoring the only two goals of the third period. Defenceman Jim McCloskey scored the winner early in the period and Pete Paraginski scored for the second time in the game 40 seconds later.

Frank Lacroix scored for Oaks with three goals. Chuck Kelly and Ron Krulicki scored one apiece.

MONTREAL (CP) — Pierre Laporte was a battler as a crusading newspaper man and later as a politician. It seems ironic that he should have been the victim of what Prime Minister Trudeau described as a "cowardly assassination."

His personal courage, his love of his family, his love of politics and his deep-rooted desire to serve his province were among things former newspaper colleagues, political friends and political foes recalled on hearing of his slaying at the hands of terrorists who kidnapped him from in front of his home Saturday, Oct. 10.

Pierre Laporte was born Feb. 27, 1921, in Montreal as one of seven children. He laughingly recalled on occasion that his father introduced him to politics.

"My father was nationalist and anti-Liberal," said Mr. Laporte. "In fact he was against the government, no matter what its political color."

It was after graduating from University of Montreal law school in 1945, with a pair of debating awards, that Mr. Laporte joined the daily Montreal Le Devoir. He started a 12-year-stint in the Quebec legislature press gallery in 1946 at a time when Le Devoir publisher Gerard Filion was crusading against the Union Nationale regime of the late Maurice Duplessis.

Few dared to cross swords with Mr. Duplessis, considered one of the most autocratic leaders in the province's history. But Mr. Laporte did in crusading attacks against government policy and projects.

One of the articles so infuriated the premier that he denounced Mr. Laporte from the floor of the legislature, using what observers considered was some of the foulest name-calling ever heard in the chamber.

Mr. Laporte got in the last word in a 1960 book entitled Le Vrai Visage de Duplessis—The True Face of Duplessis.

His closeness to the political scene spawned a personal desire to try his hand at politics. He failed on his first try in 1956, but won a byelection in Chambly constituency in 1961. He was re-elected there with substantial majorities in every election since.

His political rise was considered phenomenal. He was taken into the cabinet of Premier Jean Lesage in 1962 and in 1964 he was named government leader in the legislative assembly. He was raised the best debater in the house.

Jean-Noel Tremblay, former Union Nationale cabinet minister who saw Mr. Laporte in action both as a cabinet minister and as an opposition member, said on hearing of his death:

"He was a patriot who defended his cause with energy."

Despite his high reputation among political colleagues, Mr. Laporte was not particularly well-known among Quebecers generally. It was to this fact more than anything else that his organizers attributed his defeat at the hands of Mr. Bourassa in the 1970 leadership convention.

But Mr. Laporte bore no grudge. He offered his services to the new leader and was appointed to a key cabinet post and renamed government leader in the assembly when Mr. Bourassa and the Liberals scored a landslide victory in an April election.

Cross Writes to Prove Not Dead

MONTREAL (CP) — Following is the text of a letter from James (Jasper) Cross, the British trade commissioner kidnapped from his home Oct. 5 by the Front de Liberation du Quebec:

To the authorities:

I want to reassure those interested that I am still alive and in good health. My life is not menaced at present. The FLQ who kidnapped me told me that I was a political prisoner and that they would treat me as a prisoner as long the authorities concerned do not accept the freedom of all FLQ political prisoners who are now in jail.

The only danger for my life is if the police find out where I am and want to intervene. The FLQ will not give up and I will be the first dead.

Early this morning I have seen my death announced on television. This was terrible. I wrote a letter to my wife yesterday which was placed in the hall of the church St. Jean Baptiste de La Salle, 2585 Pie Neuf Boulevard, and both CKAC and CKLM were called, but nobody seemed there.

In spite of this letter, it was announced that I was dead and that my body had been found. This must have been terribly distressing for my wife.

The FLQ say that it will be better for everyone if the government releases the political prisoners as demanded.

The authorities will never find the place where I am held in captivity. I am a prisoner like the FLQ members are prisoners in jail.

Perhaps the Red Cross and Cuban consulate may act as intermediaries for my exchange against the freedom of the prisoners in jail. Everything can be done without violence. I hope this can be accepted.

I am sending also a separate letter to my wife.

The letter, signed J. R. Cross, was verified as authentic by the police. It was found in an east-end church, following an anonymous telephone tip to a local radio station.

Ended with Plea

Letter Predicted Death

MONTREAL (CP) — The last direct word from Pierre Laporte, whose body was found early Sunday, a week after he was kidnapped, was a personal letter to his wife last Tuesday.

Contents of that letter were not released by authorities.

But a handwritten letter from the Quebec labor minister to Premier Robert Bourassa Oct. 11, a day after he was abducted from in front of his suburban home, was made public.

Mr. Laporte, 49, married with two children, Claire, 20 and Jean 10, appealed to the premier for his life. He called it "the most important letter of my life."

It was found in a downtown trashcan with a communique from the Front de Liberation du Quebec and asked Mr. Bourassa to call off the police search for his kidnappers and those of James (Jasper)Cross, British trade commissioner taken from his Montreal home Oct. 5.

If the investigations were not called off "I will not come out of this alive," the letter said.

"The success of the (police) investigation would be a death warrant for me."

It ended with the plea:

"Decide . . . either my life or my death. I am depending on you and I thank you."

Mr. Laporte wrote that he was equally concerned about how his family and relatives would live without him.

He said his two brothers were dead, leaving him as "the head of a big family which includes my mother, my sisters my own wife and my children as well as the children of Roland (a sister-in-law) whose tutor I am."

Mr. Laporte also warned of more kidnappings, saying that "after me, it will be a third (person), a fourth and a fifth."

Mr. Laporte's letter also said:

"You have the power in fact to decide whether I live. If that was the only consideration and if the sacrifice would have good results, it might be considered.

"But we are in the presence of a well-organized escalade that will end only with the liberation of 'political prisoners' . . . If all political men are protected, they will strike elsewhere in other classes of society.

"This (release of prisoners) could be done quickly. I don't see why more time should be taken since this would bring about my death gradually in the place where I am held."

No Complaints About 1970 Hockey School

Take 275 hockey-minded kids, add ice, season with eight knowledgeable instructors and you have the Belleville hockey school.

Despite a week long delay because of poor ice conditions (namely none) at the Belleville Memorial - Arena the school was an unqualified success.

"I've talked to a lot of the parents and I haven't had a single complaint," exclaimed chairman Jon Cox. Generally in something like this you run into some difficulties but we didn't seem to this year."

Much of the credit must go to school director Rob Burrows and chief instructor Lionel Boily. "Both Lionel and Rob have done a tremendous amount of work for the school. They feel that it's been a real success bu, admit that being so involved with the work they might be a bit prejudiced. However like I said, I've talked to a great many parents and they all seem satisfied," added Cox.

Instructing in the basics of hockey have been Lionel Boily, Gord Bell, Murrey 'Moe' Hunter, Pat Asselstine, Lou Szorka and Floyd Crawford.

Lionel Boily had a comment on the effectiveness of the figure skating instruction: "Even though some of the boys had played all-star hockey for a number of years they had a tough time with drills like skating backwards around the circle so it looks as though they really helped."

Films on proper equipment and the basics of sound hockey techniques were shown by the Recreation Department's Mrs. Wilma Summers and Lorne Williams, while Bob Cook supervised the dressing rooms.

The school concluded Saturday with scrimmages beginning at 9 a.m.

Despite the success of this year's venture, the officials are not standing still. "There are still a few minor changes we can make, such as this year when we made the classes smaller. We're going to try and keep improving" concluded Cox.

Little Howe Scores

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit Junior Red Wings and Chatham Maroons battled to a 4-4 tie in Southern Ontario Hockey Association Junior A action Sunday night while in other game Guelph CMCs downed St. Thomas Elgins 6-2.

The Red Wings, playing in Chatham, tied the score on a goal by defenceman Mark Howe with 35 seconds remaining in the game.

In St. Thomas, Pete Darcy and Kirk Bouman each scored twice for CMCs. Other Guelph scorers were Jim Marr and Ted Goeltzen.

Tracksters Meet Their Waterloo

HAMILTON (CP) — University of Waterloo, led by triple winner Dennis McGeorn, won the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association track and field championship Saturday, winning 11 of 19 events for 101 points.

The win was the third in a row for Waterloo at the championships. University of Western Ontario was second, taking four events for 76 points. McMaster University was third with 44 points and University of Toronto fourth with 43 points.

McGeorn won the 100-metre run in a time of 10.3 seconds which beat the previous O-QAA mark of 10.9; the 200-metre run in 21.7 seconds and the long jump with a winning mark of 22 feet seven inches. He also anchored Waterloo to a victory in the 400-metre relay.

Western's Grant McLaren, who also won three events and set two O-QAA records in doing so, was named outstanding athlete of the meet.

McLaren won the 2,000-metre steeplechase, the 1500 metre run and the 5,000-metre run.

He clocked 9:19.4 in the steeplechase, well under the old record of 9:32.4 while in the 1,500 metres his time of 3:46.4 was better than the old mark of 3:49.2 set by Bob Finlay of Waterloo in 1967.

Bruce Simpson of University of Toronto cleared 16 feet four inches to beat the pole vault record of 13 feet, 9½ inches. Simpson missed three attempts at 16 feet, six inches however.

Busy Cooper Says:
Golf's Million Dollar Winner
"PROACHES BELOW PIN
YES NO
Most great, if they start at it. All will be lower in the front. Because of this, most approaches which land up in the front half of the green will be below the cup, and you're left with an uphill line toward the pin.
Uphill putts are easier for the majority of golfers, especially if the greens are fast. Slick downhillers have caused many a white hair on the professional tour.
I'd advise club golfers to plan their approach and their shots so that if they do not reach the hole, they will finish below it. Successive boldness can lead to awkward situations.

Shutout Success Comes with Mask

NEW YORK (AP) — It is, of course, only a coincidence that goalie Ed Giacomin has scored shutouts in two of the three games he's started for New York Rangers since adopting a face mask.

Giacomin kicked out 25 Montreal shots Sunday night and backstopped the Rangers to a 1-0 National Hockey League victory over the Canadiens. It was the first loss after four victories for Montreal.

For years, Giacomin was a bare-faced goalie, one of the last of a dying breed. He had always worn a face protector in workouts but abandoned it for regular games.

"Then one day this fall, I came home and decided to wear one, that's all there was to it," said Giacomin, a Sudbury, Ont., native.

Giacomin shrugs off his mask as rather unimportant. But he admits a talk he had with Jacques Plante helped convince him to wear one this year.

Plante, who now tends goal for Toronto Maple Leafs, was the first modern goalie to wear a mask regularly. Last spring, when he stopped a slap shot with his forehead, he swore the mask saved his life. Giacomin may have been impressed.

Hulme Clinches Crown

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Denis Hulme of Britain, leading the way, captured the Monterey Grand Prix Sunday at nearby Laguna Seca and clinched the driver's title for the 10-race Canadian-American Challenge Cup series.

It was Hulme's fifth victory in nine races.

The Britain, driving a McLaren M-8 Chevrolet, took one hour 25 minutes 58.8 seconds for the 80-lap, 152-mile race. His average speed was 104.107 miles an hour, breaking the course record of 104.066 set last year by the late Bruce McLaren.

David Hobbs of Bowmanville, Ont., had clutch problems and completed 50 laps—worth a 9th-place finish—ahead of John Cannon of Montreal, who also finished 50 laps before being forced out due to overheating. Hobbs drives a McLaren and Cannon a Ford.

In 31st place was George Eaton of Toronto, who completed 21 laps before hitting a rail. He was not injured, but the accident forced him out due to steering problems.

Leeds Lead Cut

LONDON (CP) — Leeds United had its lead in the English First Division cut to two points Saturday after being held to a 2-2 tie by Manchester United in a soccer game dominated by the opposing Charlton brothers, Jackie and Bobby.

It was Jackie who headed Leeds into the lead following a corner kick from Peter Lorimer. The Manchester players protested that a whistle had blown but it came from the crowd and not from the referee.

The referee allowed the goal to stand and then asked Leeds officials to broadcast a warning that he would stop the match if the whistle was blown again.

Hastings Board Brief To Go to Minister

A brief from York county board of education has prompted trustees of the Hastings board to draw up one of their own for Education Minister William Davis.

A committee was formed early this week to study the York brief on educational financing and prepare one pertaining to Hastings county problems.

F. John Follis of Bancroft remarked that last April 29 he had suggested the ministry's attention be drawn to "inequities in distribution of mill rates in the county."

"The urban areas gained tax relief this year, while the poorer rural areas were whacked by 15 mill increases," he said, referring particularly to Limerick township.

The York county brief, brought to the trustees for information only, hit at assessment problems of municipalities close to centres of urban development.

The "market value" approach to assessment has had the effect of relating agricultural taxes paid not to the ability to pay but to the attractiveness of the property to someone else," it read.

"This has worked particular hardship on genuine farmers, whose taxes are now based on the assumption they are speculators rather than legitimate businessmen."

The York trustees claimed that "artificially inflated assessments resulting from reassessment at market value and from the constant and unpredictable tinkering with equalization factors has almost destroyed confidence in both local and provincial government".

They added that "it is disheartening for a board which has made an honest effort to contain costs to be forced to levy large tax increases because grants are artificially and arbitrarily depressed".

The brief asked that people on fixed incomes be able to defer taxes on property beyond the 1969 rate until the property changes title and that the government raises to 75 per cent its grant contributes to educational costs.

Grants Again Available To Trenton-bound Firms

TRENTON (Staff) — Trenton is again eligible for consideration under the Equalization of Industrial Opportunity Program of the Ontario government.

Mayor Duncan McDonald was informed of the Ontario Development Corporation's decision Wednesday and explained the absence of grants since 1969 by saying that "it was felt two years ago that Trenton had received its share" of monies available.

Trenton has never been formally barred from obtaining development grants, but in practice she was. As a press release from the Municipal Office puts it, "although the ineligibility had never been confirmed to the town, no applications had been given favorable consideration by the Ontario Development Corporation since the last group of industries located in Trenton in 1958. As a result, the number of prospects ac- g to locate in Trenton was reduced to a trickle".

ODC grants will only be given on a "one at a time basis", the mayor was told. "When one industry has been given a grant, no d locates in Trenton, further grants will be suspended" Until such time as the effect on the economy of Trenton has been evaluated by the Ontario Development Corporation" the press statement says, adding that the decision on grants "will undoubtedly lead to more industrial development in the Town at a time when there is considerable unemployment",

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons closed a dramatic weekend session early Sunday in an atmosphere of extreme tragedy that bordered on despair following the assassination of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

The Commons was in the 16th hour of a debate that began at 11 a.m. EDT Saturday when news reached the 88 MPs in the chamber that Mr. Laporte's body had been found near the St. Hubert, Que., air base.

A stunned hush fell over the chamber when seconds earlier government and opposition MPs had hotly and noisily debated the government's assumption of wartime powers to fight terrorism.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) broke the silence to request that he be allowed to deliver his planned speech with "sadness and restraint."

He soon was interrupted by Marcel Prud'homme (L—Montreal-St. Denis) who asked him to refrain from further discussion, Mr. Knowles complied.

The unusual weekend session was called to allow full debate on the government's proclamation early Friday of the War Measures Act, giving it extensive powers, which can be invoked in precentive, to deal with Quebec terrorists.

There was a special 2½-hour meeting of cabinet ministers Sunday night called by Solicitor-General George McIlraith to brief ministers not normally connected with the kidnappings on events. What was said in the meeting was not revealed.

Regulations under the act specifically outlaw the Front de Liberation du Quebec, the organization which kidnapped Mr. Laporte and British Trade Commissioner James Cross.

The weekend session was an extension of an all-day debate Friday which began with the government's formal announcement in the Commons of the act's proclamation.

There were no emotional outbursts from MPs when the Laporte death was announced but tears filled the eyes of many broken MPs as they filed silently from the House.

Sources now say the death of Mr. Laporte will swing many opposition MPs to support the government's assumption of war-time powers.

The debate indicated the government has the full support of its own NDP and Quebec members of all parties.

The Creditiste party, with 13 members in the Commons, also firmly supports the government move. The Liberals hold 132 seats. There are three vacancies and one independent.

Most of the 72 Conservatives and 23 NDP members argue that special legislation to deal with the terrorists should have been introduced by the government instead of invoking the sweeping authority of the War Measures Act.

Robert Coates (PC—Cumberland-Colchester North) said he supports the government action but he moved an amendment to a government motion for concurrence, calling for repeal of the special powers by Oct. 31 instead of April 30 as stipulated by the government.

The amendment appeared to be acceptable to most opposition spokesmen.

Quebec Conservatives supporting the government's action were:

Marcial Asselin (Charlevoix), Theogene Ricard (St. Hyacinthe), Roch Lasalle (Joliette) and Georges Valade (Montreal-Ste. Marie).

Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey said unrevealed facts available to the government made proclamation of the act essential.

This may be, replied Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver-Kingsway), but even the angel Gabriel should not have powers as great as those assumed by the government.

Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson said Canadians in his province of Alberta and all other provinces are strongly behind the government and realize the urgency of the situation.

Robert Thompson (PC—Red Deer) said the act should be revoked immediately and replaced with a specific statute related to Quebec.

Concession Not Weakness

Strictly Personal

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

There is something in the nature of people, in the nature of conversation, and in the nature of opinion, that makes each of us carry an argument further than he ought to.

It is apparently hard for us to be selective or discriminating; to take a controversial subject and analyze its components, picking out what we agree with, and rejecting what we don't.

I was listening to two men discussing the "youth problem" the other day. One was attacking youth and the other defending it. As the argument proceeded, each adversary dug deeper into his own position and refused to give an inch.

Evidently we feel that if we make concessions to the opposition, we have weakened our own position; "not I think the exact opposite is true. As Lord Acton wisely suggested, we should accede in everything we possibly can, and this really strengthens our case for the part we retain.

The attitudes and actions of modern youth are a wonderful illustration of this secondary — to be blindly "for" or "against" what they are saying or doing is stupid and unperceptive, for their motives are as mixed as their conduct.

I like their humanism and their sense that the person must take precedence over the impersonal mechanisms in society — but I dislike their arrogant assumption that institutions and mechanisms are always wrong.

I agree with their feeling that war is a social cancer the world can no longer afford — if it ever could — but I disagree with violent protests that negate the spirit of love and brotherhood and turn them into mere political slogans.

I sympathize with their resentment against educational systems that fail to educate, and must be basically reformed — but I resent their assumption that they should decide what and how they should be taught.

I welcome their sensitivity and their freedom from the emotional constrictions that hang up so many older Americans — but I am fearful that their anti-intellectualism, their know-nothingness, will play right into the hands of the fascists they think they are opposing.

Such a list could be extended by a dozen items, and each of us has an obligation to see what is good and useful and decent and necessary in the youth movement, and to reject the other elements. But scarcely anyone does this — we are so busy defending or attacking a way of life that is attacking a way of life that is were a single strand.

Clots Do Not Rule Out Pill

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

The other day a woman said to me, "I suppose that the pill isn't a problem anymore. Now that there has been all this talk about severe reactions (clots in blood clots and all the rest, I doubt that many women are still using it. I know I've given it up and use an IUD (intrauterine device) instead. Just what is the present status of the pill?"

* * *

COMMENT: I told her that it hasn't been disqualified. It's still in the race, in fact, millions of women throughout the world still consider it the most efficient and effective of all contraceptives — and routine to use it.

Oral contraceptives contain female sex hormones (estrogens and progestens). Their purpose is to prevent release of the egg from the ovary during the normal cycle and thus though they may have side-effects on some women, serious complications are rare.

Some uncommon reactions and complaints are as follows: a feeling of fullness and fullness in the breasts; nausea or vomiting; mental depression; darkening of the facial skin; dizziness; loss of hair; an increase or decrease in sex drive.

Suppose a woman decides she wants to stop after having been on the pill for quite a while? Occasionally, there may be a delay of many months before she can become pregnant.

Nevertheless, millions can take the pill without any discomfort whatever. But what about the important question of blood clots? This is what bothers most women on or about to take the pill.

* * *

According to the American Medical Association: "The normal blood clotting in healthy women under 35 not taking the Pill is one in 500,000, whereas for the same group taking the Pill it is one in 66,000. For healthy women over 35 not taking the Pill, the ratio is one in 200,000, compared to one in 23,000 for pill users.

Blood clots are about three times more likely to develop in women over the age of 34.

"For these reasons it is important that women who have any blood clots in the legs, lungs or brain not use oral contraceptives. Anyone using the Pill who has severe leg or chest pains, coughs up blood, has severe headaches or blurred vision should call her doctor immediately and stop taking the Pill."

Women who have cancer of the breast or uterus, a serious liver condition or undiagnosed vaginal bleeding should not take it. And there may be a question of the advisability of using it if you have any of the following conditions: migraine, uterine fibroids, kidney high blood pressure.

* * *

Now that I have given you the dark side of the picture, I think you will be reassured by this statement from the American Medical Society: "Oral contraceptives, when taken as directed, are drugs of extraordinary effectiveness. The most serious side effect is abnormal blood clotting. The fact is that serious problems are relatively rare, and the majority of women who would like to use the Pill can do so safely and effectively."

* * *

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Can grief, sorrow or other unpleasant emotions cause a heart murmur? — Miss A.

COMMENT: Although sudden or profound grief can directly or indirectly affect the heart, I doubt that it will actually cause a heart murmur.

* * *

For Mrs. P.: A nonlistening gall bladder simply means one that is not working normally. Stones are only present, but it can be nonfunctioning in the absence of stones

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

Your birthday, today: This will be a year of settling down to decent, changes. Study of psychology, religion, the power of persuasion are strongly favorable. Relations with neighbors improve. Initiative toward material gain takes more effective form: don't wait too long in your promotional efforts. Emotional ties become calmer, deeper. Today's natives usually sympathize with the underdog, the nameless victim.

ARIES (March 21—April 19): Sudden events bring excessive reliance. Rule out the procrastination. A chance exists for a profitable short - term sideline from some of the little spenders.

TAURUS (April 20—May 20): Work changes turn out to be inefficient, impulsive decisions, untactful complaints only provoke pride and defensive actions. Wait and let chance criticize first.

GEMINI (May 21—June 20): Upstried schemes are attractive Ask for more details; there's no rush in any legitimate venture. Somebody who doesn't understand your position tries to get you to overspend.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Personal plans encounter obstacles. Work done privately shows something of your most creative talent. Your earnings and spending may both increase now.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Money matters still do not belong in personal relations. There's good advice and emotional support today. Bring special entertainment to your loved ones.

VIRGO (Aug. 23—Sept. 22): Keeping accounts carefully is part of thrift. Avoid the prevaricator, pound foolish syndrome. Use your own judgment, be consistent with your own standards.

LIBRA (Sept. 23—Oct. 22): Variable influences induce errors where facts aren't verified, like arrangements. A fast-breaking ripple of change to test new ideas. You need a change of pace tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): You have to discard some ideas and be a bit ahead of present conditions. More applications will come to attention later. Entertain business contacts this evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Your reasoning now is more to the point than that of friends. Do your own projects, stick to purely practical matters, especially this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22—Jan. 19): Needs of your loved ones take time from your career efforts. Friends suggest a useful earning opportunity. Discard outworn habits, try to build a better reputation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Your future welfare calls for a shake up now. Welcome a change as a chance to grow and become more skilled. Cooperation improves in later hours.

PISCES (Feb. 19—March 20): Original ideas tend to stray into impracticality. Stay with something long enough to make it work. Technical advice is very much to the point.

Quebec Doctors Back at Work

OTTAWA (CP) — Quebec medical specialists ended their 11-day strike today at the behest of leaders who publicly raised the prospect that violence may spread in Quebec.

A specially-convened meeting here of an estimated 1,200 doctors put an end by voice vote to a walkout that began Oct. 8 over Quebec's medical care insurance plan.

Dr. Raymond Robillard, president of the Federation of Quebec Medical Specialists, issued a brief statement announcing the conclusion of the strike on behalf of the federation's 1,300 members.

A few minutes earlier Dr. D. C. Kippen of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Medical Association, told a news conference the step was taken because of "possible emergency conflicts] requirements" in Quebec and "continued escalation of the national crisis".

He denied any suggestion that the specialists were using this as an easy way out of their confrontation with the Quebec government which is armed since last Friday with laws to force them back to work.

B. E. Fresco, CMA executive secretary, spoke of confidential information in the doctors' hands indicating danger of a clash between Montreal students and armed troops mobilized under the War Measure Act in response to terrorist kidnappings.

Dr. Kippen said he asked for, and was given, Health Minister John Munro's permission to use the federal minister's name in urging the Quebec specialists to end their strike.

But neither would reveal the source of the information beyond Dr. Kippen saying they had to trust the judgment of men in Quebec in close touch with events there.

He said the doctors, summoned to a general meeting of the federation at CMA headquarters here, voted by voice overwhelmingly in favor of ending the walkout. Ballots prepared for a vote were not used.

Only 24 hours earlier, the specialists had been polled by telephone and were 98 per cent in favor of continuing the strike.

The assassination of Pierre Laporte, kidnapped Quebec labor minister whose body was found Saturday night, and growing public apprehension were cited the crisis since the poll was taken.

Police Guard Visitors at OSD Party

Tighter security measures were enforced by Belleville police today as Lieutenant Governor W. Ross Macdonald and Education Minister William Davis arrived in the city.

Scene of the reinforced police measure was the Ontario School for the Deaf where the visit of provincial government representatives climaxes year-long school centennial celebrations.

The cautionary police action was unaffected by last-minute cancellations that removed two other public figures from the OSD program: Premier John Robarts and Ontario Works Minister John Simonett.

Mr. Roberts is to introduce a motion of sympathy to the family of murdered Quebec cabinet minister Pierre Laporte in the legislature later today and has requested all government representatives to be present.

Mr. Davis' visit also has been curtailed by the move and plans were for him to return to Queen's Park after a brief visit to the OSD.

Security Curtain Shrouds Funeral

Rites To Be Simple

MONTREAL (CP) — One of the heaviest concentrations of politicians in decades is expected in Montreal today for the funeral of murdered Pierre Laporte, Quebec cabinet minister who was kidnapped and held hostage for a week before being slain.

The funeral, in historic Notre Dame Church at 4 p.m., is to be private and simple, with the public excluded. But delegations from the federal, provincial and city governments will be there.

About 100 members of Parliament were expected from Ottawa with Prime Minister Trudeau. The 108 members of the Quebec national assembly were to attend as well as the full Montreal city council.

Police and military officials have been working round-the-clock to lay down a security curtain for the visiting government leaders and politicians.

Place d'Armes, a square in front of the Roman Catholic church, was expected to become a vast military operation prior to the late afternoon funeral.

Travel plans of politicians have been cloaked in secrecy to avoid any incident.

Route of the funeral procession to Cote des Neiges cemetery where the body will be buried also had not been announced by 10 a.m.

Cameras will not be allowed inside the church, but television crews were stationed outside to provide coverage on the CBC's English and French networks.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Skies remained clear over all Ontario overnight as temperatures fell to the 30s in most areas. Under mainly sunny skies temperatures will generally rise to between 55 and 60 this afternoon and is nearly the same range Wednesday afternoon. Cloud will spread across most southern areas this evening.

Police begin a thorough examination Monday of all items in the house south of Montreal where members of the outlawed Front du Liberation de Quebec held Labor Minister Pierre Laporte hostage for a week before killing him. (CP Wirephoto)

Police Comb House

ST. HUBERT, Que. (CP) — Bloodstains matching the blood type of Pierre Laporte and a shirt worn by the Quebec labor minister when he was kidnapped Oct.10 were found by police in a St. Hubert bungalow Monday.

A phone call from a suspicious neighbor directed police to the green-and-white frame house, located about 1,200 yards from where the body of Mr. Laporte was found in a car trunk early Sunday.

The house was empty when police arrived. Doors were broken down, but police retreated and called in army bomb demolition experts when it was learned that bombs had been planted.

Broken furniture and general disarray led to speculation that there had been a hell of a fight.

Det.-Sgt. Albert Lisacek of Quebec Provincial Police said there were bloodstains on the floor and in an adjacent garage. Chicken bones were scattered "all over the place."

The bungalow, near the former Canadian Forces St. Hubert base south of Montreal, was believed occupied by Paul Rose, 27, wanted by police in the kidnapping of Mr. Laporte and British envoy James (Jasper) Cross.

Blair Rose, 14, who lives in the neighborhood, said the house had "a lot of visitors."

"I saw a man and a woman in the house all the time, and another couple used to visit several times a week."

Asked if he saw anything through the windows, the boy said: "They always had their blinds down."

Stanley Gardner, who lives across the street, said the former occupants "came in at all hours and had more cars and friends than usual."

He described the persons seen most often in the bungalow as "between hippies and ordinary."

Beside bloodstains and the shirt, police found several crumpled pieces of paper signed by the Chenier cell of the Front de Liberation du Quebec which kidnapped Mr. Laporte.

A pillow similar to the one found beneath the body of Mr. Laporte in the car was also discovered.

Celebrations - - and Security

Education Minister William Davis (right) is escorted by Ontario School for the Deaf superintendent J. D. Demers to join celebrations marking school centennial today. Reflecting national concern over terrorist activities, security vigilance at school was stepped up as Lieutenant Governor W. Ross McDonald and Mr. Davis arrived in city as provincial government representatives.

Gromyko Given Date For Talk with Nixon

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Two meetings between State Secretary William Rogers and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko have concluded with a date for Gromyko to see President Nixon in Washington Thursday.

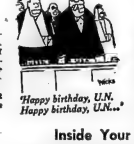
Rogers's dinner meeting with Gromyko Monday night was described as more cordial than their first session last Friday. Afterward, Rogers announced that Nixon has accepted Gromyko's request for a meeting.

Rogers said the Soviet representative is the only one of the many foreign ministers now attending the UN fall session to be given a White House appointment.

But the secretary said he attached "no specific importance" to the meeting. He said Gromyko did not indicate whether he was bringing Nixon a message from the Kremlin.

"There's no urgency," Rogers said. "I think he (Gromyko) just thinks the meeting will be useful. We've had two meetings which were useful."

"I think the conversation was useful," Gromyko told reporters after the dinner at Rogers's hotel suite. The meeting lasted nearly three hours.



The Middle East—an item likely to come up when Gromyko visits the White House—and Berlin were the main topics discussed.

Basic differences remain, U.S. officials said, and they acknowledged that no compromise formula is in sight to break the deadlock blocking resumption of the indirect Arab-Israeli peace negotiations at the United Nations.

At the same time, U.S. officials gave a brighter picture of the Rogers-Gromyko soundings than they did last Friday, when they reported Gromyko stood fast by Kremlin policy on major issues.

Prefab Housing Seen 40 Per Cent of Total

TORONTO (CP) — Rapid growth is foreseen in prefabricated houses and—they will account for 40 per cent of the Canadian housing market in the next 10 years, it was predicted Monday.

Prefabricated buildings now account for 26 per cent of the house market in Canada, principally single-family dwellings, G. E. E. Gardorf, an executive of Halliday Homes Ltd. of Burlington, Ont., told a meeting of the Canadian Electrical Association's marketing division.

The past decade has brought outright acceptance of the building principle," he said.

Trade Party To Visit China

MONTEBELLO, Que. (CP) — John Warren, deputy minister of industry, trade and commerce, says an advance party of Canada's trade delegation in China is expected to leave next week to follow up reception of the Peking government.

He told the 27th annual meeting of the Canadian Export Association Monday night the advance party will be followed by a permanent delegation which will be in business in China in January.

Mr. Warren replaced Jean-Luc Pepin, minister of industry, trade and commerce, who was scheduled to address the 300 delegates to the two-day conference.

Mr. Pepin was unable to fulfill his obligation because of kidnappings in Quebec by terrorists, who had slain Pierre Laporte, Quebec labor minister.

The deputy minister said Canada's recognition of China could mean a boost to Canadian exports.

But, he stressed, the Chinese are good businessmen and it will be up to this country's exporters to go out and get part of the Chinese trade action.

Safe Passage Assured

MONTREAL (CP) — The offer of safe passage to Cuba for the terrorist kidnappers of British trade commissioner James (Jasper) Cross has been reiterated by Premier Robert Bourassa of Quebec.

The offer was first made Saturday night before it was known that another kidnap victim, Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte, had been killed by his captors. It then applied to both cases, but warrants have been issued for two men believed involved in the Laporte kidnapping.

Renewing the safe-conduct offer Monday night, Mr. Bourassa designated the Canadian Expo 67 pavilion on St. Helen's Island in the St. Lawrence as the proposed rendezvous. The pavilion would become territory of the Cuban consulate for the release of the 49-year-old trade commissioner, kidnapped from his Montreal home Oct. 5.

News Briefs

TORONTO (CP) — A $2.1 million water park with boat launching ramps at the mouth of Mimico Creek would be the first phase of Metropolitan Toronto's waterfront plan. In its initial phase, the waige park at the western end of the metropolitan area is designed to include canals, small lakes and ornamental fountains with pedestrian walkways.

* * *

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Securities Commission said in a policy statement Monday all prospectuses in the province must quote offering prices in Canadian dollars, effective immediately. The commission said it became necessary to clarify its position because of the large number of United States securities being traded in Canada.

* * *

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec health department reported Monday that most of the province's 1,000 medical specialists have obeyed the government's emergency legislation ordering them back to work. The department said in a statement that normal services have been re-established at Quebec's 230 hospitals.

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — The bound bodies of an eye surgeon, his wife, their two sons and a secretary were found Monday night shot and dumped in the swimming pool of their palatial home which was destroyed by fire. Sheriff Doug Lawson told a news conference: "We have no motive."

Economic Council

Ottawa Spending Needed to Restore Employment

OTTAWA (CP) — The Economic Council of Canada warns that high rates of inflation may persist in this decade unless basic social problems are alleviated.

The nation's economy is falling significantly below its potential and government spending at all levels is needed over the next few years to restore high employment.

These observations were included Monday in a supplement to the council's annual report, released a month ago.

Among proposals:

—Improved co-ordination between federal and provincial governments. The council suggests establishment of a permanent secretariat to develop and analyse information with employees rotated at regular intervals "to avoid building up of what might be termed 'a new level of government'."

—The Bank of Canada should regulate the supply of money in the economy proportionately in line with the underlying growth rate of potential output."

When the central bank departs from basic policy setting, it should make clear, public statements of its reasons.

When interest rates are altered, announcements now are normally confined to a one-sentence statement, without explanation.

—A careful enquiry is needed into the construction industry where "it appears that industry, unions and governments are not working well together to solve critical problems." The council endorsed current government efforts, especially in funding low-income housing.

The report says the problems of inflation are in part "a reflection of the attempts in most Western countries to run high-employment economies with inadequate emphasis on supply, structural and other policies as essential complements to appropriate demand policies."

The council, however, repeats advice of a year ago on the need to push the economy to its potential while conceding "a quick return to potential is not feasible."

That potential is defined on the basis of an average rate of 3.8 per cent unemployed.

The latest monthly seasonally adjusted rate was about 6.3 per cent.

To attain potential output in 1975, the council says, the economy will need an average growth rate of 5.5 per cent between 1969 and 1975. It estimates that from 1.3 million to 1.4 million new jobs must be added between now and 1975.

The latest official forecast is that real output will grow this year only by about three per cent. Consequently the gap between real output and potential output would widen in four per cent from the 1.3 per cent of recent years.

Procter & Gamble Defers Plans For Plant in Sidney Township

Procter and Gamble, major North American manufacturer of soaps and toiletries, this morning announced that plans for a proposed toiletries plant in Sidney Township would be indefinately deferred.

A major factor in the decision to defer locating in the township is the doubling of construction costs. Ed J. McDougall, director of manufacturing for Canada, said that to open the new plant would cost in excess of $7 million.

Recent government concern over pollution also played an important part in reaching the decision. Much of Procter and Gamble's products involve use of phosphates.

"The actual indication that the money originally scheduled for construction was required for other areas of operation and investigation of new product changes and pollution controls.

Present for a meeting with the company officials were Gerald Joyce, Belleville Industrial Commission chairman, Fred Bentley, Industrial Commissioner, Reeve Jack Bush, Mel Harper, Procter and Gamble plant location supervisor, and Peter and William Wills, principal landholders of the plant site.

That Procter and Gamble were considering construction of a multi-million dollar plant for its toiletries division in Sidney township has been known for more than a year.

The company had obtained options on a 40 acre tract of land west of the city limits and south of Highway 401 and surveys had been carried out for the company.

Reports were that the plant would have been one of the largest industries to locate in the Belleville area.

At a Belleville and Suburban Planning Board public hearing in May of this year to consider a rezoning request, W. S. Rogers, solicitor for P and G said the company had outgrown its Hamilton plant and wanted to erect a new expanded building in Sidney.

He said one of the reasons the company wanted to move to Sidney was because of the pollution factor at its present plant.

No objection against the requested rezoning was registered at the May meeting.

Since then discussion between Belleville and Sidney had been held regarding extension of services to the Sidney township site and, until yesterday's report, township officials had high hopes that the plant would come to Sidney.

Security Measures

Tension evoked by terrorist activities in Quebec was reflected in other ways at the OSD this morning.

Driver of the lieutenant governor's limousine was a provincial police officer — Insp. John Fullerton, head of the OPP's emergency measures unit.

Mr. Davis, who flew into Belleville was accompanied by a plainclothesman, said Chief Crosbie.

He did not disclose the number of officers involved.

But "it's a reasonable number more than we would have had on duty in the past," he said.

Such extra caution likely will surround the visits of public man in future, Chief Crosbie said.

Police "from now on" will have to establish "extra securities" during such public visits, he said.

Absence of Premier Robarts caused some last-minute reshuffling of program details by officials. But the events went as scheduled.

On their separate arrivals the lieutenant governor and Mrs. Davis were met by OSD superintendent Joseph Demers, who introduced them to school and local public representatives.

After lunch the official visitors were scheduled to officiate at events that included the lighting of a giant, fabricated birthday cake on the school grounds and laying the cornerstone of the OSD's new, million-dollar recreation centre.

Winter Haul-Out

When Nonauch, the Hudson's Bay Company ship, ghosted through Quinte waters this summer, she left behind her tender for the sea cadets of RCSSC Quinte. The cadets are using and caring for the shallop, replica of an English harbor work boat of the 1670s until it goes into a Winnipeg marine museum next year. Like other yachts in Belleville harbor it was hauled out for the winter last weekend and will rest on the RCSSC Quinte lawn until spring. Cadets Paul Coughlan and Kirk Kelly check the bracing of its cradle.

Bay St. Tenants to Stay

TRENTON (Staff) — Council decided 8-7 last night that it would not evict four families from three municipally - owned Bay Street properties.

"We cannot, throw them out in the cold" councillor Ted Parker said, adding, however, that the town had given residents "ample time" to vacate the properties destined for demolition as part of an expansion program for Centennial Park.

One of those told to get out by October 31 was Mrs. Orland Peters, 67 Bay Street. A letter from her was read to council telling of the hardship she encountered in trying to find a new home in the town.

Mrs. Peters alleged that finding a place to live here is virtually impossible and that she was told good accommodation by certain landlords because her family was not in the Canadian Forces.

Plans for park development in the new year would be jeopardized by further setbacks in the attempt to get the less than adequate homes vacated.

Maybe the same thing will happen in the spring" councillor Parker said.

It was the consensus of council at the September 21 meeting that the town should not be involved in the "landlord business".

Mayor Duncan McDonald opposed the move to give notice to the Bay Street families then because of the housing situation in Trenton and because the park extension will not commence this winter.

Belleville Man In Competition

This year's competition, the first after a five-year intermission, will pit top units of ADC and air defence assigned Air National Guard fighter-interceptors of the United States Air Force against each other and the 409 All Weather Interceptor Squadron of the Canadian Armed Forces based at CFB Comox, British Columbia.

The competition was begun in 1954 as an air-to-air rocketry phase of the third annual United States Air Force Fighter Gunnery and Weapons Meet held in Arizona.

The event moved to Tyndall in 1958 and became the United States Air Force Worldwide Fighter-Interceptor Weapons Meet.

Mystery Photo

Who are these children? That's the conundrum intriguing Ray McLennan of Belleville, who found a set of children's photographs in a jacket pocket this week. He has no idea how they got there, probably while the jacket was out in his parked car. Mr. McLennan is seeking the owner, who can claim his photographs by calling The Intelligencer.

Board Approves Crossing Guard

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County school trustees have approved a request for a patrol woman to assist children boarding and disembarking from a bus stopping at a road crossing on Highway 33 at Rossmore.

Ameliasburg deputy reeve Norman Post told school board members that his township council had approved plans for a patrol woman who would receive token payment.

Mrs. Keith Osterhout agreed to guide youngsters boarding and leaving the bus on both sides of the road while making a crossing through heavy traffic necessary for the passengers.

Mr. Post reported that the highways department has been contacted and is presently prepared to erect a children-crossing sign at the intersection of the highway and county road 3.

The deputy reeve explained that there is danger of an accident each time children cross the highway to board the bus because of heavy traffic Trustees agreed with Ameliasburg township council's plan and it was decided to hire Mrs. Osterhout as a patrol woman — at a token payment of $3 monthly.

Political Merger Planned

REGINA (CP) — The provincial Progressive Conservative Association and the Saskatchewan Social Credit League are planning a merger, spokesmen for the two parties told a news conference Monday.

Neither party now is represented in the legislature.

Ed Nasserden, PC leader in Saskatchewan and provincial Social Credit President Lloyd Avram said officials of the organizations agree a merger is what they should "join together as one political body."

Conservatives would be asked to vote on the proposal at a meeting Nov. 9-10 in Regina and Social Creditors would be asked to a meeting at about the same time.

Mr. Nasserden said a combined organization probably would keep the Progressive Conservative name.

County Liberals Back Trudeau

The Hastings Liberal Association has informed Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau that it is in full support of his stand concerning the FLQ crisis. It was announced this morning.

Robert Temple, president of the association, signed a telegram sent to the prime minister yesterday which said, "The Hastings Liberal Association backs your stand completely in the crisis facing our country."

Mr. Temple said that he had been asked by many people how they might show their support for the prime minister.

"I've asked all those people to send a wire directly to the Prime Minister at the House of Commons in Ottawa," he said.

Rotary Speaker:

Planned Growth Is Inevitable

Regional development is regarded in government circles as something that will be carried on, regardless of the party in power, according to Dr. R. S. Thoman, a Professor of Geography at Queen's University who is currently with the Regional Development branch of the Department of Treasury and Economics.

"It is happening in the United States and in some 30 countries of Europe. Dr. Thomas told Belleville Rotarians yesterday in an address that illustrated how far the concept has advanced in Ontario.

Dr. Thomas described how the entire government operation, involving its many departments and agencies, is being brought together in an "umbrella program" aimed at co-ordination, avoiding duplication, and planning growth.

He said studies are made of priorities in the various regions and presented at public meetings on for discussion. Changes may be made on the spot as a result of such public discussion and before the final drafts are implemented.

At a recent meeting of this type in Thunder Bay, attended by six provincial ministers and the federal minister of urban affairs, Robert Andras, it was decided the area was suitable for further "moderate growth".

With the growing tendency for people to concentrate in metropolitan areas (30,000 are moving into Toronto every year) decentralization east and north of that city is being encouraged. In places like Belleville, said Dr. Thoman, "there will be strong efforts to keep as many people as possible, and to attract as many people as possible."

Chief and Cadets

Belleville Police Chief Douglas Crosbie was inspecting officer for the 704 Squadron, Royal Canadian Air Cadets, on parade last night at CFB Trenton. Following a crack drill display by the young airmen, the chief constable addressed the squadron. Chief Crosbie told the cadets that all men in uniform bear additional responsibilities to those of ordinary citizens, responsibilities both to their respective governments — civic and federal — as well as to their particular group. Group efforts of 704 Squadron have been considerable. The squadron has flown 7,000 glider flights and has just restored an airplane soon to be flying in their service.

Trentonians May Decide Future of Post Office

TRENTON (Staff) — Voters here will settle the post office project controversy when they go to the polls on December 7.

Council gave tentative approval last night to having the matter placed on the ballot as a public referendum.

Decision to take the issue to the people results in part from statements made to a town deputation October 15 by J. A. Kennedy, chairman of the Ontario Municipal Board.

Chairman Kennedy told the municipal delegation that two options were open to advance the controversial scheme — either make application to OMB, advertise for complaints, and (if there are any) hold a hearing or else take the question directly to the people.

Trentonians will be asked if they are in favor of spending an estimated $251,000 for the purchase of civic office space, public open space and improvements at the site of the former post office on Dundas St. West.

At last night's session, councillors expressed concern that the people must understand the project fully. Thus, it was decided to forestall actual drafting of the referendum item until the committee of the whole meeting next week.

Council will also decide next Monday the nature of debentures to be issued for funding of the development.

Because of the questionable legality of opening municipal offices in a referendum project, Mayor Duncan McDonald asked that approval be sought that the scheme is legally possible, adding that an issue should not be taken to the people if it can not receive OMB approval afterwards.

Light Placement Stirs Controversy

TRENTON (Staff) — Residents of Parkview Heights have waited eight years to get street lights and are now embroiled in an aesthetic-mini-crisis over where they should be placed.

One light was moved from the west side of Parkview to the east, only to raise an objection from a resident there. Lyle Carr took exception to the west-to-east transfer which would place a light on his property — too near, in his opinion, to a tree that he tends with constant attention.

"The registered subdivision plan states where the street lights should be," he told council last night in his second appearance before town fa-thers in as many weeks.

Councillor Bob Patrick suggested that the situation might be resolved simply by putting the new light standards on the lot lines.

"But this would not give even lighting," Arthur Campbell, town engineer said, saying that in the situation one light would be about 80 feet from the next one on one side and about 200 feet from the next on the other.

The matter was turned over to the administrative board for review and recommendations.

Fluoride Issue Again

TRENTON (Staff) — Whether the town water supply should be fluoridated is a question electors here will answer on their ballots December 7.

Councillor Bob Patrick initiated the matter at last night's council meeting and a bylaw will be prepared to put the issue on the line for the second time in nine years.

Voters rejected fluoridation in the 1961 municipal election and the question became a dead issue until this spring, when council began to deal with it again, only to find out that any decision was out of their hands.

The only way of rescinding the former popular decision is to take the issue to the people once again through plebiscite.

Witnesses Here Nov. 6 to 8

Belleville will be the site of a regional assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses Nov. 6 to 8, 1970. In announcing the assembly, Thor Jensen, who is the presiding minister of the Belleville Congregation, said: "Sixteen congregations from southern Ontario will assemble here to hear scriptural discourses. The theme of the assembly is The Word of God Is Alive. Over 1,500 delegates are expected to attend.

The assembly will conclude with a public Bible lecture on Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m.

Kiwanis Travelogues Begin Thursday Night

And first to lead off the series is a film by Phil Walker entitled Japanese Summer, a tour into the mystery and beauty of Japan.

Beginning at 8.15, the visitor to the first Kiwanis travelogue will be taken into the streets of Tokyo, the world's most populated city.

The visitor will see the majestic Emperor's Palace, pagodas and temples, and will see the contrast between old tradition and modern life.

Leaving Tokyo, the film moves on to Kyoto, the former Japanese capital. A highlight of this segment of the film is a Buddhist ceremony.

Japanese Summer is the first of six travelogues slated this year by the Belleville Kiwanis Club. Audiences will be taken to Japan, India, Canada, the United States, Wales and Romania.

Each film is narrated live by the photographer who filmed it.

Nov. 26, Joe Adair will present his film, Hidden Jewels—An American Mosaic. In January J. Gerald Hooper will present Pageant of India.

February, March and April will feature travelogues about Canada, Romania and Wales, respectively.

OSD Centennial

A lot of water passes under the bridges of life in the course of 100 years and today's ceremonies at the Ontario School for the Deaf reflect this premise.

Highlighting the Centennial program this afternoon is the laying of the date stone of the J. G. Demeza sports centre. The naming of this structure after the school's founding principal is a measure of the respect in which the North Bay native is held in educational circles in Ontario and across Canada. Specifically, it is a measure of perseverance and work among handicapped youngsters.

Fading Symbols

There is little cause for flag-waving in Canada today, but it is nevertheless as good a time as any to ask municipal authorities, including our own, to have a look at the emblems they are flying from various vantage points, to ensure they are at least in fresh condition.

City Hall's is long since in need of replacement. Faded almost beyond recognition, is is an embarrassment to citizens and a poor commentary on our patriotism.

Neither is it of course is not alone in its neglect of national symbols. A recent letter to the Brockville Recorder and Times noted: "The condition of some of the Canadian flags flown in the city was disgusting. To see those sagging, faded, torn facsimiles of our Canadian flag was most disheartening."

Currently, most are at half-staff; let's replace them, though, now that the opportunity presents itself.

Misleading

Last Friday's editorial page cartoon in The Globe and Mail would have been obscure to anyone who had not seen the picture of Indian Affairs Minister, Jean Chretien almost flat on his face after he had taken a spill during a bicycle race in Ottawa.

Two Indians are shown standing alongside the picture of Mr. Chretien inserted in the cartoon and one is saying to the other, "See! He's done it again!"

The curious thing about the picture of Mr. Chretien is that it bore a striking resemblance to the late Senator Robert Kennedy and would have been recognized by few as Mr. Chretien. The only indication that it was not Sen. Kennedy was the "Ottawa" tag around his chest labelling the hard-to-recognize Mr. Chretien as an entrant, with other MPs, in the Survival Day event.

Irish Caper

The Irish are much too realistic and hard-headed to tolerate such goings on as pop festivals, but there is one big bash which is as wholesome as it is popular — and that is the Ould Lammas Fair.

Dating back more than 300 years at least, it is held annually in the County Antrim coastal resort of Ballycastle. At the fair you can buy almost anything, from clothes to hardware (this year there was even a fellow selling second-hand police helmets, which in this day and age seems singularly appropriate) and there was the perennial "dulce and yellow man" for which the event is famous.

There is catchy little piece which was penned several years ago by a local bard and it goes like this:

"Oh, the Ould Lammas Fair
Boys were you ever there
At the Ould Lammas Fair of
Ballycastle Oh?
Did you treat your Mary Anne
To dulce and yellow man
At the Ould Lammas Fair of
Ballycastle Oh?"

Yellow man is a sticky candy whose fame is known far beyond the shores of Ireland and whose ingredients are as secret as the best Irish whisky.

Farmers were out in force as ever, looking over the stock and there was done all the routine weekly fairs held in the town's "Diamond" for generations.

As ever you could have your fortune told too, and a custom of many years ago, when they would bring their dried fish to the fair, was a group from the Scottish island of Islay. They had sailed across the narrow channel from Campbelltown, on the Mull of Kintyre, to Red Bay, Cushendall, on the famed Antrim coast road south of Ballycastle. The latter community can be a rainy spot, but reports say the August event enjoyed one of the best days of the summer and attracted some 60,000 people.

Downgrading of Police

RCMP Commissioner Refutes Mounties' Critics

By RICHARD JACKSON
OTTAWA — With what many people consider stupidity at serious timing — inconvenient-ly not long before the Quebec terrorist outrages — two mid-of-the-week newspaper supplements gave the police their lumps.

In both smooth - paper supplements, Weekend and The Canadian, the RCMP took the heaviest hammering.

Perhaps it is because these two supplements are published in the big Metro centres, one in Montreal and the other in Toronto, that they are so up-stiff about what they see, they put it diplomatically, at the unreasonableness of the police, and so hang-loose over provocation of these same police.

You know — or perhaps you do not — that the Toronto and Montreal news-types, not all of them, mind you, but a great many, consider themselves a special very liberal ultra-intelligent breed.

They are the sophisticates. All others over the Toronto and Montreal horizons are deemed—with sympathetic understanding — to be un-with-it hopeless-ly nineteenth century dumdums.

So there were the big - timers in the Canadian news world socking it to the poor, benighted, backward police peasantry.

Perhaps they figured that thick-headed cops to be fair game, because had not Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau called the nation's No. 1 policeman, RCMP Commissioner William Leonard Higgitt, to button his lip?

Commissioner Higgitt, as you may recall, new to his top police post, had called a press conference, and warned, among other dangers, of the espionage peril potential in the diplomatic recognition of Communist China.

The Prime Minister, publicly ticking him off, had said Commissioner Higgitt would not be holding many more press conferences.

And since then this Government has not been making the policeman's lot any happier.

But at long last, regardless of the Prime Minister's quiet nagging of him, Commissioner Higgitt has started answering back in defence against attacks on police, especially those in the widely - circulated newspaper supplements.

There has not been much he could do about the electronic downgrading of police which so long has been CBC routine, but he could fire back at the print denigration in the two supplements.

The RCMP was said to have deteriorated in the last 10 years and 10 incidents were cited in reflection of this as documentation.

"A collection of unbalanced incidents," answers the Commissioner, of the 10-year catalogue, "and most of them have been refuted to almost everyone's satisfaction."

The RCMP's complained the critics, was "hung up on its own image," objecting to a counterfeit television Mounte pitching ginger ale and refusing to go to Osaka and the World's Fair last summer without their side-arms, finally agreeing to weld down their pistol-triggers to comply with Japanese law.

Responds the Commissioner: "When we see something we feel is in bad taste we tell the company or the individual and usually it stops. It is my responsibility to see the RCMP is not ridiculed."

"We have no interest in deserters or draft-dodgers or anyone else except for their compliance with the law," replies the Commissioner. "If we have reason to believe immigration laws are being violated, we investigate."

The RCMP has been scorned by the fault-finders as a stooge for the FBI in security detection cases.

"We conduct no interrogations for the FBI," answers the Commissioner. "But if the FBI asks if some specific person is in Canada, we tell them yes or no. This is no more than straight police co-operation — we ask the same service of them."

The RCMP undercover agents, especially in narcotics investigations, are provocateurs, charge the critics, and often break the law themselves.

To this Commissioner Higgitt glaringly guilty but cries what he trusts are extenuating circumstances in the case to combat crime:

"This is the necessary collecting of evidence. The aim is to get to the drug source. The casual addict is not the target. We want the dealer, the distributor, and as it is useful and necessary police exercise.

"Our undercover agents may have to break the law, but they do it in the same sense that a motorcycle traffic officer on highway patrol breaks the law in pursuit of the speeder. Again it is useful and necessary exercise in the protection of the public. How else can it be done successfully?

And that is part of the other side of the police story, told by the man who has to know it best.

Company's Home Development at Issue

Editor
The Intelligencer.

With reference to the news item dated Oct. 15, reporting from a council meeting of Thurlow Township. It was reported that our company, Maxfield Trailer Sales Co. Ltd. had been turned down for a trailer park by Ameliasburg and Sidney Townships.

We were not turned down by Ameliasburg; we withdrew from the proposal because of a much more desirable site in Thurlow. Further, we have not applied to or been turned down by Sidney Township. If we had done so with Township of Sidney we feel sure we would have received the best of co-operation from its elected members.

Reeve Casey is in error—Thurlow township's letter, referred to in the article detailed did not turn down our proposition, but instead said they were not prepared at that time to pass the necessary bylaw. Nor if one necessary.

Our park enterprise is as developers. We are not at this time interested in building a trailer park. We are going to build an up-to-date Home Park. The difference between our developments is a minimum of 15 percent green area is to be provided in the planning dispersed throughout the park. Our company also owns the adjacent river front approximately six acres. It is our intention to develop this river frontage for recreation. This park will be for the use of the local residents as well as the park leaseholders.

In no way could anyone properly consider this development a detriment to the area. The opposite is true. The area will be greatly enhanced by this Home Park. In considering this area for our home site, we took a long look at one of our neighbor's home obviously under construction for a long period, and giving a bad impression of the area. Fortunately this home is hidden from the road by brush along its front line. Incidentally the owner of this home is one of the originators of the petition presented to council. We also considered the fact that the township dump borders our east line. The north east corner of the property as of now is not the most desirable situation. Considering the above facts, how could this beautiful Home Park devalue such an area as described above. The fuss and noise stirred up must have more implications not known to us) than meets the surface.

If the petition submitted to council has the strength report it is our understanding that it must be referred to the Municipal Board in Toronto. We would welcome such action.

A mention of traffic problems for children was made. We submit that with two paved roads, The River Road on the south and the County road on the north, as well as the Township road running along our east line of the property and also an excellent road system within the park with four different routes to Belleville, there should not be any cause for undue traffic problem.

Reeve Casey is reported: "We're going to fight to the bitter end." The Maxfields are not known to back away from a fight. We can assure the Reeve the bitter end could be a long and expensive end before it is reached. May we respectfully submit, that the problem seems to be a matter of communication. The sign mention in the article erected by our company, has done its job well. The affair is now in the open.

Our company is intent on providing a top grade good living Home Park. We would much prefer to do this job with mutual co-operation and good will with our neighbors and the township authorities.

K. E. MAXFIELD,
President, Maxfield Trailer Sales Co. Ltd.

Administrator's Leave of Absence

BGH Finances and Emergency Needs

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I disagree with "Two Justified". The decision of the Hospital Board was a bad one. Mr. Rickard is a completely able and competent administrator, this is reflected in the efficient day to day running of the BGH. He is, and should be, well paid for this responsibility.

Your correspondent suggests that $400 per month is a misery sum for a man of Mr. Rickard's "status". Many hundreds of parents, struggling to to put their children through university would welcome an annual "miserly" allowance of $4,800. I fail to see that status has anything to do with this matter at all.

As Mr. Kunetsky is assuming the duties of Administrator while Mr. Rickard is away, it is only proper that he should be compensated in a manner commensurate with the additional responsibility.

I fail to understand the reasoning behind "Justified's" suggestion that if Mr. Rickard does not return to BGH, then "some other hospital will benefit from it". It seems to me that as we have a considerable financial investment in Mr. Rickard's undertaking BGH has an outright and valid claim upon his services.

Obviously Mr. Rickard is after "more education". So are thousands of other people — the difference being, that they are doing it without subsidization with public money.

In a multi-million dollar hospital such as BGH, I think if the Board has money to give away, it would be better applied to finding a resident doctor. As in eight-25 part emergency cases being rushed to Belleville have to fervently hope a doctor is present, or wait while the time-consuming routine of phoning the patient's personal physician is gone through. An undue bulge in securing immediate medical aid by a doctor could result in death to the patient. It is easy to see why there is no money available to pay for this service.

Finally, as "Two Justified" states, "there are people like Mr. Hockley" — more than your correspondent imagines — all thoroughly fed up with seeing public money dispensed in such cavalier fashion.

Terrorists Should Be Outlawed

Not all French Canadians are separatists, not all separatists are terrorists — but all French Canadians and all Canadians should denounce all terrorists and fight to outlaw them from our midst.

Silent Mourners View Body of Pierre Laporte

MONTREAL (CP) — Nearly 8,000 mourners have filed into the courthouse since Sunday night to view the body of Pierre Laporte, the Quebec cabinet minister who was kidnapped and then murdered by separatist terrorists.

The coffin is to be taken from the courthouse at 1:30 p.m. today and moved to Notre Dame Roman Catholic church for a 4 p.m. private funeral, limited to invited guests only.

Among those invited are Prime Minister Trudeau and other members of Parliament, along with Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa and scores of provincial and municipal politicians.

But Monday was a day for the average Montrealer to pay his last respects. Long before the doors opened to the public at 10:10 a.m. a crowd was beginning to gather outside.

Most of the early-mourners were people on their way to work or school. At one time seven policemen stood on steps leading to the main entrance of the courthouse.

One policeman said:

"These people are not only here to pay their respects to Mr. Laporte, but to let Canadians know they are standing firmly behind the government."

Mrs. Laporte, wife of the slain Quebec labor minister, spent an hour at the courthouse in mid-afternoon with other members of the family and close friends.

She left by a side entrance under a heavy police escort. A crowd of about 150 stood for nearly 10 minutes to see her come out. There was silence, broken only by the click of a soldier's heels.

Mayor Jean Drapeau and his wife and Premier Bourassa and his wife were also visitors Monday.

An estimated 7,000 persons had passed the coffin by the evening supper hour, when the after-work crowd began to gather. Many of them were searched for cameras as they entered the main door. All were told to leave by a side door.

There were no loiterers and no incidents.

Officials said a big crowd moved into the courthouse between noon and 1 p.m. when people took their lunch hours to pay respects to Mr. Laporte.

Midway through the afternoon a bus carrying more than 50 friends of the cabinet minister arrived from suburban St. Lambert, where Mr. Laporte lived with his wife and two children. They stayed 20 minutes.

Late-afternoon mourners included students carrying books and pencil boxes. And police guards in heavy-duty pencil boxes, just as they did lawyers' briefcases.

In rural Quebec the same sense of shock over the murder of Mr. Laporte prevailed. But there were some expressions of worry about the intensity of reaction.

In sparsely-populated Nicolet county, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River, Clement Vincent, agriculture minister in the former Union Nationale government, said:

"People here are generally remaining calm, but there's a dangerous force underneath. Some are on the verge of taking vengeance into their own hands.

"It is unfortunate for the legitimate separatists like the Parti Quebecois—but in the minds of many they are going to be identified with the (Front de Liberation du Quebec) terrorists."

French Newspapers Say Minority Oppressed

PARIS (AP) — The French-speaking minority in Canada has been presented to newspaper readers in France as an oppressed people driven to desperate measures to gain advantages.

While editorial writers here have been unanimous in disapproving of the kidnap-killing of Pierre Laporte, Quebec's labor minister, by the Front de Liberation du Quebec, explanatory articles in the French press describe the minority as people tied to France by history, language and culture but who play a second-class role to the English speaking majority.

The Gaullist newspaper Le Nation, in an editorial Monday, linked the Quebec separatists with Palestinians, the Roman Catholics in Ulster and some South American organizations.

The newspaper Le Monde, which devoted more than four tabloid pages to Canadian events, said in a front-page editorial titled "From exasperation to crime" . . . Every act, including the most repugnant, possesses certainly not its justification but its explanation.

The newspaper France-Soir, in an article titled "Two Centuries of Incomprehension", explaining the federal-provincial relationship, said the French-speaking minority "has the sentiment that its national personality is persecuted, without most of them, for the present, wanting secession."

Another article in France-Soir spoke of the inability of police to find the kidnappers and concluded "the only explanation for this impunity is that great sections of the French-Canadian population, while certainly disapproving the violence of the FLQ, feel themselves sympathetic to its objective: the independence of Quebec."

"I can remember the day when they were hand-made."

Laporte May Have Been On Hunger Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — The Star says it has learned that Labor Minister Pierre Laporte, murdered by revolutionary kidnappers Saturday night, may have been on a hunger strike before his death.

Authorities have temporarily withheld the report of an autopsy on Mr. Laporte's body, but the newspaper says the examination showed there was no food in the 49-year-old minister's stomach.

The newspaper says the fact the senior member of the cabinet of Premier Robert Bourassa may have been on a hunger strike was indicated in a recent communique of the Front de Liberation du Quebec, contents of which have not yet been disclosed.

When police early Monday entered the hideout apparently used by the FLQ Chenier cell which abducted Mr. Laporte, they not only found chicken bones but also eight cartons of barbecued chicken virtually untouched.

The autopsy report was turned over to Justice Minister Jerome Choquette Monday afternoon by Coroner Laurin Lepointe. Mr. Lapointe said it was up to the minister to release its details.

Cuba Agrees to Exile Plans 'For Humanitarian Reasons'

OTTAWA (CP) — Cuba has agreed to co-operate with Canada in providing asylum for the kidnappers of British diplomat James Cross for humanitarian reasons only, the Cuban ambassador said Monday night.

Dr. Jose Fernandez de Cosio, in a prepared statement, said "the Cuban government agrees for humanitarian reasons to participate in the arrangements made public by the Canadian government."

There had been questions concerning the motives of Cuba in consenting to take the kidnappers, but a Canadian government spokesman made it clear Monday that any arrangements had been made at Canada's request.

In his three-paragraph statement, Dr. de Cosio said:

"I wish to ratify that an agreement exists between the Cuban and Canadian governments at the request of the Canadian government.

"And the Cuban government agrees for humanitarian reasons to participate in the arrangements made public by the Canadian government.

Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa said the arrangements extended only to Mr. Cross' abductors and not to those of Pierre Laporte, Quebec labor minister kidnapped Oct. 10 and found dead in the trunk of a car early Sunday.

The over-all offer, substantially the same as one made Saturday night, was different only in that it specified the Canadian pavilion as the proposed rendezvous instead of Concordia Bridge that links the Expo islands with Montreal.

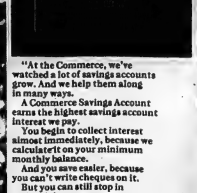
It was thought that substitution of the Canadian pavilion for Concordia Bridge as rendezvous-plated side of the exchange was to give participating diplomats shelter from a long wait in chilly autumn weather.

REAL ESTATE

SHOULD REALTORS BE GOOD SALESMEN?

BILL McKINNEY
J. E. McKinney Realty Ltd.

If you mean good at high pressure, or at pestering buyers with properties that don't suit them, or at trying to make a sale at a price that is unfair to either party—then the answer is emphatically NO.



Reputable Realtors are ever aware that the service they have to offer their clients does, however, include good salesmanship, which in fact is the opposite of these practices.

A good real estate salesman with a property listing proceeds to study that market with that particular property in mind. In seeking out buyers whose needs most closely match the advantages of the property he has to offer, his main objective is to select the buyer and property that belong together.

Then, as a good salesman, he proceeds to point out the various features about his property that the buyer has been looking for, as well as any disadvantages, if he has done his homework properly by matching property and buyer wisely, his reward is a sale satisfactory to both parties.

The essence of good real estate salesmanship is genuine interest in both the buyer's and seller's wants — not the salesman's own. This attitude is an integral part of a Realtor's professional code of ethics.

New Women's Group Frowns On Tactics

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Women's Caucus, the newest and probably largest women's liberation group in the city, believes strongly in being in the public eye—but tactics such as burning bras or refusing to wear them are out.

Ellie Mercer a member of the five-women steering committee, said in an interview that wearing a bra or not should be a woman's personal matter, not the benchmark of a group.

Making an issue of it subtracts attention from what the women really want—equal opportunities, abortion on demand and 24-hour child-care centres, she said.

Their aims are similar to those of the two other women's groups in Toronto the New Feminists and the Women's Liberation Movement, she said. But the approach is different.

She said the Caucus's members, about 200 are not subjected to any ideology, and the group's organization is light.

She said she was with the Women's Liberation Movement and, although she calls herself a Marxist did not think that everybody had to adhere to Marxist principles.

She thought they were drifting away from what they set out to do.

Organization in the other group was loose, she said.

"When I went a year ago there would be from 50 to 75 women at every meeting. But around May or June there might be only 15."

Sometimes she said there would be only four or five—and then someone would remember she had forgotten to say her rest.

She said the Women's Caucus largely is made up of women who have become disenchanted with the ideas of the other groups.

Their members are not anti-male and many are married, and they believe in being women and adopting the ideology they feel is their own.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID EWART

Ewart — MacMillan

Gwendoline Judith MacMillan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm MacMillan of RR 5 Belleville, was united in marriage to David Millard Ewart son of Mr. and Mrs. Millard J. Ewart of RR 3, Bath at Bethesda United Church on Oct. 10. Rev. D. Heard and Rev. I. Munro were the officiating clergymen while Mrs. Reginald Haggerty, organist and Mrs. William Dennis, soloist provided music for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white peau-de-soie. The long bouffant sleeves, stand-up collar and empire waist were accented with a heavy lace overlay. The cathedral train edged with matching lace fell from the waist. Her four-tiered scalloped veil was caught up by a ring of tiny leaves of white pearls and a triangular cascade of yellow roses with a spray of white heather sent to her from Scotland by the MacMillan clan.

Maid of honor Norma Jean Stephens and bridesmaid Gloria Ann MacMillan were dressed in identical floor length gowns of gold peau-de-soie. Each carried a bouquet of bronze pompons and yellow sweetheart roses.

The best man was Gary Ewart, the bridegroom's brother and the ushers were Hugh MacMillan and Eric MacMillan, brothers of the bride.

The reception was held at the Sun Valley Motor Inn. The bride's mother wore a mint green dress and coat ensemble with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother wore an emerald green velvet dress and jacket ensemble with black and emerald green accessories and a corsage of daisy white 'mums and yellow sweetheart roses.

Role of Local EMO Outlined At Argyll Chapter Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Argyll Chapter IODE was held recently, in the Officers' Mess, at the Belleville Armory with the Regent Mrs. H. L. Kokesh presiding.

After the opening by the Regent, Mrs. C. Bristol introduced the guest speaker, Lt.-Col. A. B. Duffy, the EMO co-ordinator for Belleville who outlined procedure and the role of Emergency Measures Organization in the event of a local disaster, using as an example an aeroplane crash in the heart of the city.

Mrs. A. Gray read the minutes of the last meeting and the correspondence. Mrs. Kokesh read a congratulatory letter from Mrs. Fitzwalker, Regent of the Municipal Chapter in Kingston.

Mrs. Kokesh, Mrs. B. Milroy, hospitality convener, thanked all the members who worked so hard for the recent successful tea. A special thanks went to Mrs. J. K. Bradford for the use of her home.

Mrs. Bradford, the educational secretary reported that two educational scholarships had been presented so far and that she would be going to Centennial on Sat., Oct. 17 to present the third.

Mrs. C. Bristol, civil defense convener read an article about public information that is available regarding nuclear attack and national emergency.

A rummage sale will be held in the Belleville Armory on the main floor on Friday, October 30 from 1 p.m. - 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. - 8 p.m.

The Regent read a letter from Provincial headquarters regarding the IODE project MEMO at Saskatchewan, visiting relatives at Balcarrer, Indian Head and Regina.

MR. AND MRS. ROGER PORTER

Porter — Brown

St. Margaret's on the Hill Church was the scene of the Oct. 3rd wedding of Denise Lynne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Brown of Belleville and of Roger Gust Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gust Porter also of Belleville. Rev. J. A. Dunlop was the officiating clergyman and Mrs. Van Oeten at the organ and the choir boys provided music for the occasion.

Given in marriage by both her parents the bride wore an A-line dress of French peau-de-soie with a yoke of imported chantilly lace and long tapered sleeves re-embroidered with lace motifs. Her long back flowed a circular train trimmed with seed pearls. On her head she wore a crown of chantilly lace and pearls with a long flowing veil.

The matron of honor Mrs. Dianne Hamilton was attired in a deep purple bonded velvet dress with a waistline bodice, long cuffed sleeves and an A-line bell skirt. Dressed identically to her were the bridesmaids Miss Trudie Brown, the bride's sister, Miss Lois Striker and Mrs. Jo Anne Ray. They carried baskets of dried autumn flowers and wheat. The ring bearer was James Slater.

The best man was Robert Howell while the ushers were David G. Brown, the bride's brother, George Porter and John Porter, brothers of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom's mother wore a rose floor length princess styled gown with long tapered sleeves. Her hair was styled in an upsweep interlaced with pink sweetheart roses.

For the wedding trip to Quebec City, the bride left in a navy ensemble of English worsted with matching accessories. Upon return the newlyweds will reside in Belleville.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN ELIZABETH SCHOOL

Attention was focused on the drug phenomenon at the Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association meeting Tuesday night.

Hugh Pepper, a member of the students' services department of Loyalist College, addressed the parents on the subject of drugs and urged them to seek earnestly to understand why young people are attracted to drugs.

By examining the meaning of adolescence and trying to understand the physical, social and emotional stress which accompanies it, parents can better appreciate behavior and behavior patterns, he said.

Mr. Pepper suggested that parents and teachers practise patience and try to appreciate the necessary confusion of youth.

Kids Need Reasonable Parental Control

By DORIS CLARK...

Did you ever want your mother to say to you? I did. Here's the story of a young friend of mine:

The gang wanted to go to a restaurant after the dance. This would mean another hour or more before they broke up and went home. Peg was uneasy about it. Said she would have to get permission.

Within earshot of the others she put in her phone call, talked with her mother, coaxed, explained. She stole a glance at her friends, who were diverted for the moment, and whispered into the phone. "Say no, say no!"

Then raised her voice to normal and continued to coax. In a minute she hung up, came back, said her mother wanted her to come home, that it was too late at night.

There are times when young daters need a way out; times when they feel like spoilsports if they take it upon themselves to oppose a gang idea.

Parents need to be strong enough to be counted on. Reasonable controls are not cruel, but kind.

Dear Doris: Do you think some of the quilters would be interested in helping me find patterns? I like to collect all sorts of them and I'd be happy to trade patterns with anyone who is interested.

A while ago you asked for a recipe for Potato Candy. I'm sending you one which we enjoy, made with hot mashed potato.

Your column is the most interesting part of the paper and it often helps me. God bless you and your work. — Jeanne.

Dear Jeanne: Did you notice the letter from Mrs. E. W., which appeared in the column a few weeks ago? She was offering quilt patterns to anyone who might like them. And there may be others writing in when they see your note.

Thank you for the new Potato Candy recipe. I notice yours is a bit different from the others, when it comes to flavorings and method. I'll pass it on to anyone sending in 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers

Woman Disturbed By Friend's Behavior

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why is there so much rudeness and pushing and shoving in the world today? I see wherever I go. Cafeteria lines, theatre lines — it's the same story. Even at the supermarket checkout counter, some crazy always starts piling her groceries on top of mine before I've had a chance to get my slip and pay the bill.

People are getting more impolite and more inconsiderate by the day. They snarl at each other and seem as aggressive as dogs. What's happening to our world? Why is everyone so hostile? Are people changing? — PERPLEXED.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR PERP: Yes. People are becoming angrier and more competitive. Some authorities say it is because there are too many people. The "density theory" has been substantiated by experiments with animals. A California study proved that "normal" rats became belligerent, destructive and vicious when large numbers were crowded into a limited space. The answer: population control — voluntarily — I hope.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Am I super sensitive, paranoid or just plain nuts? I had a blind date with a fellow who seemed terribly nice. I found him interesting, provocative and fun. I was sure he enjoyed himself, too. When he saw me to the door he said, "I'll call you soon." That was three weeks ago and I haven't heard a word from him since.

This is the third time a guy has done this to me since July. If a fellow doesn't like a girl, why does he say he will call her soon? Isn't this dishonest? It certainly does give a girl false hope. She waits and waits for a call that never comes.

Finally she gets depressed and does something to herself. Frankly, I'd rather have a guy say, "Good night. I had a lousy time. You'll never hear from me again." Print this letter and let them see it — the rats. — NEWARK SNOCKER.

* * *

DEAR NEW: C'mon, Kldds. How would you feel if a fellow took you to the door and said, "Good night. I had a lousy time. You'll never hear from me again."

It might be that the guy did enjoy himself and wanted to see you again but maybe his leg, lost his job, was called out of town unexpectedly or fell in love the next day.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been married four months and I'm ruining my marriage because of my terrible mouth. This morning after my husband left for work I sat down and cried. I'm picking him to pieces and I know it. For example, I found a letter in his pocket I asked him to mail yesterday, I yelled at him. Then I yelled because he left a wet towel on the bathroom floor.

My sister nagged her husband into a divorce two years ago and I can see myself doing the same thing. I love my husband and I know he loves me—BUT if I don't control this mouth of mine I will lose him. Can you help me? — DISGUSTED WITH MYSELF.

DEAR DISGUSTED: A problem recognized is half solved. First, accept the fact that your husband is a letter-forgetter and a towel dropper and you aren't going to change him. Mail your own letters and pick up his wet towels — not for his sake, but for yours.

Most nagging wives are secretly dissatisfied with themselves. Picking away at a spouse is easier than doing something about one's own inadequacies. Do you have outlets that provide you with self esteem? A wife who feels good about herself doesn't nag her husband about details. Her energy is being used constructively — not destructively.

Points for Parents

Tuesday — October 20 .. Ted..

Mother: "I don't know why children don't enjoy reading these days. I always liked to read when I was young.

Father: "There are too many other things for youngsters to do these days."

Few non-readers come out of homes where parents enjoy books and where family reading sessions are a way of life.

Father: "I found an interesting book for the children. We'll have a 'read-aloud time' after dinner tonight. They always enjoy it."

Mother: "So do I. It's fun listening to you read."

Pineapple Fritters With Extra Good Batter

By MARY MOORE

When I was invited out to dinner I meekly asked if I could bring along the ingredients for Pineapple Fritters for dessert. My hostess was more than agreeable.

If you are not a fritter fiend now you will be by the time you make and taste these for the batter fried all alone is extra good. I used halved rings of canned pineapple and wedges of late peaches. You can use any number of fruits.

PINEAPPLE FRITTERS
(20 half-circles)

20 slices canned pineapple (or other fruit — see below) cut in halves crosswise

Batter:

2-3 cup cake or pastry flour
½ tsp. salt
1 tbsp. sugar (see note below)
1½ tsps. oil
1 egg — yolk and white divided
6 tbsps. white or rose wine (or pineapple juice or water) oil for deep frying

Make batter 2-6 hrs. in advance of frying them. Combine flour, salt, sugar, 1½ tsps. oil, egg yolk and wine. Beat until perfectly smooth. Cover and let stand at room temperature. Just before frying time beat egg white and fold in until blended. Dip patted-dry pineapple crescents in batter to coat them and drop into hot oil — about 360 deg. Fahr. — and cook until bottom is deep gold, then turn over, and finish other side. Carefully remove from oil on slotted spoon and drain on paper towels on large kitchen plate. You should work quickly since fritters should be served as soon as possible after frying. If desired pass powdered sugar in a sugar shaker.

NOTES: 1) Since the frying of fritters should not be done in advance you have to excuse yourself from the table, announcing you will be absent for 5 or 10 min., but visit with a treat. 2) If you are using raw fruit such as peaches or apples increase amount of sugar in batter to 2 tbsps. 3) Some fritter fans say banana fritters are the best. Try them too. 4) If fritter batter is to be used on vegetables or meat omit sugar and substitute beer or water for wine.

Supreme Court Declines Chicken-egg Decision

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Manitoba cabinet ministers expressed disappointment Monday after the Supreme Court of Canada ruled it had no jurisdiction to hear Manitoba arguments against Quebec action that started off a trade war among the provinces.

Attorney-General A. H. MacMillan, who argued his province's motion, said afterwards the high court "checked the question" and said the least the court should have done was say why it believed it had no right to hear Manitoba's arguments.

Agriculture Minister Samuel Uskiw said Manitoba now would escalate the war by raising trade barriers to broilers entering his province from Quebec and other provinces.

Three judges, headed by Mr. Justice Douglas Abbott, said the Supreme Court was barred by its constitution from hearing Manitoba's arguments that the Quebec egg producers board was acting beyond its powers in regulating the flow of eggs into the province.

The board's action was followed by Ontario, British Columbia and Alberta barring chickens from entering their markets from outside provinces.

Mr. Mackling argued that the Supreme Court, in addition to being a court of appeal, had the right from the parliamentary act establishing it to hear original cases "for the better administration of the laws of Canada."

Mr. Justice Roland Ritchie remarked that this was akin to saying that the Supreme Court had the power to add to its jurisdiction regardless of what Parliament said.

Mr. Mackling said that because the federal government refused to refer the matter to the Supreme Court, Manitoba was forced to proceed by way of its motion.

There was a serious gap in constitutional law if the high court declined to hear such cases until lower courts had rendered decisions on them, he said.

There is a case involving the Quebec board's action now before the Quebec Court of Appeal. But it will be early in 1971 before a decision is handed down on it.

Mr. Uskiw also said that a bill soon to appear before Parliament establishing national farm market boards could be the answer to the war. But it would be at least two years before it went into effect.

Passenger Losses Said CP Onus

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian Pacific Railway should be made to cover losses incurred in operation of its rail passenger service from the profits of its other business ventures and not with federal government handouts, the Canadian transport commission was told Monday.

W. H. Matthew, chairman of the Prairie Region Railway Union Council, told a one-day committee hearing the federal government should order CP Rail to operate its "vast empire as one empire, and losses from one section should be compensated from profits in other sections."

If this principle is not applied, "the CP empire should be returned to the people of Canada."

Mr. Matthew told the commission headed by J. W. Pickersgill, that profits from Canadian Pacific freight, express, airlines, steamships, hotels, real estate and mining should be taken into account before underwriting the company's passenger-service losses.

The commission is holding hearings on CP Rail's application to reduce the service of The Canadian to three times a week from daily levels and to increase passenger fares.

H. M. Paterson, president of the Winnipeg and District Labor Council, told the hearing "we subscribe to the principle that a percentage of the profits from other interests be used to cover any operation loss that may be incurred by the single operation passenger service by the CPR."

This means that we are totally opposed to the use of public monies being used to subsidize any Canadian railway operation."

The commission is to resume its hearings in Thunder Bay, Ont., Thursday.

Human Rights Dominate Constitution Hearing

Dennis Patterson, 21, second-year law student at Dalhousie University, told the committee that "women are repressed."

H. A. J. Wedderburn, president of the Nova Scotia Association for the Advancement of Coloured People, said that a federal human rights commission should be established.

Rev. Leger Comeau, executive secretary of the Francophone Federation of Nova Scotia, said that French-speaking residents of Nova Scotia want institutions established that will "guarantee their full development as bilingual citizens."

The hearings here launched the committee's five-day tour of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. The committee will hold a meeting at Acadia University in Wolfville, N.S., tonight.

Mr. Patterson said there is discrimination in advertising against women. Some advertising suggested women were to be "led around by the nose" by men.

Susan Mackasey, a first-year law student at Dalhousie University, said equal pay for women, day-care centres and abortion were her main concerns.

Senator Paul Yuzyk (PC—Manitoba) said women might get farther if they went about electing more women to Parliament. There is only one woman MP, Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver Kingsway).

Mr. Wedderburn said some human rights should be written into the constitution such as the right to equal opportunity in education, housing and employment.

A federal human rights commission—a tribunal—could be the place where violations would be dealt with.

Father Comeau said that close communications must be established within the two official language groups in Canada.

The Nova Scotia French-speaking community has been isolated up to now, he said. It would be assimilated by the English-speaking community unless it had federal support and continuing ties with Quebec and other French-speaking groups across Canada.

T. W. Somerville, associate professor of law at Dalhousie University, said that in the light of recent violence in Quebec, constitutional discussion is no longer academic but an "exercise in survival."

Legal Status for Unions Asked by Ontario Chamber

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Chamber of Commerce, in a brief to provincial Labor Minister Dalton Bales, expressed disappointment Monday that proposed amendments to the Ontario Labor Relations Act do not prohibit mass picketing, secondary boycotts and sympathetic strikes.

The chamber, representing 200 boards of trades and local chambers, also asked for an additional amendment that "trade unions be brought into conformity with the normal degree of responsibility required of other elements in the community by conferring upon them the legal status to sue or be sued in their own names."

The brief said the chamber finds that the terms for setting up industrial inquiry commissions go "beyond what we consider to be the intent of the section."

The amendment grants the minister authority to appoint such commissions to inquire into any industrial matter of dispute that he considers advisable. The chamber said it wants it spelled out that the authority would be used for protracted strikes.

The chamber objected to a section that allows an employee whose union is on lawful strike to apply in return to work during the first six months and that says the employer shall reinstate him.

The brief said the section infers that it is improper for an employer to try to operate his business during a strike regardless of how unreasonable union demands are.

It also says employees are not prohibited from seeking work elsewhere. It says there is no evidence this provision would cut down on the number or duration of strikes.

The brief says the chamber agrees with most of the other amendments.

Sea Life Amazes Researchers

HALIFAX (CP) — Scientists may be on the road to shattering the long-cherished belief that light and life are essential to the origins of new life.

"There is a process in the sea that can produce apparently organic particles, strictly chemically and without living organisms being pressed," reports Dr. R. J. Conover of the Marine Ecology Laboratory at the Bedford Institute of Oceanography.

"It's not supposed to happen but apparently it does," says Dr. L. M. Dickie, director of the laboratory.

The evidence was collected during the 1-month voyage of the oceanographic vessel Hudson which ended here last Friday. It is being studied by Dr. Gordon Riley, director of the Dalhousie University oceanographic institute, and his associates.

Proof that primary production of organic matter can occur chemically and in darkness would be almost as significant as the test-tube synthesis of life reported in the United States earlier this year.

Until now it has been thought that light and green plants were essential to produce new life by the process known as photosynthesis.

Scientists at Bedford, the Hudson's home base, have questioned this because one of the commonest methods of measuring the rate of photosynthesis at sea produces result difficult to explain.

The problem is that photosynthesis seems to occur at times in darkness, something that by all the accepted explanations of the origins of life should not happen.

The rewarding art of Self-Defence.

The secret is to work defensively.

Sharpen your self-defence—it pays off.

Talk safety. The neat man may save your life. So work as a team.

Use your ears. Self-defence means staying alert, in every way.

Protect your hands. Easy to injure, difficult to live without.

Keep on your toes. Falls hurt more people than any other job accident.

The reward. You name it. It's your life—enjoy it.

Canada's East Coast Maritime Force Maintains Round-the-Clock Vigil

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

SHEARWATER (Staff) — Maritime Command, with its headquarters across the harbor from Halifax, is not just ready to defend Canadian interests. It does defend them on a round - the - clock basis.

National sovereignty is on the line in this Canadian Forces' region, dispelling any thought our country might be what Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King referred to as "a firepront house".

Canada has become increasingly determined to protect its sovereignty and defence minister, Donald MacDonald states that a top priority for the immediate future is the replacement of Argus, Maritime Command's cumbersome long - range antisubmarine aircraft as one means of securing it.

Canada's four - engined Argus, built by Canadair of Montreal makes constant patrols of the North Atlantic out of bob CFB Greenwood and CFB Sommerside, backed up by trackers from Shearwater, guarding our rich Continental Shelf.

The Argus and Tracker, a de Havilard Toronto product, functioned well together, coordinating searches for unknown submarines lurking off our shores.

Evolution is catching up with the Argus and considerseder is being given to at least two new aircraft, one American and one British, for its eventual replacement.

But what about the Trackers? Do present conditions indicate That..it should be replaced too? Has it outlived its usefulness?

Officials at Maritime Command are quick to point out that their role is changing. Significantly, the Tracker has evolved to fulfill some of the more recent commitments undertaken by Command, particularly checks for fishing violations and pollution.

Although still committed to anti-submarine work, Trackers from VS 880 at Shearwater at CFB Shearwater kept close checks on the safety of marine ecology following the sinking of two oil tankers along Canada's east coast.

The planes have followed the course of oil slicks from both the tanker Whale, that threatened Prince Edward Island lobster beds after sinking on its way into Chatham HB and the Arrow that broke up near Chedeboucto Bay to menace Nova Scotia's spectacular coastline.

Luckily, the former shipwreck has only brought knidcal damage — primarily to the Magdalan Islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. However, the latter has caused the death of hundreds of seals along Sable Island.

According to Capt. A. G. Johnston, a former Hercules and Dakota pilot at CFB Trenton and now on Trackers at CFB Shearwater, the shore of Sable Island is damaged by the slick but because the sands there are constantly shifting the situation may right itself.

The successful navigation of the Northwest Passage by the massive American tanker, Manhattan, was in part due to the Trackers of VS 880 Squadron.

"Two of them did visual ice reconnaissance for the Manhattan," Cmdr. David Tate, commanding officer of the squadron, said, stressing that the ship's remarkable voyage would not have been possible without the assistance of Trackers and the Canadian icebreaker, John A. Macdonald.

Sovereignty flights are now being made to the Arctic by the two-engined Trackers and Shearwater crews are becoming increasingly familiar with such remote centres as Frobisher and Inuvik. New airstrips will be built in the far north to facilitate Canadian military presence there.

Protection of our northern mineral wealth, oil reserves and the strategic Northwest Passage itself are gaining new importance. The Tracker is becoming an element in that protection.

Access through the passage is access through Canadian waters, contrary to any claim that it is an international waterway.

Much of the Northwest Passage is a possible source of contention but at one point, at least, large ships must ply Canadian waters, according to one officer here who knows the passage. The Manhattan, he said, had to pass through the Prince of Wales Strait between Banks and Victoria Islands because the ice is heavy to the north of Banks Island and the waterway is too shallow south of Victoria Island.

Canada, then, has the right to control the passage and is increasingly moving to do so. Maritime Command is a significant contributor to our displays of sovereignty in the area. The Tracker has been one of the vehicles through which this is done.

Asked whether sovereignty flights were flag-waving excursions Cmdr. Dave Tate indicated that they were, but worthwhile ones, adding that "we have the biggest coastline in the world, the biggest continental shelf, and the best fishing grounds" — resources demanding national attention.

Not only are Trackers protecting fishing grounds on the east coast, three of the aircraft are now based on the Pacific shore of British Columbia for similar purposes, in part as a response to fishing violations by foreign ships in the last year.

Cmdr. Tate says the major concern of his squadron is still "combat readiness for ASW (Anti-Submarine Warfare), although increasingly a sovereignty role" is being assumed — an indicator of the viability of the tracker.

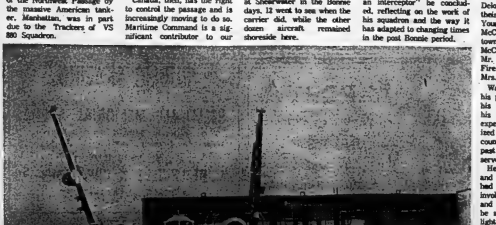
Squadron VS 880 revised its operations before the current shift to sovereignty protection duties, once in a dramatic way.

Trackers of the squadron were always co-ordinated with HMCS Bonaventure, Canada's only aircraft carrier now being time at Halifax waiting to be dragged off to oriental scrapyards.

In degrees — from intense to mild — the men of VS 880 Squadron miss the Bonnie and regret her destiny. Of 21 Trackers with the squadron at Shearwater in the Bonnie days, 12 went to sea when the carrier did, while the other dozen aircraft remained shoreside here.

Sentimentalism, as one might expect, is not at the bottom of the regret. "A lot of effectiveness has been lost with Bonnie, we lost mobility," Cmdr. Tate said.

Bonnie was demobilized under regrettable conditions. Marine Industries Limited of Sorel, PQ and its subcontractors conducted a refitting of the carrier at what some contend is outrageous expense and even then Bonnie had her problems.



Military men here still ponder Bonnie with full knowledge that she could still be an asset, affording them with what was, in fact, a mobile aerodrome. One senior officer, however, said that what disturbs him most is the possibility that the alleged "fix" once reflects against the forces, when the refit was not a military matter at all".

There are no longer 24 Trackers with VS 880. Six have been mothballed because of the defence budget freeze.

Change has come through necessity at Shearwater. Squadron VS 880 still patrols our east coast for unidentified submarines with its Trackers, although the marriage to Bonnie is over.

Cmdr. Tate, however, is proud of his Trackers and their ASW expertise displayed, at times under less than ideal conditions. Furthermore, there is the plane's proven versatility, its adaption to important new sovereignty roles.

"The only thing Tracker, is not capable of doing is being an interceptor" he concluded, reflecting on the work of his squadron and the way it has adapted to changing times in the post Bonnie period.

Tracker Unfolds Wings for Flight

'Female Rubenstein' Delights Audience

By EUGENE LANG

In artistic endeavour fruition coupled with experience should (but not always) culminate in a full blossoming of the philosophic and recreative personality of the artist. It this be true, then that statement was never more fully realised that it was last evening in the second appearance in Belleville of Madame Alice Van Benzon, remembered acclaimed pianist, who appeared in recital in Centennial Secondary School after nearly two years absence from our area.

Having a long and valued career behind her in the field of pianoism, the sensational septuagenarian once again elicited amazement from her audience as to her prowess and profundity at the keyboard. The round - table discussing mentioned above — in presentation and perceptivity.

The program delved into three styles of piano playing in those of Beethoven, Chopin and the late 19th and early 20th century French composers. One of Beethoven's noblest sonatas, the Op. 57 in F Minor (Appassionata) was a traversed with breadth of manner and insight into its virtuest emotional conflicts. And yet, considerable was inherent in the second movement's respite from the tempestuous outbursts of the outer sections. Madame Van Benzonen's reading declaimed power and heroism in a masterly performance that subjugated technique to message. This is the Beethoven approach to this Sonata and here Chopin as the artist for her appraisal of its meaning. One thing noticeable — the second diminished several shades before the finale, the authenticity of her playing of this is doubtful, as the composer was very specific about the playing of this.

Seven selections by the Romantic Pole made up the balance of the first half of the recital, The sombre, yet reckless Scherzo in B Minor Op. 20 was brilliant in rendition. The F Major Nocturne Op. 15, No. 1 was an etching in clarity, Perhaps the finest of the Waltzes, that in A Flat Major Op. 42 was revealed in a coquettish whirl that buzzed to a thrilling climax. The G Flat Major Impromptu, Op. 51, though not the best known of the four, is a difficult work that few pianists play, but, once again our soloist blended intensity, though reminiscing at times. The poignant Waltz in A Flat Op. 69, No. 1 was bathed in tenderness but erupted too forcibly in the middle section. That epitome of all Cradle Songs (barring Brahms' Op. 117, No. 1) the Berceuse Op. 57 was clothed in tranquility, although lessened in its last few thirds. Concluding the Chopin opus, Madame Van Benzon gave us a sizzling serving of the Etude Op. 25, No. 11 in A Minor. This endurance foray found the recitalist in top form with virtuosity apparent. Which was inherent in the burst of applause that broke from the audience at the conclusion of the etude.

Music by masters of her adopted power and heroism is made up the closing portion of the program. Chabrier's music was the piece de resistance popular with recitalists these days, but in the two selections that Madame Van Benzen played we only wish there were more of it was programmed. The charming Melancolie was endowed with moving endearments and its counterbalance, the Scherzo-Valse was given over to a breezy bounce in sprightly vein. Pianistic quagmires exist in both of these pieces for any performer, but our artist capably avoided their technical pitfalls. Gabriel Faure's Second was brilliantly satisfying in its semi-Austrian measures with a robustness belying the sex and years of the pianist.

Maurice Ravel was represented by his melancholy Oiseaux Tristes, here drawn musically with subtle tracings of tonal tapestry. The Alborada del Gracioso, one of five impressionistic pictures from an early piano Suite, is a blend of Spanish rythms and French irony loaded with thorny technical problems. Alice Van Benzenton brought a most satisfying recital to its end with a splash of keyboard color that gave rise to a standing ovation from her delighted listeners. One encore, to show all that she was not exhausted after the demanding program, was to ice the cake with Chopin's tricky Black Key Etude (yes, all the notes in the right hand are played on the black keys only) in dazzling bravura.

A lifetime of experience has never reached such fruition in the blossoming that we spoke of earlier and it was fully appreciated by all who heard this grande dame who has reached out a golden harvest of superlative vintage. I don't hesitate to call her the female Rubinstein.

The co-sponsors, Quinte Arts Council and Beta Sigma Phi Sorority again are to be complimented in their foresight in bringing Alice Van Benzenton back to Belleville.

Warden Is Honored At Marmora Dinner

MARMORA (Special) — The first county warden from Marmora and Lake Township, Warden Alex Wilkes, was honored Friday evening at a testimonial dinner at Marble Point Lodge, given by fellow members of the Township Council.

Head table guests introduced by clerk - treasurer, Tom Bateman, were Warden Wilkes, MPP and Mrs. Rollins, Carl Bateman, clerk - treasurer of Hastings County, and Mrs. Bateman; Warden and Mrs. Wilkes, son John Wilkes, and sister, Mrs. Pearl Chrysler.

Other guests welcomed by Mr. Bateman included Warden Wilkes' brother, Earel and his wife; Rev. Father T. G. Carolan; Deputy Warden Shannon of Marmora, councillors and their wives; Miss Miriam Savage, clerk - treasurer; Deloro Reeve Charles Gordanier and Mrs. Gordanier, Deloro Village councillors and their wives, clerk Mrs. Bruce Young and Mrs. Young, Reeve of McCoy, past reeve of the township council, and Mrs. McCoy, Mrs. Alex Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Leonard, Fire Chief Cecil Neal and Mrs. Neal.

Warden Wilkes expressed his pleasure that so many of his friends were present in his honor, and recalled his experiences and projects realized since he first became a councillor 26 years ago, the best test of which he his served as reeve.

He said it was Mr. McCoy and late John Bell who had had influenced him to become involved in municipal affairs, and the last year as warden, he said, had been the highlight of his political life in this municipality.

Clarke Rollins stated that it had been a pleasure working with Mr. Wilkes as reeve and as warden, and it was gratifying to see the municipality and Marmora and Deloro here in unity on this occasion.

Carl Bateman said that the people of this community must feel very proud of the fact that two of their political leaders had risen to the understudy, the highest honor that anyone can receive in his own county. Warden Wilkes, he said, had displayed leadership, ability and initiative.

Both Warden Wilkes and past warden Shannon have, for some years, been prominent in the County Planning Board, and they have been appointed chairman and vice-chairman. He extended congratulations to Warden Wilkes, and on behalf of Lee Wills, MP, and Mrs.

Speaking on behalf of the citizens of Marmora, Reeve Gordanier presented Warden Wilkes on his big year. Joining in congratulations were Reeve Corlainer and Irwin McCoy.

Presentation of red roses to Mrs. Wilkes was made by Mrs. Tom Deville, and a gift of an installed attache case by Dermont Bedore on behalf of the Township Council.

In expressing his appreciation, Warden Wilkes also thanked Deputy Shannon and his council for their help and co-operation and Mrs. Mabel Crawley for her work in the township council.

A vote of thanks was extended to Dan Bateman and staff for the bounteous meal by councillor Gordon Jones.

LORD-C, Folder To Promote Area

Travel shows in Canada and the United States with the launch of the path of the royal progress of LORD-C, endowed with all his riches, sword, crown and regalia.

The royal personage will be encouraging people to visit his realm — the Lake Ontario Regional Development area.

Seven tourist areas, including the Highlands of Hastings, Quinte's Isle and the Land of Lakes, will be among the regions to be promoted by LORD-C in his appearances.

The directors of LORD-C have approved publication of 50,000 copies of a full color regional tourist brochure and map to be distributed in Canada and the United States.

The folder, containing the color, and advertising the seven holiday areas in this part of Ontario, will contain information on all forms of recreation facilities — boating on the Trent Canal, points of interest and a, detailed highway map of the region.

Coupons for the seekers of information to be returned to the offices of the Lake Ontario Regional Development Council will be incorporated in the folder.

Santa's Parade Name Changed

The entire Quinte district will be asked to join full force in supporting an annual event which attracts thousands to Belleville.

Enthusiastic support was given to parade committee chairman Stu Meeks' request that the parade be renamed to encompass the participation of Quinte residents.

With increased stress on area activities, the renaming was considered appropriate in light of increasing support of the Quinte Exhibition since its change of name in 1968.

Following approval of the change in name, approval was given to approaching local municipal and township councils for their assistance, financial or otherwise.

Seminar Slated For Peterborough

The Ontario Department of Trade and Development will hold another production improvement seminar this year for businessmen and industry in Central Ontario.

Last year the seminar was held in Belleville, while this year's two-day event will be held at the Holiday Inn in Peterborough on October 27 and 28. Belleville industrialists and businessmen are invited to attend.

Design and marketing experts from industry and from the University of Toronto will lead the discussions at the Peterborough seminar. The program includes a working clinic and individual consultations.

Panel chairman T. Robert Harvey, Industrial Development Branch of the Department of Trade, and Development, said today that although pre-registration for the seminar was preferred, registration at the door could be made.

Esposito Best Bet To Join NHL 500 Club

MONTREAL (CP) — Centre Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins, who two seasons ago set the existing record for points in a National Hockey League season with 126, today is the league's individual scoring leader following a nine-point splurge in two of his club's games last week.

He now has a total of 19 points, five goals and five assists, as the Bruins remain undefeated after four games.

Esposito's career total stands at 498 points, including 304 goals and 227 assists in 463 regular-season games. This is an average of 1.065 points a game, and makes him a likely candidate as the next NHL player to reach the 500-point plateau.

Of the players who have scored more than 500 points, only four have an average of more than one point per game —Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks, 1.108; Bobby Hull, Chicago, 1.095; Jean Beliveau, Montreal Canadiens, 1.083; and Gordie Howe, Detroit Red Wings, 1.062.

Esposito, who last season finished second in the scoring race with 99 points, including a league-leading 63 goals, 21 fewer than scoring champion and team-mate Bobby Orr, holds a two-point lead over four players in the early going this season.

Boston's right wingers Ken

PHIL ESPOSITO

Hodge and John McKenzie, Beliveau and Chicago's Pit Martin are the foursome. Martin and Beliveau share the lead in assists with seven each.

Red Berenson of St. Louis Blues and Yvan Cournoyer of Montreal are goal-scoring leaders with six each, four of Cournoyer's being scored on power plays.

Goalie Ed Giacomin of New York Rangers, who started wearing a face mask for the first time this season, leads league goaltenders with two shutouts and has a sparkling 0.88 goals-against average.

Giacomin has allowed only two goals in three games, excluding one empty-net goal scored against Rangers with the goalie on the bench in favor of an extra attacker.

Laycoe Has Hopes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver's new Canucks are starting slowly in the National Hockey League, but coach Hal Laycoe is hoping the picture will brighten.

"If we can keep up the same effort and the same attitude, the wins will come," said the former Montreal Canadien defenceman after Canucks' 5-3 loss Sunday to the Stanley Cup champion Boston Bruins.

But Laycoe's optimism was tempered with the knowledge that one game doesn't make a season.

"We're still making our passes the way we would in the American or Western leagues. They're fine there, but in the NHL the tempo is so much faster, the reach that much farther and the anticipation that

Tonight the Canucks have an opportunity to put that philosophy to work when they entertain California Golden Seals in the only game scheduled.

Four games are on tap Wednesday with Minnesota North Stars in Montreal against the Canadiens, Toronto Maple Leafs visiting New York Rangers, Pittsburgh Penguins at Los Angeles Kings and Oakland at home to St. Louis Blues.

The Canucks, winners of one of six starts, are last in the NHL's East Division with Toronto, each with two points.

In NHL developments Monday, St. Louis Blues acquired veteran winger Bill Sutherland from Buffalo Sabres while the Canadiens sent centre Bobby Sheehan to their Montreal Junior League farm club, Montreal Voyageurs.

Sheehan, Boston-born, was to join the Voyageurs' for their scheduled game against Cleveland Barons at Hartford, Conn., where he played his first junior hockey in Canada.

Rangers' Emile Francis, who doubles as general manager and coach, has been happy with his club's performance to date although they are third in the East.

The New York defensive record has Francis beaming, especially after two weekend victories over Toronto and Montreal.

In four games, the New Yorkers have given up only five goals, a 1.25 average, and registered two shutouts—both by veteran Ed Giacomin.

One department in which the Rangers have excelled, said Francis, himself a former NHL goalie, is in the role of penalty killers. New York has been scored on only once in 20 occasions they've been shorthanded.

Scoring by Rounds in Clay Fight

ATLANTA (AP) — The New York state system of scoring by rounds will be used for the 15-round fight between former heavyweight champion Mohammad Ali and Jerry Quarry here next Monday night.

Both fighters agreed Monday to that scoring system, using the 10-point must provision only in the event of a draw.

Still to be determined, however, is whether championship rules allowing unlimited knockdowns will be used or whether the fight will be stopped in the event of three knockdowns in one round.

Scoring in the bout, Ali's first in more than three years, will be by the referee and two judges, none of whom will be announced until the night of the fight.

Rules governing the fight are being reached by agreement of both camps, because Georgia has no state boxing commission. Ali, who won the heavyweight title as Cassius Clay, and Quarry, current No. 1 heavyweight contender and one of the game's best body punchers, took a day off from training Monday.

The fighters resume work today and will taper off toward week's end.

Frazier, Foster Share Twin-Bill

NEW YORK (AP) — A televised heavyweight boxing doubleheader featuring the championship match between Joe Frazier and Bob Foster was announced Monday by Harry Markson director of boxing for Madison Square Garden.

Frazier will defend his title against light-heavyweight champ Foster at Detroit's Cobo Hall Wednesday Nov. 18. On the same night, the Garden will feature a heavyweight bout between two top contenders unbeaten George Foreman and Bonne Kirkman.

Under a reciprocal agreement arranged through TNT Communications, the Kirkman-Foreman fight will be shown on closed-circuit TV in Cobo Hall before the Frazier-Foster bout. Similarly, the championship fight will be beamed back to New York and will be shown as a follow-up at the Garden to the live bout between Kirkman and Foreman.

The televised doubleheader will also be shown in theatres throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico and South America.

Stampeders Doubly Proud of Harris

WAYNE HARRIS

MONTREAL (CP) — A pair of Western Football Conference players—linebacker Wayne Harris of Calgary Stampeders and tackle Bill Frank of Winnipeg Blue Bombers—were nominated Monday night for possible double honors in the annual Canadian football awards.

Harris and Frank were among 25 players chosen to fill the three categories of outstanding football player, Canadian player-of-the-year and lineman of the year. Each of the nine Canadian Football League teams has nominees in the three categories.

They received nominations in the outstanding player and lineman categories as selected by football writers and sportscaster from their home teams in the nine CFL cities.

Harris previously won the Schenley Award as lineman-of-the-year in 1965 and 1966.

The Lions Ken Sugarman, nominated as lineman-of-the-year this season, was selected for the same award on the first ballot in 1963.

Running back Jim Evenson, runner-up to George Reed of Saskatchewan as the West's outstanding player last year, is B.C. Lions nominee again this year. Jim Young, who was the West's choice as top Canadian and ran second to now-retired Russ Jackson of Ottawa Rough Riders in the final poll will get another shot at that award.

Both offensive end Tommy Joe Coffey and offensive guard Bill Dzyschak of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference, were nominated again this season in the same categories they held in the early 1960 balloting, outstanding player and Canadian player respectively.

The results of the second ballot will be known Nov. 3. The second poll will reduce the number of players in the running to six from 27. Nominees will select three players from the WFC and three from the EFC on the second ballot

Coffey Catching 'Prince Hal'

TORONTO (CP) — Tommy Joe Coffey, Hamilton Tiger-Cats' man of many records, is within 81 yards of Hal Patterson's career mark of 9,473 yards gained pass receiving.

Statistics issued Monday by the Canadian Football League show that Coffey already holds the record for most passes caught with 591 and is the all-time scoring leader with 828 points.

He needs only eight more points in his two remaining games to pass the 100-point mark for the fourth time in his four seasons with Hamilton.

Larry Robinson of Calgary Stampeders has tied Don Sutherin's career record for most field goals with 114 and is one behind the 270 converts set by Sutherin.

Jim Sillye of Calgary can set a single-season record for most punts returned by fielding four more in his two remaining games. He has 109 so far this season — the record of 112 was set by team-mate Rudy Linterman in 1966.

Joe Hernandez of Edmonton Eskimos has moved into third place in career kickoff returns, behind Leo Lewis and Harvey Wylie and is the leader among active players.

In six seasons, Hernandez has run back 110 kickoffs for 3,233 yards for an average of 29.9 yards per run. He has yet to score his first touchdown off a kickoff runback.

HUGH McKINNIS

Calgary Rookie in Select Rushing Company

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Football League player with the best chance of piling up 1,000 yards rushing this season is a rookie—Hugh McKinnis, halfback with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Conference.

Right behind him is Jim Evenson of British Columbia Lions with 876 yards. Evenson was a rookie when he went over 1,000 yards in 1963, a feat he repeated last year.

Bill Symons of Toronto Argonauts and his team mate, Dave Rainey, also could make it with 845 and 789 yards respectively.

Dennis Duncan of Montreal Alouettes, with 763 yards, also has a shot at 1,000 yards.

A rookie who went over 1,000 yards in records go back only to 1954 but it was another rookie who was the only man to surpass 1,000 yards that year — Howie Waugh, with Calgary out of Tulsa.

A resolution we were glad to see soundly defeated at the weekend' Ontario Minor Hockey Association convention in Toronto was one extending novice playoffs to an all-Ontario level.

The hue and cry about over-organized minor sports is not merely a reactionary "in-the-good-old-days-we-played-shinny-on-the-ponds" song and dance.

Social psychologists tell us that too much organization of a child's activities could prove harmful.

But here we are fostering minor sport programs in which children often are under more strain and pressure than a lot of professionals.

The pressure comes from adults who are using the children to act out their own frustrated illusions of athletic grandeur, so parents who want their Johnny to be a better stick-handler than somebody else's.

Hockey is a great game for young boys. It teaches them fellowship, teamwork, and all these other words which cut up the bulk of the OMHA's advertising budget.

Yet it doesn't seem right that a boy playing all-star novice hockey, for example, should give up every weekend from October to March for a felt OMHA arrest.

This city's novice all-star team played 45 hockey games last year. The fact that they won 43 of them is a credit to their coach. The fact that they played so much is not a credit.

The average National Hockey League mercenary has 30 outings a year. But he's collecting somewhat more than french fries and Fresca after each game.

Local men's hockey leagues operate with decent-game schedules, one of the simple reasons being most participants have more to do than chase a little black disc around every waking hour.

We know parents who have taken their children out of all-star hockey to let them have a more leisurely house league time once weekly. We know others who are considering doing the same.

Minor hockey president Tom Cavanagh indicated this week that all-star coaches would have to have their proposed winter's literary approved by the seven-member BMHA executive this season.

Tournaments are a good thing, Cavanagh concedes, but it's a bit much when parents pick up their Monday paper to learn Junior was in Raisy River Friday night, Leamington Saturday, and back in Napanee Sunday afternoon for his league game.

It's harder to argue the case when you're talking about midget or older-age boys.

If they don't feel like playing hockey every weekend, they just won't.

The younger fry are in a different position. When mummy and daddy say "You're going to play hockey this weekend," that carries just as much weight for a novice, tyke or peewee as "finish your spinach" or "wash behind your ears."

The hyper-organizational syndrome isn't as serious in centres like this as it is in Toronto.

We saw one novice team play in a tournament here last year that was better outfitted than the Canadian National Team.

They had their own equipment bags in team colors, and a trainer to carry them into the arenas. The trainer also scurried about the player's box during the game with a ready supply of cool towels slung over his arm.

Then we hear tales of Metro kids wearing "Tacks," and parents being given colored television sets for placing their promising youngster on certain teams.

Things came to a head last winter when a scandal broke out about big-time hockey operations at, of all things, the Quebec Winter Carnival Peewee Tournament.

Sooner or later, the kids are going to start believing that this big-league approach is as important as their parents lead them to believe.

They'll start hitting up Dad for custom-made Nerkalead Arena ice bucks a shot; next will come autograph-signing sessions for all the kids in the apartment block.

But I'll tell you this: the day my ten-year-old of mine orders a pre-game T-bone will be the day he starts eating standing up.

Mo-Hawks Cut Quebec Pair, Down to 19

Entering the third week of their 40 - game OHA Senior A schedule, the Mo-Hawks have signed 21 of 25 players' cards they are permitted for the season.

Two of those not tossed out last night when Jones cut Val D'Or tryouts Serge Fournier and Gaetan Huggins from the roster. The lightweight forwards were given a shot in the weekend home-and-home series with Galt, but failed to convince Jones they could take senior hockey punishment.

"I'd like to carry 18," Jones informed. "Eleven forwards, five defencemen, and two goalies."

After Jan. 10, senior clubs are permitted to carry 21 players, including two goalkeepers.

A goaltending prospect was expected to attend tonight's 7 p.m. Memorial Arena practice, one of three being held this week in preparation for this weekend's two tackings of powerful Orillia Terriers.

The new face played in the Western Ontario Junior league last season, and worked out with an Eastern League team this fall.

Ready Or Not!

The Golden Hawks, who lost their only two exhibition games 6-4 and 9-7 to Belleville, open their 30 - game Eastern Ontario 'B' schedule tonight in Kingston against the defending group champion Frontenacs.

The Hawks actually did record one pre - season win, a 6-2 scrimmage victory Sunday over the new Loyalist College Lancers.

The Lancers will be providing Belleville Fairways with their fifth exhibition outing Wednesday night in a 9.15 Memorial Arena game.

Coach J Floyd Crawford's Fairways, who don't open their schedule until Sunday with a visit from Oshawa Crushmen, have only lost one exhibition, a 4-3 setback in Kingston. They reiterated themselves somewhat Sunday night by tying the Frontenacs 5-5 in Belleville.

"We've got a bunch of Bobby Orr's out there," chuckled Crawford. "All our defencemen want to rush the puck." "That's not a bad thing, but they can't be getting caught up ice."

Loyalist's lineup features such familiar faces as Randy Castelerio, a hard - hitting defencemen with last year's Trenton Golden Hawks; Al 'Bugs' Jarbeau, a hard-working winger who was with the Belleville B's during last winter; and Gary Goyer, who boasts plenty of intermediate hockey experience in the area.

The Lancers open a 12 - game Ontario College Athletic Association schedule Nov. 14 at home to Mohawk College. All Loyalist home games will be Saturday nights in the Memorial Arena.

Don't let your protection run out on you.

It doesn't make sense to put anti-freeze into your radiator if a tiny, unnoticed leak in your cooling system lets it all run out. Or if it allows rust and corrosion inside to cause as much (or more) damage than the frigid temperatures outside could ever do.

So what we've done is develop a new "Prestone" Anti-Freeze formula that will protect your car down to 90° below zero. You'll never need that strong a concentration, of course. But still, it's comforting to know that the protection is there if you want it.

What's more, if a minor leak develops in your cooling system, the new "Prestone" anti-leak formula will also seal it completely. In seconds.

And with "Prestone" Anti-Freeze, don't worry about additional rust and corrosion building up in your cooling system. It simply can't happen. In fact, the new "Prestone" anti-leak, anti-rust, anti-corrosion formula is so effective, we put our Union Carbide guarantee right on the can. So this winter, get real "Prestone" Anti-Leak Anti-Freeze. Then you'll be sure your protection won't run out on you.

Available at most Supermarkets, Discount and Department Stores

WATCH YOUR HANDS AT ADDRESS

The position of your hands at address has a great deal to do with how you will hit the shot. Correct positioning also depends on your quickness, or agility in the hands and wrists, in the impact zone.

For the normal drive, I position my hands directly over the ball. My hand action is agile, however. Those who feel they are not as quick as others would benefit if they would position their hands ahead of the ball. Younger persons, extremely quick, may position their hands an inch or so behind the ball.

The aim is to lead the clubhead into the ball with your hands. Practice until you can determine your ideal hand position at address.

Deputy-sheriff on the Lam Three Days A Week

PRESTON, Ont. (CP) — Anyone who has just joined the ranks of the joggers and finds a rattle or two a day a tiresome task might find some inspiration in Robert (Scotty) Rankine's progress.

Rankine, now 60, still finds time for three or four runs a week and on a good day, will do seven or eight miles.

A world-class competitor who ran in both the 1932 and 1936 Olympic Games, the grey-haired Glasgow, Scotland, native has always kept himself fit.

"If I'm going to die," he said after a recent workout, "I'd rather do it out here than lying sick in bed."

A deputy-sheriff of Waterloo County for the last 18 years, Rankine usually takes afternoons off for his runs through a local park, varying the distance according to how he feels.

"When I get tired, I walk. Sometimes though you feel as if you've got wings on. You just run and run and run."

Small but compact at five feet, 6¼ inches and 142 pounds, Rankine started running in the fall of 1930.

He was a long-distance swimmer when the local Baptist minister asked him if he would like to join the church's track club to improve his endurance.

"I didn't really think it would help that much but I joined anyway. I seemed to do quite well at it. I finished third in a 10-mile race in Hamilton, New Year's Day, 1931, and won a few more in the spring. By that time I was hooked."

In 1932 he won the Canadian 5,000-metre championship to qualify for the Olympic Games.

"I did it in 15 minutes, 21 seconds. I'm not sure, I think the record was 15:03 or thereabouts."

In the Games at Los Angeles, however, Rankine finished 10th in a field of 14 with Lauri Lehtinen, the great Finnish runner, winning the gold medal.

Rankine fared much better at the British Empire Games at London's White City Stadium in 1934, coming fourth in the three-mile and second in the six-mile.

"I was just under 31 minutes in the six-mile. I was beaten by a step."

He failed to finish the 10,000-metre race in the 1936 Olympics at Berlin, the year Jesse Owens of the United States swept four gold medals, but picked up two medals at the British Empire Games two years later in Sydney, Australia. He again finished second in the six-mile and placed third in the three-mile.

But Rankine still looks back to 1935 as his best year. He started in 19 races, won 15, placed second in three and third in the other.

"I had competed with a hernia all that summer. That fall I entered Kitchener-Waterloo Hospital for an operation. I was convalescing, when one day the doctor walked in with a paper. He told me I was a celebrity. I had just been voted athlete-of-the-year in Canada.

"I didn't even realize I was up for the award. Apparently, it was pretty close between me and Frankie Hansen, the old Winnipeg Blue Bomber football star. I have to consider that honor the highlight of my career."

He also won the amateur athlete-of-the-year award in 1937 but the 1935 honor meant much more since professionals had also been included in that year's voting.

Among Rankine's other long-ago activities are swimming, skiing, golf and cutting the lawn with a hand-mower. He scoffs at modern conveniences such as power mowers that prevent physical exercise.

"What we need is more jogging clubs. People don't have to spend a lot of money. . . . All they have to do is get out and do things themselves."

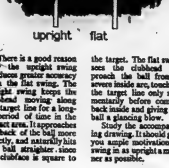
Houk Named Top Manager For Revival

RALPH HOUK

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Houk, who led New York Yankees out of five years of baseball oblivion this season, was named American League manager of the year Monday by The Associated Press.

Houk received 118 votes from U.S. sports writers and broadcasters. Earl Weaver, who guided Baltimore Orioles to a World Series triumph over Cincinnati Reds, drew 73.

Balloting was based on the regular season.



Bill Rigney, whose West Division champion Minnesota Twins were swept by Baltimore in the pennant playoffs, was third with 59 and Lefty Phillips of the West's runnerup California Angels was fourth with 32.

Dave Bristol of Milwaukee got three votes and Ted Williams of Washington Senators, who won the honor last year, received two.

"SWING UPRIGHT FOR ACCURACY

There is a good reason why the upright swing produces greater accuracy than the flat swing. The upright swing keeps the clubhead moving along the target line for a longer period of time in the impact area. It approaches the back of the ball more directly, and saturdays hits the ball straighter since the clubface is square to the target. The flat swing sees the clubhead approach the ball from a severe inside arc, leaving the target line only momentarily before coming back inside and giving the ball a glancing blow.

Study the accompanying drawing. It should give you ample motivation to swing in an upright manner as possible.

Raiders' Lamonica Riddles Redskin Defences

The thing that worries me now is that no one has won a Monday night game and won the following Sunday," coach John Madden of Oakland said later.

The Raiders will try to stop the jinx next Sunday against Pittsburgh Steelers. Cleveland, Kansas City, Detroit and Green Bay all lost following their Monday night victories.

The Raiders, who were 12-1-1 last year in the final season of the American Football League started the season with losses to, Cincinnati and Miami and a tie with San Diego.

Monday night's game was the first regular season test for the Raiders against one of the old NFL clubs. Dixon's 194 yards rushing and Lamonica's three touchdown passes made it a great show for the sellout crowd of 54,471.

Lamonica threw the first of two touchdown passes to Warren Wells shortly after and riddled the Redskins' secondary for 222 yards in the game.

Sonny Jurgensen of the Redskins matched Lamonica's passing yardage and threw touchdown passes to Charley Taylor and Jerry Smith. But Redskins runners netted just 77 yards.

Headline Deals Anticipated Between Leagues

NEW WYORK (AP) — Baseball's inter-league trading period, suspended by more than a month this year, begins today with the promise of vigorous activity through the Dec. 15 deadline.

Major League owners have moved up the opening date for trading between the American and National Leagues from Nov. 21 to the fifth day following the end of the World Series.

Judging from the hints baseball dealings that took place before and during the Series, there will be several more headline transactions from today through the annual winter meetings at Los Angeles in December.

Richie Allen, Denny McLain and Tony Conigliaro moved to new clubs and Curt Flood popped back into the spotlight within a week as the traders made the most of their opportunities to negotiate.

The next big name could be Frank Robinson who, at 35, might be deemed expendable by the world champion Baltimore Orioles despite his vital contribution to their second Series win in five years.

There have been reports that the Orioles, six-deep in outfield talent, would be willing to part with Robinson in return for a solid starting pitcher.

Others involved in trade speculation include Pittsburgh's Manny Sanguillen, Atlanta's Orlando Cepeda, Philadelphia's Tim McCarver, San Francisco's Jim Hay Hart and Milwaukee's Danny Walton.

Sport Briefs

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — South African newcomer Manfred Preppel shot a world record-matching 398 Monday to win the English match rifle competition in the 40th World Shooting Championships. Klaus Zahringer of West Germany picked up the silver medal with a 397. Poland's Andrzeij Koput shot an identical 397 but was shoved into third on the basis of a lower score on his last 10 targets. The four-man Italian team won a gold medal with 2,368. It was followed by the Romanians with 2,367 and the Yugoslavians with 2,366. Canada's best showing was Felice Trachman's 363 in the women's prone rifle event. The score was good for 39th place.

Mrs. Phipps was a familiar sight to racings fans at New York thoroughbred tracks for more than four decades. She was a pioneer among women owner-breeders, and her Wheatley Stable became famous. Her Bold Ruler won 23 of 33 races, earned $764,204 and Horse of the Year honors in 1957.

Namath X-Ray Reveals Break

Namath, who throws with his right hand, was expected to have the hand put in a cast after the swelling goes down. A

JOE NAMATH

Despite his bad knees which have both been operated on in the past, the colorful and controversial quarterback has never missed a regular-season game with the Jets because of injury since he joined them in 1965. He sat out his first game with them that year as a rookie.

The x-rays showed a fracture of the small bone at the base of the thumb. Namath suffered it five plays from the end of the 23-22 loss when he threw an incomplete pass and was pressured by lineman Billy Ray Smith and twisted while falling to the ground.

Howard, 34, of nearby De Pere, was taken to the hospital early Monday for what was described as an emergency operation. Officials said his Monday he had been removed from the intensive care ward and was out of danger.

West German Riders Lead

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — West Germany, bidding once again for world equestrian supremacy, increased its lead over the United States and Canada Monday night at the international jumping at the Pennsylvania National Horseshow.

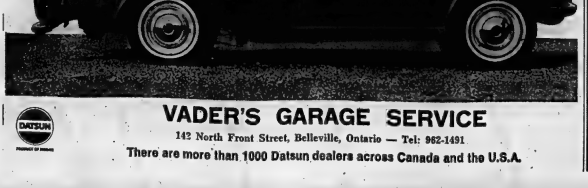
In the jumpoff, Wiptang knocked down one barrier and Dunlap's horse hit a pair. Hans Gunter Winkler, riding Termina, finished third.



West Germany now leads in the team standings with 30 points. The U.S. and Canada each have six.

Datsun 1600 Pickup

For around half the price of an ordinary truck, you get a truck that will get 6p to thirty miles to the gallon, cruise at 70, and carry a ton of anything. Even elephants.

For around half the price of an ordinary truck, you get a 98 horse overhead camshaft engine, 6 ft. steel box, 4-speed all synchro shift, heavy duty suspension, dual brake system and whitewalls.

A Datsun truck is built for 100,000 mile reliability. So it will go a long way and do a lot of work without causing a lot of trouble, without costing a lot of money.

The Datsun 1600 truck is all the truck you need for half the price you've been paying — which is one reason why it's North America's best-selling imported pickup.

The more-for-your-money truck.

Sydney J. Harris Says

No Future in Reefers

For the last few months, rumors have been slithering around that American tobacco companies have leased large tracts of land in Mexico and elsewhere, for the possible production of marijuana if the grass is legalized in the U.S. within the foreseeable future.

These rumors finally became so widespread that an official spokesman for the tobacco industry felt forced to deny them publicly. I believe him, for a number of reasons, possibly the most important being the economic one.

From what one can gather, marijuana smoking, unlike cigarettes, is not the kind of thing you do all day long. A couple of joints a day seems to satisfy most pot smokers; any more would simply make a person sick, and there is no reason to smoke them as fast and furiously as we cigarette addicts puff on our tobacco tubes.

Thus, the market for marijuana, even if it were legalized, would be unprofitably small, compared with the billions of cigarettes consumed annually. Moreover, unlike tobacco, almost anyone can grow it, and the price would be so cheap that it would scarcely pay the tobacco companies to convert their immense producing resources to this grass.

Speaking of marijuana reminds me of a discrepancy in the whole pot culture that its proponents have never, to my knowledge, been able to answer effectively.

According to medical friends of mine (I have never tried pot personally), the chief consequence of smoking grass is a sense of detachment, of being wholly wrapped up in oneself and uncaring about what goes on in the outside world.

Yet, the big social slogan of the pot-heads is "togetherness." They value such traits as co-operation, communion, and everything else that goes along with communal living. These, indeed, are admirable traits, but it seems to me that marijuana is a rejection of this very creed.

What the world needs, in truth, is a subtler and deeper sense of participation in other people's lives. Bourgeois man is already too much detachment and from his fellows in some serious ways — but the cult of pot only widens this gap, turning its users into self-serving sensory organisms, a state that has extending social responsibility.

If you are going to rebel in, in many respects, a bad against a bad society (and ours one), you had better be sure that what you are rebelling into is a higher form of living, not simply a retrogression from one form of alienation to another.

Your Car
Reader Confused by Options Offered

By RAY STAPLEY
A reader writes:

"I am about to buy an American-made, standard - sized car. I have decided on a General Motors product, but am quite confused by the many options offered.

"Which ones are worth having from a safety and comfort point of view? Would you suggest standard or automatic transmission? Also, we go camping and frequently haul a 500-pound trailer. Would a six-cylinder engine have enough power to pull the trailer without losing too much speed?"— Mr. G. D., Oshawa, Ont.

Where heavy loads are involved a V-8 engine is likely to give longer service and the additional horsepower can pull you out of a tight spot when passing on the highway. On the other hand, where a vehicle is driven mostly in the city on stop-and-go runs, a six-cylinder engine is satisfactory and more economical. As well people who plan on doing their own light repairs will find that the smaller engines are much easier to work on.

For the average driver at least with intermediate or full-sized domestic cars, I recommend an automatic transmission. Under severe driving conditions, and with proper maintenance, they can give years of trouble-free service. The smooth get - away and disturbing gear-shifting involves less strain on the engine and all other parts that transmit the power to the rear wheels. With the exception of some sports models, most of the money invested in an automatic comes back to you in additional trade-in allowance when dealing the car.

With a standard stick if gear-shifting is poorly handled the gears may be damaged — resulting in expensive repairs. When available as options, overnize or premium tires offer increased tread life, and handling and ride qualities are improved.

Power steering is a boon on heavier cars — almost a must for the ladies when pulling in and out of tight parking quarters. However it is hardly necessary on light cars which can make steering so effortless you may tend to overdrive, especially on the highway during strong wind turbulence.

For heavy and intermediate-sized models, power brakes are well worth the extra money. But for compacts, they are not really necessary. They can be too sensitive, and the slightest brake-pedal pressure may lock the wheels on slippery roads — resulting in loss of steering control.

Disc brakes are an advantage on any vehicle, but they are an outstanding safety feature on heavy high-powered models. I strongly recommend them where excessive speeds are involved.

Though few people seem to know of its existence, there is an optional rustproofing of preferential assembly. This device is a terrific traction aid when stuck in mud snow, or on ice. I would not buy a new car that was not so equipped.

To prevent your shiny new car from rusting away after two years or so there is no substitute for the internal rust-proofing process. It costs about $100 — but it can save hundreds of dollars in body repairs. This rustproofing method should not be confused with external undercoating. There is no comparison.

Such things as extra chrome power seats, power windows radio and a stereo tape deck, are fine for those who can afford them. But when operating on a tight budget it is well to remember that unnecessary rectas can jump up the purchase price by hundreds of dollars.

RCMP Continue Bush Manhunt

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) — RCMP officers were still combing dense bush and bog country today for Wilfred Stanley Robertson, 40, wanted in the shooting deaths of two RCMP officers on Sept. 3.

RCMP, some wearing bullet-proof vests and aided by aircraft and seven tracking dogs, were concentrating on regions east and south of MacDowall, Sask., about 25 miles south of here.

Robertson, a farmer in the MacDowall area, has been sought since Sgt. R. J. Schrader, 41, and Constable D. S. Anson, 30, were shot while investigating a family dispute.

Lacking a solid clue on where to look, RCMP search teams, each with a police dog, are carrying out a systematic search for Robertson in a 25 square-mile area.

Robertson, charged with capital murder, is believed to be warmly dressed and heavily armed.

Robertson has been described as an excellent bushman and as a man who prefers to be left alone.

He could "easily live indefinitely in the thick-bushed area of bog and muskeg."

Scoharie

SCOHARIE — Unit 4 of Bloomfield UCW met on Tuesday with Mrs. Clarence Brooks as guest speaker. She gave a talk on Spain which she had visited last summer.

Unit 3 met at the Sunday School rooms on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Ben Chapman has returned home after several weeks in Kingston General Hospital.

Jasper Hennessy is a patient in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital.

Rev. N. Bowering preached at the Thanksgiving Day service at the Bloomfield United Church. The choir rendered special music and five babies were baptized.

Northern Kids Love Westerns

INUVIK, N.W.T. (CP) — On Saturday afternoons the Indian and Eskimo children gather in the dinky movie theatre on Inuvik's Mackenzie Stone Hopalong Cassidy with soda pop cans and boo his Wonder Horse Topper.

There isn't a kid in town under 16 who would miss the matinee performance of a cowboys-and-Indians classic, even though the Indians are invariably stereotyped as cowardly, stupid murderers given to theft, rape and lust.

The movies are one of the few outlets for pent-up social and emotional frustrations among the town's 1,500 Eskimos, Indians and Metis—half of Inuvik's population—in an atmosphere of government-initiated good intentions but bad results.

The children usually hold their fire until the final 10 minutes of the last reel, when Hopalong and the 7th Cavalry finally light the tide of battle and chase Geronimo and the wily Apaches back to the reserve.

When the Indians start to lose, all hell breaks loose. The tiny movie screen is drenched with root beer, grape soda and cola. Wads of bubble gum and half-eaten chocolate bars whiz down the aisles like arrows.

It's a strange phenomenon, a rare instance of natives rebelling against the destruction of their culture and traditional values. It runs counter to the general acceptance and acceptance by Indians and Eskimos in the Northwest Territories of inferiority and cultural erosion.

A team of four psychiatrists that investigated mental health in the Far North last year probed the impact of whites on natives, inadvertently shedding some light on the reasons behind the drenched screen at the Inuvik movie theatre.

"The process of education and the impact of the mass media have caused an inadvisual invalidation of traditional native beliefs," said their report, and at the same time have failed to imbue the natives with a sense of what's good and bad in white culture.

"Consequently they are left without firm belief or significant identification. In addition the non-native culture has actively but often with good intentions, worked towards the destruction of traditional values."

This has resulted, the doctors said, in a "loss of control by the native community over its members." They concluded pessimistically that most residents of native communities "do not enjoy mental health."

The psychiatrists spent five days studying this community, in the Mackenzie River delta north of the Arctic Circle. Inuvik is a test tube for federal government experimentation in moulding a workable synthesis of the three major cultures of the north—Indian, Eskimo and white. The best of everything went into Inuvik—schools, homes, recreational facilities and planning.

The synthesis, 16 years after the town was started, is cracked and wheezing. Government is the biggest single employer in the town and is, unintentionally, the major social and cultural force.

Along with government came a structured, bureaucratic perception of human relations that has turned off the natives completely. They withdrew from the white mainstream into a ghetto on the edge of town the whites call "Happy Valley."

The psychiatrists, headed by Dr. D. J. Rowley, noted the ghetto trend and it effects.

"Many of the larger communities are divided along artificial lines, creating ghettos of subsidized government employees, ghettos of natives, ghettos of the privately employed and even ghettos dividing government departments one from the other.

"There are frequently bitter feelings expressed by one group towards the other. Distrimination is universal in the north. It is a destructive force and a major block to the forward movement of the economy and society."

Wally Firth, a young Indian field worker with the Indian-Eskimo Association of Canada in Inuvik, also fascinated by the government ghettos.

"I first encountered it in Fort Smith, when I was a game warden stationed there a few years ago," he said. "All the top-echelon government people lived on the same street.

"The Clerks I all lived in the same block of garden apartments. The Clerks II lived in another, the middle-echelon civil servants had their own ghetto too. Of course, so did the native population."

The reasons for the Happy Valley ghetto here are more economic than racial. The poor people live in Happy Valley — and the poor people here include Eskimos and Metis. A poor white man can't survive in the North.

As a general rule, the white population of Inuvik is tolerant, patient and often sympathetic with the natives. But the problems among the Indians and Eskimos are becoming so great, so magnified by northern eccentricity, that good intentions no longer bridge the gap.

36 MONTROSE ROAD

Ideally situated between Belleville and Trenton, this beautiful 3 bedroom bungalow has just been reduced by over $2,000 to just $20,500. Two months build this home for that price today and it has a 9% mortgage. Vendor will consider a 2nd mortgage if you wish. This house has everything — double attached garage, 3 bedrooms, low taxes and is professionally landscaped. Only $13 feet of water frontage by 600 feet deep. Also has several wooded lots on the Moira river and Deloro Road with 100 feet of water frontage by 350 feet deep. These locations are only 10 minutes from Belleville and are suitable for VLA purposes too. Phone Bill Poppeak tonight.

18 KELLER DRIVE

A lovely home in a lovely district of Belleville that couldn't be duplicated for this price. It has four large bedrooms, L-shaped living dining room, two bathrooms, double attached garage, finished rec room and even a swimming pool in the back yard. This property has a low mortgage at 8% and is only 2½ years old. Owner is transferred and must sell so call Bill Poppeak for further information or viewing.

Even Liberals Take Shots at PM Over Standards of Canadian Life

Mr. Otto, the last speaker in the day in the throne speech debate, said Canadian society is both stratified and ill, with 65 per cent of its citizens in a dead-end situation that isn't "violent revolution the next stage."

"We have two factions—the established and the disestablished," Mr. Otto said, and Parliament represents only the established.

In Toronto, he said, a man could work all his life to reach a salary level of $9,000 a year and have to spend half of it for decent accommodation. "He hates our guts." Mr. Otto said.

"Can you blame these people for being ready to grab at any manifesto!"

Bud Orange (L—Northwest Territories) said the government must change its attitude towards the rights of the native people of the North.

He said treaties signed in 1921 between Ottawa and the Indian people of the Mackenzie River valley are a disgrace.

"Its no way today could a government get away with the kind of treatment that was meted out in 1921."

"Be that as it may, those treaties have not been upheld."

Mr. Orange said a first step to correct the situation must be to define the rights of native people.

"Second, if the government is to permit oil companies and others to exploit these lands, I think we shall have to sit down with these people (Indians) and say that we are prepared to recognize that they have some claims and some rights to participating in these developments."

Former Liberal Perry Ryan (PC—Toronto Spadina) accused the prime minister of replacing practicality and common sense with "dreaminess, softness and inaction and then over-reaction."

As a Liberal, Mr. Ryan said, he had been schooled to believe that "Tory times were hard times".

By the time he left the party, he added, he had learned that "Trudeau times were hard times."

Robert Coates (Cumberland-Colchester North) described the throne speech as a "grim fairy tale" and said the government's pretentions to a Just Society are a mirage and like a mirage are continually fading in the distance."

Because of unemployment, he maintained, is the depressing effect of high taxation.

With nearly one million people employed by governments at all levels in Canada, he said, "we have too many people chopping bait and not enough out fishing."

Douglas Altenbrock (Frontenac-Lennox and Addington) accused the Liberals of playing politics with the issue of bilingualism and race relations.

The government was failing to come up with answers to the most basic questions dividing the country and he wondered "how long we can stand the expense of what appears to be pure political patronage."

Unemployment among young people was the concern of Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver Kingsway). British Columbia in general and her own city in particular, she said, should be declared a disaster area because of the situation.

Conservatives Join in Unity Act

OTTAWA (CP) — In the wake of Pierre Laporte's death, the federal government Monday was given massive parliamentary support for invoking the powerful War Measures Act in order to hunt down FLQ terrorists.

With governement promises of removing legislation within a month, the Conservative Opposition threw its weight behind use of the act, and the supporting vote was 190 to 16.

The 16 opposing votes came from New Democratic Party members, who have expressed fears about possible abuses of the sweeping, liberty-limiting powers of the act. But four NDP members broke party ranks and supported the government motion called for approval of its actions: Frank Howard (Skeena), Barry Mather (Surrey), Max Saltzman (Waterloo) and Harold Winch (Vancouver East).

In a marathon debate on the issue Saturday, many Conservative speakers asked the government to bring in special legislation to deal with the crisis as heavy opposition was voiced to the sweeping powers of the act.

But Monday, after the Quebec labor minister was killed, Conservative Leader Stanfield called for "a day of unity" in leading his party's support for the government motion. After the government said new legislation would be introduced within a month in the same motion, calling for replacement of the War Measures Act by the end of this month, was dropped.

Prime Minister Trudeau said the FLQ terrorists will not succeed in destroying Canada.

He was applauded from all sides of the Commons.

The FLQ "has no mandate but terror, no policies but violence and no solutions but murder," he said. "Peace and liberty would come through justice."

Mr. Stanfield said the killing of Mr. Laporte must become a "milestone in the struggle for Canadian unity."

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Long Flights Affect Body

"Circadian dysrhythm's? What's that?" Lately, some jet-plane travelers have been complaining of discomfort after long flights. "Doctors have been saying that it's due to an upset in normal physiological processes. Will you explain?" — Mr. B.

It's not easy because we do not understand the whole of it. But it's tied in with the tremendous speed of modern aircraft and the body's need to acclimate to the change. We are here today, and thousands of miles away tomorrow — or a few hours from now.

The body is a creature of habit. It resents any interference with its normal way of life. The day-night cycle is disturbed.

Stress results when passengers fly east or west at high speeds. At level, cross each time zone there are hourly changes in local time. This confuses the normal 24 hr. timetable because of the daynight cycle of environment itself is so discombobulated.

* * *

Hormones cause a fluctuation in metabolism. For example, body temperature usually reaches its height about two to four o'clock in the afternoon and is at its lowest around 5 or 6 o'clock in the morning. But what happens when you have crossed quite a few time zones in a very long flight?

A businessman says, "I never make any important decisions immediately on arriving. What may be mid-morning at my destination is really midnight or night back home. I can't think clearly because (at most times) I'm awake) my mind is still asleep."

Each of us has self regulatory clocks which work unconsciously. Sudden change of environment can throw them off. As a result extremely unreputable travelers may suffer from headache, dizziness, blurred vision, fatigue and insomnia. Some become temporarily depressed as well.

* * *

Fortunately, circadian dysrhythmia is a self-limited syndrome. A good night's sleep usually overcomes any discomfort. Nevertheless there are ways to prevent it.

If you are planning a long air trip, try to be in a well-rested state. (No farewell festivities). Don't indulge in much food and drink during the flight. If you plan to fly to Europe from America, a fortifying departure results in late evening arrival by local time. Leisurely dinner and early rest is an excellent formula.

If you depart for Europe in the evening, you arrive in early morning which is really shortly after midnight at home. The body can't understand and you may become abnormally tired; even collecting your baggage becomes a project.

Whatever your schedule is it is a good rule to plan no strenuous activities (or make important decisions) for at least 24 hours after you arrive.

Undeniably, airline travel is most efficient and comfortable. But you can make it even more so by common sense planning before, during and after your flight.

* * *

For Mrs. D.: I doubt that taking brewer's yeast tablets has caused a new growth of hairs on your chin.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: What does IUD mean? I have had one inserted. It's supposed to be infallible in preventing pregnancy. Is this true? — Mrs. K.

COMMENT: No method is in fallible. However, IUD is certainly one of the better methods of contraception. IUD means "intrauterine device." It is a loop of material inserted into the uterus by a physician especially trained in the procedure. It means good sense to be checked at intervals to be sure it has remained in place and hasn't caused any irritation or bleeding.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

Your birthday today: You find a little at a time that you've been given your worst obstacle for a long while. You learn to direct your energy into more constructive channels this year with subtle, but dramatic, improvement. Your insights become vivid and true to the point. Social activities are gender and fuller. Today's natives often suffer confusion and confound others with excessive, contradictory theories.

ARIES (March 21—April 19): The day is crowded with discussions of value. Due to the high spots, then attend work the way you think it should be done. The best comment from you the better.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Despite some additional work chore, your work proceeds well. Call attention to it. Cope with women and appeal demands as gently as you can. The evening is brighter.

GEMINI (May 21—June 20): Your impatience leads you into a certain risk of your own and others' resources. Think first, get a second opinion before plunging in. Evening finds you arbitrating some complex disagreement.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Whatever you had set your hopes on will be there to do later. Wait for an easier time to enjoy your favorite adventure. Group action this evening is inspiring.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Finicky hinders your progress. Just do what's needed without inviting general criticism once you have your facts straight. People who understand least comment more adversely.

VIRGO (Aug. 23—Sept. 22): Financial moves continue sensitive. Your intuition is mixed with wishful thinking. Learn the difference. Put some time into your hobby, try new materials.

LIBRA (Sept. 23—Oct. 22): Conditions favor conservative changes. Experiments should have formal support. You receive more praise than is comfortable; give the appearance of being at ease and competent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Your strongest supporters are most critical now — learn from their comments and go on. Personal charm rises almost to charismatic level. Even responsive, treat everybody kindly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): You're tempted to spend to impress others. This feels nobody. Work done without hope of gain for themselves was most profitable of all — give it a chance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22—Jan. 19): A blunt word today will get you an unexpected from the most docile. Appeals to reason are difficult but pay off in both personal and commercial terms.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Expect no favors, but expect joy your work-fellows, others — you can learn something watching your ideas being tried by others. Evening brings a sober new thought.

PISCES (Feb. 19—March 20): Expansive programs require more cash than your budget permits. Get an outside opinion. If you get strong encouragement, go ahead — otherwise settle for a modest project.

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

This Special Hemorrhoid Remedy Contains a Unique Healing Substance That Relieves Pain As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "Itching Piles". It is most embarrassing for the sufferer during the day and especially agravating at night.

If you want satisfactory relief — here's good news. A renowned research laboratory has found a unique healing substance with the ability to promptly relieve the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing. Its pain-killing properties act like magic to prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement", was reported. This improvement was maintained over a period of months! Among those suffering were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions—from simple to severe bleeding.

This was accomplished by a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—developed by a world-renowned research institution. The substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

GOODYEAR

GRAND PRIX RETREADS

Goodyear Grand Prix retreads may be the answer to your winter driving problems, particularly if you own an older car. Can you rely on retreads? You can if they are Goodyear. Bus companies, trucking firms, even airlines use Goodyear factory-built retreads because Goodyear carefully selects each casing before highly trained factory personnel apply the same rubber which is used in new tires. You get a tire that is just like new for a really low price and they are guaranteed too. Traction? The new Grand Prix design wraps around the casing to give a wider tread than older style recaps and more rubber on the road means more traction when the going gets rough. Retreads are available in blackwall and whitewall in all popular sizes.

LOW PRICES ON OTHER SIZES, TOO!

SURE GRIP IV

We believe the Sure Grip IV is the best tire in its price range. Four full plies of "stronger than steel" nylon give the best protection against winter road hazards at this price. This tire has also the tread design formerly only available on our higher-priced tires. Its rugged deep tread is the one that made the name Suburbanite synonymous with winter traction. For the first time this year, Sure Grip IV is also available in whitewalls and in sizes to fit most domestic models as well as many "imports". No wonder it's the best winter tire in its price class.

NOW! SIZES TO FIT MOST CARS INCLUDING IMPORTS!

SUBURBANITE VYTACORD

Moderately priced for the motorist who wants a tire that runs quieter, lasts longer. Four plies of polyester cord have all the softriding and strength characteristics of nylon, but in addition, they overcome the flat spotting or morning thump problems associated with nylon. The interlocking "S" tread design provides all the "get up and go" traction associated with Suburbanite, but goes further. This is the tire that is all bite and no bark. We think it is the quietest winter tire ever built. Polyester cord, interlocking "S" tread plus a special rubber compound combine to give more traction, more service, than our economy tire. Available in whitewalls and blackwalls in most popular sizes.

LOW PRICES ON OTHER SIZES, TOO!

SUBURBANITE POLYGLAS

If you own a new car, Polyglas tires are a must for you. They team up with the "extra mileage" Polyglas tires on your front wheels to give safety and traction that lasts and lasts. Polyglas winter tires have the special rubber compound which contributes to greater traction and tread life but its the "belted construction" of Polyglas tires that really make the difference. Two fiberglas belts keep the quiet interlocking "S" tread firmly on the road reducing squirm which eats away tread. This means more traction longer. Polyglas is built to keep its grip longer than non-belted tires. Available in sizes to fit all standard and high-performance cars. Whitewalls, of course, Polyglas has lots of imitators but if it doesn't say Goodyear, it can't be Polyglas.

WHY YOU SHOULD BUY GOODYEAR TIRES

The market has been flooded with tires at "bargain" prices. Anything "too-good" a bargain? Hard to tell—particularly for the average tire buyer. Terms such as "premium" and "first line" are meaningless. One manufacturer's premium quality tire can be the economy grade of another. Tires can be made to sell at a price. The lower the price, the lower the quality. Cheaper tires are less durable and have less tread and tread depth. You get what you pay for.

Many people buy the companion tire Goods behind the product. Consider Goodyear. Goodyear builds a tire to meet the driving needs of every Canadian motorist whether you need traction or traction plus other features.

If it carries the Goodyear name you can be sure it's top value for your tire dollar. Goodyear's reputation has been built by leading the tire industry, bringing new and better products—like Suburbanite and Polyglas—to the motoring public. That's why you can depend on the Goodyear lifetime guarantee. It's honoured by Goodyear dealers everywhere.

GOODYEAR

NO LIMIT LIFETIME GUARANTEE

All new Goodyear auto tires are guaranteed against defects in workmanship and materials and normal road hazards, except repairable punctures.

If a Goodyear tire fails under this guarantee any of more than 80,000 Goodyear dealers in Canada and the United States will make allowance on a new tire based on original tread depth remaining and current "Goodyear Price".

Call to Free Cross 'Joke in Bad Taste'

Police Arrest Two

MONTREAL (CP) — Anonymous calls to police during the night saying the kidnappers of British diplomat James (Jasper) Cross would accept a government offer of safe conduct to Cuba were "probably a joke in very bad taste," police said today.

A spokesman for Quebec Provincial Police said a man, believed to be the anonymous caller, has been picked up and an investigation is under way.

The earlier arrest of two men in suburban St. Leonard was not linked by police with the anonymous calls. The spokesman said simply that the two were being questioned about the Cross kidnapping.

Mr. Cross, senior British trade commissioner in Montreal, was abducted at gunpoint Oct. 5 by members of the terrorist Front de Libertation du Quebec.

The anonymous caller, who telephoned three times during the night, was given some questions by police that could only be answered by Mr. Cross.

The QPP spokesman said the anonymous caller made three phone calls overnight, the first "alluding to" the government deal for safe conduct to Cuba for the kidnappers and the third promising a reply to the questions late this afternoon or evening.

The spokesman took this to mean that a fourth call might be expected about 6 p.m.

He said there was a "slight difference in the conversation" in the third call, but police believe the same man was involved in all the calls because of the continuity in their content.

The caller claimed to represent the FLQ.

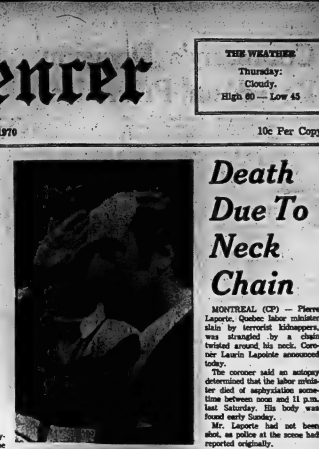
"If it's just a joke he won't call back because he won't be able to answer the questions," the spokesman said.

Police gave this account of the series of three phone calls that might be the latest break in the Cross kidnapping:

—The man first called the QPP late Tuesday night asking about terms for safe release of the diplomat. Police did not act on the phone tip.

—After some consideration it was decided the call might be genuine. A recorded police message was broadcast over radio station CKLM at 1:30 a.m. asking the caller to phone back and answer a series of questions.

—A second call was received and the questions, apparently ones only Mr. Cross is able to answer, were asked. The caller said he would get the answers.



—A third call came about

Family Follow Casket

Mrs. Pierre Laporte (veiled) is escorted by her son Jean and daughter Claire as they follow the casket after funeral services for the Quebec labor minister at Notre Dame Church in downtown Montreal Tuesday. Death Due To Neck Chain

MONTREAL (CP) — Pierre Laporte, Quebec labor minister slain by terrorist kidnappers, was strangled by a chain twisted around his neck, Coroner Laurin Laporte announced today.

The coroner said an autopsy determined that the labor minister died of asphyxiation sometime between noon and 11 p.m. last Saturday. His body was found early Sunday.

Mr. Laporte had not been shot, as police at the scene had reported originally.

The coroner said the asphyxiation was caused by strangulation. A chain around Mr. Laporte's neck had been twisted from behind. It was still around his neck when his body was found in the trunk of an abandoned car.

Mr. Laporte said the labor minister's body bore three superficial wounds—on the right hand, the left wrist and the upper right chest. All had been inflicted before death.

There were no other wounds on the body, the coroner said in a brief, two-minute statement read to reporters.

The autopsy report had been submitted earlier to Jerome Choquette, Quebec justice minister, but was withheld until after Mr. Laporte's funeral Tuesday.

It was made public following a flurry of published and broadcast reports that Mr. Laporte had been shot, slashed, strangled, tortured and stabbed with an ice-pick.

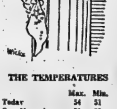
His body was found after police received a note from the FLQ saying the minister had been "executed" at 6:18 p.m. Saturday, exactly one week after his abduction.



Health Charges Levied

TORONTO (CP) — Baby food that contained larvae, milk that allegedly contained gasoline and improper precautions against sewage leaks were among of the charges brought against the Ontario health department this week.

Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) charged Tuesday that four cases of hepatitis broke out at a hospital and training school for the mentally retarded in Orillia last summer because toilets at a nearby beach were leaking raw sewage into the lake.

Dr. Shulman further charged that a Markham couple who found gasoline in three quarts of Relatives Complain

Arrested Men Incommunicado

MONTREAL (CP) — Some family members and relatives complained Tuesday they have not been able to contact persons arrested under broad emergency provisions of the War Measures Act, proclaimed last Friday.

"It's frustrating, something like living under wartime conditions," said the mother of Robert Lemieux, who acted for a time as contact man for terrorist kidnappers in negotiations with a government representative for the release of James (Jasper) Cross and Pierre Laporte.

"None of us here knows what is really going on," she said. "We haven't much choice but to wait."

More than 340 persons were being held Tuesday night after being picked up in police raids across Quebec province that began before dawn last Friday in a crackdown against sympathizers of the now-outlawed Front de Liberation du Quebec.

The FLQ claimed responsibility for the kidnappings of Mr. Cross, a British diplomat in Montreal, and Mr. Laporte, Quebec labor minister buried Tuesday after he was murdered by his captors.

The wife of Serge Mongeau, a defeated separatist Parti Quebecois candidate in the April 29 provincial election, said their children "sense there is something wrong" in Mr. Mongeau's absence.

"They cry an awful lot, continually asking where their father is," she said.

"We have made several attempts to find out where he is located and if he needs anything. But there is just no way."

Mrs. Mongeau said she has hired a lawyer to see what help can be given her husband but the lawyer has been equally unsuccessful.

She said her husband was probably picked up for his connection with a group called the Mouvement pour la Liberation des Prisonniers Politiques —Movement for the Release of Political Prisoners.

"They were working with an honorable goal—to raise bail money for those who ran into trouble with the law and were unable to afford bail," she said. "He has never been arrested before."

A police spokesman said Tuesday that persons being held were not being allowed any visitors or use of the telephone.

He said, however, that restrictions will probably be lifted "soon" with the establishment of a special government bureau.

Although the detained men were being held in individual cells, the cells are "not exactly the Queen Elizabeth Hotel," he said.

Trudeau to Consider Disclosure Suggestion

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday he will consider a suggestion that the government disclose procedures followed by police and armed forces under the War Measures Act.

"I will gladly consider that suggestion," Mr. Trudeau said in reply to questions by Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield.

Mr. Stanfield had asked for a statement outlining procedures being followed in the search for the kidnappers and assassins of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

He asked that the statement include "what procedure we may expect to be followed with regard to disclosure of the number of persons arrested, their names, and what the charges are, and also what procedures there might be, or assurance there might be with regard to the right to counsel and the arrangements with regard to review."

"I am sure it will be most helpful to the House to know how the procedures under the act are being applied," Mr. Trudeau said.

"Perhaps I may have one of my ministers make a statement rather than myself."

Sadat Says U.S. at Fault

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times reports that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said that the entire Israeli-Arab conflict would be solved by the United Nations-sponsored Middle East peace mission within 24 hours "if the United States were not behind the Israeli expansion drive."

In an interview with Times columnist C. L. Sulzberger in Cairo, Sadat also was reported as saying that Egyptian armed forces had been "alerted" because of current tension.

The Times reports that Sadat also said in the interview:

—The Cairo government is prepared to agree to one 90-day extension of the present cease-fire if Israel accepts the terms of U.S. State Secretary William Rogers's original peace plan.

—Further shipment of arms to Israel by the United States—beyond fulfilment of pledges made during the Johnson administration—would have to be halted.

—That Cairo would not agree to remove any anti-aircraft missiles now stationed in the Suez canal area even if Israel dismantled some fortifications on its side of the canal.

—That Cairo strongly believes that the hijacking of aircraft should be outlawed by an international agreement.

Need Outweighs Danger

U.S. Offers to Lease Offshore Oil Acres

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. interior department, in offering to lease 593,000 offshore acres for petroleum development, has decided the environmental dangers of oil spills are outweighed by the need for oil and gas.

The department says it is relying heavily on tighter regulations and tougher enforcement to prevent spills from drilling and production operations on the 127 tracts of submerged land off the coast of Louisiana.

Leases on those tracts are to be sold to the highest bonus bidders next Dec. 15 in New Orleans, in a sealed-bid auction suspended since Feb. 20, 1969, because of a threat of damaging spills.

Under the new regulations, no structures may be built on the new tracts without approval of the director of the U.S. ecological survey who, presumably, would reconcile the oil companies' plans with the interests of commercial fishermen in the area.

Despite its precautions, not even the interior department claims petroleum development in those waters—some 75 per cent of them more than 100 feet deep—will be completely safe for the environment.

The interior department reported Oct. 16 to the president's council on environmental quality: "immediate short-term effects of oil pollution . . . may seriously damage the marine biological community in the area where the pollution occurs . . . The effects of a long-term pollution are not clearly understood.

"In addition to a visible tainting of fishery products, hydrocarbons could be passed along through the marine food chain from the lower forms of organisms to those harvested for human consumption.

But the department also argued that new regulations and enforcement "appear to be sufficiently effective to render serious oil pollution . . . only a minor possibility, not such a possibility as should deter needed production of oil and natural gas with a low sulphur content."

The report recommended that "leasing and development (in the Gulf of Mexico) should continue if the United States is to avert a major national energy crisis and make progress toward retarding air pollution."

Considering the air quality advantages of natural gas and low-sulphur oil, the report said that, "over-all, the environmental impact on the nation is expected to be beneficial."

Company's Decision Based on Priorities

The decision of Proctor and Gamble to indefinitely defer construction of its proposed multi-million dollar plant in Sidney township, was not the result of any lack of effort on the part of township officials or the Belleville Industrial Commission.

The co-operation of local officials was excellent," commented E. J. McDougall, director of manufacturing for Proctor and Gamble as he announced his company's decision at a meeting at Wallbridge yesterday.

Anything done further would not have influenced his firm's decision, he said.

Local township and industrial commission officials were also assured that the plant was not being lost to another district.

He said a combination of factors had entered into the decision of company management to "defer indefinitely" the plan to go ahead with the plant in Sidney.

The decision, he said, came as a result of new priorities in the corporate structure. Market research for new products had indicated the market was still not ready and production plans had been revised.

Also the firm had price need for its capital in other areas, including plant updating at Hamilton and Montreal.

Although plans for plant construction in Sidney were deferred, Mr. McDougall said future major installation would require a new site.

"The Sidney site was excellent and the facilities offered by Belleville were excellent," he said. "When we look again this area will be considered."

Councillor Wants Provincial Flag

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County councillors were asked last night by Ameliasburg deputy reeve Norman Post what flags are flown at the constaph in Picton. Mr. Post's question followed a request from Picton recreation director Wayne Ring for a new flagpole at the monument owned by the county. It was revealed that the Canadian flag flies at the constaph as well as over the schools in Prince Edward County.

Mr. Post told council that in travelling to Sarnia he had noticed the Ontario flag was flown over many municipal buildings as well as the Canadian flag. He has suggested to the Prince Edward County board of education that provincial flags as well as Canadian flags should be flown at the schools, contending that these schools are under provincial jurisdiction.

A fellow councillor noted that Mr. Ring's request had been for a new pole not for flags. "The number of flags you fly depends on how much rope there is on the pole," summarized county warden Gordon Lloyd. Mr. Ring's request was referred to the property and supply committee.

As a young man he served as a mechanic with the RCAF between 1954 and 1957.

He is survived by his wife, the former Patricia Mason, their sons Jod, Matthew and Adam, all at home; brothers George, James and Wilfred of Belleville; sisters Mrs. Harold (Elva) Green of Brockville, Mrs. Edward (Francis) Hodges of Toronto; Mrs. Grace Fraser of Belleville, and Mrs. William (Doreen) McCoy of Belleville.

Funeral services will be conducted from the chapel of the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Thursday, Oct. 22 at 3.30 p.m. with William E. Belch officiating.

Interment will follow in Belleville Cemetery.

MRS. ELLA CELESTIA HARVEY

Mrs. Ella Celestia Harvey of Montgomery Lodge in Belleville, formerly of 282 Foster Avenue died Monday at Montgomery Lodge. She was in her 88th year.

Born in Port Hope, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alfred Merrifield. She resided in Belleville for 51 years before going to Montgomery Lodge.

Mrs. Harvey is survived by one son, William Harvey Jr., of Texas; one brother, Alfred Merrifield of Niagara Falls, New York; and six sisters, Mrs. W. J. (Lottie) Tyers of Montreal, Mrs. Jack (Cara) Martin of Port Hope, Mrs. Albert (Mae) Tickell of Port Hope, Mrs. Vivian Irving of St. Petersburg, Florida, Mrs Stanley (Daisy) Norris of Smiths Falls and Mrs. Alberta (Hilda) Randle of Belleville.

She was predeceased by her husband, William Harvey.

The body is resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home where the service will be held Thursday afternoon. Rev. Arthur Shell will officiate. Interment will be in the Welcome Cemetery in Port Hope.

Prince Edward Council Endorses Trudeau Move

PICTON (Staff) — Stirred by the assassination of Quebec trade minister Pierre Laporte and the kidnapping of British diplomat James Cross, county councillors voted unanimously to endorse the action of the Canadian government in implementing the war measures act. It was agreed that copies of a resolution supporting the federal government's stand would be mailed to Prime Minister Trudeau and the Hon. George Hees, MP, Prince Edward-Hastings.

The resolution was moved by Bloomfield reeve Allen Anderson who remarked, "It's the least we can do to show that we are all Canadians fighting for a Canadian cause. "It's time to stand up and show our unification regardless of race, creed, colour, political affiliations or religion."

Mr. Anderson was supported by Picton deputy reeve Donald Thompson who commented that the situation in Quebec developed over a long period of time. "We spend $85,000 for a police force here and believe me their hands are tied. We need something in our legislation to give our police a little more power without a lawyer present," he asserted.

Later in the meeting Mr. Thompson forwarded a motion to petition the federal department of justice for the reinstatement of capital punishment. "Let's see who has some guts," he said as he called for a seconder. Hallowell reeve George Vincent seconded the motion carried in a recorded vote.

Two councillors, South Marysburg reeve Allen Bailey and Bloomfield reeve Douglas Marvin voted against the motion. "The problem of so many persons involved in crime is environmental," said Mr. Bailey. "We have the responsibility of cleaning the environment up. I can't sit back and watch this nation go through unopposed, for surely, we've killed enough. There are deep rooted problems in need of solution here."

"There is a solution," Mr. Thompson barked. "If you hang a man it's damned sure he won't kill again."

Mr. Thompson reviewed crime statistics before and after the abolition of the penalty and referred to the Manson trial in connection with the five murders in the United States. He scoffed at what he termed "the bleeding hearts" and "sob sisters" who are perpetually concerned with the rights of today's criminals. "What about the rights of their victims?" he hotated.

Harold Harrison, reeve of North Marysburg called the motion "a wonderful idea".

New Organization To Book Bands

A Belleville organization is going to be making its own music in the city, instead of letting out-of-town organizations monopolize rock entertainment.

The organization, called Jeremy, is designed to bring entertainment to Belleville's rock fans at a minimum cost of admission.

Gordon Johnston, head of Jeremy, said this morning that he was attempting to keep admission prices down in reaction to a trend to raise them well over the $3 per-person mark.

"It's a local company, artwise, interested in local bands," Mr. Johnston said, explaining that his events would feature local talent and out-of-town talent.

And Jeremy is attaching its project in no mean way. Already the company will bring Canada's outstanding group, Lighthouse, to Belleville in November.

Also planned, but not yet officially scheduled, is a tour in several cities, including Belleville, by George Oliver and the Natural Gas.

The organization's first Belleville event opens this Friday night at 7.30 in the Belleville Armories. Three bands will give patrons four and a half hours of music.

Leigh Ashford, from Toronto, will be the featured group with two Ottawa bands, Weight and Powerhouse, giving support.

Powerhouse played two high school pop events two weeks ago, at Quinte Secondary and Moira Secondary schools.

"Ticket sales are going well," Mr. Johnston said this morning. "We have ticket outlets in Belleville, Trenton and Kingston."

Mr. Johnston's company also has contracts to organize and run other city musical events on behalf of several local organizations.

Welfare Increase Worries Council

PICTON (Staff) — New welfare arrivals in Prince Edward County remain a point of concern among county councillors alarmed by rising welfare costs. "Where are they coming from?" demanded South Marysburg reeve Allan Bailey when he learned last night that seven out of 12 new cases reported this month were "outsiders."

His question was echoed by Bloomfield reeve Allan Anderson who asked how items incoming welfare recipients finance moving costs from their former homes to the county.

Mr. Bailey later observed that he would hate to see the county become "a depository for welfare recipients."

Donald Thompson, chairman of the County Home and Welfare Committee predicted that the welfare budget would be exceeded "considerably" this year. He suggested that from $30,000 to $50,000 more possibly could be spent on welfare costs by the end of the year, "You're going to see considerably more persons on welfare and fewer unemployment insurance recipients," he remarked.

Mr. Thompson reminded councillors that transients receiving welfare are attracted from the cities to Prince Edward County because house rental is cheaper. He quoted a maximum rental allowance of $90, adding that in this area the average rent paid by welfare recipients is $65. By moving into the county, welfare recipients can save approximately $25 in rental costs. Warden Lloyd welfare situation "a continuous 'bugbear'."

On the positive side, Mr. Thompson reported that two welfare recipients have been sent from the county to outside jobs.

Boy Suffers Head Injuries

A Belleville youngster is in Belleville General Hospital this morning after being struck by a car late yesterday afternoon on Herchimer Avenue.

In hospital with head injuries is Richard John Ireland, seven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ireland of 213 Pine Street.

According to deputy police chief Harold Reid, the incident occurred at 4.35 p.m. yesterday when three children on the side of the road ran into the roadway, one of them colliding with the side of a car driven by Allen D. MacPherson, 21, of Dacre.

Cut-rate Outlet Opens Tomorrow

He will cut a 20-foot ribbon of dollar bills, and afterward be given the unusual ribbon to donate to a local charity.

The company sells housewares, small appliances, giftware, jewelry, cameras, toys, linens, lawn and garden equipment and home entertainment merchandise.

By eliminating all traditional retail services, including credit, delivery, wrapping and repair services, the company sells name-brand merchandise at up to 40 per cent below manufacturers' suggested list prices.

Showrooms are small and display a representative selection of merchandise. The full range of items is illustrated in catalogues and stocked in the warehouse behind each showroom, where it is available for immediate purchase.

Customers enter their orders on the forms provided, present them to the clerk at the counter and the merchandise is brought to them from the warehouse.

Belleville Security Contrasts: John Diefenbaker, 1965 Election – William Davis, at OSD Yesterday

Security to Restrict Appearances in Public

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The grassroots of politics may not taste so sweet for some time to come — even in the Quinte district.

For one of the healthiest grassroots traditions — easy and open contact between the people and their political leaders — is under intensive pressure sharing a national indisposition brought on by concern with terrorism.

While the treatment may be discreet, it could cause subtle changes in Quinte political styles during its duration, some local, politicians believe.

"We're going to find that people in politics generally are not going to be able to move around quite as freely," believes Dr. Richard Potter, MPP Quinte.

The security of public men will take precedence in organization of political gatherings for the time being at least, he agrees — a prospect that local organizers lament.

"I hope to God we're not going to degenerate into that kind of society," said a prominent Liberal, recalling the strict guard measures customary in the United States.

"It would take the prestige out of an official visit if we have to lay on protection in a community where we've never had any trace of subversiveness," added a Conservative organizer.

The symptoms of the situation first became localized yesterday with the visit of Lieutenant Governor W. Ross Macdonald and Ontario Minister William Davis to centennial celebrations at the Ontario School for the Deaf.

For the first time a Quinte gathering including government personalities came under extraordinary security as a matter of police routine.

Canada's governor general could leave his entourage in downtown Belleville to jostle happily with hundreds of youngsters, or lead citizens in an early-morning jog and the only concern was Lions' schedules.

Federa cabinet ministers mixed with a throng at a rural nighttime barbecue and the only detail being watched was an airflight deadline.

Between such special events the availability of public figures is kept constant by more routine events — social and speaking engagements with community groups; the recurring public relations traffic in political personalities organized by their local party associations.

"I think," says Dr. Potter, "we have to face up to the fact — and there's no question about it: This present situation is going to have some effect on politics.

"One thing it will do is that members of the government won't be as freely available to us when we want them," he says.

"There'll have to have to be closer security scrutiny on where they go and what they do when they get there."

Several weeks ago Dr. Potter played host to four provincial cabinet ministers at a public tea party on the lawns outside his home. There were no security arrangements.

Today, he says, he would have "a heck of a time" trying to arrange such an event.

"Let's not kid ourselves. The FLQ isn't the only group. There are people in other provinces who are just as discontented."

A main challenge to politicians is to eradicate, if possible, the social conditions that help foster such activities. However, revolution is the avowed aim of certain groups.

"Until we can assure ourselves that these groups are controlled then I think we're going to find that people in politics generally are not going to be able to move around quite as freely."

In programming local activities — including conventions — around public leaders, political organizers now must ask themselves if such events are "worthwhile in having "the leaders of our country expose themselves like this."

William Mennies, president of Prince Edward - Hastings Liberal Association, believes the tightened security system will ease in "another couple of months."

But, in the meantime, local party organizations may have difficulty in securing appearances of party leaders.

His association had endeavored to obtain a cabinet minister for an event at the end of this month. Now, a parliamentary secretary is coming, said Mr. Mennies.

"I think this is what you're going to see more of. It's difficult now to get a cabinet minister to go anywhere . . . They will be sticking closer to Ottawa until things return to normal."

Ted Parker, president of the Quinte riding Conservative organization said the security situation also may make a difference although any "great change" may not be noticeable locally.

Neither will the restricted situation last "very long" unless "there are some (further) untoward acts."

Belleville alderman Gerald Joyce, a Conservative party organizer in many local elections, says there's "no doubt in the world" that local political programmers from now on must consider security when organizing major political events.

Ald. Joyce recalled ever the years he had organized many events involving leading party figures — including Ontario premiers and Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"At no time did we ever have the slightest concern for their safety. Anytime we ever considered a police escort it was only for courtesy or traffic and crowd control."

(The single exception was the 1968 - election visit of Opposition leader Stanfield, where police received an assassination threat. But this, Mr. Joyce said, was taken as a crank call).

While political leaders may still rub shoulders freely with the Quinte public, the contact may not be so traditionally comfortable, he indicates.

Consciousness of security may tend to disconcert responses.

"When you see police and plainclothesmen around . . . I think in some way it will tend to dampen the enthusiasm of a rally or public appearances," he says.

Belleville police chief Douglas Crosbie says Canadians now will "have to take a second look at things" when it comes to the safety of public men.

"We've always gone along in the past with the idea that these things don't happen in Canada. Now we know we are having problems and none of us can afford to be complacent."

The chief hopes for an early return to normalcy. But, meantime, he says, when "you ask a man to take public office, the very least he can expect is protection."

"And the greatest protection is an observant public, who pays on what they see."

A trace of embarrassment was evident yesterday at OSD as Education Minister William Davis accommodated himself to the constant presence of an Ontario Provincial Police security officer at his side.

How does it feel to be "shadowed" by a plainclothesman after years of unfettered existence as a provincial cabinet minister, he was asked.

"Hush, don't use that word," replied the minister in some confusion.

Then, laughing, he quipped "But the company is very pleasant."

Speaker Suggests New Freedoms

Members of the Belleville Sales and Ad Club were told last night that the primary salesmanship needed today is for those ideas ahead of their time.

Rev. Finlay G. Stewart of Kitchener, one - time moderator of the Presbyterian church, told the local businessmen that in his opinion people today have opted out of the four freedoms generally accepted as priorities after the last world war.

"I used to have them framed and hung on my wall," he said, "but now we have four different freedoms."

Mr. Stewart outlined the four older freedoms and those which he suggests now replace them:

Freedom of expression — "society today doesn't take time to evaluate and individuals do not come to a personal decision based on their own research."

Freedom to worship — "fifty per cent today find nothing to worship but their own skills, genius or ends. Therefore they have opted out."

Freedom from fear — "we are the most fearful generation that ever lived. Our whole nation is frightened. Graduates [from university] have fear of getting jobs. Parents fear fear of their kids and kids of their parents."

Freedom from want — "after the last war we were convinced we would be able to feed the hungry and clothe the naked. Twenty - five years later there are just as many hungry and naked persons."

Mr. Stewart said his personality has substituted four new freedoms and held them out for consideration:

Freedom to excel — "in today's society the privilege to reach your own potential is given to everyone."

Freedom to believe — "unhappily the cynical thing to do today is to pick holes. An individual should come to a belief that is his . . . arrive at some clear cut conclusions about himself . . . and stake out his own position in the market place."

Freedom of moral climate — "moral integrity does not come about by legislation. We can control it but we cannot produce it."

Freedom to prophet — "the last 25 years belonged to the scientist and the technician, and it was a magnificent era. Now they are no longer the leaders. It is the prophet who must set up the goals and then urge others to attain them. Ideas are not of yesterday. They are born tonight and belong to tomorrow. Salesmen are needed for those people and ideas who are ahead of their time."

Cries in Wilderness

It is too late of course, but the cry that is echoing from the lips of a few Canadians to their fellow citizens today is: "If told you so." A year ago Montreal's Lucien Saulnier for example warned a Parliamentary committee of the gathering storm. Specifically, he pointed to the subversive activities of some members of the Company of Young Canadians.

There has been ample other warning of what now is taking shape in Quebec — none more direct than that of Maoist Robert Cruise, indicating that armed insurrection and assassination could be anticipated in Quebec. Three years ago there warnings of terrorist training camps in the Laurentians.

Now, fortunately, both Government and Public are awake to the threat that has now surfaced and impinged on the country's consciousness to the point that it has inspired a St. Catharines firm to place this advertisement in newspapers.

It reads: Canada . . . Against Anarchy. Stand Calm, Stand Fast, Stand Strong, Stand Together.

All well and good, but now is the time to recognize further just what is happening, to take seriously External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp's warning that the forces behind the current terrorist activities in Quebec "are international in scope."

It is known for example that FLQ terrorists have travelled to Cuba and Arab countries for refuge and training in guerrilla warfare. A filmed interview with two Quebecers in Jordan, shown recently over television, is now being studied by Montreal police.

Quebec clearly is ridden with radical elements as well as out-and-out anarchists. The very breadth of interests of those arrested under the War Measures Act is evidence of this.

That the overall direction of their activities moreover is Communist-inspired is also clear. For instance, the two Quebecers interviewed in Jordan said they studied with police after the arrest of Pierre-Paul Geoffroy (now serving a life sentence for a series of bombings, including one at the Montreal Stock Exchange), thanks to assistance from Black Panther chapters in the United States and revolutionary committees in Cuba and Algeria.

In passing, one more indication of the worldwide ramifications of such revolutionary activity is afforded by the news from India. There Maoist extremists have been conducting a campaign of murder and terrorism against police. Last week an officer stabbed to death in Calcutta brought to more than a dozen the number of police killed so far.

More Money

A policeman's lot may not be a happy one, especially in these days of dissent and violence, and we do not deny that members of the force should be adequately rewarded.

Belleville police have just received a substantial pay increase. A first class constable for instance will now get $9,000 a year, retroactive to January 1, an increase of 16 per cent over the previous figure of $7,750.

When it is considered that federal government guidelines, with an eye to curbing inflation, were set recently at 6 per cent, the police hike in salary is very substantial indeed. Trenton police similarly were beneficiaries recently of more money for their services.

Agreed that the policemen should be adequately paid, but the question to be asked is, why have such increases not been brought into effect gradually over the years, instead of abruptly, as in the present case, and in a manner which further mocks the Government guidelines?

Wrong Number

When you dial a wrong number it may not only be just that, but something of a hornet's nest into the bargain. Making a call recently we got another number and the conversation went like this: "Hello . . . ? Whaddaya want? Oh, sorry, I have the wrong number. . . . Why don't you look up what you want." End of conversation, except for a parting, brutal one part born of wonderment and exasperation. We had inconvenienced one of nature's non-gentlemen and our wonderment had to do with why people like that bother to have a phone anyway, and exasperation that such rudeness can exist. It was rather like the attitude of some drivers behind the wheel of their car; someone calls a fellow in error and it brings out the beast in him.

Vacation Psychology

Swingers and Stay-at-Homes on the Couch

David Crane in
The Globe and Mail

The way you travel and where you go may reveal a great deal about your basic personality according to survey material prepared for the Canadian Government Travel Bureau in Ottawa.

Did you know, for example, that bon vacationers tend to be "somewhat hostile, belligerent, impulsive types," while train vacationers are "quiet, passive, very sensitive individuals who like to be left alone to meditate and philosophize?"

The swingers are the air travellers, who are "particularly active, inquisitive, confident types" according to the survey material, "much more so than auto vacationers."

The data is contained in what the bureau calls a psychographic profile of Canadians who go on vacations, or what is more technically known as a social psychographic inventory.

Vacationers are measured by their holiday habits, not by the size of the bank account but by their personality.

Indeed th e psychological makeup of Canadians who take vacations, is quite different from those who don't, the psychographics school contends. Travellers are clearly more active, outgoing and inquisitive than people who "do not take any holidays."

Vacationers according to the survey are people who are more inclined to possess leadership ability and are much less concerned with their health and wellbeing than non-vacationers.

Canadians who take their holidays at home, the survey material concedes have interesting psychological make-ups. They are thinkers, but they are also quite inactive types and restrained in their habits.

The people who are really with it are the Canadians who travel abroad for fun. In the view of the survey of 5,595 people takes a great deal of courage and confidence. The farther Canadians travel on vacation, the greater their self-confidence reflected in leadership and ascendance, and their trust in others."

Cottagers, in the psychographics view "are fairly thickskinned and are not concerned with their health. They are also more inclined toward overt activity than toward thoughtfulness.

Trotters and campers, according to the survey, are unusual only on the stability dimension which suggests they are moody, quiet and tend to worry.

Men who travel to sports events festivals and other special attractions are outgoing, sociable active types, but at the same time they display "a certain amount of emotional instability." Women at the same events tend to display dominance and leadership.

Canadians who spend their vacations visiting relatives and friends are inclined to be inactive and slow – moving while those who head for a specific spot are more active, sociable, have more depth and enjoy a sense of good health.

The typical sightseer in the social psychographic inventory, tends to be sensitive and have less emotional stability than most vacationers. Sightseers also lack restraint, suggesting they are not too serious about life and like to enjoy themselves."

People who do a lot of shopping on their holidays are impulsive types and both men and women shoppers are quite feminine reflecting an interest in clothes and styles. Such men, the survey finds are more sociable and friendly than most vacationers.

Men who go fishing and hunting on their vacation are clearly more masculine than most and also are more interested in physical activity than in thinking or reflecting. The same is true of women.

Many outdoor activities, the survey material states must offer solitude and some form of escape because "they seem to attract individuals who are also somewhat antisocial and lacking in confidence, a combination of emotional instability, defensiveness and distrust of others."

Freight Before Passengers

Do the Railways Really Care?

The London Free Press

There's something ironic, in this age of proliferating congestion, costs, and pollution of highway traffic, to witness the still further reduction of rail passenger service.

But economics are difficult to argue with, and this was the reason the federal railway committee granted applications by both CP Rail and Canadian National Railways to discontinue such service the end of this month in the area north of Toronto to Owen Sound and west through Stratford to Goderich.

The alternative would have been public subsidization of 80 per cent of the railways' losses, which were substantial.

Public preference for the more convenient private car, and competition from these as well as bus service, were responsible.

The impression lingers, nevertheless, that the railways did not try hard and don't care. They prefer to haul freight, and there has been significant evidence that they have in fact deliberately discouraged passenger traffic.

Even with 50 - year - old coaches and inadequate scheduling on the Toronto - Guelph run, which the committee refused permission to discontinue, the CNR carries up to 400 passengers daily.

The committee, expressing surprise that so many people would put up with such conditions and ride these trains regularly, ordered the railway to replace these relics and improve scheduling.

With the exception of ships, there is no form of transportation with greater potential than the railways for comfortable, relaxed, safe and even luxurious travel at reasonable cost. It's not mere nostalgia.

At least the rails are still there, and perhaps some day when circumstances force more realistic attitudes toward travel, passenger service with air-conditioned dining cars and lounges will be restored to all the towns and cities north and west of Guelph.

Letter to The Globe and Mail

I recently had the questionable privilege of travelling on the Canadian Pacific train The Canadian from Ottawa to Winnipeg.

The deterioration of facilities and service since last I travelled on The Canadian was marked. No wonder The Canadian is losing money as it would appear that a definite attempt is being made to discourage passenger travel.

Passengers informed me that berths were not available, for money, until the early morning hours, although they had been reserved well in advance. We noted, however, that there were berths for the staff, while a young mother with two babies and an elderly gentleman had to await accommodations until another Pullman car could be added.

Many were turned away from the cafeteria car as seating was limited and the waiter, exhausted because he was the lone attendant, was actually discourteous to those desiring service. This during summer months, when students are crying for work.

As long as the taxpayer covers deficits on uneconomic runs, why bother trying to make The Canadian a paying enterprise? This is no doubt, their general attitude.

The Intelligencer.

We believe statements contained in a recent advertisement placed by the Workmen's Compensation Board of Ontario in Ontario newspapers are misleading.

For example the Board claims the Accident Prevention Associations of Ontario (controlled and approved by the Board) work with management and labor to reduce the hazards of the work environment, and to establish safe work habits through safety education. This is inconsistent with the board's practice of cutting a man's compensation payments from 75 per cent of his wages to 37½ per cent of his wages when he is half better. This has the effect of forcing the man with a heavy family and financial responsibility back on the job before he is able to function safely. His only other alternative is Welfare. A man 50 per cent cured is a danger to himself and to those who work around him. The accident rate in Ontario industry rose 21 per cent in 1969 and is still rising. We believe this practice has a contributed to this increase and will continue to do so until it is changed. A man who labors for his living should receive 100 per cent benefits (75 per cent of his wages to a maximum of $100.97 weekly) until he is safely able to return to his job.

The board states, "If a man is off work because of a job accident, we send him a tax-free compensation cheque every two weeks." This is only true if a man is temporarily disabled. Even then the tax has been predicated to come up with the 75 per cent figure. If the man is permanently partially disabled he receives only a small pension in many cases less than a day's wage, once a month. There is no allowance in the Act for payments other than the pension if the man is unable to work because of severe pain, or because suitable work cannot be found or modified work is not available after the accident. The man is not paid from the Fund, but is forced to turn to welfare, often a traumatic experience for the workman, once a taxpayer proud of his contribution to the growth of Ontario. Naturally he can only do this after he has used up his savings. You have to live on compensation to understand the emasculating destruction of the man and the effect on his family caused by this process.

The Workmen's Compensation Act of Ontario was outstanding legislation in 1914 but today it is outdated. Contributions are growing ever larger and the president rarely hears every employee by name. The government of 1914 could not foresee an age where the employee is only a number on a clock, supervised and safeguarded, to be disposed of as soon as he is no longe- 100 per cent productive, in many cases by a multi-national corporation not interested in the social problems this action is creating. Piecemeal patchwork to 1914 Legislation only compounds the problem. The Act must be rewritten.

We know it is too late to correct the causes of the injustices we have suffered but we ask please help us create a better working condition for our children. The Workmen's Compensation Act of Ontario should not only seem to be just on casual examination but dispense justice which is unquestionable.

Secretary, Disabled Workmen

Great activity is evident at the Belleville harbor as a result of the trans - shipping of coal from sailing vessels and barges into cars. That this city has natural shipping advantages is obvious. During the last 10 days the barge White and Priant, capacity 700 tons, has unloaded three cargoes of coal here. The steam barge Hisky and the schooner Filer have also been in port this week. Horace Taber with 450 tons of coal is discharging her cargo today, and the schooner Oliver Mowat, 425 tons capacity is enroute from Oswego to Belleville. These barges and schooners are all under charter by the Scott Fuel Co. to which the traffic is consigned.

Army on Hand

Official Ottawa Honors Memory of Pierre Laporte

OTTAWA (CP) — Official Ottawa paused Tuesday to honor the memory of Pierre Laporte as Governor—General Roland Michener and hundreds of other mourners filled a Roman Catholic Basilica that was stiff with security.

While the Governor-General, political figures, Supreme Court judges and many others from public life filed into the downtown church for a national memorial service, they were protected by perhaps the tightest security screen ever thrown around an Ottawa church.

But the 45-minute service was sombre and quiet. Plainclothes policemen moved through the aisles like lip-reading ushers. Outside, helmeted soldiers who escorted cabinet ministers and other dignitaries to the building remained well back, but in view.

Clergymen from four denominations took part in the televised service, timed to coincide with the funeral in Montreal for the Quebec labor minister killed by terrorists.

Dressed in a black suit, the Governor-General rose from his front pew and read from St. Paul's epistle to the Corinthians:

"For we know that when the tent that we live in on earth is folded up, there is a house built by God for us, an everlasting home made by human hands, in the heavens."

As all the official dignitaries took their seats—including many members of Parliament and former prime ministers John Diefenbaker and Lester Pearson—other persons were allowed to fill the remaining main-floor seats.

One youth, with beret and knapsack, moved quietly into a back seat. As he knelt to pray, two detectives took up positions just inches away. But he remained on his knees, one of the last to leave.

"In this age," he said "it was comforting to see a leader with his dependency on God." He was sure this dependency helped Mr. Laporte "in his last tragic moments."

Rt. Rev. William Robinson, Anglican Bishop of Ottawa, told the quiet congregation that "it is in pardoning that we are pardoned, and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life."

In his prayer, Dr. John Logan-Vencira, former moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, said that when a good man's life is suddenly taken away "our hearts are wounded and our spirits are desolate within us."

He was followed by Rev. R. Douglas Smith, president of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference of the United Church of Canada, who prayed for the country.

"Unite in loyal and loving accord all the inhabitants of our country, so that men of all races and creeds may find in their common citizenship the bond of true brotherhood."

Police Arrest Two Men

3 a.m. saying that the man would call back in later afternoon or evening with the answers, which police say means about 8 p.m.

Police would not reveal the nature of the questions or how many questions were asked. But they said the questions were designed to ascertain if the caller has any contact with the FLQ cell which claims to be holding Mr. Cross.

The QPP spokesman said the caller the second and third times sounded "like the same guy that called earlier."

The same officer who spoke to the man originally took the second call.

The abduction of Mr. Cross was the first of two political kidnappings for which the FLQ has claimed responsibility.

Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte was abducted from his suburban home Oct. 10. His body was found early Sunday in the trunk of a car in St. Hubert, south of Montreal.

Premier Robert Bourassa of Quebec has twice offered safe conduct to Cuba for the kidnappers in exchange for the freedom of Mr. Cross.

The offer of amnesty was originally made Saturday night shortly before Mr. Laporte's body was found and included the FLQ Chenier cell which kidnapped the labor minister as well as the Liberation cell responsible for the abduction of Mr. Cross.

The government repeated the offer Monday night, substituting what was the Canadian Pavilion at Expo 67 for the Concordia Bridge, also on the Expo site, as the rendezvous for any exchange.

Reason for the change was thought to be chilly weather.

The pavilion has been designated an extension of the Cuba consulate in Montreal for the purposes of arranging the freedom of the British trade commissioner.

Under the offer, the kidnappers would surrender Mr. Cross to the Cuban consul and then be flown to Montreal International Airport within an hour after arriving at the island in the St. Lawrence River.

From the airport they would be flown to Cuba, accompanied by a small group including Leon Mayrand, former Canadian ambassador to Cuba. Once the kidnappers reached their destination, Mr. Cross would be released from the Cuban consulate in Montreal.

The text of the government offer said the arrangement between Cuba and Canada was made at the request of the Canadian government. The Cuban government agreed to a "for humanitarian reasons."

It provides for the kidnappers to telephone the QPP in Montreal at a specified number so orders can be transmitted to police and army personnel to keep away from the road leading to the Canadian Pavilion.

On arriving at the exchange site, the kidnappers would turn Mr. Cross over to Cuban Consul-General Alfredo Ramirez who would then ask for their weapons.

The statement said travel documents had been prepared and would be given to all passengers for the flight from Canada to Cuba.

All three governments—Canadian, Cuban and Quebec—agreed to the details of the offer made by Premier Bourassa.

Charges Levied

milk sent it along to the government laboratory for analysis but received no reply.

Another New Democratic Party member, Elie Martel (Sudbury East) charged Monday the Sudbury-area health department covered up for a baby food manufacturer whose product contained larvae.

Dr. Shulman's other charges included one that a staff member resigned after he saw hospital staff beat a mental patient in the Ontario Hospital at Penetanguishene died of a heart attack last year after being published; and that another mentally retarded child was critically injured because it was not properly watched.

Dr. D. E. Zarfas, head of the health department's services for retarded, said the toilets near the Orillia camp were pumped regularly and said hepatitis is a problem in any large institution.

Dr. Shulman said the Chatham couple, who turned the milk over to their local health department, were told the labs were unable to test for gasoline.

A medical adviser at the committee meeting said testing for gasoline content is "very difficult," and suggested the best way of determining its presence is by smell.

Dr. Thomas Wells, health minister, said his department would look into the matter if it received any further information.

THE CONSUMERS DISTRIBUTING STORY:

How a great idea saves you up to 40% on brand name merchandise

Hair dryers, electric shavers, electric brooms, vacuums . . . Cutlery, serving dishes, ceramic ware, blankets, clocks . . . Golf clubs, fishing tackle, skates, skis, footballs, basketball sets . . . Car stereos, cassette player-recorders, TVs . . . Watches, charm bracelets, diamond rings, cuff links . . . Polaroid cameras, 35 mm cameras, movie cameras, projectors . . . Pool tables, road racing sets, dolls, construction toys, games . . . At Consumers Distributing you save up to 40% on these and hundreds of other first quality name brand items you buy each year for yourself, your family, or for gift giving.

1. INCONVENIENCE. At Consumers Distributing we figure you'll trade a few frills for solid savings. So we locate away from the high rent district. Our parking space is sometimes limited. Our showrooms aren't large and can get a little crowded. You have to make out your own order, and you don't get much personal attention from our limited number of sales clerks. Results? Big savings on selling, which we pass along to you.

2. INSTEAD OF A BIG BEAUTIFUL STORE, A BIG BEAUTIFUL CATALOGUE. At Consumers Distributing we display only a fraction of our merchandise. So instead of having a big beautiful store to browse through, we give you a big beautiful catalogue to browse through. And you can take it home! The famous CD catalogue describes and illustrates in colour everything you can buy at Consumers Distributing. You select your merchandise from its pages, either in the showroom or at home.

3. VOLUME BUYING. CD's streamlined selling methods are matched by streamlined buying methods. We're the biggest customers of many of Canada's best-known manufacturers. Our big volume discounts are part of the saving you enjoy when you shop at CD.

Many people find CD's inconvenience very convenient!

At Consumers Distributing you don't get waited on hand and foot. But most people find they save time shopping at CD. You present one order at one counter and get all your merchandise from one clerk. So, for instance, you can knock off your entire Christmas shopping list at one visit.
There's no wandering from floor to floor, department to department, fighting crowds all the way.

More about CD's famous catalogue

If you come and see us right now, we'll give you your own 1970-71 Consumers Distributing catalogue to take home. But you need to hurry, because we do run out. Having your own catalogue is great because you can look through it at home and make out your shopping list at leisure. (If you don't have your own, there's always a catalogue for you to use in the store.)
Besides telling you what you can buy at Consumers Distributing, your catalogue shows you exactly how much you save. Near each item is the manufacturer's suggested list price. Then, to the left, is the low Consumers Distributing price in code.
To break the code, just put in the decimal point. 2516×4097....$56.35

War Measures Act Still Engages the House

"It wouldn't be so bad if they weren't showing an anti-war film."

Tuesday was to have been a return to normal debate on the government's speech from the throne 13 days ago, interrupted by the cancellation of the regular five-hour afternoon sitting while members attended funeral services for slain Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte in Montreal and memorial services in Ottawa.

But while most of the remaining time left to the House was taken up by ordinary debate and questions to the government, the two major events of the Commons day both concerned the War Measures Act.

During question period the opposition sought assurance government regulations instituted under the act would not be widened, and that Parliament would be kept informed of actions taken under the act.

David Lewis (NDP—York South) asked Prime Minister Trudeau whether the government planned any new regulations under the act. Implemented to give authorities sweeping powers to aid their search for the terrorists who killed Mr. Laporte and kidnapped James Cross, British trade commissioner.

Mr. Trudeau said there are no plans for further regulations, but Parliament would be informed if any became necessary.

Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield asked whether Mr. Trudeau would consider making a statement in the House on police and armed forces action under the act.

Mr. Trudeau said he would "gladly consider" making such a statement.

The conciliatory, low-key exchange reflected Mr. Stanfield's support of the government because he feels the government needs solid support to deal with the terrorists, while at the same time probing the government to ensure that support is not abused through unnecessary measures under the act.

Another exchange—much more inflamed—concerned the negative votes of 18 New Democrats Monday on the government motion asking for approval of proclamation of the act.

Their voting, he said, left him with "absolute disgust"—they had abandoned Quebec to the "extreme socialists"and anarchists and the Maoists of the Front de Libération du Québec."

The accusation brought Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East) to his feet on two occasions.

Mr. Winch, one of four NDP members who approved the government motion, said his colleagues who voted against had done so "according to principle, convictions and conscience."

Mr. Roy's remarks, he said, were "shameful."

In the Senate, Opposition Leader Jacques Flynn (PC—Quebec) said his party firmly supports the government decision to invoke the act.

At the time of proclamation, he said, he could "hardly believe that the government had resorted to such powerful measures not designed for the situation."

But now the Conservatives could pledge their support because the government had agreed to withdraw the act within a month and replace it with new legislation.

In retrospect, he said, the government had had no other recourse.

Senator Gildas Molgat (L—Manitoba), appointed Oct. 7 and making his first speech, said Mr. Trudeau had taken a "courageous attitude" in dealing with the terrorism.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson, he said, is surrounded by advisors who have been at the job for the last 15 years and whose main occupation was "sitting around talking to each other."

George Hees (PC—Prince Edward-Hastings) called on the government to advance $100 million in low-interest, long-term loans to industries and municipalities next year to combat pollution.

Robert Latulippe (Creditiste —Compton) said the War Measures Act would not solve the basic problem of discontent in Canada.

Ontario Would Offer Ideas on Legislation

TORONTO (CP) — Premier John Robarts said Tuesday Ontario is prepared to offer suggestions for special-powers legislation being drafted by Ottawa to deal with major civil disorders, such as the FLQ terrorist crisis in Quebec.

But Mr. Robarts made it clear during an exchange in the legislature that the ultimate decision for the legislation rests with Ottawa.

He said he was "a little difficult to get myself into a situation" where the province could be accused of interfering with areas of federal jurisdiction.

His comments followed a statement by Attorney-General Arthur Wishart that federal authorities had sought Ontario's opinion on the War Measures Act, imposed last weekend to deal with the Quebec crisis.

Mr. Wishart was replying to Liberal Leader Robert Nixon, who asked whether the province had been consulted about the proposed federal legislation.

Mr. Wishart said he had been in touch earlier in the day with Justice Minister John Turner but was awaiting "further consultations" with Ottawa before making Ontario's position public.

Asked by Mr. Nixon if the legislation would have an opportunity to debate the issue, Mr. Wishart at first said it seems "a proper thing" to do, but then referred the question to Mr. Robarts.

Sympathy Extended

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature Tuesday sent a resolution of sympathy and support to the Quebec people and government.

The resolution was also sent to Francoise Laporte, widow of the Quebec labor minister whose body was found early Sunday, a week after he had been kidnapped by FLQ terrorists.

The resolution was introduced by Premier John Robarts and seconded by Opposition Leader Robert Nixon shortly after several members returned from a memorial service at St. Michael's Cathedral in Toronto.

The resolution expressed "to the family of the Hon. Pierre Laporte our condolences on the tragic and senseless death of this loyal Canadian."

Mr. Nixon said he hoped a lesson could be learned from the "senseless and rapacious murder."

THE PICK OF Punch

Munro's Stand Not Clear Yet

TORONTO (CP)—John Yaremko, Ontario minister of social and family services, said Tuesday it is difficult to know what federal Health Minister John Munro meant when he said in British Columbia that everyone not fully employed would be eligible for benefits under a general welfare program.

Medical Laboratories Come Under Microscope

TORONTO (CP) — The department of health will introduce regulations to license laboratories in Ontario and to change the method by which the labs receive payment, Health Minister Thomas Wells said Tuesday.

But he refused to tell a committee studying his $985 million estimates that the province will take over all laboratories or forbid doctors to own them.

Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP —Toronto High Park) said doctor-owned laboratories are "probably the biggest racket that is going on in the medical profession anywhere ever."

"He said a Toronto worker developed chronic headaches and chest pain. A doctor charged him a standard rate of $15 for a house call but then referred him for a series of tests to a laboratory this doctor "happened" to own.

"They then proceeded to do $36 worth of lab tests and $37 worth of x-rays. Many of the lab tests were redundant; some of them were obsolete.

"But what it really amounts to is that there are unfortunately some doctors who are doing unnecessary lab work for huge amounts and it is being billed either to the patient or more likely to the various insurance schemes. And a lot of it to OHSIP (Ontario Health Services Insurance Plan)."

He asked Mr. Wells to pass a law saying no doctor can refer a patient to his own laboratory or to prohibit doctors from owning labs or to expand provincial services to do all lab work in Ontario.

He said the patient was advised not to pay the $36 and when the doctor threatened to sue him, he dropped the suit when Dr. Shulman threatened to appear as a defence witness.

Mr. Wells agreed that it is "unethical" for a doctor to refer a patient to a lab he has a financial interest in.

No New Arrests

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said Tuesday no new arrests have been made in Ontario under the Emergency Measures Act since Monday.

He told James Renwick, New Democratic Party house leader that, as far as he was aware, all three persons detained under the Act had been released. He said security in "certain areas" was continuing.

Director of Nursing Addresses Business and Professional Women

A talk by Miss Ruth Gaw, Director of Nursing, Belleville General Hospital highlighted the regular dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club meeting held at the Sun Valley Motor Inn, on Monday evening.

The Monday evening meeting was doubly significant, however, being the second event to mark Business Women's Week locally. On Sunday members attended Christ Church in a body and later enjoyed brunch together.

Many members along with a number of guests enjoyed an interesting talk by Miss Gaw on the aspects of nursing and changes in the health care of patients. She dealt in particular with the changes in routine at the Belleville General Hospital and explained the new system as introduced by the regional school of nursing. She also quoted a few of the statistics relating to her field as nursing director at the hospital. The speaker also noted she was much in favor of the home care program as proposed by Dr. R. T. Potter MP.

Miss Gaw was introduced by Mrs. Dorothy Brown and thanked on behalf of the club by Mrs. Dorothy Ellis, and at the conclusion of her talk conducted an informative question and answer period.

The Business Women's Week program had been arranged by Mrs. Lois Brown and her committee who also had prepared the attractive decor for the meeting. Each one present received a lovely autumn corsage along with a number of other favors.

A fine display depicting the aims and purposes of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs—may be seen all this week in the window at Rubel's Travel Centre, Front Street.

During the business portion of the meeting a number of reports were given and president Joanne Stephenson was appointed delegate to attend the district meeting in Ottawa on Nov. 1. Membership chairman Gloria McNeil announced that a wine and cheese party has been planned for Mon. Nov. 9th to encourage new members.

At the conclusion all joined in singing O Canada with a moment of silence in respect to Quebec's Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

A Gourmet's Delight

A tasty smorgasbord meal was enjoyed previous to the Business and Professional Women's Club meeting, which also marked Business Women's Week, at the Sun Valley Motor Inn on Monday evening. Guest speaker Miss M. Ruth Gaw makes a selection from a tempting array of food, while awaiting their turn are President Jeanne Stephenson, Mrs. Lois Brown, committee chairman and Mrs. Dorothy Brown, Past Provincial President.

'Horn Blowing' Necessary: B and P President

MONTREAL (CP) — Charlotte VanDine, newly elected president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, is beginning to wonder whether "we blow our own horns enough."

"The Women's Liberation Movement is grabbing all the headlines," she said ruefully.

"We don't wave banners and march—maybe we should."

It would be difficult to imagine two more varying groups. The Women's Lib has vocal pockets of extremism and a seemingly helter-skelter organization. The professional federation is the charter in 1930, is affiliated with groups in 43 other countries and conducts its business in a businesslike and democratic manner.

However, there are similarities.

"We both want equality of opportunity," said Miss VanDine. Both want abortion removed from the Criminal Code, although the federation has not adopted any ethical or moral stand on it.

Nor does the federation want the type of attention customarily awarded Women's Lib activities. What it would like is more members (currently 6,000 in Canada) and perhaps more recognition of the gains it has won for working women.

Miss VanDine definitely does not approve of women chaining themselves to House of Commons seats as a Vancouver group did.

"Suffragettes in London long ago chained themselves to lamp posts to get the vote, which is fine, but I think we have to respect our system of government, whether or not we like the parties or what they do."

Each year the federation presents a brief to the government following discussions at national meetings. A typical brief would contain requests for changes in proposed legislation or in the white paper on taxation, or appointment of more qualified women to the Senate, government boards and commissions.

"This year," she said, "we presented our brief to Mr. Trudeau and he had 10 cabinet ministers with him. Some of the departments they represented were not even mentioned in our brief, but they showed up to hear what we had to say.

"We were well received. There was none of the attitude of 'Well, girls, say what you have to say and get it over with.'"

Miss VanDine, assistant secretary at Canadian International Paper Co., joined the federation in 1953 after getting a diploma in business at Simmons College in Boston.

A native of Fredericton, she said she joined because "I wanted to get involved in something, the people were friendly and we had lots in common, and the meetings were held at night and on weekends so I could go after work."

Any woman who spends 69 per cent of her time or receives at least 69 per cent of her income from working is eligible to join. This does not include "the women who clip coupons for their income."

Membership covers a wide range of occupations, from doctors to lawyers to secretaries and plant workers. One past president was an aeronautical engineer.

Two movements "for working women across Canada" which the federation feels responsible for and proud of are enactment of equal pay laws and establishment of the women's section of the federal labor department.

For the future "we want day care nurseries," Miss VanDine said. Women with pre-school children should not have to sit at their jobs worrying about their children."

Another is maternity leave, a benefit included in the 1919 convention of the International Labor Organization.

"We see no reason why a working woman should be denied the right to have a child. She should have no worry about losing her job or her seniority.

"Men say 'But what about the payroll?' They think every married woman is going to have children. We don't want women to be paid during their maternity leave; we simply want them to be able to return to their jobs without suffering any loss of status."

What plans and dreams has Charlotte VanDine for her next two years as president?

"It's hard to say. Of course, there are little internal changes I would like to see, but mostly I want the organization to move ahead. I want women to train themselves for leadership, not only in their jobs, but in the community and government.

"We feel we have an organization to which every working woman needs to belong."

Open House Is Held To Mark 50 Years Wed

MARMORA — Mr. and Mrs. George Brown celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday with an Open House at their North Hastings Street home in the afternoon and evening.

Both were raised in Millbridge and left there 41 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Brown were married Oct. 13, 1920 in Maclou Anglican Church by the late Rev. Hall. They spent their early married life near Marmora buying the Bateman farm. They later built on the Hamilton place near Zion Church and farmed until about 15 years ago. They moved to their present home in Marmora Village in November of last year.

Married young, they both enjoy fairly good health and have many hobbies. Mr. Brown's favorite is hunting. He goes north every year with the neighbors. They enjoy card games, and belong to Senior Citizens, taking in a few of the club bus trips this fall.

Their daughter, Vera, Mrs. Dalton Vilneff, of RR2, Marmora, arranged the celebration. Mr. Brown's sisters, Mrs. Charlotte Vilneff of RR Marmora, and Mrs. Melville Miller and Mr. Miller of Indian River, and a brother, James Brown, were all on hand for the day's festivities.

Many visitors from Millbridge, Eldorado, Belleville, Indian River, Trenton, Peterborough, and Marmora called during the day to extend congratulations. Beautiful cards and gifts, with greetings from government officials, were on display in the living room. The tea table was centred with a huge decorated anniversary cake, and presiding were a niece, Mrs. Ogil Devolin of Madoc, and Mrs. Mary Phillips.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet F. Grills of Paget, Bermuda, announce the engagement of their daughter Mary Frances to John H. Bateman, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Henry Bateman, 155 Bleecker Avenue, Belleville, Ontario. A summer wedding is planned.

Women's Lib Group Criticized

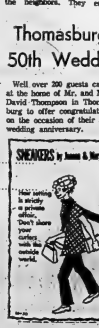
TORONTO (CP) — The federal government and women's liberation organizations were criticized Monday in a letter from Mary Ann Lavallee of the Cowessess Indian Reserve in Saskatchewan.

Mrs. Lavallee, who is in hospital, prepared a six-page letter for delegates at a conference of women, representing 29 national volunteer organizations.

Describing herself as a "very dedicated Indian nationalist," Mrs. Lavallee says in her letter that women's liberation groups are discarding things for which Indian women are still striving.

Mrs. Lavallee says women's liberation groups' downgrade "a man who will bring home the bacon . . . a hard working provider, a man who will respect his wife and family".

But Indian women seek these things. They want "a comfortable home equipped with at least a cold water tap, an indoor toilet, a few phones on the reserve, a few gravelled roads, indoor heating, at least two bedrooms, a better education chance."



Indian women "must be liberated from the bondage of the past which culturally places women at the bottom of the pit".

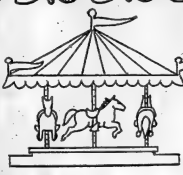
Thomasburg Couple Mark 50th Wedding Anniversary



Well over 200 guests called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson in Thomasburg to offer congratulations on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Many relatives, friends and neighbors called during the afternoon and evening to join with them in marking the event. Along with many gifts from family and friends, the couple also received congratulatory messages from government officials and a plaque from the Ontario government.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were married in the bride's home at Fuller 50 years ago by Rev. A. O. McDonald. They have one daughter, Mrs. Howard Wannamaker of Frankford.

The home was attractively decorated for the occasion and presiding at the tea table during the afternoon were Mrs. C. Morland, Mrs. H. Redcliffe, Mrs. P. Bradley and Mrs. H. L. Redcliffe and in the evening, Mrs. Roy Taylor and Mrs. C. Irvine.

Ann Landers

She Fakes Pregnancy To Please In-Laws

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter will sound like something the Yale boys made up, but I swear every word of it is true. Please tell me what to do about the mess my sister is in.

Jean (made up name) has been married four years. From the day she became a Mrs. her in-laws have been pestering the daylights out of her to give them a grandchild. At first it was good natured kidding. Later it turned into unbearable nagging. Starting last year her life has been hell.

ANN LANDERS Everyone was thrilled. She started to wear maternity clothes in her second month, which I thought strange seeing as how she was slim as a reed. Last night I couldn't believe my eyes. Jean was way out in front. We had gone shopping together three days before and she didn't even show. My husband kiddingly patted her stomach, and I could tell by his face something was wrong. He called me aside and said he was sure Jean had a pillow or something under her dress. I took her into the bedroom and asked her to level with me. The poor girl broke down and cried. She is not pregnant and never was. She even has her husband fooled. Jean's plan was to play the game until the seventh month, go to Los Angeles to visit a friend, have a "premature" child and bring home an adopted baby.

It's all so crazy I can barely believe it. Jean admits she should not have made up this dreadful lie. She is ashamed and sorry. But now the question is how can she extricate herself from this mess and save her face? Can you suggest a plan of action? — P.S SIS.

DEAR SIS: Jean should tell her husband the truth immediately. She should then announce to friends and family that the stork cancelled the visit. No details need be given. Jean's next move should be in the direction of a psychiatrist. Anyone who could dream up such a bizarre scheme needs therapy.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our neighbors, who are the nicest people in the world, have three children and a dog. Their dog, unfortunately, has had a skin infection for several months. The veterinarian has told them the infection is chronic and incurable. He has also told them to not to wash the dog. I've been searching for some polite words, Ann, but there aren't any. I'll just come right out and say the dog smells terrible. The minute my husband and I set foot inside their home we become nauseated. For some strange reason our children are not bothered by the odor.

Please don't suggest the obvious solution: "Tell them." We have told them but they say the dog is like a member of the family and they must do whatever they can to keep him comfortable. We enjoy these people very much. They are wonderful friends, but my husband and I get sick whenever we go over there. Even though they keep the dog in the basement, the smell is on the furniture, the rugs — everywhere. They entertain beautifully and we hate to miss their parties. What's the answer? — HOLDING OUR NOSES IN MASSAPEQUA.

DEAR NOSE HOLDERS: I don't know what you consider "beautiful entertaining" but how beautiful can it be if you are nauseated?

If they were my neighbors I'd suggest another vet. If the verdict is the same, you have no alternative. Simply tell them the dog's odor makes you ill and you cannot accept any more invitations in their home.

Mary Prepares Lunch For Hi-C Members

By MARY MOORE

Young people continue to surprise me and to confirm my great faith in them.

I invited my Hi-C members, grandly called the Drama Group, to a barbecue party — probably the last of the season.

I hoped I would not be voted down when I suggested barbecued ham slices and pineapple rings and cooked potatoes in foil packets. They thought it was a great idea — the only condition being that I buy "lots", I said "You are buying all the groceries we need for 12" and they did it perfectly.

Here is the grocery list for a barbecue party for seven big teenagers and five average adults, every last bite of which was eaten:

7 lbs. (six ¼" slices ham (bone-in 99 cents per lb.); 2 12-oz. cans pineapple slices; 12 med.-large potatoes; 1 large head lettuce; 2 cucumbers; 6 tomatoes; two 20 oz. bottles of sticks; 1¼ lbs. butter; five 48-oz. cans various fruit juices—orange and pineapple and grapefruit; coffee, milk.

Four of my Hi-C group, Debbie, Sue, Arthur and John arrived early to build the fire, put out 12 garden chairs and 3 bridge tables. Sue peeled the cooked potatoes and wrapped them in 12 foil packages. Debbie cut and garlic-buttered the French sticks.

The Ham Steaks were barbecued by Arthur. He gingerly placed the pineapple slices around the steaks for the last few minutes.

I think the foil packets of potatoes are worthy of mention because they were made in advance and were easy to handle at the fire. Sue simply put a mound of cooked cubed potatoes in double heavy duty foil, sprinkled them with salt and pepper, dotted them generously with butter and wrapped them snugly with a drugstore fold. This was a comfort for they were easy to handle and had a home-fried potato flavor.

If you are going to copy any of my suggestions for your last barbecue of the season do not overlook the fruit juice. There were 5 cans — a total of 240 oz. — all consumed to the last drop. Blair made and brought a delicious cherry cheese cake and Sue made and brought a beautiful apple pie.

They ended up dancing in my office to their stereo on full volume while the adults in the living room tried to hear one another talking.

CHRIST CHURCH ACW

The regular meeting of Christ Church Parish Guild ACW was held recently with Mrs. F. Lasier, president in the chair. Mrs. M. Boyd gave the devotional and also reported on the cent a meal collection.

Before the meeting a chicken dinner was enjoyed by all. Canon R. B. DeBlois Wright gave the blessing. A game of euchre was played after the meeting.

Non-smoking Students Have Higher IQ

By DORIS CLARK

Non - smoking high school students have a higher I.Q. than those who smoke. And the heavier a student smokes, the lower his I.Q. This was found by a Harvard School of Public Health survey among 2,810 students in high schools in Newton, Mass.

It's a difference between smokers and non - smokers showed up particularly among the boys. "Among the boys in every grade, non - smokers have a higher mean I.Q. than discontinued smokers, who again have higher mean I.Q.s than smokers," the report says.

The survey shows a distinct relationship between smoking and achievement, and that the higher achievers contain a high proportion of students above average I.Q. The researchers are not sure whether the smoking causes the low achievement level of the smoking students or the low achievement triggers the smoking. — Financial Post.

Dear Doris: Could you suggest any exercises that will decrease one's hardline and also to get rid of the extra padding around the seat and hips. — Gobs.

Dear Gobs: I can send you the leaflet "Be Figure Perfect" if you'll send me 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"This helps with spot reducing, and if you are overweight, dieting has to go along with it.

Dear Doris: When I was at Sunday School, there was a poem on the back of one of our books called, "Be the Best of Whatever You Are." One line was, "If you can't be a tree on the top of the hill, be a bush in the valley below. I'd love a copy of that whole poem.

I don't think people should object to your poem and prose finding seasons. After all, part of your job is to help people, and if it makes them happy to relieve childhood memories or to read inspirational pieces, what harm done? Enough misery in the world as it! — My Only Degree is M. S. S.

Dear MRS.: I have your little gem, and grin it is. My favorite poem finder hunted it up for us.

I agree. Good poetry and prose can give a lift to the spirits. Even an amusing bit of doggerel has something to be said for it.

Dear Doris: Please send me the poem "Mother's Apron", for which I am enclosing 10 cents.

My mother died when I was 11 years old. Mother left eight children. What a story I could tell! — Big Sister.

Dear Big Sister: Then tell it! Obviously you survived with something to spare, but it will be with a family of eight to raise, at age 11, calls for rare courage.

Let's share some of the fascinating details.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

STIRLING WI

Mrs. Morley Airhart was hostess for the October meeting of Stirling Women's Institute.

A report was given on the financial returns on sale of a quilt and catering to a luncheon.

The Institute is collecting used clothing for the Scott Mission in Toronto and members were asked to have their contributions in by November.

A cup and saucer was presented to the treasurer in appreciation for her 20 years of service in that office.

Mrs. Edison Sine gave an outline of the organization of the Federation of Women's Institutes of Ontario and made many helpful suggestions. Several games of bingo concluded the meeting.

Review of Activities Presented on 60th Anniversary

MARMORA — Sixty years of local Institute history was revived when members of Marmora branch of the Women's Institute celebrated their diamond anniversary on Thursday afternoon in St. Andrew's United Church Hall.

According to records available to Miss Grace Warren, historian for the Institute for many years, who presented a review of Marmora's activities since its inception on December 30, 1910, the first president elected was the late Mrs. V. Pringle.

Some of the early presidents were Mrs. Charles Bleecker, Mrs. Eugene Beatty, Mrs. Lewis Green, Mrs. Dr. Thompson, Mrs. Fred Wells, Mrs. Em Bell, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. F. C. Prentice, Mrs. Frank Sweet, Mrs. James Rice, Mrs. Jim Gordander, Mrs. Fraser Bowen, Mrs. Les Brindle, Mrs. Percy Gray, Mrs. Howard Sabine, Mrs. Knorr, and Mrs. Frank Grant.

Since 1922, presidents have been Mrs. Harold Naylor, Mrs. Bessie Sabine, Miss Warren, Mrs. Wm. Tindill, Mrs. George Empey, Mrs. Joe O'Neill and Mrs. Ralph Neal.

Some of the earlier projects realized with money raised by members was the purchase of a piano for Marmora Town Hall opened in 1913. Later on, stage was decorated and drapes added by the Institute.

During the first World War, help was sent for equipping a hospital ship, and hospital supplies and knitted socks in large quantities forwarded to over 100 local boys overseas. The yancent Dunley Block was used for a workshop for distribution of wool and packing parcels. Canned fruit and jellies for overseas were collected and packed in the back shop of Shannon's Hardware Store. Chiroorns over Connor and Jones Hardware were rented and furnished by the Institute for homecoming boys.

The Institute was responsible for the formation of Marmora Public Library in 1920, and part $27.7or the first shipment of books. An annual donation to the Library has been given every year since. A Victory Bond of $100 was donated to the building of the Memorial Building in '23.

Assistance in relief work had reached high in Institute activities, and monetary contributions have been made to the Hospital for Sick Children, Children's Shelter, Navy League, Salvation Army, Retarded Children's Hospitals, Chest Clinics, Mental Health, Heart and Cancer Clinics. Gifts are donated annually to the Mental Health patients in Belleville, and at present to the nursing home patients in Deloro.

A sum of money left to the Institute in 1963 by the late George Hartley was used for a bursary for high standing pupils in the district for grade 12, and this bursary has been continued by the Institute.

Special courses made available through the Department of Agriculture have been in needlework, upholstering, tool making, leathercraft, tooling, jewel embroidery, block printing and baking and many citizens have benefitted by learning these skills through the Institute.

The success of Institutes work as a whole is a credit to those who wrote the first charter, and the motto "For Home and Country" provided scope for the varied types of work undertaken and completed by the local branch over its 60 years of activities.

Guests from branches of the surrounding areas and Marmora members were welcomed to the afternoon's celebration by president, Mrs. Ralph Neal. The guest book was looked after by Mrs. Percy Carman.

A wooden plaque inscribed with the motto 'For Home and Country' and painted in blue and gold, was made and presented by Mrs. Percy Gordon, and hung at the front of the hall.

Blue and gold candles and flowers enhanced the tea table, centred with a huge birthday cake also decorated in Institute colors. The cake was cut by Mrs. Frank Marett, a faithful member for many years, and local members poured tea.

Home and School Association News

AVONDALE — SIR JOHN A MACDONALD

The Avondale - Sir John A Macdonald Home and School Association, held their first meeting of the school year on Oct. 14.

The Sir John A. Macdonald School, when construction is completed, will be taught under the new Open Area concept. As this has brought many questions and misinterpretations from the parents of the area, the evening was devoted to clearing these misunderstandings.

Mr. C. Rupnow, principal of the newly combined school, was speaker for the evening. He explained the new programs being established in our schools, which are in the introductory phase of "Open Plan Teaching", part of which in use at present is "cross-level grouping". Each child is daily evaluated and led into classes within his own capabilities. Mr. Rupnow made it clear that the co-operation of the child, the parents, the teachers, and the community is needed to make this new concept a success.

After coffee, Mr. Rupnow and the Vice-Principal Mr. R. Burnett, answered the many questions given a parents "Question Box" and from the floor. The parents gained much information about their children's school and what they can contribute to their children's learning. The results of a questionnaire for parents regarding the "Pupil Progress Reports" were tabulated and read by Mr. Rupnow.

It is hoped this meeting will be followed up by a parents' bus trip to various Open Area schools to view classes in session; and by a meeting in November featuring films on this new teaching concept with teacher speakers who are at present working in Open Plan Teaching.

CLUB 4-H NOTES

WALLBRIDGE 1 WOOLETTES

The officers elected at the first meeting of the Wallbridge 1 Woolettes were Holly Long, president; Irene De Bruin, vice-president; Annette Vanderveide, treasurer; Debbie Fox, press reporter and Pamela Finny, secretary. The project working with wool was discussed at this meeting. At their second meeting, members discussed patterns and how to choose them. At a later meeting held in the home of Mrs. Vanderveide, fabrics were discussed and leaders demonstrated alteration, straightening, pressing, placing and cutting of the pattern.

Points for Parents

By MARY BEYSON

Mother: "You must be quiet and behave yourselves when Aunt Mary and Uncle Joe are here. They don't have any children and they're awfully fussy about noise and confusion."

It's not what you ask the children to do as much as it is the way you phrase it that will determine their interest in co-operating.

Mother: "Aunt Mary and Uncle Joe like children very much but they're not used to a lot of noise, so let's all try to be quieter so they will enjoy visiting us."

Child: "I'll keep the record player turned low."

Petty Thieves Confess

Calgary Civic Management Under Investigation

CALGARY (CP) — Public scrutiny of civic management during the last 10 years resumes today with an investigation of political interference in the execution of police duties.

The possibility of such interference is only one of several areas being covered by the inquiry which opened late in September for seven days.

At that time, a series of witnesses told of thefts, loose security and questionable management by civic employees.

The involvement of Ald. John Kushner in the removal of an apple tree from city property to the home of his son was also heard.

Commission chairman, Mr. Justice W. G. Morrow of the Northwest Territories Court, said although the apple-tree incident had comic effects, the matter was not trivial.

Ald. Kushner and project manager Ed Burgoyne, whom the alderman said had given permission to remove the tree, gave conflicting evidence.

Mayor Rod Sykes had pushed the provincial government for several weeks to call the inquiry.

Bertram Fyerman, an administrative assistant closely connected with the transit system, said many ingenious ways had been developed to violate fare boxes.

One involved lowering a grab-shopper by string into a fare box where it would grasp a ticket or light coin before being retrieved.

Angus MacDonald, president of Local 583, Amalgamated Transit Operators Union, dismissed the story as a myth which "originated when a bunch of kids tried it on a street car many years ago."

He also challenged testimony that 25 per cent of the transit drivers had stolen from the system.

Several employees who had worked in cash-handling positions for the city said they stole "coffee money"—up to $2 a day.

James Ross and Dennis McIver, former city cashiers, appeared twice at the inquiry, the second time to reverse earlier testimony and admit thefts.

Both were fined $300 for contempt and Mr. Justice Morrow said he understood the pressures they were under, but by being untruthful "you very often magnify the thing you try to conceal."

City detectives testified they used closed-circuit television to observe people taking coins, but the city did not prosecute, preferring to fire the offenders or transfer them to less tempting positions.

The inquiry was sought after two men were convicted of stealing from the transit system and investigations revealed dubious actions in other parts of the civic administration.

One of the men who was convicted told the inquiry he stole $600 a week for 1½ years.

Mr. Justice Morrow ordered the man's name withheld because he had already paid his debt to society.

The man said on one occasion he went home ill and inadvertently took a set of security keys which he kept "for three weeks before anyone called to inquire about them."

The hearing covers administrations of Mayors Harry Hays, now a senator, Grant MacEwan, now lieutenant-governor of Alberta, Jack Leslie and Mr. Sykes.

House Bogs Down in Private Bills

OTTAWA (CP) — Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux suggested Tuesday that Parliament may be getting bogged down in a superfluity of bills proposed by individual MPs.

A record number of bills introduced by private members were given collective first reading in the House.

Of the 166 bills involved, more than 40 were sponsored by one Liberal member—Ralph W. Stewart (Cochrane).

Mr. Lamoureux gave Mr. Stewart a gentle chiding. While he would be the last to suggest it wasn't any member's right to introduce as many bills as he wanted, perhaps Mr. Stewart's contribution represented "a disproportionate share."

Most of the bills, the Speaker said, would never even get a chance to be discussed by the Commons.

On most sitting days the Commons sets aside an hour for debate on the bills, which are almost invariably talked out without a decision and banished to the bottom of the order paper.

Public bills submitted this year concern matters ranging from abortion—Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver Kingsway) wants abortion removed from the Criminal Code—to baseball for youngsters—Eugene Whelan (L—Essex) has a bill entitled "an act respecting little league week."

Barry Mather (NDP—Surrey), a cigarette smoker who quit, has ensured nobody will accuse him of having become soft on smoking. He has a bill called "an act to restrain the use of tobacco."

Kenneth Robinson (L—Toronto Lakeshore) may be trying to outstrip Mr. Mather as the House anti-smoking champion. He with two bills in the same vein.

There are two proposed acts which would give reporters immunity regarding their sources, introduced by Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) and R. G. L. Fairweather (PC—Fundy-Royal), former New Brunswick attorney-general.

Mr. Peters has the bill with perhaps the most interesting title:

Are Indian dancers included?

The House will have to wait until the bill is printed to find out.

Ten Years Old

The Somali Republic in northeast Africa was formed in July, 1960, by a merger of British Somaliland and neighboring Somalia, a United Nations trust territory that formerly was Italian Somaliland.

Office Workers Head Unemployed

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment has grown most rapidly this year among office and professional workers and those employed in the service and recreation industries.

An analysis of employment figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows that 22 per cent of the average of 455,000 persons who were unemployed during July, August and September were in the industry group generally classified as services.

These include community, business and personal services, public administration, finance, insurance and real estate. Normally, these service industries employ about 35 per cent of the total labor force.

Unemployment in the service industries equals the degree of unemployment in the second largest industry group—manufacturing.

The lowest rates of unemployment during July, August and September were in the primary industries, agriculture, forestry, fishing, trapping, mining.

Work Policy Flayed

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The head of the 140,000-member Canadian Union of Public Employees lashed out at the federal government Tuesday for adhering to economic policies which promote unemployment.

"The government has deliberately chosen policies that were bound to result in economic stagnation and high unemployment," Stanley Little told London's Public Utilities Commission CUPE Local 4.

Intelligencer Sports

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1970

by Maurice Switzer Sports Editor

We sit corrected.

Belleville's novice all-star hockey team did not play 45 games last year. Only 31.

It was 45 the year before that and, coach Dave Coates recalls, "I can remember them playing 70 one year."

The point, you may recall, was to illustrate that minor hockey and other minor sports are becoming over-organized.

We feel a team of nine-year-olds playing more than 30 weekend games a winter and practising during the week don't have much time to be just plain boys as well as all-stars.

"We shouldn't be playing games at all against little places like Napanee, Gananoque, or Picton. Picton hasn't scored a goal on us in two years.

"And who'd expect them to? They pick their team from 40 boys and we pick ours from 400!"

That sort of situation doesn't help the boys on either team, which is a bad thing if we are to assume that the object of minor sport programs is to benefit the boys involved.

Coates, one of the more involved minor hockey workers in the city, was more concerned about the boys on the other end of the age scale.

"What about these kids 17 and 18? What have we got for them to do?" he queries.

It may be unusual — even unfortunate — that a city of 25,000 can only scrape up about 30 juvenile hockey registrations, but we're more concerned about the current trend toward high-pressuring minor sportsters's small fry.

This is an age of joiners. You're just not respectable unless you're a social, political, or recreational card-carrier.

Belonging, membership — that's what kids have drilled into them.

If he doesn't go out for an organized minor sport team, junior might get the notion — often from his parents — that he's inferior, or, at best, different.

Strangely enough, the pressure to force sameness in minor sport is not shared in such fields as education, for example, where individual traits in children are sought out and encouraged.

But, unlike teachers, coaches are often under the gun from parents for daring to single out one boy as better than the others. I have had minor all-star coaches plead with me not to publish scoring statistics for their team lest they be accused of favoritism.

It's this sort of pressure, as well as the continual stress on the importance of winning that can be harmful to younger minor sport participants.

In the Soviet Union, boys do not enter an organized minor hockey program until they are the equivalent of our peewee classification. Until then, they play ishkuy whenever and wherever they can.

"All right," says you, "If Belleville had the Kremlin's climate our kids would be skimming up the Moira, too!"

But nearly every one of our house league participants get more ice time out of some form of supervised skimay than they do out of the two or three shifts they manage in their once-a-week outings?

Fran Tarkenton is a professional athlete. His credentials to comment on sport are the paycheques he draws for throwing the football for New York Giants.

Three children entitle him to talk about minor sports, and he doesn't pull any punches in doing so in a recent article in that Sports Illustrated of the paring-knife set, Ladies Home Journal.

"Don't Let Your Son Play Small-Fry Football," he headlines.

". . . or baseball or any other sport run by adults supposedly for kids.

"First of all. I don't think boys seven to 12 years old enjoy playing in a structured situation. They do it today because their friends are doing it; it's the thing to do, and so kid likes-to-be an oddball," Tarkenton theorizes.

"I think they would prefer to go out on the sandlots and play among themselves. Out there they can play any position, they can devise their own strategy, and they can be innovative."

Tarkenton launches a tirade against coaches who cry and treat boys like men and the parents who berate their child after a game for the mistakes he made.

He says psychologists have told him that the harm done by some sport programs is that boys are often not able to express their true selves.

It's healthy for parents to show an interest in their child's activities, Tarkenton concedes, but add:

"The person who probably helped me the most in growing up was my Dad, who wasn't an athlete and had no compulsion to see me do anything in sports.

"He was always interested and came to the games, but he never tried to channel me toward becoming a big athlete. This probably was a very healthy thing because it enabled me to retain a great childlike enthusiasm for sports.

"I'm against any program in which coaches treat children like professional athletes. I'm against any program that has parents coming to the games screaming and yelling and showing their frustrations to the kids.

"I hope my boy is allowed to be a kid," Tarkenton concludes. "I know I won't get in his way."

Minor sport programs can have a healthy benefit for youngsters, in the form of encouragement. If they don't encourage children as well as provide them with enjoyment, they should be changed or thrown out.

Golden Hawks Grounded By Kingston

KINGSTON (Special) — Trenton Golden Hawks had a tough time getting air-borne Tuesday night as they dropped a 12-4 decision to Kingston in their Eastern Ontario Junior B League opener.

"To be honest, there wasn't anything good that we did do last night," admitted coach Norm Calnan. "But we've been carrying a lot of players and haven't really been able to work with our lines. In the third period we played more like a team and held them to a 1-1 tie.

The Hawks suffered a crippling blow in the second period when first-string goalie Paul Pettigrill received a concussion from a elbow to the head in a goalmouth scramble. Al Brown, back-up goalie for the Trenton mid-gets was forced to fill the gap as neither Gerry Jowett or Steve MacDonald made the trip.

Trenton hopes to have Pettingill back for this weekend, although he will probably miss Friday's return bout with Kingston.

The top forward combination for Trenton consisted of Paul Lavender at centre with Ken and Hugh Holmes on the wings. All three players are from Wellington.

JEFF HOWARD
Nets Pair

The Golden Hawks get a chance to avenge the loss when they play at home to the Frontenacs Friday at 9 p.m.

Lancers Keeping Fast Company

Loyalist Lancers will find themselves in some pretty fast company tonight when they take on the Belleville Fairways in a 9.15 p.m. exhibition match at the Belleville Arena.

"Floyd's Flyers," as the speedy Belleville club could be referred to, are long on skating ability and should provide a stiff test in Loyalist's second exhibition hookup.

Crawford is looking to improve his team's defensive play somewhat, and undoubtedly would like more production from his second and third lines to take some of the heat off the Danny Lupenette, Dave Smith, Cliff Janitsch threesome.

Smith leads the Fairway pointgetters in exhibition play so far with four goals and seven assists. Lupenette has clicked for six goals and four assists, while Janitsch has contributed five helpers.

Two defencemen rank near the top of Belleville's scoring list with John Mulvihill potting three goals and five helpers and Peter Ackerman adding two goals and three assists.

Loyalist will be looking to make amends for a 6-2 loss to Trenton Golden Hawks in tonight's 9.15 p.m. encounter.

Mo-Hawks Start Looking Back

When Belleville Mo-Hawks opened training camp five weeks ago, it looked like they might have more goalkeepers than they knew what to do with.

Now they're trying to keep two in uniform.

Bob Moon, last year's backup for Steve Rexe, has been the "Old Faithful" of the respective goalkeepers, he has been with the club from the first day of training camp and was in the nets when the Mo-Hawks split their first two games of the OHA Senior A schedule.

But, promising newcomer, Callum MacPhee, who was in goal when the Mo-Hawks split with Oak last weekend, may be leaving the area within two weeks to accept a teaching job in New Brunswick, where he played Maritime Intercollegiate hockey last winter.

Coach Dave Jones got a look at another net hopeful at Tuesday night's club workout with the appearance of Jim Young, regular with last year's Chatham champions of the now - defunct rebel Western Ontario Junior A League.

BOB MOON
Old Faithful

Young, 20, was on his way back from the camp of Port Huron Flags' International Hockey League entry.

"They'd already signed three goalies when I got there," said Young, who had a respectable 3.42 goals - against average with Chatham last winter. "They tried to place me in the Eastern League but it was too late."

Meanwhile, the door was not shut on the possibility of signing last year's regular Steve Rexe, who has not been out with the Mo-Hawks since the second week of training camp.

General manager Robert Temple confirmed that Kingston Aces had received permission to negotiate with Rexe.

Game Club Meeting Tonight

The Belleville and District Fish and Game Club will hold its monthly meeting tonight at the Royal Canadian Legion hall on Pinnacle Street.

Three films will be shown and the half - and - half draw, won last month by David White, will be made.

Club officials report that the turkey shoot held earlier this month proved a successful venture with more than 30 of the birds awarded as prizes.

Time of the meeting is 8 p.m.

Picton Seniors Win Out

BCI and Picton closed their Bay of Quinte high school football schedules yesterday, with the schools splitting the double header.

The Picton seniors beat the BCI seniors in a very close game 14-6. The BCI juniors made it more convincing, whitewashing their rivals 60-0.

Paul Pettigill, on a quarterback sneak, and Terry Byford on an end-around, three-yard run accounted for the offence's scoring while the defence took BCI for a safety.

Keith Watson led the BCI Juniors to their 60-0 rout with three touchdowns. Andy Ricketts, Pete LeBaron, Steve Cowan, Ron Wood, Pete Cox and Leo Simmonds all accounted for 8 points. BCI also added 4 two-point conversions.

First-place Odds Favoring Alouettes

TORONTO (CP) — There are only four Eastern Football Conference games left this season, but official figures show they represent 81 possible combinations of victories, losses and ties which could have a bearing on the final standings.

Greg Fulton, Canadian Football League secretary-treasurer who figured it all out, said Tuesday "only one of the 81 combinations cannot be decided by the normal tie-breaking formula."

Thirty-four combinations favor Montreal Alouettes finishing first, 24 favor Toronto Argonauts ending up in top spot and 23 give Hamilton Tiger-Cats the nod.

The one remaining possibility leaves the standings in doubt, unable to be decided by normal tie-breaking procedure and Fulton has to figure out an answer by the time the EFC directors meet here Monday.

"Of course; 73 of the 81 possible combinations can be eliminated by events this weekend and there may not be a problem by Monday," Fulton said.

Fulton outlined the tie-breaking formulas thus:

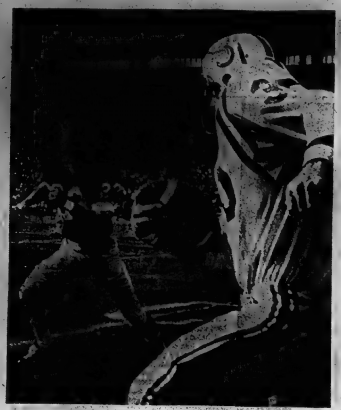
With two teams tied for first, the game victories between the teams involved will decide which gets the bye into the final; if that doesn't break the tie, then the points scored between the two teams will rule. And if that doesn't do it, overall points scored by the teams involved will be brought into play.

The same formula would be used in the event of a three-way tie and there are two ways a three-way tie could occur:

1. By Ottawa beating Montreal and Hamilton beating Toronto this weekend, then Montreal beating Hamilton and Toronto beating Ottawa Rough Riders next weekend. In this case, Montreal would get the bye by defeating Hamilton and Toronto twice each. Toronto would be second by virtue of a better record over Hamilton.

2. If Montreal defeated Ottawa and Toronto beat Hamilton this weekend and Hamilton beat Montreal and Ottawa beat Toronto next weekend, there would be a three-way tie which could not be broken by conventional means and would have to be resolved by whatever formula is accepted by the EFC at Monday's meeting.

Fulton has broken down his 81 possible combinations still further to find that 23 favor a Montreal-Hamilton-Toronto and Toronto-Montreal-Hamilton finishes.



Thirteen combinations call for a Toronto-Hamilton-Montreal result and 15 would have it Hamilton-Montreal-Toronto.

"And of course, there's that one other combination which leaves the whole thing in doubt," Fulton said. "Then with the possibilities of ties, the margin of victory in each game could be important also. Teams will not only be playing to win, but they'll be playing to score as heavily as possible."

In 1951 both the EFC (in those days the "Big Four") and the WFC (called the Western Interprovincial Football Union) had a three-way tie for first in the final standings.

The West divided the points for 1 v l o the points against among the three clubs and the lowest quotient won. The East flipped a coin.

Eskies Have Coach-of-Year

EDMONTON (CP) — A man who is young and new to coaching professional football Tuesday was named Coach-of-the-Year in Canada.

Ray Jauch, 32, in his first year as coach of Edmonton Eskimos, received the Annis Stukus Trophy at the Eskimos' $100-a-plate-dinner.

Voted top coach in Canada by his fellow coaches, Jauch was in tears as he accepted the trophy.

He took over the club after four years as an assistant and after a shaky start—only two wins in nine games, His club now has the best winning streak of 1970 in the Canadian Football League to its credit, six games in a row.

With only two games remaining, the Eskimos need only one win to clinch second place in the Western Football Conference. Last year the club finished fourth in the five-team conference and missed the playoffs.

Jauch, who said he was surprised at winning the award, credited his players and assistant coaches with making it possible.

However Jauch, a native of Mendota, Ill., who captained the Iowa Rose Bowl victors in 1958, is known as an extremely modest type.

He said he expected either Sam Etcheverry of Montreal Alouettes or Eagle Keys of Saskatchewan Roughriders to win this year's award. Frank Clair of Ottawa won the title in 1959.

"It just doesn't happen in first-year coaches," Jauch said. Nevertheless, it did happen and his credentials as top coach in Canada are impressive.

He took over a team with a fine defence, the best in Canada according to 1969 statistics, and a terrible offence. He let the defence alone and brought in what he considered offensive threats.

After much juggling, plenty of cutting and some guessing, his offence started to jell. Don Trull, an American Football League veteran, filled in at quarterback; Terry Swarn became a great offensive halfback after being a top split end in 1969, and Dave Cutler became a top-notch place-kicker.

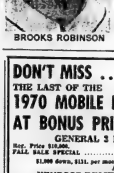
Namath Out Six Weeks

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath, plagued but never stopped by battered knees since becoming the New York Jets quarterback six years ago, will be sidelined for at least six weeks by a broken right wrist.

Namath suffered the injury late in Sunday's 29-22 loss to Baltimore Colts. At first the injury was diagnosed as a bruised wrist but x-rays at a hospital showed Tuesday a fracture of the navicula bone on the wrist and the wrist was put in a cast. The navicular bone is a small bone at the base of the thumb.

Jets physician Dr. James A. Nicholas said the condition of Namath who had never missed a regular or post-season game since joining the Jets as a $400,000 bonus baby in 1965, will be continuously re-evaluated during the anticipated six-week recovery period.

"If he were playing any other position, he'd be able to play," Dr. Nicholas added.



But Namath is a quarterback and now the Jets, who have only a 1-4 record and are in deep trouble, are looking for help at the key position. Second-year pro Al Woodall moves into the starting role. He is backed by Bob Davis, up from the taxi squad.

Brooks Wants Six Figures

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooks Robinson is going to bat for $100,000-with or without his golden glove.

"I don't think they've ever paid me a penny for my glove," Baltimore Orioles' third baseman said Tuesday after confirming that he'll shoot for a six-figure contract next season to go with the new car given him by Sport Magazine for his World Series heroics.

"A player's defensive ability is overlooked in contract talks," said the 33-year-old veteran, long acknowledged as the top glove man at his position in the majors. "They pay you for what you contribute with the bat. If a guy is just a good defensive player, he can go just so far salary-wise."

BROOKS ROBINSON

He likely will get his $100,000 to join team - mate Frank Robinson in the Orioles' highincome bracket. Whether he does or not, his fielding genius won't be overlooked in the negotiations, Baltimore chief Harry Dalton insisted.

"He's a total ball player and you pay him as a total ball player," Dalton said. "Brooks has always been paid for his hitting, his fielding and his intangible contributions to our ball club.

"Of course, you can't bring Brooks into a money session and talk about his fielding because you're going to lose the argument.

"That would be like attacking perfection."

Murtaugh Named Top NL Manager

NEW YORK (AP) — Danny Murtaugh was named today The Associated Press' National League Manager of 1970, a year in which his low-key leadership and uncanny juggling of a patchwork pitching staff guided Pittsburgh to the National League East title.

It was the third Manager-of-the-Year award for Murtaugh, who has never managed any big league club except Pittsburgh. He won in 1958, his first full season as manager, and in the Pirates's world championship year of 1960.

Murtaugh retired at the end of the 1964 season because of ill health but remained with the Pirates to scout and work with the farm clubs until he became manager again in a surprise move this year.

"Naturally I have to be very well pleased," Murtaugh said of his latest honor. "I would have to say it's a great surprise. I thought there were a lot of others who did tremendous jobs with their clubs."

The 53-year-old Murtaugh, who succeeded Larry Shepherd as boss this year, got to the major leagues with Philadelphia Phillies in 1941. He stayed with the Phillies until he went into the service in 1944.

Upon his return from the service he played for Philadelphia, the old boston Braves and a couple of minor league teams before going to the Pirates in 1948 for one of his best seasons. He hit .290, drove in a career high 71 runs and led NL second basemen in putouts, assists and double plays.

Bordeleau Won't Stay

MONTREAL (CP)—Paulin Bordeleau is awaiting a deal between Montreal Junior Canadiens and Niagara Falls Flyers that will bring him back to Montreal.

In his rookie season in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, Bordeleau scored 18 goals for the Canadiens.

But Bordeleau, 16, was a branch transfer and eligible for the OHA midget draft and the Flyers, who finished last in the OHA last season, picked him up.

Bordeleau spent two days in Niagara Falls and then returned to his home in Noranda, Que.

"He didn't even put his skates on while he was there," said Canadiens' president Phil Wimmer. "He says that if he doesn't play in Montreal he won't play anywhere in the OHA."

Mr. Emms (Flyers' owner Hap Emms) says he would be interested in a trade—but only after Paulin has been there awhile.

"He wants to make sure Bordeleau doesn't like Niagara. But Bordeleau just won't go."

Wimmer announced Tuesday that forward Camille Lapierre has been signed by the Canadiens. Lapierre will replace Hartland Monahan who suffered a double fracture of his right wrist in Sunday's game here against Kitchener.

Chapman Wants 2,500 Wins by Birthday

The popular native of Toronto will be 42 Sunday, and he hopes he will have a lifetime record of 2,500 winners before then.

He needs only five to join the select circle of drivers who have 2,500 or more winners in modern times.

Right now, there are six in the grouping including Joe O'Brien, the Hall of Famer from Alberton, P.E.I., who is close to 3,500 winners.

"About a year ago I set several goals for myself, but I never thought I would get this close to 2,500 winners by now," Chapman said. "At the final 50-night meeting of the New York harness-racing season got under way Tuesday night.

"I hope to make 2,500 before my birthday."

He didn't have a winner Tuesday night, but still has four nights of racing left before Sunday.

For years, Chapman has been trying to get credit for winners he drove while racing on Canadian tracks more than 20 years ago.

He has finally succeeded in getting partial credit, and that boosted him well on his way to making room for one more reinsman among the top six.

Chapman petitioned the United States Trotting Association, asking that the governing body credit him with 148 winners he drove in Canada before he came to the States. The USTA checked records and gave him credit for 97.

Besides O'Brien, others in the 2,500-or-better circle are fellow Canadian Herve Filion of Angers, Que., and Americans Del Insko, Stanley Dancer, Bob Farrington and Billy Haughton.

O'Brien, 53, was elected to the Trotting Hall of Fame in October, 1969, last weekend. He was picked in national balloting by members of the United States Harness Writers Association and will be formally inducted next July.

O'Brien, who has earned more than $8 million in purses in his career, is an amateur rich winning season with his pride, Canadian-owned Fresh Yankee.

"I came to New York with only a set of colors," he recalls.

West Germans Stealing Show

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gerd Wiltfang of West Germany, riding the six-year-old gelding Sieco, won the international pokeout Tuesday night at the 25th Pennsylvania National Horseshow.

Wiltfang, taking top individual honors for the second night in a row, made five faultless rides in the nearly two hours of competition in which the fences became more difficult in each succeeding round.

In the fifth round, only Wiltfang and Jim Elder of Aurora, Ont., remained from the field of 18. By that time, the jump had been reduced to two barriers, a simulated brick wall standing six feet 10 inches, and a rail barrier standing six feet one inch and seven feet deep. Elder had trouble getting the veteran Sheeman over the wall, while Wiltfang cleared the barrier with plenty to spare.

Last year's winner, Moffat Dunlop of Newmarket, Ont., was among three riders eliminated in the third round.

Both Wiltfang and Elder scored clean rides in the fourth round.

After three rounds of competition, West Germany had 44 points, followed by Canada with 47 and the United States and Ireland each with six. Mexico has not scored.

Wiltfang is the individual leader with 20 points, followed by two other West Germans—Hans Gunter Winkler with 14, and Lutz Merkel with 10.

Sport Briefs

MONTREAL (CP) — John Ferguson, who retired from National Hockey League competition this year to enter the clothing business, has decided to take up sports writing.

Beginning Friday, the former Montreal Canadiens left winger will write a daily harness-racing column for The Gazette.

As a youngster, Ferguson watched his father train and race horses on the West Coast and he later pursued the pastime as a business venture during his hockey career. He owns or shares a partnership in nine horses.

OAKVILLE (CP) — Oakville Oaks of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series have signed Cal Russell, 20-year-old right winger waived through the National Hockey League by Minnesota North Stars. Russell played last season for Waterloo, Iowa, Stars in the Central Hockey League. Minnesota obtained him this year in a deal with Detroit Red Wings.

Bob Quick's three-point play with five seconds left plus a penalty shot by Jimmy Walker on a technical foul gave unbeaten Detroit Pistons a wild come-from-behind victory over Milwaukee Bucks in National Basketball Association action in Detroit Tuesday night.

In other NBA games Tuesday, Philadelphia 76ers defeated the Braves 98-89 in Buffalo, San Francisco Warriors beat the Bullets 125-106 in Baltimore and the Knicks were victorious over Los Angeles Lakers 115-100 in New York.

Dave Bing led the way for Detroit Pistons with 27 points and Lew Alcindor replied with another 27 for Milwaukee.

In Buffalo, Hal Greer scored 20 points for the 76ers leading them to their fourth consecutive victory. Emmette Bryant was top scorer for the Braves with 19.

Willis Reed led the scoring for New York with 29 points while Jerry West was top for the Lakers with 26.

TORONTO (CP) — Tom Gaylord, 41, a member of the Canadian equestrian team which won a gold medal at the 1968 Olympics in Mexico, will not compete during the next three weeks of international horse shows at Harrisburg, Penn., Washington and New York.

Gaylord, of nearby Gormley, said Tuesday he simply hasn't a horse that can stand the pace.

"My good mare (Big Doe) was hurt this summer in Ireland and while I have a strong young prospect in Dreamy Joe, I don't think he'd stand the pressure."

Chosen for the Canadian team were Jim Day of Oakville, Ont., Jim Elder of Aurora, Ont., who also were on the gold medal team at Mexico City, Moffat Dunlop of Newmarket, Ont., and Barbara Simpson of Calgary.

LONDON (Reuter) — Ted (Kid) Lewis, a former world welterweight champion and one of Britain's greatest boxers, died here Tuesday just four days before his 77th birthday. Lewis, whose real name was Gershon Mendeloff, won the world welterweight title from Jack Britton of the United States in 1915. Britton won it back in 1915, lost it to Lewis the next year but finally won it back from Lewis in 1919.

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference Tuesday released veteran Bob Lueck, WFC all-star offensive guard in 1968 and 1967. Lueck, 27, was in his fifth season with the Stampeders. The club said he was released to make room for Granville Liggins, sidelined for most of the season with a groin injury and reactivated from the injured reserve list.

Former Habs Have First Forum Homecoming

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Montreal Forum is usually an unfriendly rink for most National Hockey League players, but at least one Minnesota North Star player is looking forward to tonight's game against Montreal Canadiens.

He is defenceman Ted Harris, who toiled last season with the Canadiens when they missed the Stanley Cup playoffs for the first time in 10 years.

"Somebody once said you have no friends on the ice and I agree," Harris said Tuesday. "I was lucky to play on four Stanley Cup teams (with Montreal) and won in the final in the other. Last season we had problems when the spirit wasn't the same."

Harris will be one of three former Canadiens playing against his former team-mates tonight. The others are goalie Gump Worsley and centre Bobby Rousseau. But Harris and Rousseau will be returning to the Forum for the first time since joining the North Stars in an off-season trade that sent them to Minnesota for Claude Larose and Bill Collins.

Harris came to the Canadiens from Cleveland Barons of the American League in 1963 along with John Ferguson to give some muscle to a talented but otherwise peace-loving Montreal team. Ferguson, ironically, retired this season to enter the clothing business.

TED HARRIS

Jude Drouin, a Montreal farmhand last year, also is expected to be in the lineup for Minnesota but North Stars coach Jackie Gordon is undecided about his choice of goalie —Worsley, Cesare Maniago or Gilles Gilbert.

The Canadiens will go with the same lineup that led 14-as New York Rangers Sunday. However, coach Claude Ruel is considering a change in goalies to Phil Myre from Rogatien Vachon. Myre played home of his best games against the North Stars last season.

The Canadiens can move into first place with a win over the North Stars, two points ahead of Boston Bruins who are idle but the Bruins will have two games in hand.

Serge Savard, Montreal's young defenceman sidelined his right leg in a scrimmage Tuesday, his first since last March when he broke the leg in a game against the Rangers.

"I'm truly happy," Savard said after the test. "I could make my turns pretty good and now all that's left is to get into playing condition."

In a single game Tuesday night, Vancouver Canucks got some solid net minding from Charlie Hodge and handed California Golden Seals a 2-1 defeat, their fifth straight loss this season.

Hodge kicked out 34 shots before the 12,383 fans and lost his shutout bid with 161 times to play when Dick Mulvey scored. Vancouver scored both their goals in the second period when Wayne Maki got a power-play goal past California goalie Gary Smith at the 24-second mark. Andre Boudrias scored less than two minutes later.

BOBBY ROUSSEAU

The Vancouver victory was the second for the Canucks in seven games, the most games played so far this season by any NHL team. The win moved the team into a fourth-place tie with Detroit Red Wings, who have played six games.

Following a scoreless first period, Maki fired his shot from 28 feet for his third goal of the season on a pass from Orland Kurtenbach after he dug the puck out of a swarm of players in the corner.

Boudrias then banged in the third goal of the season at 11:37 when he shovelled a shot to the far corner after taking a pass from Rosaire Paiement.

Vancouver dominated with a third period, firing 11 shots at Smith but Mathieu got a break at 18:43 when a pass from Dennis Hextall found him alone in front of the Vancouver net.

The Seals play again tonight when they meet St. Louis Blues at Oakland. In two other games, Toronto Maple Leafs play the Rangers at New York and Pittsburgh Penguins are in Los Angeles to meet the Kings.

Meanwhile, George Armstrong, the 40-year-old former Leafs captain, has announced his retirement again. Armstrong announced his retirement the last three seasons but changed his mind later. He said, however, he intends to make it stick this time.

Allan Cup Format At Stake

OTTAWA (CP) — The senior council of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will recommend Nov. 14 whether to scrap the Allan Cup playoffs and adopt a tournament system, CAHA Executive Director Gordon Juckes said Tuesday.

The council, working on the question since May, is waiting to hear the opinion of eastern leagues before making its final decision.

Western leagues, Juckes said, are generally in favor of tournament play, reducing playoffs to four or five days from the present six weeks.

One problem Juckes mentioned in an interview is that in tournament play teams might be competing for top honors in other cities than their own, making it more difficult to interest the public.

On the other hand, he said tournament play could be scheduled a year in advance so that nearly all major Canadian cities could be host for the games at one time or another.

Under present Allan Cup rules, only those cities with top scoring CAHA teams can expect to see playoff action.

Quebec's Torment Evident at Funeral of Former Labor Minister

MONTREAL (CP) — Soldiers in silhouette against a clear autumn sky symbolized Quebec's torment when kidnap victim Pierre Laporte was borne to his last resting place Tuesday.

Paratroops, standing atop huge hearses, guarded Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau of Canada, Premier Robert Bourassa of Quebec and a host of other dignitaries attending the funeral of the Quebec cabinet minister whose body was found early Sunday.

As Canada mourned the labor minister and reform politician, police continued efforts to save British envoy James Richard Cross, kidnapped five days before Mr. Laporte but said in letters found Sunday to be still alive.

Front de Libération du Québec terrorists boasted in contemptuous terms Saturday night that Mr. Laporte, 49, had been "executed" seven days to the minute after being kidnapped from outside his suburban St. Lambert home.

The FLQ, revolutionaries seeking among other things the violent separation of Quebec from the Canadian Confederation, reiterated demands that authorities free 23 "political prisoners" in exchange for the life of Mr. Cross, who also is 49.

Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Bourassa, in an unexpected gesture, visited Barbara, wife of Mr. Cross, at her home following the Laporte funeral and before the prime minister returned by helicopter to Ottawa.

Pierre Laporte was known as a devoted husband and father. Francoise, his wife for 25 years, last saw him cavorting at football with a nephew just before the kidnappers stuck before her terrified gaze.

When his terrible fate finally became known, she refused a government suggestion for a state funeral in favor of a private ceremony. But the presence of so many Canadian leaders Tuesday made it a state occasion in virtually everything but name.

Leaders of all federal and Quebec political parties, a half-dozen federal cabinet ministers, some 100 federal MPs and senators, virtually all members of the Quebec national assembly and civic leaders paid their respects.

But the 40-minute requiem mass at 11-year-old Notre Dame Church in Old Montreal —the site of the original settlement—mirrored the hopes of Mrs. Laporte for simplicity. Few flowers, no choir, no organ music.

And there were reminders of days of the not-so-long ago.

Early this year Mr. Laporte contested leadership of the Quebec Liberal party against Mr. Bourassa, then became right-hand man of the 36-year-old economist when Mr. Bourassa emerged victorious in that contest and then in a provincial election. At the funeral, one comely young lady was seen sporting a big campaign button with the one word, "Pierre."

Several thousand persons squeezed 10-deep behind barricades on streets leading to and surrounding historic Place d'Armes where stately Notre Dame is situated, its twin grey towers dedicated to Temperance and Perseverance.

The scene in Place d'Armes varied from an almost complete hush as the hearse arrived to bursts of furious activity and noise as motorcycle blasts bounced off skyscrapers and other financial buildings in the area.

Only members of the official party attended the burial ceremony at Cote des Neiges cemetery a couple of miles away on the slopes of Mount Royal. Mayor Jean Drapeau, a close friend of Mr. Laporte, was one of the last to leave.

At Ottawa, meanwhile, Governor-General Roland Michener and clergymen from four denominations took part in a national memorial service in a Roman Catholic basilica that was also stiff with security.

Political figures, Supreme Court judges and many others from public life filled the church for the televised service timed to coincide with the Montreal funeral.

Authorities were keenly aware that the FLQ has large stocks of stolen dynamite and the proclamation last Friday of the emergency War Measures Act, also a declaration of war by Mr. Trudeau on the terrorist organization, resulted in security precautions perhaps unmatched in Canadian history in both Montreal and Ottawa.

Some of the financial institutions surrounding Place d'Armes are regarded by the FLQ revolutionaries as instruments of capitalist oppression. A time bomb containing 150 sticks of dynamite, enough to demolish the whole area, was dismantled by police a few months ago.

Police dogs, trained to sniff out dynamite, prowled Notre Dame church in advance of the arrival of the some 1,000 guests Tuesday. Even sewers were searched for explosives and assassins.

Waiting onlookers murmured in quiet conversation in a chill wind before onlookers and lines of cars accompanying political leaders came into the ancient square, motorcycle motors barking, lights flashing.

Prime Minister Trudeau's entourage swept eastward from the city hall area along Notre Dame street, then did a circuit of Place d'Armes, around the statue of Sieur de Maisonneuve, founder of Montreal, before coming to a stop at the church curbside.

By then, troops had taken up position in the square and rooftop soldiers could be seen training guns at the scene below.

Mr. Trudeau arrived at 3:38 p.m.—a half-hour before the mass began—and then the church doors were opened to admit guests.

The two Mrs. Laportes—wife and mother of the slain minister —arrived with Cleire, 26, and Jean, 18, children of Pierre Laporte.

Robert Stanfield, Progressive Conservative leader, T. C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic party, and Real Caouette, Creditiste leader, followed closely. Flanieothemen leaped from their cars as the motorcade of Premier Bourassa and his cabinet drew up before the church. Mayor Jean Drapeau arrived with Mr. Trudeau.

A hush descended on the square when the hearse bearing Mr. Laporte's body arrived from the courthouse two blocks away, where the well-liked lawyer-journalist-politician had been lying in state since Sunday night. Thousands of Quebecers had filed past his open coffin.

Msgr. Paul Gregoire, who concelebrated the funeral mass, read to the assembly a message from Pope Paul.

"Our faith offers, at the end of the wood, an outlook full of brightness. And if we feel sad, we do not suffer as others who have no hope."

Beyond Christice and "the cruelty of men" were the rewards of Heaven which Jesus promised would be more abundant for those who work and suffer more for their brothers."

At about the same time, Governor-General Michener was reading in Ottawa from St. Paul's second epistle to the Corinthians:

"If we know that when the tent that we live in on earth is folded up, there is a house built by God for us, an everlasting home. . . ."

Present at Notre Dame were all the surviving colleagues of Mr. Laporte from the early rollicking days of Quebec's Quiet Revolution of the early 1960s, including former premier Jean Lesage.

Mr. Laporte first rose to prominence as a journalist battling the authoritarian regime of the late premier Maurice Duplessis, working for Le Devoir, situated several blocks east from Notre Dame. He entered politics in 1961.

He mastered the parliamentary art and, following a period in the opposition wilderness after being minister of culture and municipal affairs in the Lesage government, he became Mr. Bourassa's No. 1 man when the Liberals returned to power last spring.

Joining in tribute were the former Union Nationale premier, Jean-Jacques Bertrand, defeated by Mr. Bourassa's team last spring, Camil Samson, leader of the Quebec Creditiste party, and Rene Levesque, leader of the Parti Quebecois, which wants a sovereign Quebec in economic association with Canada.

Mme. Georges Vanier, widow of the governor-general who died in Centennial year, was present along with rectors of seven Quebec universities and all members of Quebec's national assembly.

Tenants To Make Decisions

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Tenants of public housing projects will soon be full-fledged members of Ontario housing authorities, E. E. Clow, chairman of the board of directors for the Ontario Housing Corp., said Tuesday.

Tenants also will be eligible to serve on management advisory committees for new area housing authorities in the province, he said.

Mr. Clow addressed more than 320 delegates and guests at the closing dinner of the 18th annual conference of the Association of Ontario Housing Authorities.

Tenant participation in the decision-making process of housing authorities was a central theme of the three-day gathering.

Mr. Clow said the OHC has "initiated a number of policies which have provided tenants with an opportunity to participate to a greater degree in matters affecting their living project."

Earlier, Ian Mackerman of Ottawa, vice-president of Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., said more money will have to be channelled into low-cost housing.

Of the million new homes needed in Canada by the end of 1974, "a very substantial portion" will be directed to those who cannot afford the kind of housing they require on the normal open market.

An average of 200,000 new homes a year will be built during the next five years, all by private enterprise, he said. This year's total starts would likely amount to about 180,000.

FALSE THREAT

GULF SHORES, Ala. (AP) — A town ordinance makes it unlawful "for any hurricane to enter in, upon, across or over the corporate limits of the Town of Gulf Shores, its police jurisdiction, or the air space above it." The law was enacted in 1957, one year after the coastal resort town was incorporated. The penalty on conviction is a fine of $1 to $100 or six months at hard labor.

Countries Take A Look At Emergency Powers

LONDON (Reuter) — Invoking of the War Measures Act in Canada has caused many other democracies to blow the dust off their own laws directed against subversion.

West Germany passed emergency laws as recently as June, 1968, to give the government sweeping powers in the event of external aggression or internal invasion.

These laws provide for the Bonn government to take over the Western allies' rights to telephones and open mail.

Freedom of movement can be restricted, all men over 18 can be conscripted into the armed forces or civilian services, and soldiers may be used to reinforce the police.

France has several procedures available for invoking special powers. The best-known of these, Article 16 of the 1958 constitution introduced by General de Gaulle, gives the president broad discretionary powers to "take the measures dictated by the circumstances" in a crisis.

In the aftermath of the 1961 uprising by military men and Algerian settlers, General de Gaulle invoked Article 16 to impose house arrest or internment on persons suspected of subversion, to lengthen the period for which police could hold suspects, and to ban publications.

Even more severe would be the decreeing of a state of siege, which would give the French military many powers normally exercised by civilian officials.

Britain has no current equivalent of Canada's War Measures Act. The Emergency Powers (Defence) Act of 1939, enabling undesirable aliens to be detained, lapsed after the Second World War.

But the 1920 Emergency Powers Act, amended in 1964, gives the government the right to proclaim a state of emergency if vital services are in peril. This act was invoked during a seamen's strike in 1966.

The Northern Ireland government in Belfast has strengthened its own legal powers, banned religious parades and imposed local curfews since Protestant Roman Catholic riots flared up two years ago.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: Do you advise against pulling a medium-size travel trailer with a compact car?

ANSWER: Yes. It would present a safety risk because compact cars are simply not structurally strong enough or powerful enough for such a task.

QUESTION: We are taking our family to New York City soon and would like a direct but scenic route if possible and also if you could name a few of the main attractions for adults and children.

ANSWER: There are several scenic routes to New York City but the most direct one is as follows — Take Interstate 81 from the Ivy Lea Bridge to Binghamton, N.Y., No. 17 to the New York Thruway, and this will take you into New York City. Mileage — 400 miles. If you would like a different route back take the Hudson River Parkway (9A) to the Saw Mill River Parkway. This will connect with the Taconic State Parkway, just north of Tarrytown. Take the Taconic Parkway north to Massachusetts Turnpike, take this west to the New York Thruway (No. 90), exit off this at Utica, New York and take No. 12 north to Watertown, N.Y. and No. 81 to the Ivy Lea Bridge. Mileage — 400 miles.

Empire State Building — Take an elevator ride up 102 floors to the Observation deck and see all of New York in Miniature. From 42nd Street north on Fifth Ave. is a window - shopper's wonderland. You pass Tiffany, Saks and Bonwit Teller, Best and Co., with its special collection of children's clothes; F. A. O. Schwarz, home of the newest most wonderous toys. Kids can actually see themselves on TV during the guided tour of RCA Building at Rockefeller Centre. They'll enjoy watching a live television show and exploring the station. The renowned Rockettes are just one block away at Radio City Music Hall, where you'll see a live variety show plus a movie.

Central Park — Here you can have lunch at the automat or by the fountain in Central Park. You can rent a boat or bikes or take a carousel ride or visit the Zoo.

Boat Trips — Your children will love the breezy, three-hour Circle Line Cruise around Manhattan Island. You'll pass Ocean Liners and tiny tugboats, plus 35 miles of famous landmarks. You can get on these cruises at West 43rd St. pier. Adults $3.00, Children $1.25. The Staten Island Ferry costs a dime round trip and passes the Statue of Liberty. There are many museums to see especially the Metropolitan Museum of Art, 5th Ave. and 82nd Street in Central Park. This is one of the great museums of the world. Among the large collections are Egyptian, Greek and Roman Art.

New York Zoological Park — At Fordham Rd. and Southern Blvd. Known as the Bronx Zoo, it has the largest collection of mammals, birds and reptiles in the Western Hemisphere. Open daily 10 to 5, free 75 cents, children 50 cents.

New York Botanical Gardens — In northwest Bronx Park, covers 230 acres. It has magnificent grounds and buildings and one of the largest botanical collections in the world. For members of the Ontario Motor League, we have free books describing all the other attractions and accommodations, also free maps and triptiks.

Mainland China Red to Robarts

TORONTO (CP) — The Peoples' Republic of China is still "Red" China to Premier John Robarts even if it has received Canadian diplomatic recognition, he told the legislature Tuesday.

Opposition Leader Robert Nixon had asked if Ontario would be represented when the federal government sends a trade delegation to "mainland" China.

Mr. Robarts said the interests of Ontario would be represented in any negotiations by the government of Canada with Red China.

When Elsiner Sopha (L-Sudbury) questioned the use of the term "Red," Mr. Robarts said:

"Are you going to say that since we've recognized them they've ceased to be Red? Let's be reasonable."

Kidnapping Diplomats Likely to Be UN Topic

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — International concern over the kidnapping of diplomats is expected to surface here in the next few weeks.

It is not yet clear just what form UN action will take, but informed sources expressed little doubt that in one form or another the UN will become involved with the question.

The situation in Canada has been watched quietly here ever since the kidnappings of James Cross, British trade official in Montreal, and of the slain Quebec labor minister, Pierre Laporte. The kidnappings of diplomats in Latin America, and the death of an American and a West German, already had been noted with concern.

A move that started at the beginning of the General Assembly to have the UN consider the matter is reported to have died.

Now it is reported that The Netherlands has proposed that kidnapping be considered by the General Assembly's legal committee.

There is enough agreement to get an item on the agenda, it is reported, but it has been decided to await action in Washington by the Inter-American Juridical Committee. The committee was reported Tuesday to have before it a draft declaration on kidnapping.

The draft has a way to go. It must be approved by the council and the general assembly of the Organization of American States.

Sources here see two possibilities. The OAS draft could come here for consideration by the world body. If this is not satisfactory to some delegations, a new initiative could be presented here.

'Just Like Execution'

Surgeon, Family Shot in California

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (CP) — Investigators say they have found the car killers apparently used to escape from a burning hilltop mansion where a wealthy eye surgeon, his wife, two young sons and secretary were bound, shot to death and dumped into a swimming pool.

The green Oldsmobile station wagon belonging to Virginia Ohta was found Tuesday by the engineer of a Southern Pacific train in a railway tunnel a few miles north of here.

The engineer said the car was not there when he went up the narrow, forested canyon at 3 p.m. but was burning in the tunnel when he came back down at 4:45. He used the train to push the car out of the tunnel.

Sheriff's deputies put up roadblocks and began questioning pedestrians and vehicle occupants along nearby California 9.

Mrs. Ohta, 43, her husband, Dr. Victor Ohta, 45, their two sons, Derrick, 12, and Taggart, 11, and a secretary, Dorothy Cadevallader, 38, were found bound and shot in the back of the head, in the swimming pool at Dr. Ohta's $200,000 hilltop home a few miles east of here Monday night.

The home, several hundred yards from the nearest neighbor, was burning fiercely from fires set throughout its 10 rooms, sheriff's officers said.

Dr. Ohta, an ophthalmological surgeon with a thriving practice, had been shot once more than the rest. He had an extra shot in the back.

Sheriff Douglas James of Santa Cruz County said two firearms may have been used—apparently .38-calibre and .22-calibre weapons.

Autopsies and other aspects of the investigation continued under close secrecy.

Authorities did not link the Ohta slayings with another of similar characteristics discovered Tuesday morning 26 miles north of Santa Cruz at Saratoga.

The Ohtas and Mrs. Cadevallader all had their hands tied in front of them with the bright silk scarves that Dr. Ohta liked to wear around his neck. The heads of three were swathed in scarves, and two other scarves found in the pool indicated the two other victims had been similarly hooded.

"It was like an execution," one sheriff's deputy said.

"We have no weapon, no suspect, no motive," another said.

Two Ohta daughters, Taura, 19, attending college in New York, and Lark Elizabeth, 15, at a Monterey, Calif., boarding school, were safe.

Ontario Savings Offices May Soon Be Offering Loans

TORONTO (CP) — Revenue Minister John White said Tuesday he will announce a major change in the Province of Ontario Savings Office within the next three weeks.

It will be one of eight major changes in his department to be announced within the next three months, he said as a legislature committee began studying his $12,679,000 estimates for 1970-71.

In an interview later, Mr. White would not deny that the change might include permitting the savings office to offer loans.

The province has 21 offices where persons may deposit money and write cheques on it. They do not offer loans.

In other business, Mr. White said his department is continuing a campaign against tax evaders, particularly those who evade a diesel fuel tax.

He said meetings with Quebec officials who have said organized crime is contributing to diesel fuel tax evasion have been postponed because of recent terrorist activities in Quebec. But his staff of investigators has been increased to 11 from five, and there was no doubt "these tax evaders are going to go to jail."

He said the staff in his department had been shot once more than the rest. He had an extra shot in the back.

Sheriff Douglas James of Santa Cruz County said two firearms may have been used—apparently .38-calibre and .22-calibre weapons.

Autopsies and other aspects of the investigation continued under close secrecy.

Authorities did not link the Ohta slayings with another of similar characteristics discovered Tuesday morning 26 miles north of Santa Cruz at Saratoga.

Leary Given Algerian Asylum

ALGIERS (AP) — Dr. Timothy Leary has arrived up in Algeria and the fugitive guru of the drug movement is reported planning to take up residence and work for the Black Panther party in Algiers.

The official Algerian news agency said Tuesday night that Leary, who escaped Sept. 12 from a California prison where he was serving time for possession of marijuana, arrived "recently" with his wife Rosemary and had been granted political asylum.

Shortly before the Algerian statement was issued, the Yippies—the Youth International party—announced in New York that the former Harvard lecturer was "alive and well and high in Algiers."

The Yippies held a news conference outside the Women's House of Detention in New York and released a letter signed by Leary that said: "I offer living gratitude to my sisters and brothers in the Weatherman underground who designed and executed my release."

Yippie leaders also produced a letter from Bernadine Dohrn, who replaced Angela Davis on the FBI's 10 most-wanted list after Miss Davis was captured last week in New York. Miss Dohrn's letter said the Weathermen have "had the honor and pleasure of helping Dr. Timothy Leary to escape from the PW camp at San Luis Obispo, Calif."

The Yippies did not disclose the whereabouts of Miss Dohrn, who is accused of plotting to set off bombs in major U.S. cities. There have been rumors that she might also turn up in Algiers soon.

Informants in Algiers said the Learys arrived Saturday and are staying with Eldridge Cleaver, fugitive minister of information of the Black Panther party, in his villa in the suburb of El Biar.

Designer Criticizes Critics

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret's new middriffless —centre of a maxi storm among British fashion writers —won at least partial support Tuesday from one of her favorite designers.

"The fashion writers were so unfair to the princess," said Pierre Celerye, a French trend-setter in London's fashionable Belgravia district. "They said some dreadful things about her. I was amazed they could be so rude."

Celèrye designed one of the outfits and he insisted the Queen's sister looked good in it. The other midi, because of its jacket, "made her look fat," he said.

Celeyre said he wanted to create a slimming effect for the clothes-conscious princess, who is 40.

Heads Awami League

Pakistani Leader Advocates Separation

KARACHI (CP) — A new leader is emerging in Pakistan's complicated political picture with a thinly disguised campaign for the separation of East Pakistan from the western wing of the country. The two parts of this Moslem state are separated by 1,000 miles of Indian territory.

But paradoxically, many political observers believe that if Shiek Mujibur Rehman's Awami League party emerges on top in East Pakistan—which would give him a good chance of becoming Pakistan's prime minister even of a coalition government—the separationist movement could well die down for the time being.

Observers point to the precedent of former premier Hosein Shaheed Suhrawardy, the founder of the Awami League, who ran a similar campaign for a "Greater Bengal" union with that Indian province. He won enough support to form a government—and suddenly forgot the Greater Bengal idea.

Mujib—as he is popularly known—started out by campaigning for changing the name of East Pakistan to Bangla Desh. This was seen as just another small step in a series of moves which have all added up to widening the political as well as the physical separation of the two parts of the country. It is felt in both parts that if the separationist idea becomes a mass movement in the east there is little that West Pakistan can do to stop it.

Mujib already is considered a force to be reckoned with, even by Pakistan's strong-man premier, Gen. Yahya Khan. When West Pakistani leaders, particularly Air Marshal Asghar Khan, called for postponement of the general election schuled for Oct. 5, Mujib strongly opposed the move. Yahya decided to proceed on that date.

October is a month when East Pakistan is prone to devastating floods, and when these appeared even earlier Yahya reversed his decision and decided to hold the election later in the year. With life in the greater part of his province in disarray, Mujib could hardly oppose the postponement.

Instead, he contented himself with calling for "permanent flood control measures," and steps were duly taken by the Karachi government to begin consultations with experts.

Criticism of the postponement also came from another quarter. Zulfiqar Ali Bhutto, leader of the Pakistan People's Party, began slinging his darts directly at Yahya Khan, despite a regulation under martial law forbidding criticism of the military regime.

Bhutto claimed there was a "double" reason for the postponement. Pressure, he said, had been brought to bear on Yahya Khan during his Moscow visit earlier this year to meet with India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi as the United Nations in New York and begin talks with her before a representative government come to power in Pakistan.

As Bhutto analyzed it, any commitment made by Yahya Khan then would have to be honored by any future Pakistani government under pressure of both the United States and the Soviet Union.

No action was taken against Bhutto. The government-controlled Pakistan Times came out editorially against him, but the paper also published a letter from Mubashir Hasan, secretary of Bhutto's PPP, arguing that Yahya Khan, as head of the decision-making machinery in the country, should be subject to criticism as well as applause for his decisions.

This sort of liberalism on the part of a military ruler has aroused hope that despite the postponement, Yahya Khan does not in fact intend to hang on to his office and is serious about handing over power to elected representatives.

Junior Students Are Attentive Watchers at Ceremonies

OSD Celebrates 100th Birthday

A day of ceremonial activities bracketed by youthful spontaneity yesterday marked the 100th anniversary of Ontario School for the Deaf.

The Quebec crisis cast its shadow over the event, cancelling the appearance of Ontario Premier John Roberts and Public Works Minister John R. Simonett and curtailing the time spent at the school by Education Minister William Davis.

Mr. Davis flew into Belleville Flying Club field in a Department of Lands and Forests aircraft, accompanied by an Ontario Provincial Police constable in plainclothes, and left at 3 p.m. to return to Toronto for a sitting of the Provincial Legislature that had guests at Queen's Park.

Planners of the anniversary included all the usual adjuncts of birthday parties — cake cutting, candle lighting and blowing out, and a giant balloon toss to terminate the day.

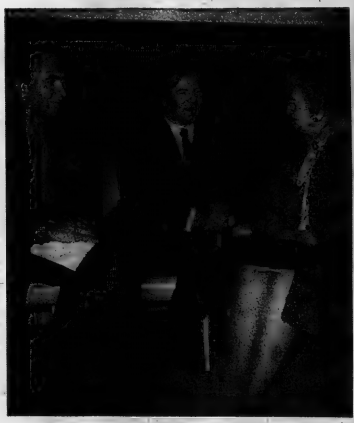
As the official party approached the junior school, the youngsters ran out with white carnations for all the members of the party — including the security officers.



Obviously delighted with the flower - power demonstration, the lieutenant governor linked hands with the children as he entered the building and had to be restrained by Belleville mayor J. Russell Scott as he left still accompanied by the children with the mild admonishment, "You aren't allowed to take any away with you."

Later, His Excellency got his turn at the candle routine as he blew out the candles on another cake at the termination of the official ceremonies on the outdoor platform.

Special guests for the event were Mrs. Boyce Williams of Washington, D.C., great-granddaughter of J. B. McGann, founder of education for the deaf in Ontario and first OSD teacher, and Arthur Hazlitt, a former student and president of the Ontario Association for the Deaf.

Welfare Resolution Tabled

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County councillors last night agreed to temporarily table a resolution submitted for endorsement by the town of Goderich asking for a provincial takeover of municipal and county welfare systems.

The decision to postpone discussion of this proposal was made when several reeves reported their township councils had not yet received copies of the resolution for examination.

Picton deputy reeve Donald Thompson observed that many municipalities seem to have endorsed the idea. He added that it is "about time" Ontario "took on county council's part" to endorse the resolution in municipal council then fail to support it at the county level.

George Foster, reeve of Ameliasburg noted that his council has not yet received a copy of this resolution, then requested it tabled until discussions at the municipal level are completed. Also taken at that greatly. Under provincial control the office could move to Trenton or Belleville. What questions would be answered from these centres?" he asked.

reeves George Vincent and Bloomfield reeve Allen Anderson reported that the resolution has not been dealt with by their councils to date.

Originally, the resolution was not endorsed in a report to county council by the financial committee. Although it will be re-examined at a future council meeting, county warden Gordon Lloyd did comment on the resolution's probable effects. "I wouldn't want the province to take this one on," he said. "I think we are doing a good job. Our hands are tied a bit, but I guess we can find out what is going on and reassure the public that its tax dollar will be taken

Mr. Lloyd told council that it was his feeling that the provincial government would hand out more tax dollars. He explained that Prince Edward county now pays 20 per cent of its welfare costs while 50 per cent is paid by the federal government and 30 per cent by the provincial government. The federal government makes no contribution toward administration costs. These are shared equally between the province and the county. "I think we should get 40 per cent across the board," he remarked.

It was pointed out that Prince Edward county council now has a voice in funds used for special welfare assistance including eyeglasses and dentures. "I don't think, because we don't like something that we should tell the province we want them to take it over," said Mr. Lloyd. He stated that he, personally, was "not happy" with the assessment department since it was taken over by the provincial government and added, "I'd hate to see the same thing happen to welfare." "I've been throwing stones at welfare all year but I would not want to lose control over it," he said.

Donald Thompson, chairman of the county home and welfare committee observed that the resolution suggests removal of administration but does not specify removal of welfare costs. He suggested that this point should be clarified before the resolution is considered a second time.

The resolution has been endorsed by Ameliasburg and Athol township councils.

Council Commended For Stand on Mill

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County council's resolution supporting the proposed location of CIP's kraft paper mill in Hillier township has prompted an enthusiastic reply from minister of trade and development Stanley Randall.

In a letter to council Mr. Randall observed, "It is encouraging to note that your council has recognized that this company would be a good citizen and certainly under no circumstances would build a plant that would add to pollution."

Mr. Randall referred to a similar $45-million plant under construction in Fort Frances with $5-million being used for water and air pollution controls to make it absolutely pollution-free when in operation. "There seems to be a misguided opinion on behalf of many people," he continued, "that any time a factory is built, it is going to pollute. We are putting in around 150 factories a year in Ontario and all of these have built-in anti-pollution equipment, and the ones that we do have to worry about are the old ones that are too expensive to re-equip."

He concluded by saying that the program laid down by the CIP would, in his opinion, be "quite acceptable" to Prince Edward County residents. He also told council that he regarded its supporting resolution as "the right step."

South Marysburg reeve Allan Bailey commented that it seemed unfortunate that so many persons jumped the gun in condemning council for its action. "It is unfortunate that an organization would jump on it at this early date and try to defeat the purpose of what we are trying to do for Prince Edward County," he declared.

Industrial Commissioner Introduced to Council

PICTON (Staff) — William Duggan, recently appointed as industrial commissioner for Prince Edward County was formerly introduced to county council last night by Warden Gordon Lloyd.

Council passed a bylaw during the meeting granting Mr. Duggan a salary of $13,000 (until reviewed at a no later period than four months).

The industrial commissioner told council in the three days he had been on the job he has formed many opinions far too premature to report since they lacked the basic background and research.

Mr. Duggan promised council to help Prince Edward county from here on."

Imported Insects Fight Our Pests

Last year 11 species (kinds of insects) obtained from three countries were set on the warpath against other insect pests and weeds.

The releases, totalling 27,- 740 insects, were carried out by the Belleville Research Institute operated by the Canada Agriculture Research Branch in co-operation with Canadian Forestry Service and other research branch establishments.

The Belleville Research Institute is studying alternative methods to insecticide control of pests and, as part of this work, it handles imports and exports of insects that can be used to control pests.

The foreign insects released last year will hopefully control three types of insect pests and six noxious weeds.

Last year also, Canadian scientists shipped another 50,- 052 insects of two species from one point to another inside Canada.

And they sent a total of 1,- 949 different specimens to six other countries.

An additional total of 3,- 664 specimens of six imported species were supplied to Canadian laboratories for research investigations.

Releases in Ontario were made to handle the European pine shoot mouth, St. John's-wort weed, nodding thistle weed and cypress spurge weed.

This year the Belleville Research Institute is releasing several imported parasite species from the United States to attack the spreading alfalfa weevil. These imported parasites have worked well to control the alfalfa weevil in New Jersey.)

In the fight against the European pine shoot moth, Canadian Forestry Service scientists working with the Belleville Research Institute are using one Canadian, two German and one Austrian insect species. The releases were made in the Vance Tract of Wellington County and at Chatsworth, near Owen Sound.

More than 5,200 insects were released at Braeside to combat the cypress spurge weed.

Seventy insects of one species and 182 of another species were released at the Brewer Farm, Prince Edward County, to combat common St. John's-wort.

Another 4,320 insects were released at Roslin, 350 at Bisco Lake and 282 at Read to combat nodding thistle.

Releases of insects to control harmful insects and harmful weeds were also made in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Many people believe that psychosomatics is nothing but a fancy word "cooked up" by doctors, who want to impress patients; or, can't discover what's really wrong as I fall back on the vague diagnosis: "it's only your nerves."

Although I admit that in many cases "It's only your nerves" is a lazy way of making a diagnosis and missing what's really wrong with the patient, it's also true that psychosomatics is as real now as it was when Hippocrates believed it about 2,000 years ago.

The fact is that you can't separate the mind from the body; the body from the mind. What affects one is bound to make its imprint on the other.

* * *

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My stomach is always upset lately. I admit that I've had quite a few family worries. But I think it's impossible that "nerves" are the cause of my trouble. My doctor says they are. He calls it by a long polysyllabic name: psychosomatics.

He has taken all kinds of tests and X-rays. He says he even had consultation with the best doctors around here. But nothing else shows up but "nerves" as the cause of my trouble. Is that possible? — Pa't.

* * *

COMMENT: If your doctors had said "nerves" before giving you the complete workups you mention, I might say, "Forget psychosomatics until they are as sure as they can be that an ulcer, bad gall bladder or something else isn't causing your trouble."

But they've looked and have not found. Probably there's something in your history which reinforces their belief that nerves are at the root of your problem. (You admit that you've had "family worries.")

I recall one businessman, apparently calm and unafraid, who confessed that he always vomited before an important conference in which he had to stand up and speak before a board of directors. ("Nervous," I said.)

I've treated scores of men and women whose migraine headaches could be directly traced to tension in business or family life. ("Nerves.")

One woman developed a skin eruption whenever her salesman - husband returned from his frequent business trips. She used to scratch as hard she bled. After she was divorced, her skin was as velvet-smooth as a baby's. Later she admitted that she disliked him intensely — and that her skin trouble was undoubtedly due to "nerves."

I could go on and on with hundreds of examples out of my files, Mrs. T. But befor believe it: "psyche" (the mind) and "soma" (the body) are inseparable. As one goes, so goes the other. Psychosomatics isn't just a fancy word.

* * *

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: "Vanity, vanity." I am 39, in good health, but plagued by ever-increasing spider veins on legs and thighs. I am self-conscious about them.

Is your opinion, would vitamins help? Or blood thinners? Or a special diet? I'd even quit smoking if I thought it would help. Thank you for your comments. — Mrs. W.

* * *

COMMENT: You have company, Many women are disturbed by these little veins. Unfortunately, injections or operations are not invariably the answer. I doubt that vitamins, blood thinners or special diets will help. Neither will quitting tobacco help spider veins; but will help in other ways you must have heard about.

Here's one tip: make sure you do not wear constricting hose or elastic garters. Sometimes these, worn daily, interfere with circulation.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For October 22

Your birthday today: Founding a new home or way of life ought to be your prime objective this coming year. Resources can serve several functions at once. Help is available for a well-planned enterprise. Much depends on your morale. Social activity is bound to become more important and diverse, with emotional appeal. Today's natives have strong but matriculate spiritual convictions.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): You spend a little more than planned. Today is generally fortunate. Make full use of every opportunity; try new tools. Take home a surprise tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Channel enthusiasm into home and job improvements: strive for practical results rather than technical perfection. There will be good news to celebrate.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Romantic inspiration creates unusual drama. Leave room for more developments. Creative ventures thrive, can be shared readily. Meditate for guidance.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Almost anything new involves more expense than promised — be sure of the necessity before buying. Sometimes you can sell something old at a good price.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Originality comes spontaneously. Use it without fretting over deviation from custom. A moment's good explanation gets you general acceptance. Your progress calls for a gala evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): There's much you can do in strict privacy, but almost nothing while your usual associates are about. Get expert opinions even if you aren't prepared to act just now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Friendly advice brings you forward advantages. Introductions. An old local fable contains a workable idea for modern application. Your fondest hopes near reality.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): A new approach is required, but not one based on snap judgments. Take technical advice, seek financial support, work it out in phases. Bring your loved ones a surprise treat.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Your tendency is to look for simple physical solutions to all kinds of complex issues; some of them are not problems and not amenable to such an approach.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. Formulate organizational plans Instead of trying to realize cash profits. Friends spend surplus resources — yours aren't surplus, so hold on for a more definite opportunity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): This subtly complex day may bring you different moods and opinions but like as not you wind up with the same views as yesterday. Work while you think it out.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Experiments on a modest scale are likely to pay off, as may not on mass - production basis. Once in a while a special item is welcome, but not every day for every occasion.

All Have Something to Hide

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A friend of mine who has been commuting regularly all fall between Cleveland and Chicago told me the other day that on one trip all the passengers were required to submit their carry-on luggage to inspection.

"The passengers were mostly businessmen," he said, "including quite a few dignified-looking executives carrying expensive and impressive attache cases with them."

Some of these men bristled when the search was announced, while others paled. Almost all of them were embarrassed, my friend recounted, when their deluxe leather cases were opened and the contents revealed.

A few contained work-papers and reports, but the bulk was filled with apples and oranges, chocolate bars, chewing-gum, and an assortment of cartographic sandwiches. There were decks of cards, bottles of aspirin, sleeping pills, puzzle books, cough drops, and not a few fifths of Scotch.

"They were a pretty shamefaced lot as they sat down," he smiled. "A lot of the self-importance had oozed out of them, and they must have felt sheepish reading their Wall Street Journals — especially since everyone surmised that those big, expensive dinners they were going to charge their companies for consisted of an apple and a chocolate bar."

Well, I think episodes like this are good for all of us. They humanize our pretensions and reduce us to our lowest common denominator. Montaigne, one of the few philosophers with worldly experience (he was mayor of Bordeaux for a time) wrote:

"It is in vain that we get upon stilts, for, once on them, it is still with our legs that we must walk. And, on the highest throne in the world, the mightiest king is still sitting on his own backside."

Mark Twain was one of the great enemies of pretension and pomposity. Quite contrary to wrapping himself in a mantle of importance when he traveled, he carried the oldest, scruffiest bag he could find, and often indulged in low practical jokes.

He once met a friend at the races, who was broke and asked him for a train ticket back to town. Mark said, "I'm pretty broke myself, but here's what we'll do. You hide under my seat and I'll cover you with my legs."

Twain then went to the window and bought two tickets. They boarded, and the stewardess came around to collect. When the conductor came to Twain handed him two tickets. "Where's the other passenger?" asked the conductor. Twain tapped on his forehead and said loudly, "That is my friend's ticket. He is a little eccentric and likes to ride under the seat."

Senate Is Defended By Parliamentarians

WOLFVILLE, N.S. (CP) — Two members of Parliament came strongly to the defence of the Senate during a public hearing of the joint parliamentary committee on the constitution Tuesday.

"I never thought I would be a defender of the Senate," F. B. Osler (L—Winnipeg South Centre) told about 50 students at Acadia University in this Annapolis Valley community.

"But the Senate I have seen since I was elected to the House of Commons in 1968 is working very hard."

"I think our system has worked very well with an appointed rather than an elected Senate," said Colin Gibson (L—Hamilton Wentworth).

"I think the Senate should supplement the work of the House."

The MPs were reacting to a student brief which described the Senate as an "anachronism" and "outdated."

There has been considerable interest by the Senate during the committee's travels in Manitoba, the Yukon Territory and now Nova Scotia.

Most suggestions have concerned reform of the Upper Chamber though there have been some recommendations for abolition.

The student brief, presented by R. A. Campbell, 19, a second-year political science student, proposed reforming the Senate so that half its members are French-speaking. There should also be appointments from minority groups according to their population numbers.

The brief opposed an elected Senate.

It also said that the Senate does not properly review legislation from the Commons. It did not defend minority rights.

The Senate had to be reformed to rid itself of the "stigma of uselessness."

Mr. Osler said the Senate now is introducing bills and amending Commons legislation. It had shown "some independence."

PM Aide Reneges On FLQ Remarks

FLQ Conspiracy

Facts May Not Be Revealed

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister John Turner said Wednesday the evidence which persuaded the government to invoke the War Measures Act may never be made public.

He repeated to reporters his Commons statement Friday that he hopes full details of the secret intelligence upon which the government acted can be made public "some day."

But he declined to say that this evidence would be published before the next general election, expected in 1972.

The justice minister said that for the government to make public now evidence it has about the FLQ "criminal conspiracy" might place lives in danger.

The public would have to have continued confidence — even to the next election or beyond — that the administration had acted properly.

New Democrat MPs said they are soon going to start to demand that the government produce the evidence to substantiate Mr. Turner's charges that the FLQ by sedition and treason is trying to establish a totalitarian state not only in Quebec but in Ottawa and "other governments" as well.

Signing Over Ceremony

FRAP Party Named

OTTAWA (CP) — Jean Marchand, regional expansion minister, today withdrew in the Commons his description of a Montreal civic election group as a front for the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec.

David Lewis, deputy New Democrat leader, accused Mr. Marchand of "smearing a good many innocent people."

"Dictatorship," interjected Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield.

As soon as the Commons met, the opposition jumped on Mr. Marchand's statement Wednesday to a New Westminster, B.C., radio station that the Front d'Action Politique which is opposing Mayor Jean Drapeau in Montreal's civic election Monday is a front for the FLQ.

Prime minister Trudeau invoked the War Measures Act last Friday partly at the request of Mayor Drapeau who said there was an "apprehended insurrection" in Montreal.

David MacDonald (PC—Egmont) today asked Mr. Trudeau to make a complete statement giving reasons for proclamation of the act in view of the smears and innuendo going around.

Mr. Trudeau made no reply.

Mr. Trudeau told Mr. Lewis,

CP Air Midis Rejected

MONTREAL (CP) — The mid-mini controversy appears headed for a dogfight at 30,000 feet with airline customers demanding the longer length be grounded.

John C. Gilmour, president of CP Air, said Wednesday public reaction to the midi has been overwhelming since it was introduced in September as part of a new "non-uniform" approach to stewardess attire.

A deluge of letters from travelling businessmen and executives criticized the Vancouver-based airline for making its lovely ladies look like "flying frumps" and for bowing to the wishes of "the fashion dictatorship."

Reactions ranged from lighthearted disapproval to open brutality.

"I flew with my grandmother as a child," one businessman wrote. "Why do I have to continue now that I am a lecherous old man?"

Tumult reigned for the next eight minutes as most of the 117 members shouted at each other, drowning out Speaker Fred Cass calling for order.

Mr. MacNaughton said Mr. Breithaupt's question was "unfortunate and untimely in the wake of recent tragic events" but on Liberal objections he withdrew that statement.

Generals In Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — A small American plane carrying two United States generals has landed safely in Soviet Armenia north of the area of Turkey over which it vanished, Tass news agency said today. It had been reported missing in bad weather.

Aboard were Maj.-Gen. Edward C. D. Scherrer, commander of the joint U.S. military mission to Turkey, and Brig.-Gen. Claude M. McQuarrie Jr., head of the mission's army section.

Reactions ranged from light-

Legislation in Uproar Over Treasurer's Words

TORONTO (CP) — The noise level in the legislature's question period reached such an intensity Wednesday that the Hansard girl who records speakers' names threw up her hands and gave up.

James Breithaupt (L—Kitchener) had asked Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton for a statement on Ontario's attitude to tax sharing and fiscal policy.

He wanted to know to what extent the Ontario government was prepared to back Confederation with more than words.

Mr. MacNaughton began by saying he had only had 1½ hours notice of the question and would need several weeks to outline Ontario's effort to co-operate in the tax-sharing field.

In his first shot at opposition interjections he told Stephen Lewis, New Democratic Party leader to keep his "flapping mouth shut."

Mr. Lewis said the treasurer was apoplectic before he even began.

"You're going to bring down that government single handedly," said Mr. Lewis.

Mr. MacNaughton then attempted to read a lengthy statement praising the Ontario government for a positive, responsible, co-operative and unselfish attitude in tax-sharing dealings.

He said the government has given concrete suggestions for national solutions that would channel required funds to the provincial and municipalities that are responsible for solving most major social problems.

Mr. MacNaughton said one major element of Ontario's reform plan is to introduce refundable income tax credits to all Canadians too poor to pay income taxes.

Almost 15 minutes later, Mr. Lewis said:

"Thank God you had no time to prepare a statement."

Donald MacDonald (NDP—York South) said the minister was out of order but Mr. Cass overruled him. Government members applauded when the treasurer finished and Elmer Sopha (L—Sudbury) banged his shoe on the desk.

The debate ended when Premier Roberts said in view of the "great interest" shown by all members, he would put the question to Ontario proposals for tax reform in Canada on the agenda for the legislature. There was all-party applause.

Pollution Can Be Beaten Within 10 Years Claims Kerr

TORONTO (CP) — Pollution in Ontario can be beaten within 10 years but it will require more money, manpower and research, says George Kerr, the man responsible for the environment in this province.

"Ontario's over-all environmental protection program already is the best in North America," says the minister of energy and resources, "and it will be even better once we are able to get additional revenues, more manpower and co-ordinated research from every public and private facility in the province."

Mr. Kerr's title in the provincial cabinet is to be changed within the next year as he completes the job of making his department the central agency for environmental control.

The department already has been stripped of most energy matters, and has assumed responsibility for pollution control of air, ground and water.

Other responsibilities—pesticides and ground-sewage disposal—are to be transferred from the health department. Another area of pollution, noise, will require new legislation.

Mr. Kerr said in an interview he hopes the whole complex issue of pollution will some day be covered in a single legislature act.

He would not say when newsand tougher anti-pollution laws, already drafted, will be introduced to the legislature, but the bills, are being studied by cabinet with Mr. Kerr's request for a major increase in his 1970 budget of $22 million.

Premier John Robarts has said the clean-up job will take 10 years and Mr. Kerr agreed —if he gets the resources.

Even more vital than money, he said, is increased co-ordination and co-operation between governments. It may even be necessary, he said, for governments to disregard traditional fields of constitutional jurisdiction when they interfere with the solution of pollution problems.

"I don't think the public any longer will permit problems to go unresolved while governments quarrel over constitutional issues. The public doesn't give a damn about areas of jurisdiction. It is only concerned with problems and their solutions," he said.

The 46-year-old minister has the ideal image for Ontario's No. 1 pollution fighter. A native of Monteith, he practised law in Burlington where he had only to look at Hamilton bay to see effects of pollution.

He is sophisticated and articulate when he speaks with government leaders, yet he can talk with the toughness of a truck driver.

He has shown in the legislature that he can be stubborn but he also has shown that he is receptive to new ideas, jotting quick notes when an opposition member suggests an idea that intrigues him.

He speaks of the needs of his department's three major branches—air management, waste management and Ontario Water Resources Commission.

"We have to expand faster than the present budget allows. All three branches have plans and objectives that are second to none but they all need money, manpower and research.

The waste management branch, formed a year ago to deal with disposal of domestic and industrial wastes, is working this year with a $209,000 budget. It must be increased, Mr. Kerr said, because "we need better people and more of them and recourse to research, perhaps through universities, in an area that has hardly been touched."

Air management, moved from the health department two years ago, is well organized with highly-experienced personnel and "good broad legislation." But its $3,445,000 budget will have to be hiked and as a start Mr. Kerr wants to add four mobile testing trailers to the two now checking car exhaust systems, and to expand the city air pollution index system.

Ontario Water Resources Commission, formed in the 1950s to help municipalities build improved water and sewage systems, will spend more than $46 million this year, Mr. Kerr said OWRC has adequate facilities and personnel, but it will need more money to expand its work in water pollution abatement.

"We also would like to increase assistance to municipalities and industry, help them to acquire plants and equipment to properly treat their wastes. Many municipalities still have only primary treatment sewage plants and they should be converted and enlarged as quickly as possible."

Area Unemployed Up in September

Unemployment in the Belleville area increased by approximately one per cent during September — up from 6 per cent to 7.3 per cent.

Figures reported yesterday by Manpower office manager H. W. Karn show that at the end of September there were 1,396 persons or 837 and 1,027 women — without employment as compared with 1,825 out of work at the end of August.

In addition to the 1,396 out-of-work job seekers, there were 152 employed persons looking for other employment.

Mr. Karn said he expected the unemployment total to remain quite static until the approach of winter weather in December.

The total labor force in the Belleville and district area is given as 27,000.

Two members of the employment committee, Sidney Reeve Jack Bush and Joseph Cox, who are involved in the construction industry, were not optimistic that construction would continue at the present high level.

Both men felt there would be less construction this winter.

Team to Survey North Retraining

Manpower retraining opportunities may be extended to out-of-work people in the Bancroft area of North Hastings.

This was indicated at yesterday's meeting of the Belleville and District Employment committee when members were told that three manpower counsellors from the city would conduct a survey in the Bancroft area to determine the number of out-of-work people and whether they are in position to accept retraining.

Manpower counsellor James Staveley said the three - man survey team would be in Bancroft on Thursday and Friday of this week.

If there is a need for retraining, the possibility of acquiring training facilities through Loyalist College will be investigated.

Manpower office manager H. W. Karn said the availability of finances would be a second determining factor in setting up any retraining classes.

Child Injured In Schoolyard

PICTON (Staff) — A 5-year-old girl remains in critical condition today in Belleville General Hospital after being struck by a car on the Mississauga School yard.

Kimberly Driscoll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Driscoll, Fenwood Gardens, was pinned between a car driven by school teacher Mrs. E. Nelson, RR 7, Belleville, and the school building at about 1 p.m. yesterday.

A police spokesman said the teacher apparently was parking the car at the time of the accident.

Group of Seven A Feature

Montreal art dealer Janos Lukacs unpacks The White Horse, a 1940 oil by Group of Seven artist Franz Johnston. Mr. Lukacs, who plans to open another gallery in Toronto, opens his display to the public on Friday between 11 a.m. and 10 p.m. and at the same time on Saturday in the Prince Edward Suite, Hotel Quinte.

Air Cadet Sponsorship Taken Over by ANAF

"You are living in unstable times; we have conflicts on nearly every continent, not to mention our troubles we have here in Canada. Most of the major problems we have today will not be settled overnight, they will go on for some time and it is quite possible that your generation will inherit and solve some of these problems. It is only through education and such training as you are receiving as air cadets that you can prepare yourself for this tremendous task."

The occasion was the official sponsorship of 608 Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Cadets being transferred from 418 Wing of the RCAF Association to the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans of Canada, Duke of Edinburgh Unit 201.

Following the general salute and inspection of the two wings, sponsorship was officially signed over to R. G. Burns, president AN and AF Duke of Edinburgh by Ed Karkbeck, president 418 wing Air Commodore A. D. Ross (Retired) DGC, CBE, commented on the changeover. "This is a particular occasion in the history of 608 squadron. There have been a number of years since the squadron was rebuilt, revitalized, reformed; it has enjoyed the strong support and backing of 418 wing of the RCAF Association.

"To the new sponsors . . . I say on behalf of the Air Cadet League, welcome to

"Welcome to the club."

Brig.-Gen. Allison outlined the role air cadets play in the community.

"The words 'Air Cadet' have become identified with a healthy, invigorating youth training program. The Air Cadet League wishes to develop in every boy in the organization a sense of pride in himself and his personal accomplishments; his unit and its achievements; his country and its role in international affairs.

"Throughout the years this aim has been accomplished and we in the Canadian Armed Forces are proud to be a partner in this great organization."

Air cadets are somewhat different from most youth organizations. The boys wear uniforms, learn and perform military drill, take part in training camps and participate in sports activities. One part of their training considered extremely important is discipline, he said.

"The word discipline is becoming as elusive as the peace we are trying to find; but the discipline and the training that you are receiving here will not only make you better cadets, it will make you better students and in later years, it will make you better citizens, fit to govern the destinies of this great nation of ours."

These were the final comments of Dominion president of the Army, Navy and Air Force Association, J. C. Lundberg.

Grape Harvested

Belleville city police are investigating the theft of 29 cases of Barnes Wines valued at $80 from a truck last night or early this morning.

Chief Douglas Crosbie said this morning that the truck was entered sometime between 9:45 p.m. yesterday and 7:05 a.m. today while it was parked overnight on the city parking lot outside the recreation centre.

Travelling Art Show Opens at Hotel Quinte

"For the eighth time connoisseurs of art in Belleville are able to view the gallery collections of Montreal art dealer Janos Lukacs as he again opens the doors of the Hotel Quinte with a gallery of international art.

The collection of Canadian and European contemporary paintings, old masters, rare masterpieces and sculptures can be viewed in the Prince Edward Suite.

Mr. Lukacs, who spends up to 28 days a month on the road collecting and showing art, offers a mixture, from the abstract to older masterpieces.

Speaking as an appreciator of good art; good being what he likes . . . Mr. Lukacs doesn't believe in one style, the military uniformity. Everybody should buy what they like, that is why we are humans, individuals."

The Montreal gallery owner plays no favorites because of an artist's name or fame.

"Art is individual. If I like a painting, I don't matter who painted it . . . that's why I try to place new artists' work in my displays."

Originally from a Hungarian family of art collectors, dating their collection back beyond 200 years, Mr. Lukacs gained an early appreciation for fine art.

While holidaying in Italy during 1946, he was required to obtain some sort of education in order to remain in that country.

Art appreciation classes were his choice, a choice he regards as the first steps toward art dealership.

Since opening his House of Fine Arts in Montreal seven years ago, Mr. Lukacs has travelled widely in Europe, Indian, Siam, Indo-China, North Africa, and South America, residing in Venezuela for 15 years. In fact, he has visited most countries north of the equator in search of art and in search of knowledge of art, taking in lectures and art seminars wherever and whenever he could attend.

Commenting on the trends of those purchasing art objects he likened collecting to religion and music.

"Art is like religion; some believe in Christ, Buddha, Mohammed . . . in music some follow Bach, rock, or, pop.

"Everyone's tastes are different."

He likened the collection of art for the sake of following a trend to the fable of the king with his invisible clothing. "I don't believe in one person dictating trends in art."

Mr. Lukacs first came to Belleville during a snow storm some years ago. While staying at the Quinte Hotel, Ernst Kreisel suggested holding a display.

For this, his eighth year of displaying in Belleville, Mr. Lukacs brings 85 paintings and seven sculptures by artists such as Y. Jackson — Pastures With Maples; Edgar Maxet - Fillette a la Poupee Rouge; works by Robert Pilot; Horne Russell and William Bymner, pupil-presidents of the Royal Canadian Academy of Art; and George Ille, displaying his sculpture of the nine council members of the Abanakis Indian Tribe.

Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Lukacs for this three-day showing is artist Helene de Sikaghi Siraj.

Although the dealer describes himself as an art lover, he admitted that to make a living, he has sold some of his personal favorites. He estimated that a total of more than 3,000 Canadian drawings, paintings and sculptures has passed through his hands.

For business and investment, he admitted that art today is "a good investment; many people buy art for that purpose."

Also on display are Mr. Lukacs' personal collection of color photographs of many of his art pieces, both in his gallery and ones which he has sold.

"Photography is my hobby and it is the only way, as a dealer, that I can retain my collection, even after parting with the pieces."

Thompson Defends Assessment Plan

Regional assessment will be in the best interest of all property owners, the newly appointed regional assessment commissioner told Quinte Home Builders last night.

Leighton Thompson, former Belleville assessor, admitted that after 23 years with the city he had had "reservations" when the provincial government introduced regional assessment.

But now he agrees that regional assessment at market value "makes sense".

"By assessing all properties in the same way at market value, we believe that assessment will result in more equitable taxation", Mr. Thompson said. "The property owner can now correlate the assessment figure set out on his assessment notice with the current market value of his property."

"We are trying to equalize assessment, not taxes", he added. "The assessors do not establish taxes, that is the responsibility of the municipalities through their elected representatives."

The commissioner noted that summer properties in particular must be assessed at market value.

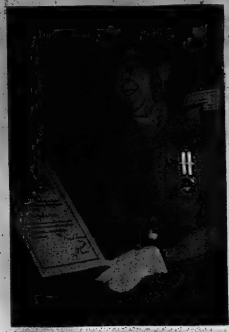
The re - assessment program was initiated after the Ontario Committee on Taxation observed that assessment stood in need of a major overhaul.

Under the new program, no property owner will suffer discrimination because the municipality in which he lives is assessed on a different basis from neighboring municipalities. The province will have more accurate assessment data for the equitable distribution of grants to municipalities.

Mr. Thompson hit at the "false impression" that home improvements like assessments and consequently, taxes.

"Assessors do not go around checking properties to see who has put a coat of paint on his house," he said. "They are concerned with the over - all value of a property and that is more likely to be affected by improvement in the general neighborhood or by market conditions than by the normal costs of keeping a property in good repair."

Reassessment was originally expected to be completed across the province by 1975.



But the minister of municipal affairs has since changed the date to the end of 1972.

Ontario has 2.5 million properties — 59,000 of them located in this region. At the end of 1969 these properties, residential, farm, industrial and commercial, accommodated 118,000 people.

The Quinte Home Builders re-elected Randy Loewen, a Belleville heating and air conditioning contractor, as their president for a second term.

They also decided to ask the National Home Builders to request the federal government to make more limited mortgage money available to smaller municipalities.

The quota made available for these construction of new housing units at 7 7-8 per cent interest was allocated mainly to metropolitan areas with only a small share coming to Belleville for low rental housing.

Josephine Beasley Receives Award

PICTON (Staff) — Josephine Beasley, a member of the St. John's Ambulance Corps in Picton since 1950, has received a certificate of merit signed by Governor - General Roland Michener. She was presented with the framed award by county warden Gordon Lloyd during a recent meeting of county council.

Later, discussing her work with this organization Mrs. Beasley explained that her assignments in the past two decades have taken her to Belleville, Waupoos, Napanee and on numerous walkabout routes. She enjoys first aid work as a substitute for a career in nursing which she was forced to reject following school graduation.

Known to many Prince Edward County residents because of the many evenings she spends on duty at the County Centre throughout the hockey season, Mrs. Beasley is one of approximately 15 local women belonging to the St. John Ambulance group here.

The certificate honoring her 20 years of service mentions "special thanks for valuable assistance rendered in furthering the work of the order in connection with the Priory of Canada."

Program Would Concentrate On Inexperienced Teenagers

Any local work activity program for orientation of currently unemployed persons into the labor force, should be directed toward the older teenaged group rather than toward "hard core" welfare cases.

This is the feeling of the Belleville and District Employment Committee who yesterday voted to do everything possible to have a pilot program as outlined under the Canada Assistance Plan set up for the Belleville - Hastings district.

Members felt it would be more advisable to have the program directed toward motivated teenagers who have never held a job, rather than toward adult "hard core" welfare recipients who would be unlikely to volunteer for on-the-job training.

The committee will make a draft of its proposals for presentation to county council and subsequent consideration by government departments.

It is expected the program would be administered by the county welfare department with funds to be shared by the three levels of government — municipal, provincial and federal.

The hope of the work activity program would be to provide on-the-job training for teenagers without previous job experience. Disadvantaged adults would hopefully be included in the program.

Local welfare and manpower officials, along with the county employment committee, suggested some kind of a work activity program as much as two years ago but had been unable to sell it to the right officials.

Then last fall Quinte riding member Richard T. Potter urged the setting up of such a program. Permissive legislation for the scheme has now been passed.

Under the scheme, participants would be paid wages during their on - the - job training period and hopefully would be offered permanent jobs at the end of the period.

A month ago the county council asked Ontario Social Services Minister John Yaremko to set up a pilot program in the Belleville area.

Mr. Yaremko's reply was to send E. V. Ralph, executive officer of municipal welfare administration to yesterday's committee meeting.

Mr. Ralph outlined the major principles of the program stressing that it must be a positive work experience measure and not "work for relief".

The importance of young people getting job experience was emphasized at yesterday's meeting.

Members noted it was always the applicant with job experience who got the job but asked where they were to get experience if industry or business would not hire them.

"If you have never borrowed you have absolutely no credit rating," he said.

Wrong Man Complains

The awo young Tibetan refugees who arrived in Belleville last week have commenced factory jobs at the Bata Shoe plant south of Frankford.

But already Manpower officials here have received complaints that jobs are being found for people from out of the country while local people go without work.

However, a check on one of the complainant's background showed he should have been the last one to gripe.

The Manpower official said the man making the complaint had been referred to no less than seven jobs but had never "showed" for any of them.

Programs Start at Y

The first installment of a new Belleville Family YMCA got under way Wednesday morning and will continue for another 10 weeks.

Swimming is the name of the game every Wednesday morning at 9:30 a.m. for children four and five years of age.

Yesterday, under the direction of Maureen Kelly, women's and girls' program director, one adult qualified instructor for every two children helped the youngsters adjust to the water.

Then the youngsters were taught various swimming techniques.

According to Y officials, the program is aimed at developing the confidence of children in the water and to teach them basic aquatic skills.

Time for other pre-school sessions has been scheduled on Wednesday morning at 10 for swimmers who were unable to register for the 9:30 class.

Males, between the ages of 11 and 13, have not been forgotten.

Although the emphasis is on fundamental tumbling skills, Mr. Chartrand said that the personal confidence that the youngsters gain from improved strength and co-ordination is important.

Corbyville Man Injured in Crash

A 35-year-old Corbyville area man was transferred to hospital in Kingston last night with injuries suffered when his light truck crashed into a tree on Highway 2 at Wallbridge-Loyalist Road.

Four-Letter Syndrome

To swear, use strong language — call it what you will — has always been a facet of discourse down the ages. It can range through the merely impolite and picturesque to the downright vulgar; and the latter has become much more apparent of late as an adjunct of the modern cult of dissent.

In recent days we have heard of the obscenities shouted at Prime Minister Trudeau on Parliament Hill, and at President Nixon while addressing students of Ohio State University.

We have come a long way in fact from the "Not Bloody Likely" of the cockney heroine in My Fair Lady, as penned originally by George Bernard Shaw in Pygmalion. We are reminded too of the variations of such terminology in common usage in Australia for example. And when Prime Minister Trudeau spoke the other day of "bleeding hearts," it is safe to mind the remark attributed to a young English soldier during the Belfast riots. "Take your bleedin' hands off me mate," he was reported to have said to none other than the Rev. Ian Paisley when the Protestant militant put his hands round the trooper's shoulders and said, "Never mind son, we are all in this together."

Four-letter words are said to be much more in use today even in so-called polite society, just as the same group is not immune to the phenomenon of drug use. There is no doubt of course that skilled use of such language (Dad, he was not its milder, less offensive terms) can be a devastating way of exercising the "put-down," whether in these days of participatory democracy or merely in private discourse with someone who is being merely irritating.

Mr. Trudeau has done it on occasions in encounters with student loudmouths. One who riled the prime minister in this fashion was told if he did it again he would get a boot in a certain part of the anatomy.

Meanwhile, a special state grand jury has issued its findings with regard to the death of four students at Kent State University in Ohio last May. They are revealing — the jury noted that 74 national guardsmen surrounded by several hundred hostile rioters were forced to retreat up a hill . . . "under a constant barrage of rocks and other flying objects, accompanied by a constant flow of obscenities and chants such as KIll, KIll, KIll. . ."

The jury added that while it agrees "with the principle of law that words alone are never sufficient to justify the use of lethal force, the verbal abuse directed at the Guardsmen by the students . . . represented a level of obscenity and vulgarity which we have never before witnessed . . ." These, it went on, were confirmed by audio tapes made available to the jury.

The major portion of blame was attached to the university administration for fostering an attitude of laxity, over-indulgence and permissiveness with students and faculty "to the extent that it can no longer regulate the activities of either." At the same time National Guard commanders were criticized for placing troops "in an untenable and dangerous position."

But to get back to the original theme, it is not "Burn, Baby Burn," or even "Make Love Not War" we hear these days, but from the mouths of those who take vilification and filth and crudeness of a kind that goes hand in hand with the general deterioration of the social order throughout the world.

Freedom's Meaning

Freedom has a variety of meanings, according to the political system of a country.

Hitherto in Canada we have been so free that subversive elements have been able to strike at the very foundations of this democratic right. Hence the paradox of the Government's re-introduction of the War Measures Act. Because of this measure we are less free than we were, but only so long as it is necessary to ensure the integrity of the nation.

Compare this with Cuba where many have been jailed for opposition to the Castro regime during the 11 years since it came to power. Yet Radio Havana, which one can pick up on short wave, signed off recently with the words: "Free Territory of America."

If Cuba is so free, why is it harboring Quebec separatists and other anarchists bent on spreading the revolutionary gospel beyond its shores, and on introducing Communist regimes which like its own denies individual freedom?

It is not the kind of freedom that the majority of Canadians, certainly all law-abiding Canadians, still enjoy despite the introduction of the War Measures Act.

Veterans Keep Militancy in Check

NDP: More Evolutionary Than Revolutionary

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — So alright: will the real New Democratic party please stand up?

And if and when it does, can you truly believe what you think you see and hear?

Is this a far left radical movement of anti-American socialists caught up in a hysteria of what is being called the "new nationalism," suspicious of established authority and devoted to militant challenges to orderly change?

Or is it a calm, reasonable, progressive movement dedicated to the traditionally accepted methods of reform, if occasionally impatient with their often slow progress?

It gets no easier — despite the mounting evidence in both the House of Commons and especially the freshly fired-up militant ranks of the Ontario New Democrats — to believe that the party's socialist activists could be rapidly gaining the upper and increasingly dominant hand.

For the new-fashion New Democrats have some powerfully convincing secret political weapons in the older-style CCF-types in the NDP.

Like NDP leader Thomas C. Douglas who will still be around with his quietly soothing ways after he hands over party power, to a new federal party boss, likely the super-militant David Lewis whose hyper-activist son, Stephen Lewis, so easily took over the Ontario New Democrats.

And Winnipeg's evergreen if gray Stanley Knowles, who probably knows more about the working mechanical parts of Parliament than any authority since that former Commons Speaker Rodmond Roblin, whose lively brilliant career as the resident House scholar blew up in the political explosion of the violent Pipeline debate.

There is the good Stanley, worrying all these last 28 years about government, service and old age pensioners, and stubbornly, if often agonizingly slowly, getting things done to help them.

Stanley Knowles has made Parliament work — can you imagine him taking to the streets with some of the NDP activists — and feels so deeply about the House of Commons and its proven role in the performance potential for good works that every night before he retires and every morning when he rises, he contemplates the Peace Tower from his bedroom window six miles away in a suburban Parkwood Hills rooming house.

His landlord has so come to almost revere Stanley's dedication to Parliament as public service that he has placed a plaque on the door of Knowles' bedroom proclaiming: "From these windows a man of great vision can see into the House of Commons."

There is Waterloo New Democrat Max Saltsman, soft-spoken with a smile that is almost tranquilizer, who wears a soft glow of warm friendship for everyone.

He says he is a "revolutionary at heart, but grins that nobody in Waterloo believes him. Nor would they anywhere else.

Maybe Max Saltsman is an anarchist, and W, impossibly, this is so, what a secret weapon he is for the NDP.

And take Vancouver's Barry Mather. Quiet, unruffled, reassuring, understanding, and understandable. He has a thing about pollution and the worsening life-style in over-crowded cities, but then who has not?

Thing about Barry Mather is that he does not think it necessary to blow up the cities to end the blight.

But Tommy Douglas is the one.

The sometimes uptight activist who can go hairy with his special pleading for militant peaceniks, destructive hippies and draft-dodging deadbeats in hangups with police.

Old Tommy's lovable as a radical is that he can be such a traditional fundamentalist, delaying trials and all those other currently discounted values of yesterday's world. It hurts.

Hurts Tommy Douglas.

Like the almost incredible time he picked up the trans-Atlantic phone and made an old friend and perhaps idol, former British Labor Prime Minister Harold Wilson, to be, well, putting it brutally, a liar.

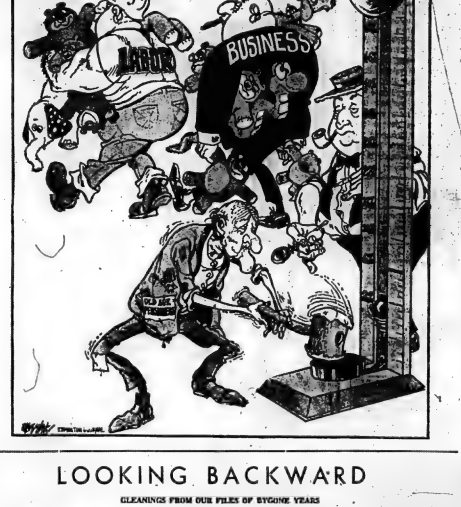
Mr. Wilson, then still to become Prime Minister, had told the house of Commons in Westminster that Mr. Douglas had contributed to him in the London Daily Express was an invention.

The Express had called its Ottawa man when the Profumo spy-and-scandal case had been erecting him to see what Mr. Wilson, in Ottawa visiting Tommy Douglas and others on Parliament Hill, had to say about it.

Mr. Wilson, with Tommy Douglas and Stanley Knowles saying goodbye, was stopped just long enough at the foot of the ramp of a London-bound jet to answer in one seemingly innocuous sentence: "Nothing to say in gorgeous cloculor, wide screen and stereophonic sound."

But for some still astoundingly mysterious reason the Express did not lure out to be innocuous in London, and became an issue in the Commons: who was telling the truth, Harold Wilson, or The Daily Express.

It was a pretty one-sided contest, the British Labor leader's word against that of an unknown reporter 2,500 miles away.



Prove it, The Express ordered its Ottawa man. And no amount of documentation swearing on the Bible by cable and overseas phone was proof enough.

But Tommy Douglas was. He phoned, knowing what was at stake.

"Why, but why did you do it," he was asked in some wonder, "when it would have been so easy to say you could not remember or be sure?"

"What else could I do?" asked the old extremist, "I had no choice. Who can escape the truth?"

Venereal Disease Shows An Alarming Increase
Say Doctors in Ontario

Brockville Recorder and Times

The incidence of venereal disease used to be a yearly concern of health authorities until the arrival of wonder drugs. Until then health departments concentrated this concern through educational campaigns in high schools and in local movie houses across the province. There aren't any such campaigns today but health department officials are again becoming alarmed at the spread of venereal disease.

A report from Ottawa indicates that the number of reported cases in Canada was considerably higher in 1969 than in the previous year. In some centres the rate of increase has been from 10 to 30 percent. The public health department in Toronto has revealed that the number of reported cases of gonorrhea in the first six months of 1970 totalled 1,633, up 138 from the same period in 1969. There were also 168 cases of syphilis reported in Toronto to July 1 of this year, as compared with 102 cases in the same period last year.

In the Hamilton area health officers say venereal disease is out of control with the number of cases of gonorrhea in the 20-24 age group reported at 148 in 1968, up from 88 cases in 1968. Dr. Ian Cunningham, medical officer of health in Hamilton, says if leading were to be done in his local area immediately on suspicion instead of having to wait several days for reports from tests in Toronto, spreading of the disease might be more effectively controlled."

Another medical officer of health, Dr. J. H. Chamberlain, of Halton county says it is out of control in his area too. In Waterloo county the Ontario department of health reports a 300 percent increase in the number of cases of gonorrhea.

In Leeds and Grenville and Lanark, Dr. A. R. Thoms, MOH, says the incidence is increased but only a small percentage of the cases is reported to the health unit. Indeed, Dr. Ralph Persad, of the Ontario department of health, notes that only about 10 to 15 percent of the cases are reported.

If a 300 percent increase in only 10 to 15 percent of the actual increase, and similar conditions exist across the province, Ontario is in trouble. It has a real epidemic of venereal disease on its hands. It's time to revitalize the educational program and do something about the lament of Dr. Thoms . . . the lack of a clinic in Eastern Ontario.

Quebec Medical Dispute
Specialists Return to Work

Ottawa Journal

Whatever may have been the reasons for the change of tactics, Quebec medical specialists show good sense and responsibility by returning to work. By doing so they can enhance considerably the chances of eventually working out a fair settlement with the province a workable form of medicare.

The medicare dispute has from the beginning been a disastrous clash of strong-willed and unbending men. The specialists ill served the public by their withdrawal of services, specially when the dispute seemed still open to negotiation. The government — though lack of support for the doctors' cause is a political easy move — over - reacted in passing the back-to-work order that would have left the doctors liable to fines or imprisonment.

The Canadian Medical Association, which normally does not intervene in provincial medical affairs, has served well by persuading the doctors to return to work in the face of the current crisis in the province.

A willingness to negotiate and compromise on both sides could eventually make the best of what had unhappily become a disastrous situation.

Ontario's Tax Burden

Ottawa Citizen

A maximum of $100 annually to a couple who have no other income except the pension may not suffice. But this can be readily amended.

The proposed 25 per cent rebate to farmers on their property taxes is another matter. Granted, many farmers have been hard hit by new assessment, and have taken the desperate course of withholding their education taxes. But farmers are not alone. Education taxes have become a crushing load for most property owners.

Residential tax relief grants now average $54. To an urban dweller struggling to pay an annual tax of from $500 to $800, this is a drop in the bucket. The farmers deserve relief. But so do city residents.

It can most rationally be applied by the provincial government if Queen's Park assumes a much larger share of education costs. The money would then be raised through general taxes, instead of property levies.

Before the First World War, Ulster, Ireland elected a majority of nationalists to the British Parliament. Carson founded a provisional government and a private army in Ulster (Northern Ireland) to resist Home Rule legislation The mutiny came when many British cavalry officers stationed at the Curragh announced they would resist rather than accept orders to put down Carson's movement. The First World War diverted attention from the Irish crisis but at time to avert a full-scale rebellion.

Judo Classes Are Popular

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

What is a Sandan?

This question is not asked every day, but at the Belleville Family YMCA certain members are familiar with this title.

For Sandan is the Japanese name applied to a holder of the third degree black belt in judo.

As in football, baseball, hockey, any sport in fact, the participant become more proficient and receives various actual or symbolic ranks.

Hence, the star player, or a member of the team who reaches a choice position.

In judo, the color of the sportsman's belt symbolizes the grade of efficiency he has achieved through competition with others.

The novice wears white, and on the other end, the expert wears black. Added to the latter color are degrees, similar to the difference between brigadier general and full general in our armed forces.

Belleville's only Sandan is Jim Driscoll, who began taking judo in 1952 under Frank Hatashio, a sixth grade Dan in Toronto.

For the next 10 years the partners were to travel back and forth from Belleville to Toronto, increasing their proficiency.

Mr. Driscoll is the highest grade black belt holder in the city. Other black belts are Gerry Sturgess, recent arrival from Kingston and Don Dalrymple, an inactive holder.

Mr. Parsons was required to retire from judo shortly before qualifying for his black belt for reasons of health.

The judo classes at the Y have grown over the years to include more than 100. The classes, averaging in age between 18 and 35 with the youngest member only eight, meet on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Mr. Driscoll, who is secretary for the Canadian Kodokan Black Belt Association, explained that judo is primarily a defensive sport with combinations of 96 throws designed to "take the opponent off balance", to break his balance thereby "reducing his strength, his effectiveness."

Kathy Bryson, 18, and Cleyta Parry, 15, began taking judo three weeks ago. The intelligencer asked them their reasons for beginning the sport.

"It looked like a good sport; I read about it in a book I have and became interested in it," said Miss Bryson.

Miss Parry joined her partner in expressing interest in the protection offered by judo skills.

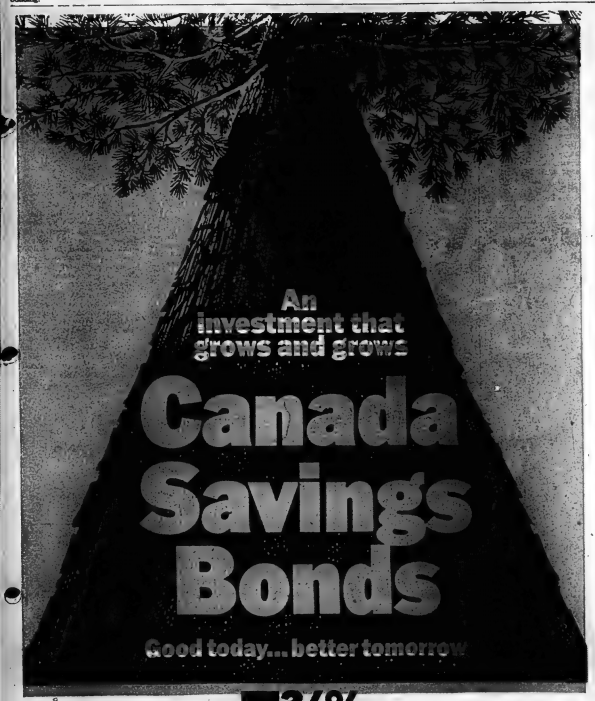
"I thought it was a good thing to take."

Miss Parry disclosed that she would "be scared" if called upon to take on a 200 pound man. A guess would place the trim young miss in the under-100-pound range.

Her partner was more optimistic.

"I don't think I'd be too scared . . . that is, if I knew how to do it properly. I think it would make you feel good, powerful," was her comment.

This disclosure forms the basis for judo. The proper method of using an opponent's balance to his detriment results in a 100-pound miss being able to put 200-pound man on his back. Weight is not a primary consideration in judo.



According to Mr. Driscoll, judo first arrived in Canada before the second world war. From its start in Vancouver, it began spreading in popularity throughout Canada in the late 1940's.

Today, Mr. Driscoll estimates that there are more than 700 black belts in Canada and thousands of actual participants.

The Kodokan Association provides Canadian judo clubs with a federal governing body which provides official recognition for clubs, thereby ensuring quality sport where their approval applies. Official Japanese grades are distributed and all promotion is done from this board.

Mr. Driscoll donates more than four nights a week to offer instruction at the Y and he invites anyone interested in conditioning their bodies and reflexes and increasing their agility to attend classes.

"There's lots of room left," he said.

False Lead Vanishes; Police Renew Efforts on Kidnap Case

MONTREAL (CP) — Another in a sick series of false leads vanished into thin air early today only hours after a coroner told how bishop victim Pierre Laporte was slain.

Terrorists struggled the 41-year-old Quebec labor minister with a light gold chain which he habitually wore around his neck to hold a religious medal, Coroner Laurin Lapointe announced Wednesday.

In an autopsy report delayed until after Mr. Laporte's Tuesday funeral, the coroner said the victim died of asphyxiation sometime between noon and 11 p.m. Saturday.

The Front de Liberation du Quebec, enraged by refusals of federal-provincial authorities to meet ransom terms, said in a note under Mr. Laporte was killed Saturday night, one week after his kidnapping, and gave 6:18 p.m. as the time of "execution."

The surreal atmosphere created by the presence of thousands of hastily-summoned troops in the Montreal area is matched by the frustrations of police striving to save Mr. Cross and find the Laporte killers.

A provincial police spokesman said early today a note found at suburban Chateauguay after a phone tip turned out to be another hoax, and was not even signed by the FLQ.

Accusing authorities of slaying Mr. Laporte, the note was similar in tone to dozens seen by police since Montreal's fantastic drama began.

A joint police-military operations centre reported a flood of phone calls from persons who reported sighting Paul Rose, 27-year-old teacher, and Marc Carbonneau, 37, an unemployed taxi driver, charged in both kidnappings.

Rose and Carbonneau had been reported spotted in some 15 different cars and about 100 different places during the last few days.

On Wednesday, a series of telephone calls thought to be from the kidnappers of the 49-year-old British trade commissioner gave police five anxious hours of, checking before the calls were dismissed as "probably a joke in very bad taste."

One man was arrested.

Quebec's Justice Minister Jerome Choquette said in a statement Wednesday police have notified relatives or friends of all persons—now totalling more than 300—arrested in the province since the emergency measures were invoked.

Due to "administrative problems," however, the original detention of seven days would be extended to 21 days for "those cases that warrant it." The act specifies they can be held as long as 21 days without charge.

"We cannot expect that all the work undertaken by prosecutors and investigators work-long on these cases will be finished in the seven days," said Mr. Choquette.

He would agree to "release those persons against whom no crime or infraction of the act can be proven, as information on each case is received."

"We have already, in the last few days, released about 20 persons."

Mr. Choquette recognized the right of prisoners to retain lawyers "but, here again, this creates administrative problems which should be solved in the near future." Extraordinary powers would not be abused by the police departments concerned.

But Mr. Choquette said he would act firmly against anyone giving "any kind of help" to the FLQ. He denied "any insinuation to the effect that the prisoners are being subjected to maltreatment of any kind."

The War Measures Act—and the FLQ—came under attack Wednesday night by 200 delegates representing Quebec's three biggest labor organizations.

"Immediate withdrawal" of the act was demanded in a resolution unanimously passed at a meeting of delegates representing the 250,000-member Quebec Federation of Labor, the 225,000-member Confederation of National Trade Unions and the 70,000-member Quebec Teachers' Corporation. . . .

The delegates, meeting in Quebec City's working-class Limoilou district, also unanimously condemned the FLQ, its actions and its use of violence to achieve political aims.

They asked authorities to carry out serious negotiations for the safe release of Mr. Cross and called for respect of the rights of those arrested under the emergency measures. They agreed as a joint effort by the three groups to develop an emergency program "aimed at bringing about social and political reforms."

The act is more likely to provoke disunity and panic than calm and social peace and clears the way for "police and military terrorism," the union leaders said. The Criminal Code was adequate in the present situation.

In Ottawa, officials said Wednesday telegrams and letters pouring into the federal capital appear to show overwhelming support for the strong action.

By Tuesday, Prime Minister Trudeau's office had received 2,180 telegrams, 2,115 supporting proclamation of the act. A spokesman said subsequent communications had not been fully sorted but appear to be running at the same ratio.

In Quebec City, Premier Robert Bourassa said telegrams received since Friday have been 99 per cent in favor of the part the Quebec government played in the federal move. He had received a number of messages from individual citizens and various labor and public groups.

In other developments:

—M. r. Bourassa announced that a bridge soon to be completed over the St. Lawrence River at Quebec City will be named after Pierre Laporte.

—A bill that would provide the death penalty for political kidnapping offences was introduced in the Commons by Robert Thompson (PC—Red Deer).

—Reports said police raids on a Laurentian farm uncovered a large quantity of sulphuric and nitric acid, which could have been used to make explosives.

—A total of 627 dynamite sticks have been found in raids, though this fell far short of the estimated 2,000 pounds stolen in recent months throughout the province. Police also discovered 594 detonators.

Marchand Withdraws Claim FRAP Is FLQ Front

however, that the government did not approve Mr. Marchand's statement before it was made.

Mr. Stanfield opened the questioning by asking whether one reason for invoking the War Measures Act was that FRAP was an FLQ front.

Justice Minister John Turner said Mr. Marchand himself had stated that there was no relation between the government's action and the Montreal election.

Mr. Stanfield again put his question.

Mr. Turner said reasons for invoking the War Measures Act had already been given and FRAP was not one of them.

Mr. Stanfield then asked for a full government statement for its reasons, for believing that FRAP was an FLQ front as alleged by Mr. Marchand outside the Commons.

Canadians and Montrealers in particular were entitled to know the reasons, he said.

Mr. Lewis asked whether FRAP is an illegal organization under the War Measures Act.

Mr. Trudeau said Mr. Lewis is entitled to his own legal interpretation.

Mr. Lewis asked whether the act will be applied against FRAP.

Mr. Turner said this was a responsibility of Justice Minister Jerome Choquette of Quebec and he had not discussed the matter with him.

Mr. Stanfield again asked for a full statement in view of Mr. Marchand's "extraordinary and alarming" comment.

He got no reply.

Former prime minister John Diefenbaker was ruled out of order by Speaker Lucien Lamoureux when he tried to put questions directly to Mr. Marchand.

Mr. Diefenbaker said a "wall of protection" was being built around Mr. Marchand, who had either spoken "out of his hat" or attempted to influence the Montreal election.

Mr. MacDonald asked Mr. Marchand whether he would make a statement.

Mr. Marchand said he was not interfering in the Montreal election.

He said he had used the word "front" incorrectly and should have used a French word instead. He did not say what that French word would have been.

Mr. MacDonald then asked the government to spell out the nature of the "apprehended insurrection."

Mr. Lewis asked Mr. Marchand to explain his statement and repeated the evidence for it.

The bombshell, that the Front de Liberation du Quebec allegedly had infiltrated a municipal party, was dropped by Regional Expansion Minister Jean Marchand on a New Westminster, B.C., open-line radio program in answer to a question from moderator Jack Webster of CKNW.

The party in question, Front d'Action Politique or FRAP, has 21 candidates for 46 vacant city council seats and it proposes sweeping reforms in city administration.

One of the FRAP candidates opposing Mayor Jean Drapeau's powerful Civic Party said early today it was possible some party members might be sympathetic to the FLQ, responsible for two political kidnappings this month.

"It could be," journalist Claude Jasmin said in an interview, "in 21 candidates there might be two or three, maybe three or four."

"But FRAP is not an FLQ organization. If it was I wouldn't be involved in it."

Asked to outline the current situation in Quebec and the need for government action, Mr. Marchand said:

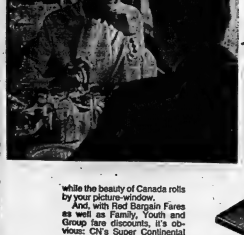
"There is no relation in our action itself but we had good reason to believe that the FLQ, which as a front has the organization called FRAP . . . and is running candidates in Montreal, wanted to dictate the election by explosions of all kinds and by further kidnappings or even shooting people."

"It was not only a case of two kidnappings, though this was important in itself. Our action couldn't be explained only by this.

"We knew something about this background and that is why we thought it was very important to act. And it was important because the Province of Quebec asked us to act and the City of Montreal, too.

"And I don't know if what we were afraid of would have happened anyhow. I don't know. We'll never know. But if it had happened knowing what we knew and we hadn't done everything of course nobody would have understood."

Mr. Marchand said most Canadians would be more aware of the Quebec situation if the FLQ had vastly larger numbers.



"But they are not so many."

"The problem is that they have had the training very important to insurrection and they have some sympathy outside."

On other fronts, however, the election has attracted only mild public interest to now.

The issues and the candidates seem unimportant. Mayor Jean Drapeau, chief magistrate of Canada's biggest city for 12 years, is a shoo-in for another four-year term.

Two Banned

College Newspapers Test Intent of Act

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Uncertainty over interpretation of the War Measures Act has led to the suppression of two student newspapers prohibiting material favorable to the outlawed Front de Liberation du Quebec while other papers printing similar material have been unobstructed.

Students distributed copies of one of the banned papers Tuesday despite warnings of possible prosecution.

The act, proclaimed last Friday, is a federal measure but the provinces are responsible for enforcing it.

Provincial authorities were not directly involved in suppression of the two papers and most attorneys-general were hesitant to comment on the effect of the emergency legislation on newspapers.

Staff members of the Manitor, student publication of the University of Lethbridge, Alta., handed out 1,200 copies of its Oct. 15 edition despite an order by Dr. Owen Holmes, dean of arts and science, barring its distribution. The issue contained an FLQ manifesto.

Earlier, the students had been told by Insp. R. D. Michelson of the Lethbridge police force that action would be taken against them under the act if the paper was distributed.

A single-sheet special edition of The Ontario, University of Guelph student newspaper, was seized last Friday after the printer questioned local police as to its legality. The police turned the printing mats over to the RCMP at Kitchener.

Susan Reisler, vice-president of Canadian University Press, said distribution of the student paper at Dalhousie in Halifax was banned but a spokesman for the newspaper said later it would appear on schedule today although there had been some difficulty with the printers.

She said the McGill Daily in Montreal was warned, after printing an editorial denouncing the emergency legislation, not to carry similar editorials in the future. She did not say who issued the warning.

Attorney-General Edgar Gerhart of Alberta and Newfoundland Justice Minister L. R. Curtis were the only provincial authorities who indicated in general terms that action might be taken against newspapers under the act.

Mr. Gerhart said any newspaper expressing support, issuing propaganda, "creating dissension" or causing a disturbance on behalf of the FLQ would be liable to prosecution.

The Carillon and The Sheaf, newspapers at the University of Saskatchewan's Saskatoon and Regina campuses, were two of several college papers which printed the manifesto a few hours after proclamation of the act. Attorney-General would be taken against them.

In Toronto, The Eye Opener at Ryerson Polytechnical Institute, and Excalibur at York University both went to the printers Tuesday night with issues scheduled for printing today.

Editors at both papers said they supported some of the FLQ aims but disagreed with the violent means. They expected to know today whether the printer would handle their papers.

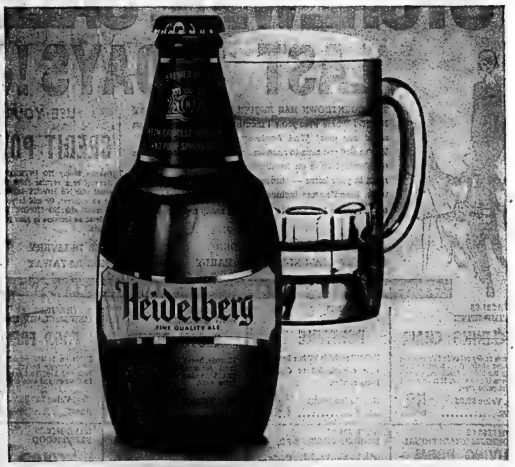
Labor Demands Repeal

QUEBEC (CP) — The province's three largest labor organizations demanded Wednesday the "immediate withdrawal" of the War Measures Act invoked early last Friday by Prime Minister Trudeau.

About 500 delegates from the 250,000-member Quebec Federation of Labor, the 225,000-member Confederation of National Trade Unions and the 70,000-member Quebec Teachers' Corp. voted unanimously to demand withdrawal of the emergency measures.

The delegates, gathered in a meeting hall in the working-class Limoilou district, also unanimously condemned the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec, its actions and its use of violence to achieve political aims.

They asked authorities to carry out serious negotiations to secure the safe release of British envoy James Cross, kidnapped by the FLQ from his Montreal home Oct. 5.



The delegates also accepted the creation of a "labor cartel" of the three groups and to develop an emergency political program of measures "aimed at bringing about social and political redress."

QUEBEC (CP) — Four member unions of the 250,000 Quebec Federation of Labor have refused to support the QFL's joint stand with the Confederation of National Trade Unions and the Quebec Teachers' Corporation against the invocation of the War Measures Act.

In a joint statement issued Wednesday, the International Fraternity of Pulp and Paper Industry Workers, the International Union of Chemical Industry and the Paper Makers and Paper Workers Union said they support the federal and provincial government decision to implement the act.

The International Association of Machinists in a separate statement later also came out against the QFL stand. The four unions represent more than 20,000 Quebec workers.

Ferris Wheels Go 'Round

Many Handicrafts Shown at Manor Bazaar

By SUSAN KORAH
Women's Reporter

Hastings Manor County Home which has 212 residents at present celebrated its 19th birthday on Wednesday afternoon with a tea and bazaar run by the Women's Auxiliary — together with the superintendent and staff of the Manor.

For most notable feature of the bazaar which was convened by Mrs. Pearl Holmes, was the craft room under the supervision of Mrs. A. Boogard who teaches crafts to the Manor residents. In one section of the craft room were displayed vases, candle holders, cotton wool snowmen and Christmas decorations made by the residents of the special care and bed care wing. There was a display of colorful paper flowers on another table. It took the residents one year to make all the articles for sale in the craft room.

Mrs. Helen McLaren was the convener of the bake table. The convener of the tea room was Mrs. F. G. Reed and the co-convener was Mrs. N. Wessels. A large anniversary cake and several individual cakes in different colors were noticeable in the tea room which was decorated in autumn colors. Balloon motifs on the windows gave the tea room a birthday party atmosphere. The affiliate societies of the Auxiliary as well as individual members of the Auxiliary contributed items for the tea. The convener of the sale of tickets was Mrs. O. Bertrand.

Pouring tea were Mrs. John Wilkes, Mrs. J. R. Scott, wife of the mayor of Belleville, Mrs. Lee Grills, Mrs. Harry Slaven, President of the Prince Edward Auxiliary, Mrs. R. D. Potter, Mrs. Ken Yorke, Mrs. Carl Bateman and Mrs. Jack Bush.

The draw for a leather purse was won by Mrs. Mildred Slander, a quilt was won by Mrs. Basil Gregory and a Flunder, a quilt was won by Mrs. Garia Moore.

A Christmas Gift Suggestion

Eastern Star Chapter 55 Holds 'Fall Fair' Bazaar

The Belleville Chapter No. 55 of the Order Eastern Star held a "Fall Fair" bazaar and tea on Wednesday afternoon at the Masonic Temple.

Convened by Mrs. Wanda Clare with Mrs. Leah Pitt as co-convener, the bazaar consisted of several tables among which the Business Girls' Variety Store — decorated to resemble an old - fashioned country store, complete with a telephone dating back to the early days of the instrument, was eye-catching. The hall in which the bazaar was held was decorated in Fall colors with a large ferris wheel in one corner and several small ones on the tea tables. The tea room convener was Mrs. Isabel Jones and the co-convener, Mrs. R. Parsons.

Pouring tea were Mrs. Marjorie Gray, Mrs. Rita Henning, Mrs. Ann Post, Mrs. Mary Bedford, Mrs. Dorothy McGlashon, Mrs. Luella Brickman, Mrs. Doris Roberts, Mrs. Eva Wence, Mrs. Thelma Liddle and Mrs. Myrtle Cross.

Conveners of the various booths were Mrs. Barbara Bronson (home bake), Mrs. Dorothy Boyle (Christmas booth), Mrs. R. Bonnetta (candy), Keith Elliott (men's booth) Mrs. Diane Plumpton (grocery basket) and Mrs. Muriel Huffman (refreshments). The co - conveners were Mrs. Lillian Hall, Mrs. Janet Hamilton, Mrs. Erma Martin, Mrs. Anne Combe, Mrs. Percy Kerr, Mrs. Laura Simpson and Mrs. Myrtle Beatty. Mrs. Bessie Hart was the convener of tickets and the co-convener was Mrs. Irene Gill.

Hostesses were Mrs. Dorothy Ellis, Mrs. Myrtle Cross, Mrs. Jean Bell, Mrs. Ketha Swan, Mrs. Marg. Shaw, Mrs. Ada McMullen, Mrs. Marjorie Coyle, and Mrs. Bernice Grills. Worthy Matron of the chapter is Mrs. Dorothy Jones.

A number of door prizes were drawn at the event.

Education Main Topic at Meeting

The Canadian Federation of University Women of Belleville and district held their regular meeting in the form of a talk-in on Education on Thursday. Five controversial issues were introduced by Mrs. F. H. Bellstedt and the members discussed the topics in small groups. Various topics were as follows:

"Was the little red school house and three different from the modern ungraded school?" In some aspects it has changed greatly. Libraries, audio visual equipment and gymnasiums have been added. The subject matter is more advanced and some of the methods of teaching have changed. More emphasis is now placed on research rather than memory work. Help is also available for the slow learner and the handicapped child.

Learning is not increased by a beautiful architecturally designed structure, nor does broadloom increase the output of a student. Is there too much emphasis on the external and material effects rather than the subject matter?

"Would it be feasible to have grades one to 13 in one school? There is an advantage only if the student body is small or if the students are industrious or brilliant.

In the classrooms today there are many students who should not be in school. They lack interest in the courses and disturb others trying to work. There is need for a liaison between the high schools and industries with regard to apprenticeship for students who do not wish to continue an academic course. Some students who have attended a community college have to be retrained in industry to learn the practical side of a trade, e.g. welding.

There was no agreement on whether permissiveness at school and in the home are largely responsible for the anti - social conduct of youth. This raised other questions. "Are children treated as adults in school? Do they watch too much TV? Is its the fact that some mothers work have a detrimental effect? Further discussions are needed as a follow-up to these introductory topics.

The business meeting preceded the discussion conducted by the President, Miss Dixon .A student, Miss Janna King of Quinte Secondary School gave a short talk on her participation in a mock United Nations which took place in Kingston. University students acted as tutors to some 150 high school students who took part. Each represented a country and debated Ian Smith's illegal takeover of the Rhodesian government. Speakers were heard on subjects such as human rights, civil rights, welfare, etc. Miss King felt that she derived most benefit from the informal discussions held after the speakers. Communication was the key to the success of this endeavor.

Ann Landers

Mail Brings Daily Pleas for Good Causes

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The season is upon us. My mail brings daily pleas for Worthy Causes. Some are worthier than others. It's not easy to make a decision. The most effective mailings are often done by high-powered advertising agencies. The truly deserving charities often can't afford slick brochures.

Frequently the brochures are accompanied by warm little notes from close friends, which can be awfully hard to ignore. So what does a person do? I like the Salvation Army, The American Red Cross, The Campfire Girls, The Girl Scouts, The Boy Scouts, St. Leonard's

ANN LANDERS House, The Lambs, The Urban League, Portal House, The National Council on Alcoholism, The Visiting Nurses Association, United Fund, Mothers for Peace, Diabetes, The National Association for Mental Health, The United Negro College Fund, The Japanese-American Service Committee, The American Indian Centre, Inc.

I want to eliminate Cancer, Heart Trouble, Muscular Dystrophy, Infantile Paralysis and Birth Defects, Multiple Sclerosis, Hemophelia, Arthritis, Blindness and Kidney Diseases. I want all the poor kids to go to camp. I want every crippled child to walk again. I want everyone who needs a lawyer to have one.

But, dear Ann Landers, who will take care of me when I run broke from giving? — MR. AND MRS. AMERICA.

DEAR MR. AND MRS. AMERICA: If you can't take care of yourself you will be taken care of by others — perhaps one of the organizations to whom you have contributed. As for me, I'm grateful to be on the giving end — and you should be, too.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter, age 15, was seeing a lot of a certain boy. Linda insisted it was nothing serious, they were just good friends — the usual garbage. The day after Tim graduated from high school Linda told me (practically in hysterics) that she didn't know how it happened because they hadn't "done anything" — but she is pregnant. I called our doctor, immediately and took her to his office for an examination. The following day Linda had an abortion.

The next evening the boy's parents came to see us. They were "very sorry" about what happened but Tim was honorable and he would marry our daughter. We were outraged and told them Tim had better not show his face around our place again.

Wouldn't you think after all Linda has gone through that she would have learned her lesson? No such thing. She is sneaking around our backs seeing the boy at every opportunity. God knows what they are doing. The girl has two more years of high school ahead of her and I'm afraid she'll get pregnant again and ruin her life. We can't lock her up. What can we do? — BIG TROUBLE.

DEAR TROUBLE: I never thought I'd see the day when I would advise a mother to instruct her 15-year-old daughter in the methods of contraception, but this is my advice to you. Linda is undoubtedly having sexual relations with this boy so you might as well be realistic. Morality doesn't figure here. These kids have no interest in the subject. They are irresponsible and immature, bent on instant gratification with no regard for the consequences. Moreover, sex, to your daughter, may well be a weapon against parental authority.

In addition to information on birth control Linda should get counseling. She's a confused, angry girl who needs to learn why she places so little value on herself and her femininity.

OLD RECIPE

BARNSLEY, England (CP) — A Yorkshire pub manager came across a dusty copy of what could be Britain's oldest written recipe. Dated 1837, it lists the ingredients of Barnsley bardolf, an early type of traditional Yorkshire pudding.

Successful Living

Low Calorie Items in Place of Cigarettes

By DORIS CLARK

Many Canadians have hardened to the news that smoking is a health hazard. I'm told there aren't nearly the number of smokers there used to be.

I got the report that food tastes better and (dismaying thought) my now non-smoking friends find themselves reaching for snacks.

Would you like ideas to help you substitute for smoking and still not put on weight? Here are a few: for a cigarette, have a low-calorie snack handy. This could be an artificially sweetened hard candy, one thin wheat wafer, one small pear, one-fat two whole walnuts, a medium - sized orange.

For the social hostess: non-smoking friends will appreciate an onion dip made with cottage cheese; nibble - food like celery sticks, radishes, green pepper slices.

Keep an eye on what is happening to you by weighing yourself frequently. At meal-times eat slightly smaller servings than usual. Make your dessert fresh fruit.

* * *

Dear Doris: To settle an argument, what dances are a girl "entitled" to dance with your girl? — Just Jack.

Dear Jack: The first and last ones. Often, also, the one which happens just before the break for refreshments. In any case, the escort for refreshments is the same one who was dancing before the previous number.

In between, it is up to the fellow who brought her to keep in touch with his gal, simply never leave her sitting or standing alone, and make sure she is in the care of another equally reliable swain before letting her go.

Dancing the last number with your girl — sweetheart or wife — is such an honored tradition that if the final number suddenly starts up unexpectedly many a man may be seen scrambling to get his beloved and start swinging.

* * *

Dear Doris: Where can I obtain information on opening a bakeshop?

I will not be handling yeast products; just pies, cakes, etc. I would like to know where I would obtain a price list and any other information I should have. — Cookie.

Dear Cookie: Associations of bakers turn out publications which have to do with operating a retail bakery. I am sending the names of two good ones.

Shop around; see what prices are like where you are. But don't make the mistake of pricing your pastry and cakes at too low a level to take care of choice ingredients.

You can build a reputation on fluffy pastry, light and delicious cakes, if you are fussy about your ingredients and keep your standards high.

Start small! — Perhaps by filling orders from your own home. I'm not fooling. Small businesses which try to start off big are going bankrupt regularly.

A Special Birthday Cake

By MARY MOORE

Thrift was instilled into me at home and at school. I never hear the price of a professionally made and decorated birthday cake without a shock wave.

To proudly carry in your own homemade lighted Happy Birthday cake is a moment to remember.

CLASSIC WHITE CAKE WITH MOCHA WHIPPED FROSTING

¾ cup butter
1½ cups sugar (divided (see below)
2¾ cups sifted cake flour
4 tsps. baking powder
¾ tsp. salt
1 cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla
1 tsp. almond extract
4 med.-large egg whites

Into beater bowl measure butter and 1 cup sugar and beat on "high" until pale and light. Sift and measure cake flour and sift 3 with the baking powder and salt. To the milk add the vanilla and almond extract. In another large bowl beat egg whites until foamy, then gradually beat in remaining ½ cup sugar until very stiff. Add flour mixture to butter-sugar mixture, alternately in thirds with milk mixture, folding them in. Then fold in meringue until smoothly blended — do not overstir. Have ready three 8" layer cake pans, lined on bottom with wax paper and buttered. Turn in batter, smooth top and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 30 to 25 min. or until cakes shrink from sides of pans and test done at centre. Cool in pans 5 min. then turn out on racks to cool.

MOCHA WHIPPED FROSTING (Another variation of White Whipped Frosting)

1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup butter (no substitute)
2 tbsps. corn starch
1 tbsp. cocoa
½ cup double strength coffee
¼ cup milk

Into the beater bowl measure the sugar and butter and beat on "high" at least 10 min. Meanwhile in small pan combine corn starch and cocoa, then add coffee, mix well, add milk and cook stirring until thick. Cool by standing pan in larger one containing cold water. When cool add to sugar, butter mixture and beat 10 min. longer on "high" until light.

Spread between layers of white cake and on sides. (If desired before frosting top, pick up cake at this stage and arranging it between your outspread palms roll it like a wheel in finely chopped almonds or pecans.) Spread top of cake with frosting. This amount is plentiful and is a delicious new frosting for cake specialists. I used vari-colored candle holders and candles for the birthday we were celebrating.

File this recipe in your "Cakes — Special" file.

WHA Hears Talk by Hospital Personnel Director

"The function of a personnel department is the same for a hospital as it is for an industry, but only recently has it's importance been appreciated by hospitals" said R. L. Bentley, personnel director of the Belleville General Hospital at the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary. "In is a service directly concerned with staff and the ultimate aim is a centralized employment office where the needs of all departments of the hospital are noted and the applicants screened for recommendation to department heads where the final choice remains."

The administration, department heads and staff depend on the personnel department to interpret fringe benefits, union contracts (there are five bargaining units in the hospital), to keep complete files on each employee, to hear complaints from department heads and the grievances of staff, to be active in accident prevention as well as to prepare repeated surveys requested by the Dominion Bureau of Surveys and to arrange the numerous conducted group tours of the hospital. Since 70 per cent of the hospital budget is spent on staff, the personnel director is directly concerned with financial agreements and is included in meetings with both union and non-union groups.

Mr. Bentley came to Belleville in April 1956 well established to assume the intricacies of service to administration, department heads and staff, having served in the personnel departments of DuPont of Canada and Firestone Textiles of Woodstock. Introduced by Mrs. J. R. Forrester, he was thanked for an informative address by Mrs. A. B. Duffy.

In the absence of Mrs. B. R. Burley, president, the business meeting was conducted by 1st. vice-president, Mrs. R. C. Nelles.

One minutes' silence was observed in memory of Mrs. J. E. Buchan a past provincial president as well as local past president and director of volunteers.

Additional volunteers are required for pediatrics and as drivers for needy outpatients reported Mrs. S. B. Bochesk, who also announced that during the month of September 213 patients had been visited and two instruction periods were held for 19 new student volunteers. 979 magazines and 603 books were distributed and the need for magazines of current vintage is ever present. Comic books and movie magazines for youthful patients and sport and hobby magazines for men patients would be welcomed.

Mrs. P. M. Till asked for volunteers to knit bedsocks (wool supplied by the Auxiliary) and to sew tissue cases to be used for Christmas gifts to patients. She also announced that the Girl Guides are making Hallowe'en tray favors.

Members were reminded to bring to the November meeting new articles suitable for a Christmas gift table at the Opportunity Shop. Mrs. P. D. Bowler, on behalf of the Opportunity Shop turned over a cheque in the amount of $2,100 secured from sales at the shop from September 12 to October 16. It was also announced that Mrs. R. N. Pringle would be assuming responsibility for staffing of the Opportunity Shop upon the retirement of Mrs. W. S. Greaves who has so ably and faithfully fulfilled this important duty for the past several years.

It was agreed that the Auxiliary would finance the furnishing of the new fathers' waiting room to be located in the new hospital since the present waiting room would be demolished during construction of the new administration building. It was further voted to earmark $50. to the sandwich social service fund.

Mrs. C. D. Ashley for puppets and Mrs. R. Temple for the samaritan cupboard both reported their supplies of finished articles well in hand. The display of members' handiwork prepared by Mrs J. R. Forrester, which includes puppets, stuffed toys, tray favors, booties, bedsocks, tissue cases and a miniature samaritan cupboard layette will be taken to the forthcoming convention of the Ontario Hospital Auxiliaries Association at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto by delegates Mrs. J. K. Nelles and Mrs. D. G. Barr. The Auxiliary will be further represented by president Mrs. Ben Barker in dual capacity as a member of the Board of Governors.

Following the business meeting tea was served by Mrs. J. B. Durant and her committee and there was an opportunity to welcome the six new members who were at the meeting. The Auxiliary now has 260 paid up members.

Points for Parents

By MARY BEYNON

Mother: "Janie is so good about helping me. She picks up after the other children every day and it saves me so much work."

Neighbor: "She certainly is a 'little mother' to the younger ones."

Mother: "Timmy and Terry, you are big enough to put away your own toys, and help dust and tidy up the room before Daddy gets home. Janie shouldn't have to do all the work because she's the oldest."

It's easy to impose on a willing oldest child, but younger children should help also, as far as they are able. Eventually, an oldest child will feel oppressed if she must work while the younger children always are free to do as they please.

Voluntary Groups Need Change

TORONTO (CP) — An urgent need for change and for communication among women's voluntary organizations was expressed Monday by women who are leaders in the field.

It was the closing day for a two-day session on the value and relevance of the groups. The meeting, sponsored by the National Council of Jewish Women of Canada with funds from the federal government, was attended by women representing about 30 organizations and government plus about 15 more active in volunteer work.

After workshop and general discussions, the consensus was that old organizations can be useful if they work first at the community level, aids a current crisis. She said one way the old groups might help is as sources of education for members and the public.

Beryle Plumpton of Toronto said her workshop felt day-care centres might be the kind of project in which a number of groups could cooperate. Mrs. Plumpton is president of the Vanier Institute.

Throne Speech Debate Ends

OTTAWA (CP) — The eight-day throne speech debate ends today after hop-scotching from the tragic bloodshed in Montreal through the price of eggs and problems in the Middle East.

Wednesday, Energy Minister J. J. Greene talked about nationalism and the sale of natural resources. Heath Macquarrie (PC-Hillsborough) discussed the Palestinian problem and others dwelt on housing issues or monetary matters.

The throne speech debate, which follows the government's statement of goals at the opening of each parliamentary session, gives wide latitude to MPs in their choice of speech topics.

A vote on a government motion for "an address in reply" to the Throne speech is taken at the end of the debate.

Mr. Greene said Canada's recent approval of the sale of 6.3 trillion cubic feet of natural gas to the United States over the next 20 years was the only sound approach at the present time.

Intensive study by the national energy board showed Canada has enough surplus of natural gas to support the sale without creating any domestic shortage.

The government's official policy is to develop and sell all surplus natural resources, Mr. Greene said.

Mr. Macquarrie hoped it is not too late to treat the Middle East crisis with a "little more knowledge and compassion" instead of always handing out relief assistance every year to aid Palestinian refugees.

He also hoped the terrorist activities in Quebec will force Canadians to drop their "mystique of superiority" about the stability of their country.

In the Senate, Senator Jacques Flynn (PC—Quebec) said the federal government has been guilty of dereliction of duty in relation to recent Quebec kidnappings and murder.

Senator Flynn, Opposition leader in the Senate, said if the government had acted sooner "the calamitous events of the past two weeks might never have been vomited into the annals of Canada's history."

The government had either been totally ignorant of the grave situation in Quebec or "it lied when it claimed in the throne speech that ours is a calm, peaceful, placid society.

Justice Minister John Turner told reporters the evidence that persuaded the government to invoke the War Measures Act may never be made public.

The act, invoked a week ago Friday light the terrorists, gives the police and armed forces sweeping powers of arrest and other powers.

Although the price of eggs was not prominent in Wednesday's debate, it ranks with the kidnapping of British trade commissioner James Cross and the kidnapping and murder of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte as one of the items most often discussed.

Many MPs are concerned about government plans to set up a central marketing board for certain farm products, including eggs which now are the subject of protectionist battles among some provinces.

Ross Whicher (L—Bruce) and John Skoberg (NDP—Moose Jaw) concentrated in their speeches on criticism of the Canadian transport commission.

Mr. Whicher said the commission has allowed the Canadian Pacific Railway to abandon many of its passenger lines, breaking its contract with Canadians.

CP Rail owed Canadians service, Mr. Whicher said, in return for the 25 million acres of land and the $25 million Canada gave the company to make it the largest transport firm in the world.

"Think of the oil and gas rights they have on that land," he added.

Mr. Skoberg said it is time the commission stopped making its decisions on financial grounds only. "The days of the public be damned are over," he said.

ORACLE OF KENTUCKY

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The loss of a key word from the weather forecast recently in the Louisville Times gave the report the look of an ominous prophecy. When the word "precipitation" was dropped in a typographical error, the forecast read: "There is less than 5 per cent chance of tonight and tomorrow."

"That's my husband... Mother pigs tell their children scare stories about him to teach them to be nastier."

Civil Servant Up

TORONTO (CP) — The number of civil servants working for the Ontario government went up by 1,594 in 1969 to 27,375, and the annual payroll rose by $45.7 million to $266 million.

The 1969 annual report of the Civil Service Commission, tabled in the legislature Wednesday, said the increase in personnel was 2.8 per cent and the rise in annual payroll was 13 per cent.

The report said the average civil service salary in Ontario in 1969 was $6,800, an increase of 9.8 per cent over 1968.

In a comparison table of weekly wages, it said the average paid in government service was $132.72, Ontario industry $131.52 and Canadian industry $117.71.

More Slayings Predicted

Bizarre Cult Blamed in Killings

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — A bizarre declaration of war note left at a home where five persons were slain threatens death to anyone who "misuses the natural environment."

The typewritten note, signed with the names of the four knights on fortune-telling tarot cards, said future killings would be carried out by the "People of the Free Universe."

Disclosing the note Wednesday two days after the slaying of wealthy eye surgeon Dr. Victor Ota and four others, Undersheriff Paul Tara urged the community—20 miles south of San Francisco—to remain calm.

The undersheriff said the nature of the killings and the note indicated the five were slain by cultists.

The note was found under the windshield wiper of Ota's red Rolls-Royce after the bodies of Ota, his wife, two sons and secretary were discovered in a swimming pool at the family's $250,000 hilltop home Monday night, Tara said.

Until the note was made public, police had said they knew no motive for the slayings. They were trying to find two young men and a girl reported seen near another of the Otas' cars before it was found abandoned on a railroad track.

Tara said the note read:

"Today World War III will begin as brought to you by the People of the Free Universe. From this day forward anyone and/or company who misuses the natural environment or destroys same will suffer the penalty of death by the People of the Free Universe.

"I and my comrades from this day forth will fight until death or freedom, against anything or anyone who does not support natural life on this planet, materialism must die or mankind will."

The note was signed: "Knight of Wands, Knight of Cups, Knight of Pentacles, Knight of Swords."

The pentacle is a five-sided figure associated with witchcraft as a magical or talisman device, in fiction often used to summon up the devil.

The Knights are the four suits of the 78-card tarot deck; used to tell one's fortune depending on which direction the large cards fall.

Tara said the note was withheld initially so as not to alarm citizens.

"The note itself is in the hands of some of the most competent analysts in the state," he said.

Besides Dr. Ota, those slain were his wife, Virginia, 43, sons Derrick, 17, and Taggart, 11, and secretary, Dorothy Cadwallader, 36.

Each of the victims was shot once in the back of the head, and Ota also was shot in the back. All were dumped into the swimming pool of the mansion outside the city. The house was set afire.

Firemen, looking for water to fight the blaze, discovered the bound, fully clothed bodies in the pool. A pet cat was also slain with a bullet in the head.

Discovery of Mrs. Ota's stolen 1968 green Oldsmobile station wagon, smashed by a switch engine in a tunnel near Felton Tuesday night, was the first announced solid clue in the case.

Scores of law enforcement officers fanned out through the surrounding redwood forest to look for suspects.

The vehicle was empty when struck by the engine, but the motor was still warm, and an attempt had been made to burn the car. Two sets of footprints led from the vehicle.

The tunnel is north of Santa Cruz, about seven miles from the killings and in an area abounding with hippie-type communities.

The sheriff's administrative assistant, Lou Keller, said whoever drove the car on the tracks "just had to have local knowledge."

Keller said the area's "indigent transient" population was being questioned, but other possibilities were not being ruled out.

A friend of the Otas said Mrs. Ota told her two months ago that her husband had to chase six "hippie-types" off the porch.

Dr. Ota was known to have provided free medical care to some hippie-types, but there was no official speculation on any relationship.

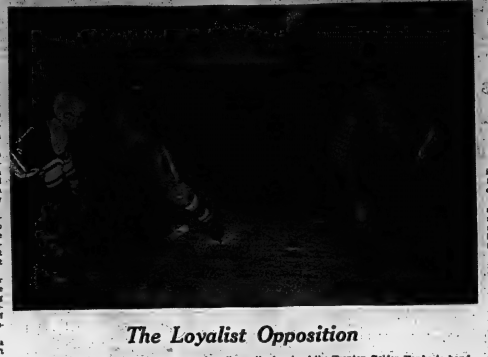
Sustained Shouting Helps Loyalists Win

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter



As the poem goes, "the hamlet and the shouting dies" — except for the fact that the hamlet, in say nothing of the shouting, caused by some 200 Loyalist College hockey fans never lowered a decibel as the Lancers recorded a 3-2 upset over the Belleville Fairways.

It was far from classic hockey with neither team showing any semblance of professional play, but at the same time it provided all-out, hard-hitting action with both teams having a number of scoring chances.

"We showed a 180 per cent improvement over our first game", said Loyalist coach Hugh Pepper. "We haven't seen the calibre of our opposition yet but we hope to be able to hold our own."

The Lancers, who dropped a 4-2 exhibition to Trenton Golden Hawks Sunday, will be competing in the Ontario College Athletic Association against such community colleges as Mohawk (Hamilton), Algonquin (Ottawa) and St. Lawrence (Kingston and Cornwall).

The Lancers opened with a strong attack, keeping the Fairways bottled up in their own zone for most of the first period. However, inability to finish off their plays and some sharp netminding by Ron Jary kept them off the scoresheet.

The Fairways tallied the only goal of the period when Glen Wannemacher collected a pass from Danny Lopenetis and whizzed in from an unguarded right wing to notch the score.

Dick Beare, who played an outstanding game in the Loyalist net, gave his club a lift early in the second period getting a pad in front of a breakaway effort by Gary Lent.

Gary Geyer put his intermediate hockey experience to advantage as the five-minute mark using the Belleville defence for a screen to blast a 25-footer into the top right hand corner.

It took only 12 seconds for the Fairways to regain the lead with Dave Smith pulling the trigger on a pretty three way passing play with Cliff Jantzsch and Danny Lopenetis.

Steve Sherpe scored the winning goal at 6:46 of the middle period steamming a rebound past Jary who had made the initial stop on Gary Thomson.

Sims was a big factor in the Loyalist win, despite the fact that they drew 10 of the 12 penalties handed out by referees Dalton Lambert and John McConnell. He managed to slow down the Fairways with some stiff checking.

Gary Geyer and Randy Castellarin were the standouts on the winners' defence as Geyer scored in 2 memebers the Fairways with his puck handling while Castellarin showed he hasn't lost the ruck'em - sock'em style that made him 4 standout with the Trenton Golden Hawks last season.

Up front Al Ray, Gary Blakely and Al "Bugs" Barbeau turned in solid performances for the winners.

John Mulvihill and Peter Ackerman were once again the most effective defencemen for the Juniors, throwing the only effective bodychecks for their team throughout the contest.

The game ended the Fairways exhibition schedule. The club opens the regular season against Oshawa, Sunday at 8 p.m.

The Loyalist Opposition

Loyalist defenceman Craig Spence and goalie Dick Beare combine to halt the scoring efforts of Belleville Fairway forward Keith McConnell. Loyalist bounced back from an earlier 6-2 loss at the hands of the Trenton Golden Hawks to hand the Belleville Juniors a 3-2 setback. The loss concluded the Fairways exhibition schedule.

Curling Club In Tune

Last night's opening general meeting learned of the installation of a stereo - tape sound system, one of a number of improvements planned for the members' lounge.

On-ice activity will see an increase in mixed curling - bonspiel.

Sunday evening sheet-time will also be set aside to accommodate the 16 persons who have indicated their interest in mixed curling for the coming season.

Previously, Friday, Saturday and Sunday afternoons were sufficient for the mixed curlers.

Last year's innovation of competitive curling in addition to the regular leagues was judged a success and will be continued.

Meanwhile ice is expected to be ready for the first event on the Quinte Club calendar, a golf-curling men's field day Saturday, Oct. 31. The event, open to members of the curling club and the Bay of Quinte Curling Club, has already attracted 25 four-man teams.

The next major curling event will be the Opening Mixed Bonspiel, set for the week of Nov. 5-7.

Hansen Hot-foots It While Parker Has Heart Failure

VANCOUVER (CP) — "All I could think of to the last minute was that something good had to happen to this football team."

That was coach Jackie Parker's reaction Wednesday night minutes after defensive back Bernie Hansen picked the ball off the fingers of Winnipeg split end Rick Shaw on British Columbia's 31-yard line. Shaw dropped the pass and ensuring a 7-1 victory for the Lions.

"Do you think I could get him to step out of bounds after he intercepted that pass?" asked Parker, whose club moved to within two points of Calgary Stampeders—the team B.C. meets Sunday—and the third and final Western Football Conference playoff position.

"I was yelling at him and he kept running and cutting down field. It was enough to give an old man heart failure."

It wasn't what Parker would call a barnburner and the only thing that kept the 22,316 fans in their seats as the final 37 seconds ran out was the nagging thought that their Lions might blow it.

Winnipeg gained possession at mid-field with two minutes and 14 seconds remaining, and with less than a minute to go the Blue Bombers had a first down on the B.C. 31.

Quarterback Don Johnson, who threw only 13 passes all night and completed four, fired a high, hard one at Shaw which ricochetted off his fingers and into the arms of Hansen.

Hansen, formerly with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference, hot-footed his way to the B.C. 30 before he stepped on to the sidelines and Parker heaved a sigh of relief.

The first half was scoreless, with neither team looking as if it was capable of winning.

Ted Urner's 36-yard punt gave the Lions field position for the first time at the Winnipeg 30 early in the third quarter.

In this unfamiliar terrikory they had not advanced past mid-field in their previous 5 minutes—the Lions almost blew the chance when running back A. D. Whitfield was thrown for a six-yard loss on a screen pass from Paul Brothers.

But Hacker Vic Washington made a diving catch for a first down at the 36-yard line and two plays later Brothers hit Loch Herron with a 17-yard strike that put B.C. on the Winnipeg four.

Halfback Jim Evenson, who picked up 81 yards on 19 carries in his bid for WFC rushing honors, plunged over from the one-yard line at 8:24 and Ted Gerela ran his point total to 160 with the convert.

Evenson now has 858 yards on the ground, 33 fewer than Hugh McKinnis of the Stampeders, giving Sunday's clash in Calgary added import for the 2:30 pound power runners.

Urner got Winnipeg's only point when his 46-yard field-goal attempt bounced out of bounds in the end zone at 2:45 of the final quarter.

Gaines Learns To Be Patient As Playing Coach

MONTREAL (CP) — Geoe Gaines admits that his role as playing coach of Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference has been difficult at times, but it has been a "tremendous experience."

Gaines, 31, was acquired by Montreal from Ottawa Rough Riders of the EFC last February.

He combines with Bob Ward, defensive coach with Ottawa last season, to instruct the Als' defence. In addition, Gaines plays a full shift at defensive halfback.

"It's been tough," Gaines said Wednesday. "But it has been a tremendous experience, one I don't know I'd have been able to get any other way.

"I get here every morning about 9:30 or 10 ..... and then we start in. Bob (Ward) does most all of the charting of the other clubs films and then we work together on plays and defence.

"It might not have been possible if I'd been working under any other coach but Sam (Etcheverry). He's the type to give a man his responsibility and let him go at it. We relate all our information back and forth and it has really blended well.

"Sam has taught us to be patient. That's the greatest thing I've learned. That, and all the statistical information you can get from the films can be applied to the preparation for the game.

"As a player you know this is going on, but you don't have the chance to get close, and work with it."

Gaines's coaching chores don't end at game time. On the field, he can't help but keep a watchful eye on the rest of the defensive backfield. When the defence rests, he is in communication with Ward in the spotter's booth.

Gaines called the defensive backfield signals for Ottawa in their drive to the Grey Cup last season. He has admitted that he has always had a yearning for a coach's role.

Gaines has not really changed his preparation for a game since becoming involved in his dual role.

"The only thing I've had to do is get off by myself the day before the game and do a little relaxing. Maybe not relaxing so much as concentrating on my own job in the game.

"I feel I've had just about as good a year as a player this year as I had last year. We've had some problems back there, but this is caused by Wayne not being too sure of what their team-mates can and can't do.

"In Ottawa last year we all knew each other back there. You know instinctively when you had to help someone out and when you didn't. This defence here is just beginning to learn that now. We're getting stronger every game."

How much longer does Gaines feel he can play?

"At least one more year, although I'll gladly step aside and just coach when they find a player who's better than me back there."

Sport Briefs

QUEBEC (CP) — A three-year agreement was signed Wednesday between officials of Montreal Expos of baseball's National League and officials of Quebec Indians which will enable the Expos to train in Quebec team as their class AA affiliate.

Quebec City and Trois-Rivieres recently were granted franchises in the class AA Eastern League provided that both cities obtained working agreements with major league clubs.

Officials of Cincinnati Reds of the National League visited Trois-Rivieres Wednesday to examine facilities there, however no official decision was reached by the Reds on establishing a working agreement.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Manager-owner Leighton (Hap) Emms of Niagara-Falls Flyers apparently has not given up hope that Paulin Bordeleau will report to the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A team.

Bordeleau, the Flyers' top midget draft choice last summer, has refused to report to the team. He has said he will play only with Montreal Junior Canadiens of the OHA Junior series.

Emms said Wednesday that the OHA has a letter on file from last year in which Bordeleau's father promised his son would play for any OHA team which drafted him this year.

Bordeleau, a native of Noranda, Que., played for the Junior Canadiens last season, but Emms said Montreal was given permission to use the player after it promised he would report to any OHA club that drafted him this season.

CALGARY (CP) — Jerry Keeling, quarterback for Calgary Stampeders, was released from hospital Wednesday after 13 days of treatment for a cracked rib and bruised kidneys.

He is expected to miss the western football conference game Sunday against British Columbia Lions, but may dress Nov. 1 for a match with Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

He was injured Oct. 7 against Montreal Alouetties when he was hit from the side late in the final quarter.

Anyone for Bye Bye Birdie?

LONDON (AP) — British golf star Tony Jacklin, winner of the U.S. Open, covered a rare course in 33 1-3 —the record making speed of a long player.

He cut the phonograph record in a London studio Wednesday in a 12-hour session backed by a 36-piece orchestra.

"If this record's a success —who knows? Crosby might have new opposition as a crooner as well as in the golf course," he quipped.

Single Point Good Enough To Boost Gerela to Second

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

British Columbia Lions' place-kicker Ted Gerela picked up only a single point conversion in his team's 7-1 victory over Winnipeg Blue Bombers Wednesday, but it was enough to move him into second place in the Western Football Conference individual scoring race.

The point was Gerela's 160th of the season, and broke a tie with Dave Cutler of Edmonton Eskimos, who has 90. Saskatchewan place-kicker Jack Abendschan leads the West with 193 points. All three have two games remaining in the regular schedule

TED GERELA

Lions' fullback Jim Evenson scored B.C.'s only touchdown, and moved into fourth place in the race behind the three kicking specialists. He now has 66 points on 11 touchdowns, and is two points ahead of Larry Robinson of Calgary, Bob Hazzard, Winnipeg's top point-getter, was held scoreless, and remains in a seventh-place tie with Terry Swarn of Edmonton, each with 48 points.

twelve sound reasons why Shawano is your best investment in a lakefront lot

1. The quiet, unhurried life. If you long to escape the city rat race, noise, traffic jams, pollution—then consider Shawano. The place where the air is pure, the lakes sparkle with clarity and the only noises you hear are the splash of fat trout and the contented twitter of chickadees. Shawano is a haven of relief for allergy sufferers. Yet all this is within easy reach of major urban cities. It's a great life, and one you can start enjoying today.

2. Twelve miles of shoreline. Shawano's 1,000 acres includes twelve miles of shoreline on four lakes—then consider Shawano. The place where air is Dickey, Perch, Lost and Lake of Islands. Research grants have been made to a team of professional biologists from Trent University to undertake continuing studies of Dickey Lake to ensure it remains clean and pure at all times. Rigid controls have been established for all building, which must be set well back from the shoreline. Provincial government approved septic tank systems are installed in all cottages.

3. An all-season vacationland. Shawano is meant to be enjoyed all year round. Spring, summer and fall, Shawano is unexcelled for swimming, boating, water-skiing, cruising, fishing or just plain loafing. In winter, snowmobiling, tobogganing, ice-fishing, skating and other winter sports can be enjoyed to the fullest. Woodland trails, vast expanses of forest, plus the sweeping lake panoramas provide a natural wonderland of sparkling winter fun. And what better place to come home to than your own well-built, properly-heated cottage in the midst of these great times. Hibernation is for bears.

4. You get more than a lot. Enjoy the freedom of a 1,000 acre private estate for the price of a lakefront lot. There's no catch. Shawano is one of the largest leisure-living projects in Canada. The area is famous for its outstanding natural beauty. There are dozens of sandy coves, rock harbours and romantic points. The fishing is great, including lots of trout and bass.

5. Specially-designed cottages. An attractive series of cottage plans were commissioned for Shawano. Most plans feature wide picture windows, rustic wood finishes, expansive decks. You can buy the shell and finish it off yourself or choose a completely finished vacation home including heavy-duty wiring, heating, plumbing, wood panelling, sliding glass doors, log-burning fireplace and many other extras. The finest materials are used for the cottages which are built by skilled craftsmen who take pride in their work.

6. Big lots at low prices. For as little as $400 down, ($4,000 full price), you can buy a ½ acre lakefront lot, nestled in mature shade trees. Repayments are $38 monthly including interest at 8½%. Many larger lots are available. You can move into Shawano right now with a cottage and lot package deal from $8,900 full price with only 10% down payment. You can buy now and build later—up to five years, in fact. This means you can take full advantage of low, current prices now available at Shawano.

7. Wise spending. Shawano is a $6 million project phased over five years. Over $100,000 has been spent already in building all-year-class roads into Shawano from existing county roads. Further large sums are earmarked for hydro and gas for the creation of public beaches, camping and picnic areas, a marina, service centre, trading post and similar facilities.

8. History recaptured. Centuries before European colonists moved in, Shawano was an area treasured by Ojibway and Iroquois Indians for its beauty and plentiful game. Over a hundred years ago, the first gold strike in Ontario was made nearby. Descendants of many of these early settlers still live in picturesque villages and townships nestling in the surrounding countryside. This strong link with the past is one of the most charming aspects about Shawano.

9. We're professionals. Shawano's developers, Charlotte Properties Ltd. of Peterborough, has had extensive experience in leisure living and resort type communities. It is backed by a major Canadian financial group whose list of shareholders includes chartered banks, transportation and insurance companies and leading industries. Bowes and Cocks Limited, is a Peterborough based firm of Realtors specializing in the marketing and sales of vacation properties and has 24 offices in Ontario with affiliates in major Canadian and U.S. cities. The head office has a full staff of experts in every phase of property development and consultant associates include architects, engineers, town planners and researchers.

10. A sound investment in the future. Real estate has risen in one of the soundest Canadian investments. At Shawano your investment will appreciate in value because Shawano is one of the finest leisure-living communities in Canada with an exciting growth potential. Your lot and cottage investment could double in value in the next few years, if the present pattern continues.

11. Easy access. Shawano is easy to reach from most urban centres. The property is in Lake Township, Hastings County, 75 miles northeast of Peterborough, 45 miles north of Belleville and 150 miles northeast of Toronto. Driving to Shawano, take Highway 62 through Madoc to Steenburg Lake Road. Watch for Shawano signs.

12. See Shawano now. Come and see what Shawano is all about. Make it a family outing. Bring a picnic lunch, swimsuits, fishing tackle and camera. We have lots of picnic tables, complimentary soft drinks and we'll take you on a leisurely lake cruise on the new "Shawano Belle". Our resident agent is on the site every day from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and he'll be glad to help you have a good time.

Clay Up to Old Boasting Tricks

ATLANTA (AP) — Muhammed Ali and Jerry Quarry conducted a battle of words Wednesday when they took physical examination for Monday's battle with fists.

"I'm the best, that's all, I'm the champ," said Ali, the former heavyweight champion then known as Cassius Clay.

"Until I hit you on the chin," replied Quarry.

"I've flattened them all—Liston, Patterson," said Ali.

"You're fighting me now, baby," replied Quarry.

"You're an old man," Quarry, 26, told the 28-year-old Ali.

"You'll never meet another, like me. It's impossible for you to beat me," said Ali.

And so on.

Gilbert Too Busy in Goal To Think About Beating Habs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rookie goaltender Gilles Gilbert of Minnesota North Stars says he didn't have time to think Wednesday night while turning in a sensational performance in his second National Hockey League game. He was too busy stopping shots from Montreal Canadiens.

The 21-year-old native of Esprit, Que., turned aside 46 of the 47 shots the Canadiens sent his way to lead the North Stars to a 3-1 victory over Montreal.

"There were so many shots on me in the second period I hardly had time to react," Gilbert said after the game. "I'm very happy, and I'm sure this kind of game has to do a lot for my confidence."

Gilbert, playing before his parents for the first time since his junior days with London Knights of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, handled a 23-shot barrage in the second period.

He got able support from his team-mates, some of them former Canadiens, in handing the Montreal team its second consecutive defeat.

"I can't buy goals for them," Montreal coach Claude Ruel said of his team that has scored only two goals in their last two games.

"I can't buy the breaks, either. Tonight, we didn't get goals or breaks."

In other games Wednesday night, New York Rangers edged Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2, California Golden Seals and St. Louis Blues played to a 2-2 tie and Los Angeles Kings downed Pittsburgh Penguins 4-3.

Jean Drouin, last season's Rookie of the Year with Montreal Voyageurs, the Canadiens' farm club in the American Hockey League, and Danny Grant, traded to Minnesota in the summer of 1965 by the Canadiens, each scored one goal and picked up one assist for Minnesota.

Bobby Rousseau, traded to the North Stars by Montreal along with Ted Harris this year, also earned an assist.

Montreal took an early lead on defenceman Guy Lapointe's first-period goal but the North Stars tied it in the second and rammed in two more in the final period.

"It's great to come in here and win like that," said Harris. "Especially coming back like we did in the last period."

In New York, Rangers came from behind in the third period and won their fourth straight game.

The Leafs outshot the Rangers 17-8 in the first period, which ended scoreless. Toronto tallied twice in the second after New York took a 1-0 lead by Vic Hadfield.

But Hadfield, with his second goal of the night, and Walt Tkaczuk, with his fourth goal of the season—gave the Rangers the win in the third.

At Oakland, the Seals watched what looked like their first win of the season end up in a tie as the Blues scored two quick third-period goals.

The Seals took a 2-0 lead on second-period goals by Dennis Hextall and Joe Hardy. But the Blues, playing without their leading scorer Red Berenson, out with a knee injury, and Ab McDonald, sidelined with a sore back, rammed in a pair in the final 20 minutes and spoiled goalie Gary Smith's shutout bid.

At Los Angeles, the Kings, trailing 2-1 in the third period, scored three consecutive goals for their win.

Hadfield Fishing Without Hook

NEW YORK (AP) — The hook is gone from Vic Hadfield's stick—all but legislated out of existence by the National Hockey League's rules committee. But there's still some dynamite left in the veteran New York Ranger's shot.

Hadfield scored twice Wednesday night as New York beat Toronto. They were the first goals he has produced since abandoning the curved blade on his stick.

"They cut the allowed curve down to one-half inch this year so I just decided to scrap it," said Hadfield.

For the last few years, Hadfield's sticks have carried hooks as deep as three-quarters of an inch, causing his booming slapshots to drop and take off. Goalies never knew what a Hadfield bomb might do but the trouble was very often, neither did Hadfield.

So when the NHL rules committee put the crimp on curves,

VIC HADFIELD

Hadfield decided to go back to the conventional straight blade.

"It's a funny feeling to have a backhand shot again," he laughed.

Besides the straight stick, Hadfield underwent another important change this year. He was switched from his regular left wing slot on the high-scoring Jean Ratelle-Rod Gilbert line and placed on a defensive line with Bob Nevin and rookie Syl Apps, Jr.

"I really think the switch is going to help me," said Hadfield. "I find myself concentrating on checking more than I ever did before. It's like getting down to fundamental hockey all over again."

Hadfield's winning goal was fundamental—a booming 50-foot slap shot, low and accurate, that beat Bruce Gamble cleanly. "I think he was looking for a high shot and got crossed up," said Hadfield.

Moments before he scored the winner, Hadfield's line came on the ice to face Toronto's big scoring line—Norm Ullman, Ron Ellis and Paul Henderson. John McLellan, coach of the Maple Leafs, tried a little line jockeying to upset the matchup but Emile Francis, boss of the Rangers, was having none of that.

"He was trying to change things around," said Francis. "but we had the last move because we were at home and I wanted that checking line out there against those guys."

Obviously, Francis was looking for a little defence, but Hadfield gave him some offence as a bonus.

Senate Moving Towards Disclosure of Costs

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate is tip-toeing toward public disclosure of the cost of special committee investigations, but not without some agitation behind the scenes.

A proposed new rule requiring Senate committees to publish expense accounts in some detail is the first significant attempt to solve a long-standing parliamentary puzzle—how much has been spent by various Senate and Commons committees on special investigation.

Inquiries by an outsider to parliamentary offices typically fail to turn up what kind of bills are being paid by such special committees as those on the mass media, poverty and science policy, for example.

But Senator Hartland Molson (Ind.—Quebec), chairman of the Senate rules committee, is leading a come-clean movement.

A rule introduced last year requires committees with special assignments to report their accounts "in reasonable detail" within 30 days of completing their work and to give interim accountings within 15 days of the start of each new parliamentary session.

Some senators suggested the requirement would be met by quietly tabling the accounts in the Senate, which would mean a piece of paper being shoved away in the clerk's office.

Senator Molson's committee decided that wouldn't do. The Senator said his committee decided Wednesday to recommend publication of the accounts in Hansar, the official parliamentary record.

Senate informants say some committee chairmen have resisted the whole idea.

Under the new rule, the 15-day limit for reporting after the start of a new session expires today in none inkespringed. Others say the rule means 15 sitting days, which would extend the deadline into next month.

Only two of seven Senate committees with permission to incur special expenses had reported their accounts by Wednesday night.

Senator Molson, setting the example, was in early with a report Oct. 1 that his rules committee, appointed two years ago, had spent $77,621.

Senator J. B. Aird (L—Ontario), chairman of a special investigation of Canada-Caribbean relations, reported Wednesday that expenses in the last two years amounted to $80,825.93 with an estimated $7,000 in bills to come.

Nothing had been heard by Wednesday night from the special committees on mass media, poverty and science. Although Senator David Croll (L—Ontario) gave his fellow-senators an oral report on what the poverty committee had been doing on its summer travels.

Informed guesses on expenses incurred by the three special committees exceed $500,000 each.

Defenders are quick to say that comparable studies of mass media, poverty and science policy would have been much more costly in the hands of royal commissions.

Forecasts of expenditures by the three special Senate committees, provided in a letter last December to the Commons committee on miscellaneous estimates from the Privy Council office, listed $303,800 for the mass media inquiry, $281,238 for poverty and $353,535 for the committee on science policy headed by Senator Maurice Lamontagne (L—Quebec).

Senator Keith Davey (L—Ontario) said Wednesday his Special Committee on the Mass Media stuck rigidly to a budget throughout an inquiry that started last year. He said his committee's expenses would be published within two weeks.

The Senate's move to require regular publication of accounts delights long-time parliamentary critics of the practice whereby such expenses have been buried in lump-sum figures in parliamentary estimates and public accounts.

MP Mac McCutcheon (PC—Lambton-East) welcomed the Senate's move in an interview. He expressed hope that the Commons and others would be more forthcoming.

Mr. McCutcheon, in a Commons speech last December, complained about the way he and colleagues on the miscellaneous-estimates committee and in Parliament are asked to approve millions of dollars of expenditures already spent within a deadline of a few days.

He was commenting on one item of more than $1.5 million. That represented increased operating costs in the Senate during the financial year ended last March 31, including $700,000 more for committees, without details.

On that occasion, ironically, the Commons spent a total of 38 minutes listening to Mr. McCutcheon and giving first reading to bill C-181 for the first time in 26 years. The biggest increase was in the under-30 age group which accounted for 17 per cent of all cases.

Teen-agers Play Love Roulette...

LONDON (Reuter) — British teen-agers are paying a high price for playing "love roulette" — sex without precautions.

The result is a record level of abortions, illegitimate births and venereal disease.

He warned that the number of pregnancies among girls under 16-7s a matter of special concern.

"There is clear evidence from figures of extra-marital pregnancies at younger ages that sexual relations are increasingly common at these ages," said the report.

"This is not a matter of oral contraceptives making sexual promiscuity a normal pattern of behaviour in young teen-agers, as is often suggested. There is plenty of evidence that young people experimenting with sex do not take any action to avoid pregnancy."

The report showed the number of illegitimate births in girls under 16 had tripled in the last 19 years to 1,686 in 1969. Abortions also increased among school girls to 1,213 last year.

But the total number of illegitimate births in England and Wales was down slightly last year to 67,490 compared with 70,456 in 1968. The drop was attributed partly to the greater availability of abortions.

There were more than 52,000 legal abortions last year.

The report said venereal disease was reaching epidemic proportions.

Parliamentary Committee Debates War Measures Act

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP) — The government's use of the War Measures Act last week crept into the discussion on civil rights Wednesday at a hearing of the joint parliamentary committees on the constitution.

Patrick Sullivan, a fourth-year political science student at St. Francis Xavier University, said that a bill of rights should be written into the constitution but could be suspended if there was a threat to the state.

Replying to Georges Lachance (L—Labelaine), Mr. Sullivan said in his view the situation in Montreal justified suspending civil rights.

More than 300 people, mostly students attended the meeting at the university, the largest turnout yet at the committee hearings. The parliamentarians have already toured Manitoba and the Yukon Territory.

Mr. Sullivan was asked by Warren Allmand (L—Notre-Dame-de-Grace) if he would allow the federal government to set aside civil rights without consulting the provincial governments.

"You can't wait four or five days until a government is overthrown," Mr. Sullivan replied.

Hagarty Rowe, director of communications at St. Francis Xavier, said that young people are losing faith in the electoral process because they doubt the competence of their elders to govern.

What is needed is a better way for the government to inform the people of its actions, he said.

An autonomous agency should be set up.

It would not be Information Canada, which he said simply pumps out material to protect ministers of the government.

Commenting on a student brief on the Senate, Senator Donald Cameron (Ind. L—Alberta) said a large part of the responsibility for the bad image of the upper chamber rests on the mass media. The Senate, more active than it once was, was not understood by the news media.

Earlier Wednesday, the committee was told in a Sydney, N.S., hearing that Nova Scotia has been "politically, culturally and economically emasculated" since Confederation.

John Hanratty, a second-year political science student at Xavier College in Sydney, said that before Confederation Nova Scotia was the richest colony per capita in British North America.

But since Confederation the economic foundation of the province had been destroyed by national policies.

Noel Doucette, president of the Union of Nova Scotia Indians, said Indians have paid dearly for the special rights they have under treaties and promises.

"We paid for them with our culture, our dignity, our pride and self respect."

Indians should be allowed to decide for themselves what future they wish.

The committee's tour of Nova Scotia ended with the Antigonish meeting. The parliamentarians go to Charlottetown today for the final hearing in the Maritime provinces.

Peace Talks Without Conditions

Gromyko's Call Unlikely to Be Heard

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko demanded Wednesday an immediate resumption of Middle East peace negotiations, without preconditions.

United States sources said, however, they see little hope that those talks will restart in the immediate future.

Meanwhile, Israeli Premier Golda Meir said Israel is prepared to continue the Middle East ceasefire indefinitely.

Gromyko and Mrs. Meir made their statements during the silver anniversary session of the General Assembly. Neither speech gave any indication that either the Soviet Union or Israel is budging from past positions.

Gromyko denied "trumped up" American charges that Egypt is violating the 90-day ceasefire that is due to expire Nov. 5. Mrs. Meir repeated Israeli and U.S. statements that there had been violations by the implacement of Soviet-made missiles in the Suez canal standstill zone.

Mrs. Meir took Israel's plea for direct negotiations with the Arabs to the 127-member assembly.

Israel is boycotting the peace negotiations under Gunnar Jarring, the UN's Middle East envoy, until Egypt rectifies the alleged violations.

However, Mrs. Meir is reported to have met with Jarring Wednesday night in a private conversation held at the request of the Swedish diplomat.

She said in the assembly that Israel still believes in the Jarring mission and hopes that it will be fruitful. But the talks could not resume until Egypt heeded Israel's demand.

Gromyko charged that Israel is blocking the peace talks because it desires to hold on to captured Arab lands. He said the Jarring mission "should be reactivated forthwith, without embordening it with all kinds of artificial conditions and demandi."

His speech, dismissed by U.S. Ambassador Charles Yost as "largely General Assembly rhetoric," gave no indication of a spirit of conciliation on the Middle East.

Linking American and Israeli actions he asked: "Why are these trumped-up allegations being disseminated in the United States—almost to the point of falling into hysteria?

"It is not because they want to cover up their own actions and those of Israel which are increasingly complicating the search for a political settlement in the Middle East?"

He told the U.S. that if there is a desire to build relations with the Soviet Union on the basis of confidence, "then there must be no room for any falsity in foreign policy."

While the Soviet official's tone on the Middle East, and in restation of past positions on the Middle East, and in restation of past positions on the Indochina war, was tough, he was softer on Europe. For instance he made it clear that the U.S. and Canada would participate in a Communist-proposed European security conference.

And he said it is possible for the Big Four to reach agreement on divided Berlin. He called for the admission of Communist China and the two Germanys to the UN.

Mrs. Meir's statement was the firmest yet from Israel on the extension of the ceasefire. Egypt already has said it is willing to have an extension.

She called on all Arab countries to "recognize once and for all the future of the Middle East lies in peace and this must be achieved by the Israelis and Arabs themselves."

But Mrs. Meir's remarks left in doubt the future of the standstill that was part of the American package and was to lead to resumption of the Jarring talks this manner.

Under the standstill part of the package, Egypt and Israel agreed not to move new weapons into a 31-mile Suez canal zone.

American officials could not explain to reporters how they expected Egypt and Israel to hold to the standstill after the Nov. 5 deadline.

The officials said that after intensive private discussions here between high officials of the governments concerned with the Middle East situation they have not been encouraged that the peace talks will restart soon.

Gromyko and U.S. State Secretary William Rogers and other foreign ministers attended the first meeting of the Security Council held at a ministerial level Tuesday.

Rogers is reported to have told the closed-door meeting that the U.S. believes that commitments made by the parties in accepting the American ceasefire plan still exist.

Gromyko and Rogers later flew in a government plane to Washington where the Soviet minister will meet President Nixon today.

The plane trip permitted the pair their third private meeting in a week.

Rats on Bread Diet Die from Malnutrition

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Commercial "enriched" bread is so low in nutrients that not even a rat can live on it, a scientist who reported he starved rodents to death by stuffing them with bread, said Wednesday.

Dr. Roger J. Williams, a University of Texas nutrition expert, said he experimentally fed 64 laboratory rats on nothing but bread called "enriched" by commercial bakeries. Within 90 days, he said, 40 of the rodents had died of malnutrition. The survivors "were severely stunted."

Sixty-four other rats, Williams told the National Academy of Science, were fed the same bread after it first had been supplemented in accordance with more up-to-date nutritional knowledge. Small amounts of minerals, vitamins and an amino acid called lysine, he said, were added to the bread, but "no attempt was made to make the bread the best possible."

All but three of the rats eating the supplemented bread were "alive and growing" at the end of 90 days.

Insect-Fighting Viruses Could Replace Pesticides

OTTAWA (CP) — Scientists are turning new attention to bacteria and viruses to fight insect and other pests as use of such chemical pesticides as DDT becomes more restricted.

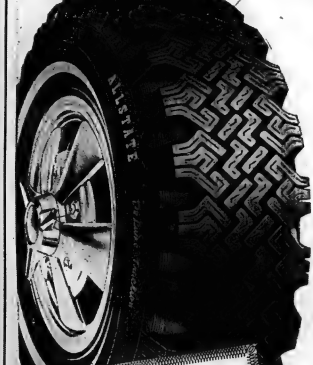
But efforts to use these agents against food plant pests have run into a serious snag—safety cannot be tested adequately with the methods now applied to chemical pesticides.

A new attempt soon will be made to break this barrier, it was learned Wednesday.

The problems of getting approval for use of viral and bacterial agents was described by Dr. J. M. Cameron, director of the insect pathology research institute of the federal forestry department at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

"The idea of widespread distribution of viruses is so relatively new that the regulatory authorities are understandably reluctant to put a stamp of approval on them until there is unequivocal evidence of their safety," he says in an article in the current issue of Science Affairs.

About the only evidence now available is negative—there are no recorded cases of any person or animal being infected by a virus whose primary target is insects.



Dr. Cameron predicts that approval soon will be given for specific viruses. Federal food and drug authorities confirmed Wednesday that approval has been given, at least for experimental use.

GREAT OCTOBER SNOW TIRE SALE

LAST 3 DAYS

AS LOW AS 18.98

Be sure you get there safely: 4 full plies of tough Du Pont nylon make up the cord body. Gives exceptional strength against the many unforseeable hazards of a howling winter. A very safe and dependable tire.

Wide and deep premium tread rubber really digs — keeps you safely rolling in deep snow, mud and slush. Grips like a vise to prevent slipping and sliding on wet or icy streets. Exclusive tread design with tie bars stabilizes the tread elements to make the tire run much quieter and reduce annoying "dig sizzement" howl.

Low-profile '78' series dimension is the size used on late-model cars — puts more rubber on the road for greater stability.

Steel-studded tires (only $6.00 more per tire) greatly reduce stopping distances in icy conditions. A small price to pay to save you from a serious or fatal accident.

Some Anglicans Reluctant

Unofficial Survey Reveals Church Union Favored by Most

TORONTO (CP) — Union of the Anglican Church of Canada and the United Church of Canada is favored by a majority of members of both denominations, an unofficial survey shows.

But The Observer, organ of the United Church, says: "The concerns of a sizable proportion of Anglicans who have expressed a reluctance could postpone an early marriage."

Ninety-one per cent of United Church members and 61 per cent of Anglicans who replied to a questionnaire published in The Observer and in The Canadian Churchman, the Anglican newspaper, said they would accept church union.

Results of the poll were announced today at a news conference at which it was emphasized that the countrywide survey was unofficial and not authorized by officials working toward church union.

The Observer received 4,838 replies, The Canadian Churchman 3,172. Membership of the Anglican Church as listed in the Canadian Almanac, based upon the 1961 census, is 2,409,000; that of the United Church, 2,864,000.

The United Church was formed in 1925 of the Methodist Church, the Congregationalists and part of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. Negotiations for union of the United Church and the Anglican Church have been under way for nearly 30 years. The Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), a participant in the negotiations, did not take part in the poll.

Progress in negotiations has been slow. The General Commission on Union, meeting in Halifax in April, 1968, sent back to committee for further study a report on the proposed structure and constitution of a single church.

The poll, described as the first test of lay opinion in either church, showed:

—Fifty-one per cent of the United Church and 39 per cent of the Anglicans are eager for union;

—Six per cent of the United Church membership and 31 per cent of the Anglicans threaten to leave the church rather than amalgamate;

—United Church clergy lag behind the laity in their enthusiasm for union. Anglican clergy are less in favor of union than most of their people, but more in favor than young Anglicans;

—Two-thirds of United Church people age 30 and under were seen as eager for union but 45 per cent of Anglicans 30 and under said they would leave the church first.

The Observer story on the poll, to be published in its November issue, says:

"If the results are representative, church union could cost the Anglicans 39 per cent of their members, more than a third of their clergy and nearly half of their young people.

"Since people who take the trouble to answer questionnaires tend to be those with strong opinions, however, it's possible that anti-union Anglicans are over-represented in the poll and that their proportion in the whole church is not so high. And some who threaten now to leave the church may not carry out their threat when the time comes.

"But the poll does indicate there is a sizable anti-union sentiment in the Anglican Church, that it is far stronger than the [illegible] sentiment in the United Church and that the General Commission on Church Union still has a big educational job to do among a good many church people.

"In both denominations, the returns revealed misinformation, myth, prejudice and self-righteousness."

Rev. Robert Craig, United Church executive commissioner for church union, said he was satisfied with the results of the poll. That 61 per cent of Anglicans now would accept union was "encouraging".

Canon Ralph Latimer, the Anglican co-commissioner, termed the results of "questionable value" because the response was limited and the extent to which it might be biased was not known.

Speaker Blames 'Brainwashing' For Drugs' Appeal to Youth

"Today's young people are being brainwashed into rebellion against society," stated Michael Mahoney, research technician for addiction studies at Queen's University, speaking to members of Ameliasburg Township Home and School Association last night in Keats School.

"This is one of the problems faced by counsellors treating our youth for drug addiction, but the greatest problem is apathy — on the part of the adults. Everyone is aware there is a drug problem, but we tend to console ourselves with the thought that 'it can't happen to our kids; it is only other people's children who are involved'."

Mr. Mahoney, who was educated in the Spanish School System and McGill University, working in Montreal's skid row, counselling and helping in the rehabilitation of drug addicts. At present he counsels addicts of drugs and alcohol.

Facts and figures resulting from research in non-medical use of drugs are astounding, he said. Last year $950-million was spent on marijuana and hashish in North America and $2½-billion on hard narcotics. These drugs are purchased outside our own continent, from seven countries whose economy depends on the sale of drugs for non-medical use. These seven countries grow the opium poppy, the source of basic gum opium — 752,000 metric tons annually. Because of these, only 10,000 metric tons are needed for world medical use. The difference in the amount produced is the amount of drugs used by our young people for escaping from problems, or trying to find themselves by the use of such drugs.

Mr. Mahoney felt that the problem could have been solved a few years ago had the World Health Organization or some other group insisted that a subsidy be paid these countries to cease production of drugs not needed for medical use. The time to do this was now reals with the young people themselves. The drug problem will die when they stop purchasing them.

"The insecurity of the young is used by drug pushers to increase the sale of their "stuff". The older teen is encouraged to try drugs; they are told they can build a paradise, a Utopian dream by using hallucinogens, for "then you are aware of the ultimate in love, peace and brotherhood". Nothing could be further from the truth. The result of the use of drugs will ultimately be the destruction of society as we know it.

"But you do not build on destruction. The older youngster who is using drugs is a model for the younger brother or sister who wants to do the "cool" things his older sibling does. Thus, the addiction counsellors are working with children from age 7 to 25 who are using solvents, marijuana hashish, LSD, speed, and ultimately, heroin."

Fifty per cent of today's population is under 25, and of that fifty per cent it is estimated that 11 - 25 percent are regular users of drugs. Every year, drug addiction counsellors are finding increased numbers of teachers in addiction in the very young — those less than 12 years of age.

The introduction of drugs into society has been "insidious and calculated to increase the sale of opiates." First, before it becomes profitable they produce them, a market must be established. The young are encouraged to "do their thing"; they are told "it's your body, your mind, what you do with it is only your concern". Soft drugs are used to groom the child to later become a heroin user, for it is there that the market is most lucrative.

"The addict must buy — and the price is high. So he steals from home, from his friends, from stores, parked cars, empty homes or resorts to pursesnatching to obtain funds to feed the monster craving that possesses him."

Solvents are known to cause brain damage — medical evidence overwhelmingly proves this — but still the sale of solvents to youngsters increases every year. The sale of such products (which are legally produced for a specific purpose) cannot be controlled by law. It is not unlawful to purchase glue — or any other such substance used by the young for sniffing. Only a police state could control such sales, and this would serve to answer the problem as the purchase and use of such items would go "underground".

Stricter penalties for the young addict are not the answer, Mr. Mahoney feels rehabilitation and counselling of the addict is far more satisfactory. Only when a youth indicates a need — a period of such assistance that he intends to continue using drugs, should prison sentences be imposed. Removing the control of marijuana from the Narcotics to the Food and Drug Act is not the answer.

"The only real solution is education of the young, starting at the age when youngster. He must be groomed to reject the influence of the drug user, for it is youth themselves who must stop the increase in drug addiction.

"Fear of overdose is not a deterrent to the user — he is constantly living new things with the drugs he finds are readily available. Mixing speed with LSD is only one experiment the kids are trying," Mr. Mahoney said, "injection is related as being the 'ultimate' in trips; the drug user consistently endeavors to find new ways of escape, new methods of getting the most from his drugs.

"The human body is a separate, distinct entity, with separate distinct chemical tolerance. What is a "good trip" for one youth can be death to another. There is no short cut to finding one's identity or purpose. There is no solution to problems forthcoming when one's brain is chemically controlled by drugs. There is no instant discovery of answers for problems by the use of drugs. The only short cut is believed to be a trip to the morgue.

"The use of speed results in the rapid aging of vital organs in the body. Laboratory examination of the organs in the bodies of young addicts who died prematurely from the direct use of drugs, shows the liver, heart and other organs to be in a condition similar to those of a 55-70-year-old adult who died a natural death, having never used drugs.

"But the young user does not fear death. Like the parents who know there is a drug problem, he thinks it only happens to the other guy.

Mr. Mahoney asked parents to read, attend lectures, write for literature and discuss drug use with their young people. He asked that we contact our elected representatives to intensify the control of drugs, to increase the education of the young and to assist in the establishment of more drug counselling agencies to work with those youths who are in need of rehabilitation.

"We must counter — brainwash our youngsters — make the use of drugs appear unattractive to them. Only when they refuse to buy or try drugs will the market for these death chemicals be wiped out."

Family Planning Help To Be Investigated

Public health authorities in Hastings and Prince Edward earlier decision not to institute a family planning program.

If the reverse shows a need for such a scheme — now being advocated on the provincial government level — a program will be proposed for both Quinte counties, health officer Dr. C. R. Lenk said today.

Health Minister Tom Wells yesterday criticized health units in Ontario for failing to get involved with family planning — programs concerned with birth control advice to women.

Mr. Wells told a special session of the Ontario Public Health Association that family planning is an "essential program" and his staff has been ordered to honor all budgeting requests by health units for such programs.

He said he was not impressed by the reasons 30 units gave for having no programs.

"I cannot help but feel many of the reasons are inadequate and simply poor excuses," he said.

Mr. Wells said health units must provide family planning to serve women who may be reluctant for various reasons to approach their family physician."

Dr. Lenk said he first considered instituting such a program when he was appointed health officer in 1964.

But it was the opinion of local doctors that family planning then was being adequately handled by the physicians.

Now, the provincial government is inclined to support of such programs, he noted.

As a result, he said, he would reconsider the entire decision, re-consult with local practitioners and "act accordingly."

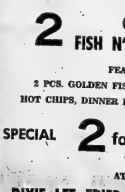
"If it meets with the support of the doctors and there is a definite need for it in this particular part of the province, we will certainly go into it," said Dr. Lenk.

The program would then be referred for approval to the Hastings and Prince Edward units board of health.

Such a program would involve women who wish to limit the size of their families. Sociological, physical and personal factors are considered in advising them on the most suitable means of birth control.

Organizing such a program would not be difficult, Dr. Lenk said. It would involve the services of a gynaecologist for "very experienced family doctors" and health unit nurses.

Inevitably, such a program runs into certain opposition, Dr. Lenk indicated.



Much of the protest comes from religious groups, he said.

In Toronto, Mr. Wells noted family planning already is under way in several areas.

The units with programs, on their own or in conjunction with other agencies, are in Toronto, Scarborough, Brant County, London, and Hamilton-Wentworth County.

He said several other units plan to set up programs within the next few years.

WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO WITH YOUR NEXT RAISE ?

You know that next raise could get you a faster sports car, a color TV, a bigger boat, a trip to the Islands or some other fancy item that starts depreciating from the second you take it out of the show room.

So What ? . . .

It will likely take all of that raise to make monthly payments barely catching up with the depreciation. On the other hand your next raise could buy you a whole new way of life. The amount you need to repair some fast-depreciating item of $1,000.00 would be enough to repay $5,000.00 of a mortgage on a home while it APPRECIATES. That kind of investment brings with it a whole new way of life. Not just for a man a day, or a day a week, or a week out of a year, but a lifetime of security. You don't turn 30 or 40 or take it in for repairs all the time, and it'll go on appreciating and giving you more fun and living. In fact, later on, it will help you buy all the color and travel and speed you like without trending to pay 12% - 18% interest rates. That's what we mean by building a REAL Estate.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

No Preset Way To Avoid Attack

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Is there a secret? Something special to prevent a heart attack? My partner has just had one. So has my neighbor. Both seemed healthy and strong. I wonder if they might have prevented it.

And that brings me to me. How can I prevent one? As you can see, I've become somewhat anxious about the problem. — Mr. Y.

COMMENT: Secret! It's a poorly kept one. For the past few years there have been many medical columns on the subject. Also, explanations in magazines and books.

But people keep getting heart attacks. Coronary artery disease still is at the top of the list of statistics as the most dangerous enemy.

I wish I might give you a direct answer to your query; offer one specific measure that will ward off attacks. There isn't such advice handy. First, we say it's fortunate to have a good family history: long-lived parents, grandparents, brothers and sisters. Heredity plays an important part.

However, there are many contributing factors. Patients who have high blood pressure, gout or diabetes should be especially careful to try to bring these conditions under control. Untreated, they invite trouble in the coronary arteries.

We have come to know that smoking is not only bad for the lungs, but also threatens the heart, blood vessels and the arteries in the heart, brain and kidneys.

Too much drinking is bad. So is undersexercise. On the other hand, so is too much activity. Each one must determine what is too much or too little. Puttering (a bit) one man, but make another "feel great."

How is the cholesterol level in the blood? If too high, a special diet, low in saturated fats (cream, fatty meats, cheese, butter, etc.) is helpful. Of course, everyone knows that obesity remains a threat to health. If overweight, better lose poundage.

For last, I leave what I consider one of the most serious contributing factors in heart attacks: tension. Learning to live in relaxation is not easy; nevertheless, it is an important antidote against heart attacks.

Add them all up, Mr. Y.,

and you have the "secret" of how to prevent "coronary occlusion," "coronary insufficiency," "cardiac infarction"; all of which are scientific terms used to designate the onset of a heart attack.

For Mrs. M.: An occasional piece of fruit is all right as dessert (instead of candy, ice cream, pie or cake). But if your hypoglycemia is as severe as you say it is, I believe your medical adviser is correct in saying that "filling up" on plums, peaches and pears is too much of a carbohydrate burden.

For Miss L.: The name for the procedure that removes acne scars is: dermabrasion. It should be performed by a qualified dermatologist. It is a method for scraping off the surface layers of skin.

• • •

For Miss H.: In spite of what your friend says, I know of no specific cure for psoriasis. Many treatments are helpful, and I advise continuing medical aid, but I do not go along with anyone who promises a "sure cure." (I recall a dermatologist who wrote to me saying he had a "100 per cent cure." I differed with him then; and I still maintain that it is not fair to make this promise.) I hope that some day in the near future we will discover some way to alleviate the suffering caused by stubborn psoriasis.

LONELY HEARTS CLUB

NEW DELHI (AP) — New Delhi's zoo has a matrimonial problem. Some 28 animals have become either widows or widowers and the zoo is having trouble finding new mates. A food and agriculture ministry spokesman said overseas missions had been asked to help look for such animals as a hedgehog, a mustached guenon, a red kangaroo and a golden cat.

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

Your birthday today: The Sun enters the sign Scorpio today at 4:04 PM Eastern Daylight Time. In other years the time of change is earlier or later, sometimes on the day before or day after. Both Libras and Scorpios born today face a year of diverse activities which tempt them to scatter energy. Many jobs which only now begin to exist attract these people — skills beyond traditional must be acquired quickly. Today's Libra natives are always ready to react to unexpected and pioneering situations.

ARIES (March 21—April 19): Today is generally slow-paced. Search for better understanding of how things work or what makes things happen. Expect people to be somewhat aloof for the moment.

TAURUS (April 20—May 20): Put an early mood of gloom behind you, get busy, then take an extra break for diversion. Thus a long day is not so much a burden and you can admire your results.

GEMINI (May 21—June 20): Seek cheerful company, trade secrets with old confidents. A change of pace helps avoid fatigue. You must cope with added routine later; save energy for it.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): It could be easier to dodge friends than to say no to their requests — not that, however, is necessary now. Routine work is strongly favored. Make it easier on hand.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Winding up the workweek briefly is to be slow. Older people's problems get in the way. Make a thorough job of what you do. Consult separate specialists, get two opinions on all questions.

Croll Says Welfare System An Impossible Mess

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator David Croll, chairman of the Senate poverty committee, said Wednesday that Canada's present welfare system should be scrapped and a guaranteed income introduced.

Senator Croll (L—Ontario) told the upper chamber that a few months ago he thought the welfare system was a mess. Now, he said, he thinks it's "an impossible mess."

It was useless to try and change the present system, even for the better, because people felt such extreme hostility towards it. The feelings had infected generations of Canadians and plagued Canadian society, he said.

The concept of a guaranteed income is not new: 1.25 million Canadians were drawing it now. Of these, 800,000 were old-age pensioners getting an income supplement above the regular pension and 450,000 were persons on long-term public assistance.

Senator Croll said Canada is on the verge of committing a greater blunder, one that might blight the country's future.

"We have begun . . . to assist fully employed persons, the working poor, through the welfare system."

The working poor needed help because they did not get the medical and dental services available to persons living solely on welfare payments.

But if governments in Canada started to supplement wages and exempt the working poor into "the mystic web of welfare," it would be a commonsense mistake. The working poor had to be given incentives to stay away from welfare because they are producers.

Raid for Suspects Blankets Village

Army Uses 40 Trucks

LUSKVILLE, Que. "(CP) — The army and the provincial police made a lightning raid here Thursday, apparently looking for Paul Rose and Marc Carbonneau, charged in the kidnap-slaying of provincial Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

Rose, 27, once taught in the secondary school in Hull and as a result, authorities are believed to feel he could have returned to the area.

The QPP would say nothing regarding the raid and the army would only confirm that a search of the area had taken place.

But residents were considerably shaken when the soldiers, under direction of QPP officers moved up Highway 8 from Breckenridge and started going through every home, barn, and house and field.

One resident said that at one time there were soldiers lined shoulder-to-shoulder along the highway while others went through the houses.

The residents said the search covered a radius of about two miles around the village and that, although no accurate estimate of the number of searchers involved was available, there were at least 40 trucks full of them.

"There were so many trucks, we thought they were all going back to Petawawa," said one resident.

Petawawa is the Canadian Forces Base from which many of the soldiers called out under the War Measures Act come from.

"My fields were swarming with soldiers," said Alonzas Renault, who owns a large farm.

"We never thought we would see soldiers out here," said Mrs. Guy Lavigne.

Residents also departed, empty-handed.

Luskville is about 17 miles northwest of Hull.

Chile Under Tight Security

SANTIAGO (AP) — Troops and police today pushed the toughest security measures Chile has seen in 13 years following an attempt to assassinate the country's commander-in-chief of the army, Maj.-Gen. Rene Schneider.

The armed forces were put on maximum alert, roadblocks were set up on all roads around Santiago and a nightly curfew was ordered for the capital.

Four or five men in three cars blocked Schneider's limousine at a busy intersection Thursday morning, knocked out the rear windows with the butts of their pistols, and fired about eight shots at close range. The 57-year-old general was hit in the chest, neck and arm, and one bullet grazed his heart and a lung.

Schneider's pulse had stopped by the time he was taken to a military hospital, and emergency open-heart massage was used to revive him. During the night his condition worsened, and further surgery was ordered.

Fanatic Sought In Ohta Killings

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (Reuter) — Police today sought a man described as an environmental fanatic who is wanted in a bizarre mass murder at the home of a rich eye surgeon, Dr. Victor Ohta.

A warrant charging five counts of murder was issued Thursday night for John Linley Frazier, 34. Police investigators said in an affidavit that Frazier felt people "were like the Ohtas are too materialistic and should be snuffed."

Slain Monday night were: Ohta, 47; his wife, Virginia, 43; their son, Derrick, 12, and Tagart, 11, along with the doctor's secretary, Dorothy Cadwallader, 28.

In the affidavit sworn to by investigating officers it was stated Frazier lived for several months in a cabin near the Ohta's hillside mansion in an exclusive area of Santa Cruz.

"At the time he left he was carrying a loaded pistol and a backpack with food," the affidavit said.

He also told a friend "big things will be happening next Monday," the affidavit said.

Blonde Spy Tale A Puzzle

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — The puzzle of South Africa's blonde spy took a new turn today as reports of a new bid being escorted away from a Johannesburg apartment by a male companion driving a black limousine.

Speculation mounted that Jennifer Miles, 26, named by local newspapers this week as the center of a Washington spy scandal which ended in the explosion of two Cuban diplomats in early October, was being kept away from the public by South African security police.

Drapeau Takes Up Cudgel; Opponents Ask Vote Delay

MONTREAL (CP) — Usually restricted to small-time politicking, Montreal's municipal election suddenly has attracted national interest.

The campaign for votes, to be cast Sunday, was lost in the turmoil of the War Measures Act and troops stationed around the city. But now, terrorist activity has been linked with the election.

Mayor Drapeau said on two Montreal radio stations Thursday that the Front d'ACTION Politique (FRAP), opposing his Civic Party in the municipal election, groups "revolutionaries and terrorists."

Meanwhile, the separatist Parti Quebecois, with seven elected members in the Quebec legislature, called for a postponement of the election while the "climate of panic" persists in Quebec over steps taken to combat terrorist activity of the Front de Liberation du Quebec.

The mayor made an allusion to blood flowing on the streets if FRAP, with 21 candidates for 46 vacant city council seats, wins the Sunday election.

He said he is convinced there is a "direct" link between the kidnapping municipal party and the FLQ, responsible for two political kidnappings and the slaying of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte last weekend.

FRAP, meanwhile, branded the whole affair as "ridiculous."

Party President Paul Cliche told a news conference Mayor Drapeau's forebodings of bloodletting will "help us more than harm us."

He charged the 54-year-old mayor, chief magistrate of Montreal for 15 years, with

Search Not At Dead End

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor-General George McIlraith said today he cannot accept the proposition that the police are at a dead end in their search for the kidnappers of British diplomat James Cross.

He was replying in the Commons to Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield, who noted that it is nearly three weeks since the kidnapping of Cross.

Mr. Stanfield said there is an "apparent lack of success" in police efforts and that there are reports police are at a dead end and relying on tips.

Mr. McIlraith said the information from the RCMP does not support the proposition that police are at a dead end. Regretfully, he said, he could not give the Commons this information.

Prime Minister Trudeau told Mr. Stanfield that the public has all the information it needs to show why the government involved the War Measures Act a week ago.

He listed this information in reply to T. C. Douglas, New Democrat leader, as:

—The kidnappings of Cross and Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte, later assassinated.

—The request by Quebec and Montreal for exceptional measures.

—The federal government's assessment of all the facts, already known to the public.

—The "state of confusion" in Quebec "around these matters."

Deadline Arrives

Police Set Up Release of Arrested Persons

MONTREAL (CP) — Police are expected today to release several more persons detained in sweeping police raids for having possible connections with the now-outlawed terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec.

A provincial police spokesman said those arrested last Friday under the terms of the War Measures Act will have to be either charged or released today, unless detention periods are extended by Quebec authorities.

In the week since the act was invoked, 373 persons were detained in Quebec province with 162 being freed by late Thursday.

Of 271 still in custody, the QPP spokesman said, "a lot will be set free today."

The War Measures Act permits the detention of suspects for up to seven days before charges must be laid. The provincial justice minister is empowered to extend the detention period to 21 days at his discretion.

In normal circumstances, charges must be laid within 24 hours of arrest.

As the emergency legislation moved into its second week, various groups and individuals expressed opinions on the special powers granted police to combat the FLQ.

Archbishop Paul Gregoire of Montreal proposed the formation of a committee to help persons detained under the act.

He said Thursday a committee composed of people of "outstanding integrity" could provide a "needed link between the prisoners and their immediate families."

Its work would "help avoid any abuses or negligence, any attitudes which may give rise to lasting and deep-seated rancor."

The strongest denunciation Thursday of the War Measures Act came from a Montreal municipal political party, Front d'Action Politique—Political Action Front.

A statement from FRAP, combating the city's municipal election Sunday, denounced the "military occupation" of Quebec, "political censure" imposed on the media and police action under the act.

Two FRAP candidates were among the 46 persons released in Montreal Thursday after being detained under the emergency regulations.

The Quebec Bar Association said it had studied the act and found there is "nothing in this law and its regulations which has the effect of suspending the fundamental right of retaining and consulting a lawyer without delay."

County-wide Recreation Program Is Proposed

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — The feasibility of a county-wide recreation program forwarded to Picton recreation director Wayne Ring will be probed by councillors in Prince Edward's ten municipalities.

Mr. Ring met with representatives from seven municipalities last night in Benson Hall to explain the advantages of the proposed program. He stressed that the great strength behind his township's proposed program lies in "strictly a community effort". "I am not being parochial about it," he remarked, "but I do think people respond to it because its a community organization." Mr. Ring observed that a co-ordinating committee organized to offer suggestions but devoid of authority is what is needed to promote recreation.

Several representatives questioned the use of county school facilities under a county-wide program. Mr. Ring reported that the Prince Edward County board of education has been requested to draft a policy for use of the schools but has not done so as yet.

A school trustee attending the meeting assured the group that the board is not endeavoring to keep the public out of the schools. He predicted that trustees would be receptive, in most instances, to use of these buildings but pointed out that duplication of the Moir program is unlikely. He explained that the maintenance staff must receive extra pay for Motors executive prepared to pour a fortune into an afterhours school program."

It was the unanimous feeling of the meeting that parental participation is essential to the success of a recreation program. Bloomfield reeve Allen Anderson attributed the smoothly operated pre-teen dances in his village to parents' willingness to join in chaperone duties. He described community supervision as "the answer" to a well run program. Athol councillor Vern Armstrong agreed that "disciplinary supervision" is responsible for the success of similar dances in his township.

Councillors generally agreed that it was too soon to take action on Mr. Ring's project but voted to present his plan to their municipal councils for discussion. A second meeting will be held in January to examine county - wide recreation program uniting the efforts of all townships.

Representatives from Ameliasburgh, Athol, Bloomfield, Hallowell, Hillier, Sophiasburg, Ameliasburgh, Township and Picton attended the meeting. A member of the South Marysburg recreation committee, James Fenton, suggested that the great strength behind his township's proposed program lies in "strictly a community effort". "I am not being parochial about it," he remarked, "but I do think people respond to it because its a community organization." Mr. Pitcher observed that a co-ordinating committee organized to offer suggestions but devoid of authority is what is needed to promote recreation.

Dad Returns to Rescue Son

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

IVANHOE — Garage worker Ernest Dunning left some needed equipment behind when he went to work in Madoc Thursday.

He returned home — in time to rescue his three-year-old son from a fire from which his wife had moments earlier snatched their two other children.

"It was providential," Mr. Dunning said last night as he recalled the chance stroke of fortune that unexpectedly caused him to return home.

Today his son Eldon is recovering in Belleville General Hospital from the effects of smoke inhalation suffered before his father smashed a window to rescue him from an upstairs room.

The boy, his mother, Alice Dunning, and his sisters Yvonne, 5, and Shirley, 10 months, were rushed in hospital as fire destroyed the family home on Huntingdon Townships sixth concession, about a mile east of this hamlet.

Mrs. Dunning and her daughters were released later last night after treatment for minor injuries.

Provincial Police say the fire broke out as Mrs. Dunning was starting a stove fire downstairs. She apparently intended using fuel oil to get it going but inadvertently picked up a can containing gasoline.

As the fire erupted, she dashed to an upstairs room to get her children. She dropped both girls through a window about eight feet to the ground, said Mr. Dunning, but when she attempted to return for her son she was beaten back by dense smoke already filling the house.

Mr. Dunning then leapt to the ground and was running to seek help from neighbors when her husband made his unscheduled return home.

Mr. Dunning hurriedly placed a ladder against the burning building and entered the room to rescue his son.

Madoc volunteer fire department answered the call but the fire was burning beyond control by the time the brigade arrived.

Police say the house, in which the Dunnings have lived for the past three years, was partially insured.

Chamber Backs Trudeau Action

The action of the Federal Government in invoking the War Measures Act has the approval of directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

At a special meeting last night chamber directors unanimously approved a resolution to Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, expressing their approval and support of his government's action in the current crisis.

The resolution over the name of Frank C. Murray, chamber president, expressed good will to Prime Minister Trudeau and his colleagues.

Drivers Could Spot Litterbugs

Quinte district motorists could be invited to act as volunteer anti-litter policemen if a suggestion forwarded by Belleville Alderman Robin Harvey is taken up by the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Mrs. Jeffrey's suggestion is that motorists be provided with pre - addressed ready stamped post cards on which to list the licence number of autos from which litter is discarded along the streets and highways.

The owner of the offending vehicle would be checked out through the licence number and the offender would be sent a courtoual letter asking for co-operation in the campaign against littering.

Mrs. Jeffrey, chairman of the Moira Authority Information and Education advisory committee, proposed the idea at a Wednesday night meeting of her committee at Carrying.

She said the idea had been tried on the state of Arizona with good results.

Although agreeing that the idea could have its plus values, Authority committee members were not completely in agreement as to how the cards should be placed in motorists' hands.

In Arizona the cards go out with the purchase of auto plates and are placed in the envelopes with the licence plates prior to shipment from the factory.

Suggestions for a "pilot" project in the Quinte area was for the cards to be made available at the local auto licence offices, or possibly through schools.

No action was taken on the suggestion but Mrs. Jeffrey said she would make inquiries as to how it could be implemented.

Airmen Escape

Four airmen safely escaped this morning when a twin-engine Buffalo aircraft from CFB Trenton crashed in swampy farmland near Mountain View airport.

Air force authorities said an investigation was being immediately launched to determine the cause of the mishap.

With the exception of a trainee pilot who apparently suffered a slight leg injury, the crew escaped unharmed as the aircraft — on a practice landing run — nosed into the ground.

The plane, attached to 424 Transport and Rescue Squadron, crashed less than a mile from the air field, said a CFB Trenton spokesman.

Listed aboard the plane at the time were captains R. W. Hutton and C. D. Eakin and corporals J. A. B. Burke and B. Flanigan.

Capt. Hutton was instructor pilot and Capt. Eakin a trainee.

Wreckage at the site appeared minimal, although one wing of the Buffalo was damaged, its debris lodged in a nearby treetop.

The official spokesman said damage was reduced because of the nature of the local land area.

Brig. Gen. Gerald Coffin, chief of staff support services at Trenton, said an investigation was being launched immediately.

Scene of the crash — about 9.30 a.m. — was the farm of Leon Caughey on Amelisburg township's fifth concession.

Word of the crash sent service ambulances and fire units racing to the scene.

Shortly after the crash site was placed under security guards as a team of investigators began an on-the-spot probe of the cause of the crash.

Stamp Commemorates Last Spike Driver

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

A picture, famous to Canadians, and reproduced in most history school texts, shows a white - bearded dignitary in top hat driving the last spike joining the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks at Craigellachie or Eagle Pass, on Nov. 7, 1885.

The man who drove that spike, was Sir Alexander Donald Smith, Lord Strathcona, first president of the CPR.

On Nov. 6, the Canada Post Office will honor the 150th anniversary of his birth with a special 6-cent commemorative stamp incorporating a medallion designed by Dora de Pedery-Hunt of Toronto.

This impressive looking design will combine yellow, brown and green in what might prove to be a dubious color mixture, printed by the Canadian Bank Note Company using the lithographic process.

Sir Donald Smith was born at Forres, Moray, Scotland, in 1820 and entered the service of the Hudson's Bay Company at the age of 18.

His promotion to head the company's Montreal department in 1868 resulted in his having resulted from making a favorable impression during his visit to Ecaplain in 1864. He became governor of the company in 1889.

During the Red River Uprising of 1869-70 Sir John A. Macdonald appointed the Bay official to the position of commissioner to Red River to present the government's case to the English and Metis.

Smith represented Selkirk in the House of Commons from 1871 to 1880, also as the member for Winnipeg in the provincial legislature between 1870 and 1874.

Railways had remained a major interest for him and together with the promise of British Columbia to join Confederation and the need for western immigrants, the railroad promised a great future which Smith personally helped finance.

Honor and recognition of his persistence came with the invitation to drive the last spike of the CPR in 1885.

It was reported that the Marquis of Lansdowne, Governor - General at the time, ordered a silver spike to be prepared and mounted later as a souvenir. Sir William Cornelius Van Horne, manager of the railroad, vetoed the arrangements, however, commenting on the number of golden and silver spikes driven for good luck by subsequent railroad lines.

His contention was that iron was just as good as the more precious metals for the spike.

The first spike that the president attempted to drive into the bed bent and was quickly replaced by another which was carefully driven home. The original spike, which had been discarded, was picked up by the enterprising young secretary to Van Horne, Arthur Piers, who brought about the manufacture of diamond pins which were presented to ladies closely connected with the ceremony, but not actually present.

In 1886 Smith was knighted by Queen Victoria, returning to politics in 1887 as the representative for Montreal West.

Retiring from active politics nine years later to accept an appointment as high commissioner to Great Britain, Smith was raised to the peerage as Baron Strathcona and Mount Royal in 1897.

He maintained his position in Britain until his death in 1914.

A total of 34 million stamps will be produced with the regular marginal plate inscriptions. First Day covers should arrive at the Canada Post Office, Ottawa 2, no later that Oct. 28 in time for servicing. Philatelic stock is available from the Philatelic Service, Canada Post Office, Confederation Heights, Ottawa 8.

CHRISTMAS ISSUE

An interesting development has come to light concerning the recent release of the 5 and 6 - cent Christmas commemoratives. With a combination of five stamps per sheet, each value has a complete block of four stamps of one design in the centre of each sheet. While dashes and triples are common in these combination issues, blocks are unusual.

Melville Hill's Hobby Turned Into Museum

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

TYENDINAGA — Most people collect something for a hobby.

Melville Hill collects everything — everything associated with Indian culture, that is.

As a result, this reserve of the Bay of Quinte Mohawks can boast one of the few museums of its kind in Ontario.

The museum, centred in the Hill home, is small in area. But it compensates for size with the range of its exhibits—everything from cooking pots to costumes.

"About the only thing I haven't got in there is a bow and arrow." Mr. Hill wryly observes.

In a way, such cultural caretaking is a historic role for his family. For nearly a century the Hills have been official custodians of the precious Queen Anne silver—the communion service presented the Mohawks by the British Queen in the early 18th century.

But the museum project dates from the early 1950s, when Mr. Hill was elected to second term as chief of the Mohawks — an office he held for a total of seven years.

While in Belleville, he spotted the portraits and photographs of Hastings County wardens on display in the county buildings.

He hit on the idea of assembling a similar gallery of Mohawk chiefs and went looking for photographs from a myriad of sources. Now, eight years later, the collection dating back to the mid - 19th century, when chiefs ceased to be elected, lacks only one portrait — that of Isaac Claus who was chief in 1841.

It was inevitable that the scope of the project broadened along the way.

Mr. Hill began collecting other items involving Mohawk and Indian culture in general.

Into the display went such items as the costumes worn by the famed Mohawk playactor Crosby Gaskha; the cooking pot used by Christian Moore, found as a child by a 1778 Mohawk war party in New York State, who died a 110 years in 1899 in Tyendinaga — the first white woman ever to live with the Mohawks.

The collection also vividly demonstrates the Indian handicraft tradition — from primitive arrowheads and artifacts to the artistic ingenuity of modern Indian grasps.

As a member of an Ontario government Indian advisory committee in the 1950s, Mr. Hill made personal contact with many northern groups and their handicraft work.

The result of his contact went into the growing museum displays at Tyendinaga. In all, the handicrafts of 15 reserves now are on show at the Hill home.

It's a collection multiplied in various ways. Mr. Hill says it's surprising the places where he unearths his trophies.

Invest In Canada Is Hees' Plea

Canada should not restrict foreign investment in its economy but rather increase its Canadian investment, George Hees (PC-Prince Edward - Hastings) said Thursday night.

The former Conservative trade minister told the Canada Club that the proposed Canada Development Corp. would be an excellent way to divert Canadian savings into new industrial development.

The Crown corporation would have two major objectives—to buy up Canadian companies that are for sale and appear likely to be taken over by foreign investors, and to provide Canadian capital to back development projects.

Using capital to buy a plant that otherwise would continue operations under foreign ownership would not provide one additional job nor add one dollar to tax revenue, said Mr. Hees.

I think it is obvious that, in the overwhelming majority of cases, capital raised by the CDC should be channeled into new productive enterprises."

It's Time To Change The Time

Belleville residents, along with other Canadians in municipalities on daylight time will this weekend gain back that hour of sleep they lost last spring.

Communities on daylight time convert back to standard time Sunday morning but to avoid confusion, it is suggested residents turn back their clocks an hour before retiring.

But the official times for clocks to be set back vary from region to region.

Belleville changes officially at 12.00 a.m. Sunday; Ottawa changes at 12.01 a.m., while Toronto changes at 2.00 a.m. the same as Belleville.

Service Coverage Said Unfair

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Health Minister Thomas Wells said Thursday he will raise the health-insurance problems of armed forces members at the next federal - provincial conference.

He told a legislature committee that health and hospital insurance coverage is unfair to armed forces members but Ontario cannot correct the situation alone.

William Ferrier, New Democratic Party member for Cochrane South, read a letter from a soldier at Kingston complaining that while he received a 20 - percent discount on the premium for his hospital insurance as a federal government employee, he did not get a discount on the Ontario Health Services Insurance Plan policy he must carry for his family.

Mr. Wells said the federal government does not permit armed forces members to join the Ontario health insurance plan, but insures them on its own. However, Ottawa does not include the families of service members in its insurance, and they must take out OHSIP policies.

Medicare in Quebec

Largely due to the pressure of events in Quebec, the medical specialists of that province have returned to work. But the fact remains that the strike of the medical men has resulted in an inevitable loss of confidence among the Quebec public.

It happened before in the pioneering days of medicare in Saskatchewan. The government legislation ultimately was accepted there, but not before the prairie province's people were rent asunder by the furore that came in its train. Today in Quebec, as elsewhere in Canada, there is general acceptance of medicare in principle. Why then could a plan not have been worked out, based on experience elsewhere, that would have been satisfactory for both the medical men and the public?

The Montreal Gazette has put it this way: "It remains an unsatisfactory law. The opting-out clause is meaningless and the fee schedule . . . is inferior to that of any other province in which medicare is operating. These questions must be reopened at the earliest appropriate time and settled by negotiation . . . doctors are as entitled to consideration as any other group in society. The fact that the government has decided upon state financing of health insurance, which is basically what medicare is supposed to be, does not mean it has a right to fix a doctor's earnings and prevent him from earning in excess of that limit. . ."

The Gazette says nothing of the hardships suffered by the public as a result of the specialists' stoppage. As one tearful woman, her aged and ailing mother lying on a stretcher awaiting treatment in a crowded Quebec hospital, put it to a Globe and Mail newsman: "It was all for money."

Medical specialists are the last group in society who should be pleading poverty. At the same time no Government can arbitrarily reduce the earnings of professional men without the latter being legitimately concerned.

Clearly, some compromise is necessary and the Gazette is correct in urging that negotiations be reopened. Failure to reach a satisfactory conclusion in this matter could result in the departure of medical men to richer pastures such as the United States, and a consequent deterioration of services at home.

Red China

A reader has written disputing our belief that Canada's recognition of Communist China is a positive step. The note bears no signature or identification, which suggests to us the reader is like countless other Canadians whose heads are buried in the sand in this matter of China.

Canada takes the view that the rest of the world can ill afford to ignore the most populous nation on earth, one whose people are largely ignorant of the Western world, and what they do know is heavily laced with the anti-Western propaganda of Peking.

By establishing formal contacts with Red China, Canada may be able to bring some light to bear on Western policies and motives, to the end that the Chinese will be less belligerently disposed toward the West, and North America in particular, in future.

The unidentified reader asks in what way trade will benefit? We should think the answer to this question obvious; trade will be opened up in the way it has been in other countries with which Canada has relations.

As we have noted before, there is the danger that China will now be in a position to conduct espionage on this continent, and that Ottawa will have to be vigilant in this regard. We believe though that we stand to lose more, and be in greater danger, from China's continued isolation than through recognition. Canada's move to end that isolation should serve the cause of world peace.

Ulster Quiet

As the threat of insurrection — the sequel to a long period of subversion unheeded by the authorities — presents itself to a disbelieving Canadian public, over in Northern Ireland the atmosphere seems to be more calm than it has for a long time.

An indication of a happier state of affairs there is the announcement of the release of civil rights advocate and Mid-Ulster representative at Westminster, Bernadette Devlin.

Miss Devlin had served four months of a six months sentence for her part in riots in Londonderry. She plans a brief rest before touring her constituency and resuming her parliamentary duties.

Will this experience mean the reappearance of a more mature Bernadette Devlin, less given to demagoguery? We shall see. If, as we suggest, her release means a return to more normal conditions in Northern Ireland, that at least is cause for satisfaction.

Car Insurance Costs Americans $17,000 Million A Year

By JOHN BARBOUR

BOSTON (AP) — The high cost of auto insurance is a true discomfort to many Americans who find themselves paying two or three times the cost of the family buggy each year for legal protection on the road.

The situation is even worse for the youth under 25 who faces a $700 average insurance bill for his $300 car, or for the man over 65 who may not be able to get insurance at all, and hence legally cannot drive.

Every day, some 10,000 persons are hurt on the road. Each year, more than 55,000 die. For protection, the four out of every five families who own cars buy auto insurance.

It costs them some $17,000 million a year, only slightly under what they pay for new cars.

Auto insurance itself is a tacit admission that driving is risky, even for the careful. But the form of auto insurance is a unique turnabout in protection. It is aimed not at protecting the driver who buys it. It is aimed at protecting the others he may hurt.

As the price gets higher with each accident, legislators and lawyers are looking for a new protective philosophy of the road.

Now, the U.S. government has undertaken the most comprehensive look at auto safety and insurance ever attempted. And at least one state—Massachusetts—has taken legislative steps to overturn the old common-law principle that the party at fault must pay the bills.

In he end, only some 15 cents out of every insurance dollar goes to pay for the actual net economic loss of the victim, what he is really out of pocket.

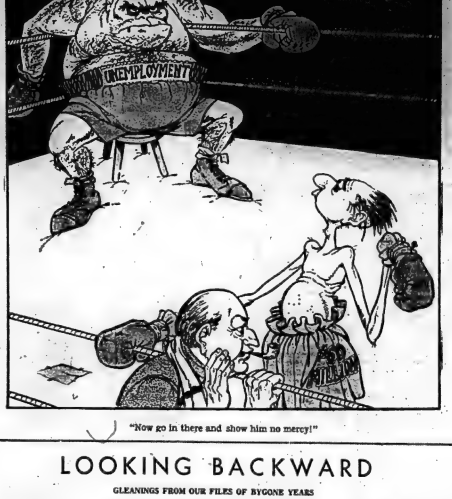
In a Massachusetts study of small claims, investigators found that insurance companies had paid out $180,000 for that amount, $180,000 was for pain and suffering and only $30,000 was for real expenses of the victims.

Still another study holds that: $2.30 in premiums must be paid for every dollar that goes to compensate victims. The overhead, says the study, is eaten up by insurance companies and legal fees, which generally work out to around one-third of the settlement.

A U.S. transportation department study includes a volume on consumer attitudes toward the insurance they buy. Most—65 per cent—said they were satisfied with their current insurance. Some 32 per cent said they were not.

Those who were satisfied said generally that the insurance was protective. But those who were dissatisfied were quite specific, citing high costs, fear of cancellation and delays in payment of claims.

The survey group also was asked preferences for the "fault" system or the present "fault" system.



Fault-free car cost responded favoring damages from their own insurance company and forfeiting the right to "pain and suffering" damages, regardless of which party was in fault. Thirty-six per cent said they preferred the current system.

Consumer auto insurance is far from a universal fact of life in the U.S. The result, says the study, is that almost half of the victims of serious accidents receive no compensation nor anything from the other driver's insurance or from the driver himself.

And a quarter of those who suffer some personal injury in an auto accident receive no compensation from any source.

Professor Robert E. Keeton, Jr. of the Yale University legal department, writing on constitutional questions in the "no-fault" system, said:

The high cost of liability insurance under the present system means that it is out of reach of many persons, which in turn means that some poor people, especially inhabitants of the inner city, are deprived of a means of transportation which would open up to them new and better employment opportunities.

"Now go in there and show him no mercy!"

Snowmobile Season Near

Kingston Whig-Standard

Depredations by drivers of snowmobiles in the Ottawa area have resulted in a ban on these vehicles being sold around the city, according to the National Capital Commission. Causing trouble among snowmobilers who chased a pregnant woman and barried a group of children have forced the authorities to take this action, with damage to the environment being cited as further cause.

Thousands of snowmobilers have been attracted to Gatineau Park, 36,000 acres of inviting recreational land which has just across the Ottawa river. The cases mentioned occurred within this park.

Snowmobilers have decided to campaign against the ban with petitions and letters to newspapers and the MP. The NCC has so far agreed only to consider opening a restricted area in the park for snowmobiles.

Like the endless variety of motorcycles now on the market, large and small, the snowmobile appeals both to the sober afficionado and the restless thrill - seeker. Prosperity and more leisure time have conspired to lay society open to the noise, congestion and environmental damage caused by recreational machines (including of course the automobile).

Short of forbidding the sale and use of snowmobiles there would seem to be no way of eliminating abuses stemming from their use. For those who have a feeling for the integrity of the countryside there is no question about what should be done. The snowmobile represents a definite threat to the peace which was formerly to be found outside cities and towns. Therefore get rid of it.

It is tempting to subscribe to this simplistic thesis but, unfortunately, if society becomes illiberal in one direction there is nothing to prevent that illiberality from extending itself in other, quite unexpected directions.

Control, as always, is the only answer. Defend the environment without doing injustice. It takes a lot of care and wisdom — which is simply to admit that social questions are never amenable to easy solutions.

Senate Appointments

The Winnipeg Free Press

In his appointments to the Senate, announced on Wednesday, Prime Minister Trudeau has gone some way toward enhancing the quality of the Upper Chamber by not making political service the sole criterion for appointment.

It would be impractical to hope that Mr. Trudeau would ignore politics entirely in making the appointments. Nor is a political appointment necessarily a bad one. Mr. Hodgson, for example, is a Liberal. But his record in the Manitoba legislature as leader of the opposition indicates that he should make a valuable contribution in his new role.

The prime minister stepped over political boundaries to appoint Ernest Manning, former Social Credit premier of Alberta, and Therese Casgrain, former leader of the CCF party to the Senate.

Eugene Forsey, labor and constitutional expert, one-time CCF candidate and critic of the country's liveliest gadflies, could be a welcome addition. W. C. McNamara, retired chief commissioner of the Canadian Wheat Board will bring knowledge and experience to agricultural debates; R. M. Lawson, secretary of the Canadian Seamen's union will be a voice of labor in debates in that area.

Ten vacancies remain. It is to be hoped that in filling them the prime minister will continue the imitative start he has made toward making Senate membership less dependent on political service and more on the contribution the appointee has made and can continue to make, to Canada.

Red Tape Wins the Day!

Peterborough Examiner

We keep telling ourselves that we hate bureaucracy, that we would like to get rid of it, and that we constantly have to fight it so that our lives will be easier.

Maybe we do all those things. Nevertheless, bureaucracy is quite evidently not only here with us, but it has become an inseparable part of our lives. In fact, it is so much part of life in our days that we sometimes don't even question it.

To what extent bureaucracy has penetrated our daily life was demonstrated in Toronto a few days ago by a would-be bank robber who was stopped not by armed guards nor the possibility of capture by police but by bureaucratic methods.

When the would - be robber demanded money from a teller, the girl said she can only give him money if he produced a withdrawal slip. The man didn't shoot the teller. He didn't even give her an argument. He just turned and left.

So, bureaucracy has a something good to offer, after all. This was further demonstrated by the fact that five minutes later this man robbed another bank which did not demand a withdrawal slip.

Although Against Pollution UPP Local Is in Favor Of Proposed Kraft Mill

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

We, the members of the United Papermakers and Paperworkers, wish to advise you that we do not condone pollution of any form. With regard to the matter I am enclosing the official UPP stand on pollution.

Our membership is also of the opinion that the much-maligned kraft mill proposed for this area would be a tremendous economic boost to the surrounding counties.

We strongly feel that with proper government legislation, Company policy and union support, pollution at this new mill will not be a major problem.

WAYNE FAIRMAN,
President, UPP, LOCAL 89
Trenton.

• • •

The following resolution has been adopted by Trenton Local 470 of the UPP.

The products of the paper industry are vital to the economy, the culture, and the progress of any nation. It is no accident that the most prosperous nation in the world, the United States of America, has the greatest paper industry. Second only to this is the paper industry of Canada, also covered by the jurisdiction of our union.

Pure, potable water is almost as important as air, as a necessity for life. Again, the available water supply determines the progress and the future of any nation and its people. Water and its pollution is creating a growing crisis. Regardless of the principled position of our union set forth in another resolution, as representatives of the paper industry employees, sincerely concerned with their welfare, we set forth another aspect of the problem.

Probably no other industry of the size and importance of the basic pulp and paper industry uses more water in the production of its product. Billions of gallons of water flow through American and Canadian pulp and paper mills annually. Unfortunately a large percentage of the discharged water from these mills is polluted in varying degrees. Pollution from the paper industry is no more acceptable than from any other industry and must be corrected.

However, because of the fabulous volume of water, the cost of abating pollution of water from our industry is likewise fabulous. Management in the paper industry has made great effort and expended tremendous sums of money dealing with this problem.

It is apparent to us the timetable set by the water commissioners (in and out of government) for total correction by the paper industry, creates an almost insurmountable problem. Further, in most relatively short time into which corrective costs must be provided will place an almost intolerable financial burden on major segments of the paper industry.

This may well force the closing down of numerous mills and result in the loss of jobs of many of our members, as well as the loss of the product and its value to our economy.

We, therefore, paermakers and Paperworkers in Fourth Constitutional Convention assembled recommend:

1. That the Governments, Federal, State, Dominion and Provincial, be urged to render special attention to the problem of pollution as it affects the paper industry.

2. That timetables be applied to the paper industry by governments, that are possible to meet physically or financially.

3. That government resources in terms of research, technical aid, tax subsidy, and direct financial relief, be afforded the paper industry in eliminating water pollution.

The first battle of the English Civil War was fought 328 years ago today —in 1642—at Edge Hill, Warwickshire. In the first 18 months, the king was winning victory after victory in early, and by Parliamentary army was confined to northeast England and London. Cromwell's development of the Ironsides turned the scale by 1646 and the king fled to Scotland. Cromwell then beat the Scots army, and by 1648 it was captured and executed in 1649. The House of Lords was abolished and England was declared a Commonwealth.

Democratic Climate Assured

Kierans Says Act Halted Drift to Terrorism

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — The War Measures Act was invoked to stop a drift "into the self-fulfilling prophecy of violence," Communications Minister Eric Kierans said Thursday.

"By its action the government demonstrated that Canada is not in the classical pre-revolutionary stage where the authorities are so consumed with self-doubts that they are incapable of action," he said in a speech to the Chamber of Commerce here.

Not to have acted would have indicated a lack of confidence in the democratic institutions through which the people of Canada choose their leaders.

Mr. Kierans said the murder of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte at the hands of terrorists "should contribute" to stopping the drift toward terrorism.

Mr. Kierans emphasized that the War Mrs ures Act, brought in by the government last Friday, is temporary and that the purpose in invoking it "was not to get a brake on peaceful social change, but rather to maintain a democratic climate in which such change is not only possible but encouraged."

The act had to be applied nationally in the interests of Canadian unity, he said.

"To apply it in Quebec only "would have been to accept the proposition, advanced by some Quebec nationalists, that these acts of terror were essentially an internal matter to be settled by the forces of law and order in Quebec."

"It would also have meant that the borders of Quebec had been closed."

But invoking the act nationally didn't mean it could be used to dispose of troublesome youth in a West Coast municipality," he said in an apparent reference to recent statements by Vancouver Mayor Tom Campbell.

"In the minds of those who would like to imprison all rebellious youth there is an unwarranted leap from the fact that dissent is universal and unified in rhetoric to the conclusion that there is an international conspiracy.

"If there is a conspiracy, and I must insist that I find the word excessive, then it is one that is as much promoted by international communications as it is by the infiltrations of international communism.

"And it is a conspiracy to which anyone of us at one time or another could become a party."

Canadians had to make certain that "vigilantism and violence" did not "break out in unexpected places, among those who have a duty to uphold law and order."

The government, in the current situation, could not protect the rights of everyone.

"We have not been able to protect the safety and liberty of two public men, but there will be a day of reckoning for the terrorists," Mr. Kierans said.

"We cannot protect the rights of all who have taken the risk of revolutionary dissent during this emergency.

"It is not something that we want nor is it something that will last long," he said of the suspension of rights.

"And those who would use this emergency to unjustly harass or detain dissenters will be called to account."

Mr. Kierans warned against equating "French rights with separatism and separatism with terrorism."

"We can't have it both ways," he said. "We can't on one hand stop the activities of those who use excessive means in the name of social change and then lapse into excesses of social change."

Mr. Kierans said the death of Mr. Laporte, his one-time colleague in the Quebec government of Jean Lesage, will have meaning if Canadians "reject the absurdities that half-formed minds or second-rate minds would imprint on it by blood and torture."

'We're Raiding Blind' Police Officers Admit

MONTREAL (CP) — Despite emergency powers of search and arrest, police have not lain dead ends in their hunt for a kidnapped British diplomat and the kidnap-killers of a Quebec cabinet minister.

"We're raiding blind," a police officer said Thursday night.

"We've run out of leads. All we can do now is investigate tips our Cross-Laporte operations centre receives from anonymous sources and the public."

Today is the 18th day since James (Jasper) Cross, senior British trade commissioner in Montreal, was abducted from his home by gun-wielding terrorists.

And it is the sixth day since the kidnaping of Pierre Laporte became a horrible case with the discovery of the labor minister's body in the trunk of a car a week after he was abducted. An autopsy report said he was strangled.

But police, given controversial powers to search without warrant and detain suspects for seven days or more without laying a charge, have made no announced progress in their investigation.

Police have had reports of the sighting of the prime suspects in the Laporte slaying—taxi driver Marc Carbonneau, 37, and teacher Paul Rose, 27—the only suspects for whom warrants have been issued.

But follow-ups in one case involving massive numbers of police and troops, have uncovered no sign of them.

Meanwhile, an official of the Cuban government maintains a vigil on the Man and His World exhibition site in hopes that Cross kidnappers will accept safe conduct to Cuba in return for the diplomat's life.

The federal and provincial governments have agreed to allow the Cross abductors to leave Canada for Cuba if they return Mr. Cross alive.

But hope for the diplomat is fading. The last word from him came Sunday, when a letter was relayed in an east-end church following an anonymous telephone call to a local radio station.

Unlike the Laporte kidnappers, who directed authorities to the labor minister's body, the abductors of Mr. Cross have said the authorities and police will never see the diplomat again if the government does not meet their demands.

Their last demands were for the liberation of 23 accused or convicted terrorists, all members of the now-outlawed Front de Liberation du Quebec, and their safe passage to Cuba along with the kidnappers.

The government has agreed only to recommend the parole of five eligible FLQ prisoners.

The FLQ has claimed responsibility for both kidnappings. Notes to the authorities indicate separate cells of the terrorist group carried out each kidnapping and a third cell killed Mr. Laporte.

Montreal was beginning to return to normal although troops carrying sub-machine guns and semi-automatic rifles continued to guard public buildings, bridges and the homes of government officials and prominent citizens.

Police suggested Carbonneau and Rose may have altered their appearance, and issued a set of photos inked in to show them with longer or shorter hair in different styles and as clean-shaven or with various sorts of beards.

They also released 48 persons detained, reducing to 271 the number detained under the emergency provisions of the War Measures Act. Since the act was proclaimed at 4 a.m. last Friday, a total of 773 persons have been detained and 102 released.

The last figures provided by police on the number of raids conducted were issued Tuesday. At that point there had been more than 1,500, with 1,350 of them in the Montreal area.

Quebec Justice Minister Jerome Choquette responded Thursday to some criticisms levelled at the use of emergency powers by labor and civil rights groups.

He said police have notified relatives or friends of all persons arrested in the province since the War Measures Act was invoked.

He agreed to "release those persons against whom no crime or infraction of the act can be proved, as information on each case is received."

But he also said he will use his power under the act to extend detention "in those cases that warrant it" to 21 days. Investigations of persons detained could not always be completed in seven days.

Archbishop Paul Gregoire of Montreal said in a statement Thursday a special committee of a few persons of "outstanding integrity" should help those detained under that act and provide a link with their families. He also expressed support for the use of the War Measures Act.

Under Heavy Fire

Jean Marchand, regional economic minister, under heavy fire in the Commons Thursday for describing a Montreal political group as a "front" for the FLQ, admitted he should not have used that word. Mr. Marchand, shown leaving for lunch after the morning session of the House, said he had used the word "front" incorrectly.

Civil Liberties Union Still Objects

committee said it was making a statement on the subject because the role of a lawyer "is to be a public function and collaborate in the administration of justice."

The Quebec Civil Liberties Union reiterated Thursday the stand it has taken since the proclamation of the act.

While appreciating the gravity of the situation in Quebec, the association says, it cannot accept the infringement of "fundamental liberties", and feels that the government withdraw the act.

Support for the government action came Thursday from teachers in the Quebec City region who announced their disagreement with the stand taken Wednesday by the executive of the 70,000-member Quebec Teachers' Corporation.

Leaders of the teachers union, along with those of two other labor federations, voted to condemn imposition of the act.

Raymond Garneau, finance minister, told a group of Quebec City high school students artists in the Criminal Code dealing with sedition and inciting to violence should be clarified.

Ottawa Environment

Feeling of Crisis Dissipating

OTTAWA (CP) — Probably it's because everyone is simply getting used to it, but that cloud of crisis that has been hanging over Ottawa since the invoking last Friday of the War Measures Act appears to be dissipating.

Nothing has happened to diminish the apparent crisis. In fact there are more troops around than a week ago, security on Parliament Hill has tightened again in the last few days, and the government has not given any indication that police are getting to the heart of the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec.

But, unlike a week ago, you can't feel the crisis in the air around Ottawa.

When the troops first rolled in to guard public buildings and prominent citizens, Ottawans watched them with grim depression. The usual comment started: "I never thought I would see the day. . . ."

The steel-helmeted troops, with poised machine-guns, looked out from the backs of army trucks.

Everyone was shocked to see prominent politicians being delivered to the Hill in cars containing helmeted soldiers—with weapons at the ready. It was even more noticeable when, occasionally, the politician would walk to the Hill, followed by an infantryman in camouflaged battle fatigues that stood out like nudity on downtown streets.

Last weekend, the quiet crescents of residential Rockcliffe Park were jammed with the curious—grass-faced parents showing their children how the soldiers melt into the shrubbery to protect the homes of any likely kidnapping victim.

All this, and more, still goes on, but it doesn't seem to be causing the same concern it did a week ago. Army trucks can roll beside the Rideau Canal without anyone batting an eye.

But while everyone seems to be getting used to the presence of crisis and troops, there is no doubt they will be glad to see the end of R—particularly the prominent politicians under guard.

A few days ago, for instance, Consumer Affairs Minister Ron Basford wanted to go to a hamber store for some material for a household project.

"The project will have to wait," he explained. "I just couldn't bring myself to walking into a lumber store, followed by a Sten gun."

And several others have complained that their daily habits have deteriorated as well. Some, who live in apartments, like their guards kept in their apartments, rather than the corridors. Their two-way radios make away all sleep.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson was heard to remark that it's like living in a radio station."

Blonde Spy Has Links to Canada

After vacating her luxurious Johannesburg apartment Tuesday and resigning from a secretarial job with a carpet company, the Kimberley-born girl could not be traced.

Late Wednesday, she referred a reporter, who tracked her down, to the head of South Africa's bureau of state security, Gen. Hendrik Van Den Bergh. Van Den Bergh told the reporter she was "known to the bureau," but would say no more.

Late Thursday, reporters waiting at her apartment saw her return in a limousine, accompanied by a burly man speaking with a heavy accent which could have been either foreign or Afrikaans—the language most South African officials and policemen speak. She referred to the man as her cousin.

There is still no official confirmation from either American or South African authorities that the tall blue-eyed blonde is the spy code-named "Mary" by the Cuban directorate of intelligence.

Local reports said she was recruited by the Cubans in December, 1968, while vacationing on the island from Toronto. She then joined the non-diplomatic staff of the Cuban embassy in Washington and is reported to have dated more than 100 diplomats and U.S. officials to gather intelligence information.

She returned to South Africa early this month after the U.S. state department expelled two Cuban diplomats who allegedly acted as her spymasters.

Johannesburg's Rand Daily Mail Friday quoted an unnamed friend of Miss Miles who said he knew her in Canada from 1966 to 1968. The friend said she returned from Cuba in 1969, suntanned and with calloused hands after working alongside peasants in the sugar fields.

She stayed in a large Toronto apartment with pictures of Fidel Castro and Che Guevara on the walls and held Marxist views. But "reports of her being a Mata Hari I simply cannot understand," the friend said. "She had no affairs I knew of . . . and had a high moral code."

The Rand Daily Mail's Washington correspondent meanwhile reported that the RCMP was making plans to have one of their agents in South Africa interview Miss Miles.

The report said the RCMP are studying the FBI's detective file on the blonde girl for possible leads in the hunt for the killers of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte. Miss Miles was widely reported as having been connected with extremists and members of the Black Power movement while in Canada.

Opponents Ask Vote Delay

"psychological terrorism" and said Mr. Drapeau's statements were "a call for violence."

"Jean Marchand said the same thing (Wednesday night) and it blew up in his face," Mr. Choke said.

The Parti Quebecois took FRAP's side in the barrage of charges and counter-charges.

The association between FRAP and the FLQ was drawn "without the slightest proof" and only "contaminated the already sufficiently polluted atmosphere of Montreal politics."

The separatist party said in a statement that an election in the current turmoil over terrorism will provide only "a semblance of democracy". It urged that the vote be delayed until things quiet down.

Maurice Tessier, Quebec minister of municipal affairs, has said the election date cannot be changed except through a special provincial law. He hinted that this is unlikely.

Mayor Drapeau said Thursday a rally organized by FRAP earlier this month turned into a type of FLQ seminar.

A political manifesto of the revolutionary-separatist organization was read at the rally to 2,000 shouting students.

Speakers included known FLQ sympathizers Pierre Vallieres and Charles Gagnon, who have been before the courts for terrorist activities.

Artist Draws Pictures

MONTREAL (CP) — Police suggested Thursday night that two key suspects in Quebec's terrorist kidnaps may have altered their appearance and they issued photos in which how this might have been done.

The suspects for whom warrants were issued Sunday are Paul Rose, 27-year-old school teacher, and Marc Carbonneau, 37, a taxi driver.

Original photos issued along with the warrants and all-points bulletins to continental police forces showed Carbonneau as a dark-skinned man with a sparse moustache.

New photos of Carbonneau show him as he might look after having grown a beard and fuller moustache, wearing glasses and his moustache shaved off.

A police spokesman said the artist's conception is based on the taxi driver's pug nose and concave forehead and suggests he might have brushed his hair differently to hide his partial baldness.

Now there's something you can do: Don't burn your leaves.

What do you do with them? Pile them in a heap and mulch them. Failing that, pack them up for the garbage collectors. If they refuse to pick them up, take them to the dump yourself. If that's against your local by-law, get together with a few others who want to help and go see your council. Let them know how you feel.

If this seems like a lot of trouble over a few innocent leaves, remember this: you and your children and your neighbours and their children, all of us, we've been given exactly one pair of lungs.

You want to help, don't you?

ONTARIO DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY AND RESOURCES MANAGEMENT

The annual autumn pollution party.

Sad but true.

Our pleasant custom of burning leaves is a meaningful cause of air pollution.

Just how bad is it? The answer may surprise you. One pound of leaves burned in the open throws up 600 times the pollutants released by burning a pound of coal in a furnace. Pound for pound, six hundred times more of these damaging pollutants: hydrocarbons, aldehydes, organic acids.

Taken all by itself, the open burning of leaves would not be much of a problem. But when it's piled onto all the industrial smokes, plus the gasoline and diesel exhausts, you've got a serious contribution.

Air pollution is a big, complicated problem. Maybe you've wanted to help, but so far could only feel helpless and angry.

Program on Poverty Discussed by UCW

The United Church Women of Bridge Street Church met over dessert and coffee, served by Miss Grace Kenny and her assistants, at the annual fall thankoffering meeting.

Following refreshments, Mrs. Sadie Reynolds conducted the worship service, which complemented the subject of the evening's program "Poverty".

Mrs. Phyllis Berry, president, chaired the short business meeting, asking for the enthusiastic support of all the members for a successful luncheon-bazaar in November. She reported on the School for United Church Women at Quin-Mo-Lac Camp in September, at which Mrs. Myrtle Reid and Mrs. Sylvia Cullen were Bridge Street UCW representatives.

Mrs. Berry called on Mrs. Robin Jeffrey, Belleville alderman to chair the evening's program on "Poverty," or, as Mrs. Jeffrey subtitled it "The Poverty Trap".

Mrs. Jeffrey opened the program by stating that Canada, though one of the world's richest nations, has some 4,000,000 persons, including 1,700,000 children under 16, living in poverty. She said that any individual or family is in the low-income group if more than 70 per cent of income is spent for food, clothing, shelter, etc. "It has been stated," Mrs. Jeffrey stated, "that one might liken poverty to an iceberg where only a small portion of the whole is visible, that is, the need for money. The submerged part consists of such things as lack of opportunity, frustrations and discouragement, lack of basic education and training, obsolete skills, lack of training facilities, family breakdown, poor housing and other handicaps".

It would be impossible for the members of the panel to deal with all these subjects, so we are zeroing in on — Housing and Poverty," said the speaker.

Mrs. Jeffrey also introduced the panel of four people, "who are trying in their work to open the trap of poverty for citizens in our community". Mrs. Evelyn Paton, who is employed as a social worker with the Family and Children's Services (formerly the Children's Aid Society) of Hastings County, told of her work as the one family social worker in the protection department, and with multi - problem families.

Mrs. Mary McLaughlin is a volunteer worker who is chairman of the furniture exchange set up by the United Community Services, now under the Central Volunteer Bureau. She explained how the Furniture Exchange and the Housing Bureau operates.

Lloyd H. Elsenton told of his work as chief public health inspector for Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit, and Dean Lykins, employed as a Field Worker with the Department of Social Services (the Welfare Department). He explained his duties and the administration of the department.

The program then took the form of a question and answer period, with each member of the panel answering the questions pertaining to his or her work.

In summing up the discussion Mrs. Jeffrey stated that Christian society must commit himself or herself to the belief that the world of politics, social policy and community action are necessary arenas for Christian involvement and service. The Church, she said, must be present in this society as a "human partner", as an agent working to bring about change, as an ally of those who are weak, poor or preyed upon and caught in the hopeless poverty trap. "Poverty can be eradicated, if we have the will to eradicate it. But actions will show whether we have that will," she concluded.

MR. AND MRS. ROSCOE MORGAN
Morgan — Edgerton

Lakeshore Drive United Church, Morrisburg was the scene of the recent wedding when Kathryn Ann Edgerton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Edgerton of Morrisburg was united in marriage to Roscoe Arthur Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Morgan of Stirling, RR 2, Both Rev. G. Bruce and Rev. C. Earle officiated at the ceremony. Successful Living

Sharing of Duties and Profits an Asset

By DORIS CLARE

Some 15 years ago the owner of a sawmill in the west had much trouble with his biggest operation. There were some 250 employees living in a company town and management - labor relations were terrible. A management consultee was given a free hand to trouble shoot and to build morale in the mill and village.

He set up an employee idea plan and an evaluation and award, panel including employees and only one member of management. It worked. Several good things came of it and some employees got cash awards and regular royalty cheques. Even more important, a new respect for the "hands" from management. Nipped in the bud, a bad strike threat too.

The first award dinner story was printed on spruce slabs (example - proof edition of the newspaper).

This is what can happen when "pitvoluding the help" is replaced by sharing responsibilities and profits.

* * *

Dear Doris: I was greatly interested in Ardent Music Lover. I have the book "How to Stop Worrying and Start Living". It certainly was a big help to me while I was in hospital.

I have always said I wasn't prejudiced, but oh my! I have done so much damage because of "prejudgment without examination"; and it is just because I cannot talk about some things.

I certainly do need someone to help me with my attitude toward life. Life is too short. — Hung Up.

Dear Hung Up: Then keep on with your reading — of thoughtful, helpful literature. Learn to face all difficulties squarely and to express your thoughts to the friend who cares most about you. Maybe your husband?

You are already on first base, with your recognition that your behavior has been less than perfect. Take heart!

* * *

Dear Doris: Could you please advise concerning hair transplants. What kind of doctor performs this operation?

— Bald On Top.

Dear Bald: I'm told that in some cases transplanting hair is quite successful. It is expensive, because each individual hair is, of course, planted in the proper spot on your scalp. Ask your family doctor what he thinks of your chances of success with it. He will be able to refer you to the proper specialist, who is likely to be a specializing dermatologist.

There is a good pamphlet about "Baldness — Man's Greatest Fall-Out Problem". I'm sending you an address to write to for it.

Dear Doris: My husband is the meanest and laziest thing in the world. He only thinks of eating, sleeping and work. He is 58.

He won't change his clothes or have a bath unless I go into hysterics. Last summer I painted the house and the chicken house while he was in town playing pool or fishing.

The least little thing he grabs a knife or a gun threatening to kill me. Many a time he would throw my cooking outside. It's a big fight to get money out of him for anything as he says the money is his.

Many a time I have considered going to work but my health is against me, so I just can't take it any more. — Bad Nerves.

What an unhappy person your self - indulgent, overeating, fault - finding man must be! At his time of life one can hardly hope to change him — much.

One thing is sure: he must not threaten you with physical harm. Threats are a criminal act and must be reported to the police immediately.

Ann Landers

Men Who Need Help Should Ask for It

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please tell the millions of men who read your column that if they are not physically able to have sexual relations with their wives it's not necessarily the end of the world. Don't feel so confounded proud and foolish.

It is debasing for a woman to beg her husband for sex and get turned down. Take my word for it, Ann, a wife's love can turn to hate when she is told to take a cold shower and forget it. Most women who have families don't want to take on a lover on the side, but after months and sometimes years of frustration and rejection they feel justified.

ANN LANDERS

I've discussed this problem with my doctor. He tells me alcohol can be an important factor in impotency among men between 35 and 50. I'm sure my husband's inability to perform is related to his heavy drinking, but he won't admit he needs help — either for his drinking or his sex life. He insists that for people our age (I'm 33 and he is 36) once a month is enough. He says I'm the one who needs professional help.

Everything I've ever read on this subject makes it plain that impotency in males (as well as frigidity in females) is 98% emotional and 2% organic basis. When I try to explain this to my husband he becomes furious.

I am not asking for advice. I've already made up my mind - I am not going to lead a sexless life. What I must decide now is whether to accept an offer from an attractive man who insists he's in love with me (his wife has been ill for years) or live for divorce and get some fulfillment.

Please publish this letter for the benefit of the males in your reading audience who are not as rock-headed as my husband. For them it might not be — TOO-LATE.

DEAR T.L.: Here's your letter, for the males in my reading audience who are not as rock-headed as your husband. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We hear a lot these days about children who have no respect for their parents. What about parents who have no respect for their children? Here's what I mean: Mom and Dad drag the kids out of bed at 5:00 a.m. to take them on a 350 mile trip. They arrive at their destination and promptly tell the kids they are going to a party to see relatives "so stay awake and act polite." Next they are dragged to another party — more relatives. Again: "Stay awake and act polite." They are then given a quick refresher course on names so they'll know Aunt Zelda from Cousin Kate. The food consists of tidbits served with drinks, a cheese dip and potato chips. At 2:00 a.m. the kids are put to bed on the floor — 22 hours without sleep.

I am an adult who went through this rigorous routine and I was half dead for two days. I know people who take better care of their animals. Any comment? — TRIPPED OUT.

DEAR OUT: Sounds rough, but I'll bet the kids had a good time — and it's better than leaving them at home. If parents regarded them around like this every week I'd report them to the Humane Society, but for a one-time thing it's nothing to get excited about. P.S. Kids recover faster than adults.

Cream of Celery Soup Using Blender

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Your recipes for blender soups are exactly what I've been waiting for. Could I make Cream of Celery Soup in my blender? I've got Scottish blood in my veins and want to use the outside stalks and leaves if I can. — Bonnie ANSWER: Sure — you can make cream of any vegetable you have leftover.

BLENDER CREAM OF CELERY SOUP (serves 2)

1¼ cups chopped raw celery including a few leaves (packed)
1 cup hot water
1 tsp. chicken bouillon granules
1 tbsp. flour
½ tsp. salt
Shaks of pepper (preferably white)
1½ cups hot (not boiling) water
½ cup skim milk powder

Cook the chopped raw celery in the 1 cup hot water, covered, until tender — about 30 min. Add chicken bouillon granules. This cooked amount measured 1¼ cups. Tip into blender and add flour, salt and pepper and blend on "high" for 1 min. to puree celery. Now add the 1¼ cups hot water and skim milk powder and blend for 30 seconds on "high." Tip into double boiler and heat through. Double all of these quantities to serve 6.

QUESTION: Please repeat your Tea Biscuits Supreme recipe. I am lost without that recipe. — Miriam

ANSWER:

TEA BISCUITS SUPREME

2 cups sifted hot not sifted all-purpose flour
4 tsps. baking powder
½ tsp. cream of tartar
¼ tsp. salt
2 tsps. sugar
¼ cup butter or margarine

Points for Parents

Stars Must Be Likeable--Arnaz

NEW YORK (AP) — Desi Arnaz, co-host for a week on the syndicated Mike Douglas Show, was explaining recently about his casting choices for a network series, "The Mothers-in-Law, and may have put his finger on a problem afflicting many of this season's new shows.

"You have to like the people if you are going to have them in your home every week," explained Arnaz. "They don't have to be the greatest actors in the world, they don't have to be marvelous. They just have to be people you like—there must be some feeling."

On the networks' Thursday night schedule, some stars such as Jim Nabors and Raymond Burr were welcome in earlier series and their new series do well. Then there is also Vince Edwards, more like hero of Ben Casey, but whose new Matt Lincoln is near the bottom of the Nielson ratings list.

In the most recent episode, the Edwards character in the ABC series was more personally involved then is usual. A former fiancee lost her sight in a plane crash. Matt Lincoln's assignment is to make her accept her condition and learn to live with it.

Dr. Lincoln, a psychiatrist, takes a passive role and most of the series' drama is played out by the guest star.

By contrast, another TV doctor, Marcus Welby, becomes more involved with his patients and, hence, more identified.

And there is The Odd Couple, later in the evening on ABC, which may be a disappointment to its network. It is a funny series although based on a single idea: the conflict between a sloppy man and a fussbudget sharing an apartment.

In Thursday night's show, Oscar, the slob, got so fed up with Felix's fuming over disorder that he tossed him out of the apartment. Felix moved in with married friends—and drove them up the wall, too.

The hope is that Oscar makes and the Nervous Nellie attitudes of Felix—may not be as amusing for a season as they are to a male producer or writer. Jack Klugman and Tony Randall handle their roles beautifully, but the question, suggested by Arnaz, is whether either character is likeable enough to be welcome as a weekly guest.

In connection with this quality of likability, NBC's audience research department recently asked 1,000 persons about "personal" popularity." And the most popular television personalities on the list of more than 1,000 lovable good guys—Bob Hope, Red Skelton, Flip Wilson, Walter Brennan and Robert Young.

"I enjoyed your speech, Senator, but I'll bet you say that to all the girls."

Film Society Elects Officers

Belleville is going to have a film society, at least it appears so following the inaugural meeting of the Loyalist College Community Film Society recently.

At this meeting, held at Loyalist College, interested film society members and potential members discussed the planning of future programs and elected officers.

Films, for the present, will be shown in the theatre at Loyalist with a total of seven or eight films being shown this season.

The membership discussed film preferences and a list of film classifications was drawn up.

The society will show great classics of the screen, movies of imagination, silent movies, movies from other lands, modern movies, non-commercial movies and a mixture of all. Membership prices for the new organization are set at $4 for students, $6 for non-students and $10 for double membership holders.

The new society will replace a film organization that was in existence a few years ago but has since folded up. Already there are approximately 50 members of the new society.

At the inaugural meeting, members were shown Vittorio de Sica's Umberto D. Following the meeting members discussed the film and the possibility of holding other discussions following film presentations.

Schools for Danger, a film made by the Royal Air Force Film Society will be shown Nov. 15.

The film shows how secret agents were trained and sent behind enemy lines during World War II.

Slated for December is the Marverick III version of Othello, starring Orson Wells.

The executive of the new organization is busy trying to obtain films by such directors as Eisenstein, Griffiths, Bergman, Fellini and Lean.

The aim of the new society is to provide new and fresh entertainment and, at the same time, educate interested individuals in the art of film making.

Newly-elected officers were: president, Ray Cumbleton; treasurer, James Moore; program committee, William Sullivan, Alex Pearce and Ron Graham and publicity, Mrs. Shirley Follen and Mrs. Lois Summerville.

Sydney J. Harris Says

Some Surprised At UN's Longevity

I was with some friends from Switzerland when the UN was celebrating (if that's the proper word) its 25th anniversary, and they expressed surprise that the organization has lasted as long as it has.

The Swiss have even less faith in the ability of the United Nations to prevent, or even delay, war than do the other people of Europe. The reasons for their pessimism is to be found in the unique structure of their own republic, which was begun in the year 1291, as the first democracy in Europe.

In that year, the three original cantons of Switzerland formed a confederation against Rudolf of Hapsburg, who controlled the hinterland all around Lucerne. The peasants tilled the land co-operatively, formed a Pact of Perpetual Alliance which has grown stronger with the centuries.

Soon, other cantons decided to join the confederation, as a protection against foreign aggressors. Although this was a kind of United Nations (or United Cantons) set-up, the big difference was that the confederation was given real teeth from the very beginning.

All disputes between cantons must be settled by arbitration. If one canton refuses to accept the decision, the confederates are pledged to assist the other, and no canton has the right to reject the verdict of the arbitrator—this is the corner-stone of the pact.

When nations were granted "veto power" in the UN, the Swiss immediately felt that the UN was doomed as a peace-keeping agency, since that another large-scale war would begin as soon as one nation considered itself strong enough to defy the Security Council.

And, even more than before, the Swiss point to their own confederation as the only workable model for a successful league of peace-loving nations. Theirs has been in existence for almost 700 years, and they have certainly found it helpful how long it will be before the rest of Europe — and the world — is ready to try the same.

This pessimism extends even to Switzerland's possible participation in a future war. Hilberto, the mountains have served both the cause of air-borne invasion and the H-bomb, Switzerland's rich resources may be grabbed by a hungry aggressor.

No country is "safe" any more, and even the most powerful are subject to retaliation that could wipe them out or cripple them forever; yet the "cantons" of the world refuse to unite for their own survival.

Bras d'Or Rests at Jetty

Anti-submarine Submarine

East Coast Fleet Specializes in Anti-Submarine Tactics

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

HALIFAX — Why does Canada maintain a fleet of ships in 1939? The war is over, Vera Lynn is a part of the past. But still the Canadian Government supports a naval establishment here — a seeming anachronism — in the jet age, the atomic age, the age of Aquarius.

This city is growing — highrises and new arterial roads abounding. But still the navy holds a sprawling knot of downtown shore, where optimum land use is a prime consideration.

Have bleak bean dug in to preserve these shipyards and the vessels they serve as a relic to bygone times? Or is the naval complex here worth its salt?

Strangely, the ships here are not cluttered with deck guns. They are not prepared for the next Battle of Jutland that will not be coming.

Canada's fleet is prepared for more timely threats, like nuclear submarines; like the air arm of Maritime Command, anti-submarine warfare is a principal role.

Even our submarines are anti - submarine submarines designed to seek out and destroy underwater enemies with a stealth befitting the name "Silent Service."

Moving in on a victim, systems are shut down for dead silence. Closer she gets and computers guide the torpedoes to the prey.

In fleet manoeuvres, the subs simulate attack runs on other Canadian vessels with dummy torpedoes, while always having the lethal counterparts on hand. Our dud torpedoes — engineering masterpieces — actually strike but there is no damage. The kills are mock ones although from the tracking point of view, experience gained is the same.

Oberons, like the Okanagan in Halifax now, may not have the glamour of nuclear power but Canadian subs are capable of staying at sea for months on end without refuelling and their punch is proved in all but effect, thanks to crews, many of whom could function equally well on Bay Street.

Canada's destroyers, with their Sea King helicopters are also part of the ASW east coast system of defence. The "copters lift off routinely from the aft landing pads, lowering sub-detectors on cables beneath North Atlantic waves. There is nothing obsolete about this method.

The Canadian Forces are fast moving into the advanced stage of ASW methodology with the introduction of hydrofoils to the fleet.

The prototype, Bras d'Or, is fast moving to operational condition. Crews have been working weekends so that she can make a full-borne sweep down Halifax harbor during a pending visit by defence minister Donald Macdonald.

If speed is to be an essential element in Maritime Command's operations, hydrofoils like Bras d'Or give it. Cost of the production model has been high but subsequent craft of this type will be much cheaper.

Bras d'Or is ready for the future not the past and represents a remarkable advancement for Canadian technology. Even her galley is a singular achievement with ultra-violet ray ovens and flight-kitchen finings.

Take-off for Bras d'Or means lifting out of the sea and riding above it on four huge struts, like wings jutting from her hull.

Powered by turbines and fed by aviation fuel, it is no wonder that the commanding officer of Bras d'Or Cmdr. Gordon Edwards refers to her as being "60 per cent aircraft, 40 per cent ship". With de Havilland engineers milling over the ship, it is no wonder.

The range of Bras d'Or will be as remarkable as her speed Cmdr. Edwards indicated. She is no coastal cutter but a sea-going hunter, first of a new advanced breed.

Maritime Command has a new breed of supply ship too. Nowhere is the meaning of armed forces integration more obvious than in the planning of this apparently conventional vessel.

She is a fuel storehouse and the same fuel will serve both the Sea Kings and the hydrofoil. Canada's two new supply ships are also maintenance centres, to which helicopters may be lifted from destroyers by large deck-mounted cranes - for at-sea servicing.

The Canadian Forces supply ships have a washroom for virtually every crew member. Extravegant? No. There are days when she leaves port with passengers — the army. The ships also have capacity for moving out invasion forces due to the fact that each carries a large number of landing craft and has an expansive heliport.

One thing is sure Canada's fleet is not preparing for the last war. Instead, it is uniquely prepared for contemporary threats with ships far different than those seen by Canadians on late- night movies reviving World War II. Things have changed, the fleet is one of them.

Miller Addresses Cobourg Meeting

Clerks and treasurers from area municipalities were in Cobourg yesterday to attend the fall meeting for Zone 5 of the Ontario Association of Municipal Clerks and Treasurers of Ontario.

Keynote speaker of the convention was John C. Miller, city solicitor for Belleville, who addressed the assembly on the requirements in issuing tax certificates.

Brien Baxter of Cobourg is chairman of Zone 5 while Earl Dafoe, deputy city clerk for Belleville is the secretary treasurer.

Zone 5 of the Association takes in counties ranging from Lennox and Addington to Halburton, including the district of Muskoka.

Conservation Authority Plans for Next Year

While expenditures may not be at the same level, conservation authorities, like municipalities, are being asked by the province to come up with five - year programs as an indication of their future money requirements.

Accordingly, the various advisory boards of the Moira River Conservation Authority — Conservation Areas, Forestry, Water Control, Fish and Wildlife, and Information and Education, are preparing projected programs for approval by the provincial conservation branch.

And as the case with most things these days costs are expected to go up.

Wednesday night at Cannifton the Information and Education Advisory Board of the Moira Authority felt the program improvements over the five - year period would call for an annual 7½ per cent increase over its present budget of $2,300.

It was agreed that most of the board's present projects, such as the spring maple syrup demonstration and pancake festival should be continued as well as the conservation school for elementary school children and conservation week activities.

Board members voted to prepare a color brochure advertising the authority's various conservation and recreation areas. Up to 4,000 of the brochures will be printed for distribution next year.

Also next year, the authority hopes to join with three other Quinte district river authorities in the filming of a 20-minute color movie featuring authority activities and points of interest. Costs would be shared equally by the Moira, Napanee, Lower Trent and Prince Edward County authorities.

Fans Will Miss Premier Pacer

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

AMELIASBURG (Staff) — R. Yankee Wann, the fastest Canadian standardbred ever foaled was owned officially by Consecon horseman, Campbell Wannamaker but every harness racing fan in Prince Edward County claimed pride in the great pacer's 'mark' victories.

The seven-year-old stallion who died at the Wannamaker farm earlier this week, commanded local attention last August when he paced the mile in 1:57.1 at Vernon Downs, N.Y., recording the fastest time of any Canadian bred standardbred. His speedy performance broke a 1:57¼ record set by the Canadian horse Winnipeg in Toledo, Ohio in 1938. R. Yankee Wann died the richest standardbred foaled in Canada with a lifetime earnings of $209,000.

The horse that put Prince Edward on the map at Blue-bonnets, Richelieu, St. Catharines, Greenwood, Mohawk and Garden City race tracks won his final race in Belleville this month. Campbell Wannamaker is pleased that R. Yankee Wann crossed the wire for the last time at his hometown track, showing his speed and style to fans who have cheered him steadily wherever he raced.

Yankee Wann's driver, Rejean Bolly has spent his life working with horses but he doesn't expect to guide another horse like "The Bull". That was the nickname Mr. Bolly recalls "several of the boys" tacked to the brown pacer. To Campbell Wannamaker and Rejean Bolly the horse was always "Yankee Wann". There has never been another horse like him in Canada and the chances of getting another one are mighty small," declared the young driver.

Mr. Wannamaker mentions the number of colts raised annually by several of Canada's top racing stables and points out that no horse to equal Yankee Wann has yet made the track.

"It's a fluke that happens once in a while and no man knows why," said Mr. Wannamaker, describing his horse's track record. This is the voice of experience, for the veteran horseman drove his first colt 35 years ago. His wife recalls that he was a novice horseman when he bought that standardbred. "I remember that she had a giddy name and that was the best thing about her," jokes Mrs. Wannamaker.

A second horse named June Allstrange was purchased later by Mr. Wannamaker from Picton horseman Fred Shannon He competed in his first race at Brighton and recalls racing at Picton close on numerous occasions.

A race won at Picton track with a horse named Barb's remains one of Mr. Wannamaker's proudest moments. Barbis, it seems, defeated the favorite, Benny Grattan, competing against him in three heats. Mrs. Wannamaker recalls that Barbis became a wonder horse in the eyes of racing fans and a newspaper headline asked "Is Barbis willing?" as the horse went to the track. "He wasn't always willing," she chuckles remembering the somewhat temperamental equine.

Rejean Bolly joined the W.B. Stables after meeting Mr. and Mrs Wannamaker in Quebec where they were stabling for a summer approximately 15 years ago. The young boy spent all his free-time at the track and eventually returned to Prince Edward County with the Wannamakers. He spoke only a few words of English upon his arrival but soon became bilingual.

Mrs. Wannamaker remarks that Rejean attended school in Belleville for one year before following his ambition to become a full time horseman. He drove his first race at the age of 16 and a few years later saw R Yankee Wann for the first time.

The colt arrived at the W. B. Stables as part of a horseman's bargain. "All my good brood mares went to Don Chatterson of Brighton and I got the colts in return," explains Mr. Wannamaker. I had a choice between "Yankee Wann" and another colt Campbell Chief. I took R Yankee Wann and last Tuesday night I claimed Campbell Chief at Batavia Downs."

Mrs. Wannamaker notes that when her husband chose h'i colt, Rejean Bolly favored R Yankee Wann because he seemed "blockier and more stable." It was Rejean Bolly who broke the colt to harness jogged him and piloted him through his many winning races in Canada and the United States. He takes no special credit for the game pacer's spectacular record, "Nobody knows why he was so good. There is only one out of thousands like him," observes the driver.

Rejean Bolly expects to travel to Bluebonnets soon with J. J Wann and Meadow Wann, key members of the W. B. Stables. His thoughts backtracking to R. Yankee Wann, the driver comments, "There are a lot of races that I'm going to remember for a long time — there are 20 or more that I won't forget."

Campbell Wannamaker must have dreamed of owning a horse like R Yankee Wann one day as he drove his first standardbreds to wins. Rejean Bolly grew up with an ambition to drive a horse like that once in his lifetime. Both men "hitched their ashes to a star" and eventually took part in racing the greatest Canadian - bred standardbred ever foaled. Both men are glad that R Yankee Wann belonged to Prince Edward harness racing fans on his last trip to the gate.

The speedy pacer ran on Belleville track first as a two-year-old when he won two of three starts and later as a three-year-old when he paced the track in 2:02.3, running the track's fastest mile of the year.

His later races took him to tracks at Bluebonnets, Richelieu and hockey club circuit, but he did return to Belleville again in 1938 to win a matched race against stablemate J J Wann.

His victory in the Belleville Ellis Memorial stakes race in Belleville this month marked his only other appearance on Belleville track.

In a final salute to R Yankee Wann's achievements, Campbell Wannamaker buried the horse, wrapped in a cooler blanket, in a paddock near the farm barn. A marker bearing a horse shoe and a brief tribute to the great pacer will later be erected on the Wannamaker farm honoring the Prince Edward County horse who made good among the best standardbreds in North America.

Swordfish Going Home

TRENTON (Staff) — A dilapidated aircraft fuselage sprawls over a northside parking lot at the Forces Base here, waiting to be carried away not to a local scrapyard but to a British museum.

The Royal Navy maintains an operational Swordfish torpedo-bomber at its air station in Yeovilton, Somerset and takes great pains to keep the old biplane flying to airshows in southern England.

Parts are scarce for the RN "String Bag" but the supply will soon be replenished.

The Swordfish shell stored here will be used to give the British exhibition piece a new lease on life and a few hundred more airborne hours.

A Royal Navy Belfast will touch down at the base Sunday to pick up the old fuselage and carry it back to the fleet air museum in Yeovilton.

The weather - beaten prize was purchased at a massive auction sale in Southwestern Ontario this summer. A Tillsonburg man had spent his lifetime collecting seemingly useless vintage cars and planes.

His neighbors thought the hobby foolish until his death and the estate auction that drew moneyed bidders, including Royal Navy representatives anxious to acquire the tobacco field Swordfish.

The Swordfish is a distinguished life both as a torpedo-bomber and reconnaissance aircraft.

Two squadrons of them flew against the Bismarck and a wave of String Bags took off from the aircraft carrier HMS Ark Royal in 1941 to attack the German battleship Bismarck in the North Atlantic.

A principal participant in most Second War naval air arm actions, the fabric covered aircraft carried both 21-in. torpedos and rocket spears that pierced the hulls of enemy submarines before exploding.

There was one Canadian unit of the planes during the war, based at No. 1 Air Gunnery School, Yarmouth NS., but a version of the Swordfish, the "Avro Tudor" was a familiar site at RCAF Station Trenton during 1938.

Bruins Salvage Tie

Philadelphia Flies to First Place

By IAN MacLAURIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Not since the early days of expansion have Philadelphia Flyers enjoyed the success they've encountered in the National Hockey League's current campaign.

The Flyers spotted Buffalo Sabres two early goals Thursday night then rebounded for a 4-3 victory, their fourth against one loss and a tie in six games.

Their nine points is tops in the NHL's West Division, one point up on Chicago Black Hawks and St. Louis Blues, a lofty position they haven't attained since joining the league in 1967.

In the only other scheduled game, Boston Bruins saw their early 2-0 lead dwindle and needed veteran Johnny Bucyk's third-period goal to salvage a 3-3 tie with Chicago to remain the league's only undefeated team.

The Bruins, defending champions, regained first place in the East with the tie, snapping a three-way deadlock with Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers, both idle Thursday night.

Gil Perreault, Sabre's No. 1 choice in the amateur draft last June, scored his second goal of the season and assisted on another by Cliff Schmautz to send Buffalo into an early lead.

But the Flyers replied with one of their own before the first period ended and settled the issue with three goals in the final period while throwing up an airtight defence in front of goalie Bernie Parent, who made only 18 saves.

The Bruins' tie ended their 16-game winning streak that included 10 playoff games last spring, which culminated with their first Stanley Cup since 1939, and their first four games of the current season.

Chicago goalie Tony Esposito, last year's Vezina Trophy winner as the goaltender allowing the fewest goals, was brilliant against the high-scoring Bostonners who had averaged six-goals-a-game during their four-

BERNIE PARENT
game winning string this season

Esposito made 33 saves in the game while his Boston counterpart, Gerry Cheevers, handled 28.

Early goals by Wayne Cashman and Wayne Carleton gave the Bruins winging away early, but Chico Maki, Pit Martin and Gerry Pinder sent the Black Hawks into a second-period lead that set the stage for Bucyk's fourth goal of the season.

Tonight the Sabres are at home to Detroit Red Wings while St. Louis visits Vancouver Canucks and California Golden Seals entertain Pittsburgh Penguins.

The Red Wings enter tonight's game with one and possibly two regulars missing.

Defenceman Ron Harris is a definite absentee, turning ten rib muscles suffered in Detroit's season-opener against California. Left winger Frank Mahovlich, out with a knee injury since the Red Wings' second game, has been skating with the team for several days and could see action tonight.

Gordie Howe, testing his skills on defence this year after 36 years as a right winger, continues to pace the Red Wing scorers with two goals and three assists.

Howe needs three more assists to reach the 1,000 mark in regular season play while captain Alex Delvecchio is two goals short of scoring his 400th in season play.

Only Howe, Chicago's Bobby Hull and two Montreal Canadiens' greats—captain Jean Beliveau and retired Maurice (Rocket) Richard—have reached that plateau.

'Fighting Irish' Halt German Equestrian Sweep

HARRISBURG, Pa. (CP) — West Germany has just about walked off with the championship at the 53-year-old international horseshow of the fall season, but the fighting Irish have proved up to prevent a complete German sweep.

Just two more international jumping events remain, and the West Germans lead both the team and individual championships by such wide margins that there isn't much chance of anyone catching them.

Only Capt. E. V. Campion of Ireland has been able to crack the German stranglehold. He won the gambler's choice jumping competition Friday night, snapping a string of six straight German wins.

Campion and Neal Shapiro of the United States each piled up 35 points, but the Irishman won on the faster time. Shapiro was second on Silver Scot in 53.1 seconds.

Barbara Simpson of Calgary, riding Blarjac, was fifth. Miss Simpson, the individual winner here in 1968 and voted Horsewoman of the Year in 1968, is the leading Canadian rider so far with 19 points. But she is far back in the over-all standing.

West Germany leads the team competition with 98 points. Canada is second with 70, the U.S. third with 22, Ireland fourth with 18 and Mexico last with no points.

Hans Guenter Winkler of West Germany leads in the individual competition with 36 points. He is followed by team-mates Gerd Wiltang with 30 points, Lutz Merkle with 28, Hartwig Steenken and American Shapiro, each with 14, and Campion and Miss Simpson, each with 10. Moffat Dunlap of Newmarket, Ont., the individual winner in 1968, and Billy Steinkraus of the U.S., follow with eight. Jim Day of Oakville, Ont., and Jim Elder of Aurora, Ont., each has six.

West Germany's aggressors reached six during the matinee when Winkler scored with two minus. The team also got the daylight runner-up spot through the efforts of Wiltang aboard Ecco.

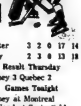
Miss Simpson was third aboard Blarjac and Dunlap and Steinkraus tied for fourth place. Dunlap, astride Grand Nouvel, and Steinkraus each had one knockdown and identical times.

Petes Maintain Unbeaten String

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Jim Mahon and Paul Raymer combined to spark Peterborough Petes in their seventh Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game without defeat Thursday night—an 8-3 win over Niagara Falls Flyers.

Mahon scored four goals, three in the final period, while Raymer, a rookie obtained in a deal with Toronto Marlboros, raised his season total to nine with three goals. Rick Cunningham, a defenceman moved up to right wing, scored one goal and assisted on two others.

Don Lever and Stan Gona replied for the Flyers.



The Petes, who lead the 10-team group with points ahead of Hamilton Red Wings and St. Catharines Black Hawks, had their five-game victory streak stopped Sunday when Oshawa Generals held them to a 4-4 tie.

Despite the first-place position, coach Roger Neilson juggled all his lines after the tie. The result Thursday was a five-goal effort in the third period to pull away from a 3-2 lead.

Niagara Falls outminder Rick Sims, obtained in a trade with Peterborough prior to the start of the season, had a busy night as his former team-mates fired 44 shots, many from close quarters.

The Petes and Flyers meet in a rematch Friday at Niagara Falls.

McGill Sports Still Off School Agenda

MONTREAL (CP) — A spokesman for McGill University's athletic department said Thursday that "as of now, we'll have no intercollegiate sports program next year."

He said that when the university's board of governors Wednesday approved a cut of about $2.6 million from the 1971-72 operating budget, it effectively cut the university's intercollegiate athletic program off as of Sept. 1, 1971.

McGill currently is part of the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association's football and hockey conferences, as well as part of 19 other intercollegiate sport activities. The athletic budget cut amounts to $223,000, the spokesman said.

Of this amount $80,000 is used to operate the McGill Redmen football team, while another $20,000 is spent annually on women's intercollegiate sports.

However, the spokesman said there remains hope that the various graduate societies will be able to rake at least part of $223,000 through fund-raising drives.

Knudson In Pack

MELBOURNE (AP) — Australian professional Frank Phillips shot a two-under-par 70 Thursday to lead at the end of the first round of the Australian open golf championship.

Right behind at 71 were six players, including Gary Player of South Africa, Peter Thomson of Australia and Patrick Oros of France.

Kapp Contract Not 'Hot Air'

BOSTON (AP) — Joe Kapp says that guarantees him the richest contract for a quarterback in the history of the helmet-filled games, has a contract with Boston Patriots that guarantees him almost $400,000 over the next three years, it was learned Thursday.

Under terms of the contract with the Patriots, who signed him as a free agent after he played out his option with Minnesota Vikings, Kapp, 32, will be paid $130,000 a year over a three-year period on a no-cut clauses.

There also is a performance bonus that could bring him additional money, lifting his total package to the $400,000 level.

The contract likely makes Kapp the highest-paid quarterback in the National Football League on a per-year basis, calling as it does for straight salary over the three years. Most big money, multi-year contracts carry deferred payment

Bowerman Back in Pack as Kern Shines at Kaiser Open

NAPA, Calif. (CP-AP) — Canadian rookie Ben Kern trailed the leader by two strokes after Thursday's first round of the Kaiser International open golf tournament.

Kern, 24-year-old Toronto golfer, carded a 67 and was grouped with four others in third place behind the leader, Jack Montgomery, and runner-up Ken Still.

With nines of 33-34, Kern headed a field of five Canadians entered in the $150,000 tournament.

Wild Homemade of Winnipeg and Toronto's Al Balding finished at 70 while Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver had a 72 and Belleville's Gerry Bowerman a 73, well down the list in the field of 156.

With Kern at 67 were veterans Bob Goalby, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Mason Rudolph and Dale Douglass.

Montgomery, 39, who quit the tour a month ago because he couldn't control his driver, included seven birdies in his nines of 31-34 on the field shortened Silverado Country Club's two 18-hole courses.

Douglass's round included a hole-in-one on the par-three, 167-yard 17th hole using a four iron. The shot landed six feet short of the pin and rolled in.

It was his second ace in four days, the other coming during an exhibition match Monday at Stockton, Calif.

Vernon Novak, Tom Shaw, Dave Hill, Babe Hiskey, J. C. Snead, Roy Face and Bert Yancy and four-under 68s while another stroke back were Ron Reif, John Schlee, Howie Johnson, Lee Trevino, Dick Lotz, George Archer, John Schroeder, Jerry Heard, Bob Greenwood and Bob Lunn.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus, after his fourth individual title of the year, was in a 71 with Masters champion Billy Casper and PGA champ Dave Stockton.

Fifty-four players shot sub-par rounds.

Harness Racing Cards 'Make Hay' With Over 18,000 Summer Spectators

The most popular athletes in the Belleville area are in many ways typical of their counterparts in other sports. They're highly trained, often moody and keep their trainers worrying about muscle pulls or leg injuries. They're also highly concerned with their club "making hay".

About the only difference between these athletes and others is that they are never "bench jockeys" and never argue with the officials. "They" are the drivers, the trotters and pacers that fill the Quinte Riding and Driving Club's Saturday night cards — to say nothing of the Belleville fairgrounds grandstand.

Throughout the summer racing season, which ended last week, over 18,000 fans jammed the Belleville grandstand for the regular Saturday night cards. The fans didn't spend the evening sitting on their wallets either, as evidenced by the more than $400,000.00 that poured through the parimutuel windows.

The biggest single crowd of the season was July 25th when 1351 race track aficionados packed into the fairgrounds. The highest parimutuel total came on August 5 a total of $28,284.

While the final statistics are still not available on the individual drivers, Al Vance had pretty well wrapped up the top driver award after compiling 17 wins in 64 starts during the first 19 meets for a .265 average. Averages are based on the number of times a driver finishes in the money compared to his number of starts.

However, a pair of wins by Jim Cochrane in the final Saturday night of racing could alter the top spots. In third place with a .648 average was Doug Stacey, while Hugh Wemp took fourth with .647.

Cochrane and Vance are co-holders of the official track record this year - a Jimmy Sing and Nita Dillard along with trotter Kate McLaird have all compiled a 2.19 flat mile.

Vance also owns and drives the top individual winner for the season, Magic Flight. The black gelding recorded seven wins during the season to edge Norm Edward's Smokey Valley by one.

Presentations to the top drivers and owners will be made at the annual banquet to be held October 31st at the Club Canara, starting at 6 p.m.

Mo-Hawks Face Tough Test Tonight

Plastered on the walls of thousands of dressing rooms across Canada is the ancient adage, "when the going gets tough — the tough get going."

Well tonight's encounter with the Orillia Terriers could go a long way towards tell-

MIKE REXE
First Senior Start

ing coach Davey Jones just how tough his Belleville Mohawk team is.

Orillia, currently on top of the Senior A league with a record of three wins in as many starts, will supply the opposition at the Memorial Arena. Their last outing was a convincing 13-0 clobbering of the Oakville Oaks, a team which has already beaten the Mo-Hawks.

"They're a good team. There's no doubt about that," admitted Jones. "It all boils down to fundamentals. If we're forechecking, particularly at home, we should be able to beat any team in the league." A solid all around checking effort will be required to curb a Terrier scoring attack that has netted 27 goals so far this year, 13 more than their nearest rival.

Jones plans few changes for tonight's encounter. Al Ferguson, high scoring right winger on Belleville's first line will, as all likelihood be dressed for the contest, despite a shoulder injury which hampered him last Sunday.

One change that will be made is on defence where Mike Rexe will get his first Senior A start. "I still haven't decided whether to dress five defencemen or whether I'll drop one, but Mike will definitely be in the lineup", said the coach.

Starting between the pipes will be Bob Moon. The second - year goalie was replaced by Callum MacDee in last weekend's split with Galt.

Senior Saints Sweep Regular Season Schedule

By ALAN TEEWORTH

The Quinte senior Saints continued their domination of the Bay of Quinte high school football league as yesterday they closed out their season with a 76-6 plastering of the Centre Hastings squad.

The Saints finished with a 5-0 won - lost record to win the western divisional championship, while Madoc finished the season with their second exactly the reverse, 5-5.

Paul Hall led the scoring rout with three majors and a pair of two - point conversions giving him a 12 - point total for the season. Paul "Sadie" McQuaid and Ralph LePore tacked on 2 each, with Mike Goegan, Terry Meagher, on the offence accounted for single majors.

On the defensive side John Whalen recovered a fumble for a touchdown while speedster Darwin Gaston intercepted a pass for a score.

It was ironic, however, that Centre Hastings pick up their only points of the season against the division champs. Floyd Donovan intercepted a Rick Meagher pass for-theonly score of the season.

The Quinte juniors came back to win their game 12-8 after Centre Hastings had gone ahead on Allen Morings touchdown and convert which held until there was but 5 minutes left in the game.

Bob Lanier Makes Big Impression

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Lanier continues to impress in his rookie season with Detroit Pistons.

He made another impression Thursday night—on Bob Christian's nose.

But the players soon went back to the business at hand and the red-hot Pistons went on to punch out the Hawks 120-101 in a National Basketball Association game.

The action occurred when Lanier and Christian became entangled in a fight for a loose ball.

New York Knicks were up to their old second-half magic, coming back for a 95-92 victory over San Francisco Warriors and San Diego beat Cleveland 140-118 in other NBA games Thursday night.

Pair of Women Partridge Hunters Bag Charging Bull Moose

MATTAWA, Ont. (CP) — What do two women do when they go partridge hunting? Why, they shoot two moose, of course.

"There was a third moose in there but we were only allowed one," said Mrs. Dixon, one of two Mattawa housewives who dropped a charging bull moose when the half-ton monster was less than 100 feet away.

The two had got themselves lost a few days ago in the James Bay lowlands, more than 180 miles from the nearest road, with the compass left behind in the cabin in somebody's purse.

When they shot a second moose a search party was attracted by the firing and two men arrived on the scene just in time to help the ladies clean the bodies and help pack out the meat.

Mrs. Dixon, a widow who operates a lunch bar in the town 30 miles east of North Bay, and her chum, Mrs. Albert Morin, set off for an afternoon of partridge hunting at Temagami, 50 miles north of North Bay.

Besides their shotguns, they each packed a 30-30 carbine. "In case we ran into a bear."

They also bought moose licences "just in case."

At Temagami they found the woods crowded with hunters. They pushed north another 100 miles by canoe. Still too many hunters to suit them.

At a seaplane base they pleaded with the pilot to take them to a more isolated location.

"He'd never seen two unescorted women moose hunters before and I guess he didn't want us on his conscience," said Mrs. Dixon.

They were down his caution and sunset found them ensconced in a tiny outpost cabin at a lake in the James Bay lowlands.

Next morning they went hunting.

"By 10 a.m., were lost in a swamp with no idea where we were," said Mrs. Dixon. "Our compass was back in the shack in one of our purses."

Later, amid falling snow and rain they found themselves at another lake. They decided to spend the night there and gathered firewood and used hunting knives to make a windbreak and a balsam bough bed.

They also neglected to bring any food.

"We each had a peppermint for dinner and saved the last peppermint to divide for breakfast."

They took turns staying up to tend the fire.

Were they scared?

"Oh, no, we both like the woods." But there were a few nervous moments as rutting moose bawled and crashed through the forest.

Next morning they decided to try to get back to their lake.

The weather was clearing and there was a chance the pilot would see us on his way into the camp," said Mrs. Dixon.

"Suddenly we saw a bull and two cow moose. The bull saw us at the same time and headed our way at a gallop. We started blasting away. The first shot hit him in the head and turned him from us. He took three more bullets and went down for good. He came to too close for comfort."

Mindful of their other licence, the women turned their carbines on the nearest cow. She went down with a shot through the heart and one through the neck.

Meanwhile, back at the lake, Harold Elliott and Dan Jaist who occupied a similar outpost cabin, had a hunch the women might be in trouble. They set off on the trail and soon were attracted by the shooting.

When the plane arrived it was obliged to make two trips out to take the ladies and their meat.

At Hearst, the ladies called home.

Albert Morin, who thought his wife was at Temagami, received the call from Hearst, 430 miles north. He was asked to bring a truck.

"He's the nervous type," said Mrs. Morin with a smile. "He wouldn't have let me go if he'd known where we ended up."

As for the partridge?

"Come to think of it, we never saw one."

Dundee Questions Conditioning

ATLANTA (AP) — Muhammad Ali matters constantly that he's the "fastest, best-conditioned heavyweight in history."

Still, the controversial former champion works daily at preparing his heretofore unscathed body to take some staggering shots from Jerry Quarry.

"Who knows how he'll react when hit for the first time?" said Angelo Dundee, Ali's trainer.

"I'm no seer, I'm no soothsayer. Damn if I know."

Ali, the former Cassius Clay, costs while 43 months of idleness Monday night in a comeback attempt against No. 1—ranked Quarry.

"You can't hit what you can't see," said Ali, his body pampering sweat after Thursday's workout. "I'm the fastest, and Quarry has ain't ever fought the fastest before."

Quarry, the 25-year-old California, is playing the pre-fight buildup strictly low key.

"I'll say what I have to say Monday night," he said. "I'm ready. He says he's ready. We'll see."

Ali's weight has dropped from 225 to 208 in six weeks of training. Ringside experts began to wonder if the loss was too much.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Oscar Bonavena, heavyweight contender from Argentina, said Thursday he has signed to meet the winner of the Muhammad Ali-Jerry Quarry fight.

Bonavena, ranked as the No. 1 contender by the World Boxing Association, said his fight would be held in December but didn't say where.

Sport Brief

TORONTO (CP) — Illness forced Sandy Hawley, North America's leading rider, to cancel his mount on Robbaert in the eighth race at Woodbine Thursday. But Robbaert won anyway, paying $13.80, with veteran Hugo Dittfach in the saddle. With Hawley calling it a day after five races and one victory aboard Mom Law in the first, other jockeys stole the spotlight as Dick Armstrong and John Bell scored double victories. Mom Law and Stormy Ace, with Bell aboard, combined for a $16.80 daily double. Bell scoring again with Dashing Dodie in the third. Armstrong came in on the front end of a $74.50 extractor spin Amberdora in the sixth, finishing ahead of Flaring Angel, and won again with Red Rick in the ninth. The fourth-race exactor of Corpus Delicti and Tricky Sky paid $41.50.

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The West German team continued its strong showing at the Pennsylvania National Horse Show Thursday as German riders took first and second places in an international jumping competition. Canadians took the third and fourth spots. Hans Winkler rode Terminus to West Germany's sixth win of the competition and Barbara Simpson of Calgary, the only female member of the Canadian team, was third on Blac Jac. Moffat Dunlap of Newmarket, Ont., and Bill Steinkraus of the United States tied for fourth place. Dunlap, astride Grand Nouvel, and Steinkraus had one knockdown each and identical times in the event.

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP) — Jonty Farmer, a New Zealander, won Thursday's first race in the OK dinghy world championships. Peter Alexander of Australia was second and Peter Clark of Australia third. Uwan Swan of Montreal placed 20th, and Bill Wonnacott of Canada 31st among the 38 starters.

PARIS (CP-Reuter) — The International Amateur Boxing Association voted Thursday for Tanzania over Canada for the site of its next annual meeting in 1974. Delegates from 55 nations voted 23-20 in favor of holding the meeting in Dar es Salaam. Among those named to the executive council was Pierre Morrissette of Montreal.

DETROIT (AP) — Frank Skaff, who managed Detroit Tigers for half the 1968 season, was named first base coach Thursday to round out the staff of new manager Billy Martin. Meanwhile, pitching coach Johnny Sain, who also has holdover from manager Mayo Smith's staff, was appointed manager of the Tigers' Toledo farm club of the International League.

Black Players Boycott Idaho Football

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) — Idaho State University football coach Ed Lamb says 17 black players will play no more this season.

The 17, including three freshman squad members, were suspended Thursday after they boycotted a practice Wednesday.

The 14 varsity members, including four starters on both the offensive and defensive units, were close-mouthed about the reason they refused to report for practice Wednesday.

A spokesman indicated, however, that two black defensive backs, Don Taylor and Rhett Sherman, were not being given enough playing time, even in games where ISU was far ahead.

Cavanaugh and his staff met Wednesday afternoon with the blacks. Later that night he met with the rest of the squad. 46 players, then announced that the suspension would held for the remaining four games ISU has scheduled. The team is 3-3 for the year.

Scholarships of the 17 suspended players will be continued through the end of the year. None has been suspended from school.

Last spring, the Black Student Union on campus demanded a Negro assistant coach be hired. The demand was not met and eventually was dropped.

No TV for Argos

TORONTO (CP) — Saturday's Eastern Football Conference game between Montreal Alouettes and Toronto Rough Riders will be restricted viewing on TV for Toronto Argonauts.

Argo coach Leo Cahill has called a team practice for 2 p.m., kickoff time for the Montreal-Ottawa game.

"We want to keep our minds on the game," said Cahill Thursday as Argos prepared for their Sunday game at Hamilton against the Tiger-Cats.

"If they watch the other game," said Cahill, "it might have an adverse effect.

"It doesn't mean anything to us anyway. We have to win ours. We can't think any other way."

Meets Quarry Monday

'Louisville Lip' in Top Form Before Heavyweight Comeback

ATLANTA (AP) — Tradition is against a successful ring comeback for Muhammad Ali after a 3½-year layoff, but that doesn't faze the brash and cocky ex-heavyweight champion of the world.

"Man, I'm faster than when I was the fastest," insists the controversial Louisville Lip, capping off training for his Monday night 15-rounder here against Jerry Quarry.

"I am only 28. I have kept myself in shape. I have lived a clean life. I am still the best—the champ. Nobody can beat me."

The black-skinned descendant of a runaway slave, born Cassius Marcellus Clay in Louisville, is not one to pore over ring record books. If he were, his confidence might be shaken.

History shows that many of the great champions, from John L. Sullivan up to the late Joe Louis, have found ring rust a handicap too great to conquer.

Sullivan, known as the Boston Strong Boy in the bareknuckle era, won the heavyweight crown from Paddy Ryan in front of the Barnes Hotel in Mississippi City, Miss., back in 1882.

He bowed over opponents for the next several years, ran out of foes and did not fight from 1889 to 1892. During this period of idleness, he took a trip to Europe, sparred with the Prince of Wales and played "Honest Hearts and Willing Hands' on the stage.

CASSIUS CLAY

Returning to the ring in 1892—fat, out of shape and 33—Sullivan was an easy victim of James J. Corbett, who won by a knockout in 21 rounds.

Corbett himself retired in 1895 to become an actor. He tried a comeback only to be knocked out in 14 rounds by Bob Fitzsimmons. Fitzsimmons ultimately lost the title to Jim Jeffries in 1899.

Jeffries, known as the Boilermaker, retired in 1904 and let Marvin Hart and Jack Root fight for his crown, Hart winning. After a five-year layoff, Jeffries tried to regain the title. Pitifully out of condition, he was kayoed by Jack Johnson in Reno in 1910. He was 35 at the time.

Jack Dempsey, after knocking out Luis Firpo Sept. 14, 1923, had three years of easy living, with no strenuous opponents, but fought exhibitions, once taking on six different foes in one night, kayoing four.

His once sturdy legs and flicking hands didn't look the same Sept. 23, 1926, when he lost the first of his two decisions to Gene Tunney.

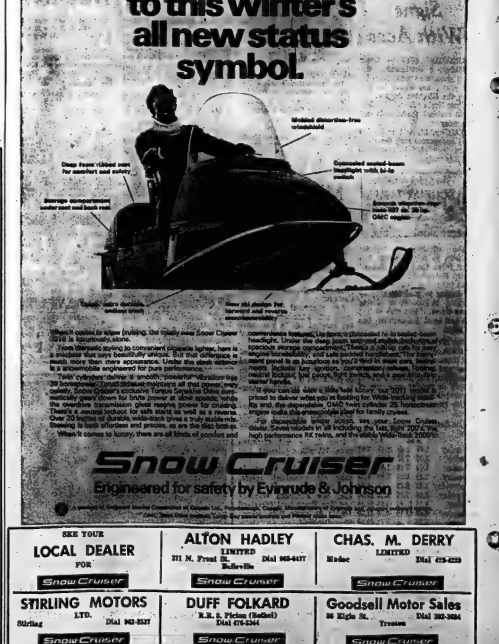
Jimmy Braddock spent two years waiting for Joe Louis and avoiding Max Schmeling and got himself knocked out in seven rounds. Louis himself couldn't find the secret of comeback success and lost to Ezzard Charles in 1950—at the age of 36.

The question here Monday night will be: Has Muhammad Ali, like so many of his predecessors, stayed away too long? Has he lost the spring and the fire that carried him to 29 professional victories, 23 by knockout, with no defeats?

"There is no reason he shouldn't be capable of making a comeback," says ex-champion Jersey Joe Walcott, who refereed Ali's second victory over Sonny Liston.

"He's young. He's one of the greatest fighters I've ever seen."

"You can't help losing something by a layoff," says Braddock. "You'll be done unless you're a superman."



Monday will not be a gala day for all Georgians.

Gov. Lester Maddox, who vehemently opposed the bout, declared it a day of mourning.

Denouncing Ali as a draft dodger, the governor said:

"I hope he gets beat in the first round. Flattened out. To the count of 36."

"If you're going to stand under here there will be a cover charge."

Canada Still Has Choice

City Growth Still Possible: Andras

OTTAWA (CP) — Robert Andras, minister in charge of housing, told the Commons Thursday the Canadian population will double in the next 40 years and that 45 per cent of Canadians will live in either Toronto, Montreal or Vancouver.

Speaking during the throne speech debate Mr. Andras said Canada still has a choice of the kind of cities it will have.

"We must ask ourselves now whether this urban Canada is to continue just to grow relatively uncontrolled: in a misshapen and unclean way, in a way that is too often inequitable," he said.

"It can be a Canada that avoids the widespread social despair and the awful social unrest that growth run rampant has brought to other areas and which we have seen in very recent days so very close to us."

There still was time for Canada to choose areas with "clean places for people and that have adequately blurred lines of social cleavage; environments that provide for the weakest a crucial sense of worth; environments that provide a personal and family privacy that would give a sense of belonging, a sense of community which will enable us to cope with life."

The eight-day throne speech debate, which was to end Thursday, continues today for seven hours by all-party agreement. The vote is set for Monday.

Mr. Andras, expected to become the first minister of state for urban affairs, said the key to the future of the cities is planning and research, along with consultation among the federal, provincial and municipal governments.

The urban affairs ministry first would be concerned with "bringing order in the federal house as it affects the cities."

Already there are 112 federal programs involving financial elements of the cities: 131 research programs, and 27 departments and agencies of government influencing city life.

Other MPs touched on the Quebec situation, the armed forces and transportation in the free-wheeling debate.

Mildred Fernstad (PC—Dauphin-Habitat, East) said it is urgent to buy new equipment for the forces for Arctic and wellance role. It was an urgent necessity to enlarge the defence budget, frozen for the past two years at $1.8 billion.

Stanley Schumacher (PC—Palliser) said the trouble in Quebec should indicate to the government that its five-year experiment doing away with the death penalty is a failure.

Adrian Lambert (Creditiste—Bellechasse) said Parliament must bring in social reform for those who believe in order. Otherwise, those who believe in disorder will take over.

Walter Carter (PC—St. John's West) said he supported the Conservative Party policy proclaimed so that Canadians could live free from fear.

But he could not accept the government's policy of encouraging unemployment—it was fanning the fires of revolution.

William Scott (PC—Victoria Haliburton) said the government's plan to reduce the strength of the armed forces should be accepted in view of the Quebec situation.

Gilbert Rondeau (Creditiste—Shefford) said the government should enforce stricter immigration laws in Quebec. It also should "clean out the information media," perhaps close down the CBC and licence democratic books and films that preached revolution.

Jack Bigg (PC—Pembina) called for a return to the times when Canadians worked hard, invested in their own country. There should be less time talking of short work weeks and higher pay.

He called the establishment of a Canadian merchant fleet to employ out-of-work fishermen.

Inclusion of Dental Care Hinges on Fund Availability

TORONTO (CP) — Eventual inclusion of dental services under health insurance in the province was discussed in the Ontario legislature Thursday.

Health Minister Thomas Wells said Saskatchewan now is being conducted with dental associations for inclusion, but he added that lack of funds will not permit broadening of insurance coverages at one time.

Mr. Wells said it will have to be decided whether the initial program for dental coverage would be limited to an extension of insurance now available for certain procedures in dentistry.

The health minister said one of the proposals he has discussed with dental associations was for complete coverage of children at three years of age.

"All the suggestions are interesting and are being looked at. But we can't do anything more than that now," Mr. Wells said. "The cost of children's dental work is estimated to be $18 million a year—for complete dental coverage $140 million."

All of these things have to be fitted into our considerations of the rapidly escalating cost of health care."

In other discussions on health services, Mr. Wells hinted that health insurance premiums will be subsidized in 1972 for persons in need.

The Ontario Health Services Insurance Plan now fully subsidizes premiums for persons without taxable income and partial subsidy for persons with low incomes.

Upon questioning by New Democratic Party Leader Stephen Lewis, Mr. Wells said if health costs increase, "you have to build in a program of assistance."

In other business:

—Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough said his department has set up a preliminary study costing $20,000 to determine how many cottages a lake can have on its shores before it becomes polluted. He said he is hopeful that the study will be a step in developing criteria and guidelines to the pollution-capacity of lakes in the province.

—Mr. McKeough also said the government has set up a study to examine all facets of mobile homes. Under present legislation, there is no assessment on mobile homes, but the land on which such homes stand can be assessed.

—Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said that provincial and municipal police forces have been advised that primary responsibility for enforcing regulations under the War Measures Act rests with the RCMP. He compared the act to federal responsibility for narcotics offences in which RCMP is assisted by other police forces in Ontario.

Mobile Homes To Be Studied

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government has set up an interdepartmental study to look at all facets of mobile homes, Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough announced Thursday.

He said a legislature committee studying his $344 million estimates will look at the Ministry's department, treasury and trade and development, and will examine such questions as the problems mobile homes have caused in the United States.

Inside of KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have a problem with my hands in cold weather. They turn red and purple from cold, in spite of the fact I keep them in my pockets a good deal of the time.

I try to warm them to make the red and purple go away. They don't budge. I feel embarrassed that people noticing them have had chills run down their spine just to see them.

It is embarrassing and I don not help but be self-conscious about it. Somehow that be wrong somewhere. Other boys and girls subjected to the same cold weather do not get red and purple hands this bad. My feel also seem to be affected by this condition. Of course, they are not as noticeable, but are painful and probably less vulnerable — less exposed.

This condition may stem the flower of my love life. I am hampered in this direction. It seems, even when I'm a cozee, be able to hold a girl's hand during the winter months. That's tongue-in-cheek, on the lighter side, but true nevertheless.

Seriously, what can be wrong with me and my hands? Am I cold-natured? Is it circulation? My thinness? Is it psychological? Have you ever run into this problem before? Is there any explanation? Are gloves the only answer?—Mr. W., Jr.

COMMENT: It is frustrating to know so many questions that mean so much to a reader and not have even one specific, helpful answer.

There is a condition, most often seen in females, in which poor circulation causes cold, purple hands with periods of extreme "whiteness" of hands and fingers.

This is called Raynaud's disease, but I doubt that you fit into that category. I have seen such conditions as yours in patients who were in their late teens and early twenties. They improved, even without any special treatment when they got older. Nevertheless, sometimes tranquilizers help; or other drugs to help the circulation in the extremities. As you say, protection against cold with gloves sometimes helps.

Why don't you talk it over with your family doctor? Perhaps it's a skin problem. An allergic reaction to cold. Being on the scene to examine you, he can offer much more practical advice than I can in your case.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: A man told me that not eating breakfast and having a heavy dinner is very hard on the heart. Do you recommend only one meal a day? — Mrs. R.

COMMENT: Eating an ordinary meal increases the work of the heart about one-third. Saving it all for one large in-

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I lost

Cold Hands Blight Love

take of food probably puts more stress on the heart.

Some recent experiments with laboratory animals showed that those who were fed five to six times a day were healthier and lived longer than those fed one or two meals daily.

I usually suggest that people are better off eating a number of small meals rather than sitting down to a heavy dinner. As for eating only once a day, I think that's for dogs—not for people.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I'lost a dear brother three weeks ago with a malignancy of the colon. During that time, and since, I've known of five other similar cases. Is there any science considered the possibility that white bread might be the cause, since "glue" is made from flour and water?—Mrs. Mc.

COMMENT: I know of no experiments. As a pure guess I doubt there is any connection between white bread and cancer of the colon. But who am I to say "no," a thousand times no" when nobody, as yet, has come up with the real cause of cancer.

Joane Dixon's Horoscope

Your birthday today: This is the year of your inner development. By the end of the year your wisdom should be greater and deeper than ever. Outer conditions change in normal pattern; yet somehow you learn to adjust and make more effective use of experience than ever before. Unexpected emergencies or pressures are to be expected with fewer channels. Today's natives are of unsettled good-humored, always ready for the unexpected.

ARIES (March 21—April 19): Take up those serious concerns you had set gotten to during the working week. Settle accompress for improvements, organize petitions and applications.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Early hours require your tact and consideration later hours turn mellower and much easier. Especially good hours for choices of enjoyable activities.

GEMINI (May 21—June 20): Nobody will pursue your interests for you. You do more than your share of family efforts. Put in a bid for something better. Let bygones pass! with your charge of family affairs.

CANCER (June 21—July 21): The most plausible sounding story may be the least valid. Check your facts and stay with what has proved workable. Tall stories are an art form this evening.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Today is one of those times when family affairs get smarted. Use good sense listen for clues and possible solutions. Some overindulgence makes it clear you really mean it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23—Sept. 22): It's your turn to be in the majority in holding a particular viewpoint. Insist on verifying anything you must take seriously. Business contacts are propitious.

LIBRA (Sept. 23—Oct. 22): Your decisions now have to be based on estimates, so make allowances for later adjustments. Personal problems should be at hand if you really want them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): It is too much to expect complicated situations to clear your work. Get as far away as conditions permit for a completely different scene and a fresh perspective.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Act today toward practical immediate goals. Somebody near you is unconsciously giving you confusion. Get serious advice to go along with your own common sense.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22—Jan. 19): Most of your associates are victims of wishful thinking. Avoid involvement in unrealistic schemes. Follow your own straight as to what will work out; begin preparations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Your personality still requires tact. Go slowly, there is more at stake than it develops. Find some symbolic expression of your deeper feelings this evening.

PISCES (Feb. 19—March 20): Gather your resolve decide what you can do with the present circumstances, make a definite start. Explain later. The evening is for pleasant surprises, good news.

Political Position Can Change Overnight

OTTAWA (CP) — Political strategy, tactics and mood can change quickly.

Just how quickly was shown this week in the Commons. Almost overnight, a situation can be turned upside down.

On Monday, the Conservatives were pretty down in the mouth.

Only two days earlier, they had continued to oppose, along with the NDP, the government's proclamation of the War Measures Act to combat Quebec terrorism.

Then Pierre Laporte, Quebec labor minister, was found garroted.

This put the Conservatives in an awkward position. The government in effect helped them out of their difficulties by proroguing new legislation by Nov. 15, less stringent than the War Measures Act—but not to the extent of avoiding the Commons vote on the issue.

The Liberals forced a vote and the Conservatives, without exception, supported imposition of the War Measures Act which permits arrest without bail or immediate charge and search without warrant.

Mr. Laporte's funeral was held Tuesday.

On Wednesday, Jean Marchand, regional expansion minister, said the Front d'Action Politique (FRAP), a group opposing Mayor Jean Drapeau in Montreal's civic election Sunday, is a front for the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec.

Mr. Marchand had said earlier that the FLQ has "infiltrated every strategic place in the province of Quebec, every place where important decisions are taken," and was "in a position to cause the Quebec and the federal governments, as well as the city of Montreal, irreparable harm."

On Thursday, Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield was up quickly in the Commons asking whether FRAP's existence and operation constituted one reason for invoking the War Measures Act.

Justice Minister John Turner said no and Mr. Marchand conceded he should not have used the word front.

Instantly, the whole situation had changed.

The government appeared on the defensive and the Conservatives and NDP were taking the initiative.

That point was that if Mr. Marchand had over-stated the case about FRAP, he might have over-stated the case about FLQ infiltrating in Quebec "every place where important decisions are taken."

The Conservatives say politically the government is still in an enormously strong position. But they feel they have made a small dent which they can exploit.

David Lewis, deputy NDP leader, said Thursday that Mr. Marchand had smeared a good many innocent people with his remark that FRAP was a front for the FLQ.

"Dictatorship," Mr. Stanfield interjected—probably the strongest word he has used in the Commons since he became Conservative leader in 1967.

'Conquest' Concept Is Refuted

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — French-speaking MPs set out Thursday night to bury the 200-year-old debate over the "conquest" of Quebec by British troops on the Plains of Abraham.

The joint parliamentary committee on the constitution, meeting next door to the building where the Fathers of Confederation assembled in 1864, was told by Martial Asselin (PC—Charlotte):

"The concept of the conquest no longer exists at home."

His views were echoed by Georges Lachance (L—Frontenac), Gilles Marceau (L—Laprairie) chided Prof. Graham Decarie of the history department at the University of Prince Edward Island for talking about a French-Canadian "inferiority complex."

Prof. Decarie had told the committee meeting at the mock Confederation Centre that French Canadians feel humiliated by the memory of the conquest." Quebec had to be given "some sort of special status in order to wipe out that humiliation.

"We aren't living in 1759 when the English won the battle of the Plains of Abraham," said Mr. Asselin. "I think the problem in Quebec is a much deeper one."

Quebecers did not feel that they were equal partners in Confederation with English - speaking Canadians.

This was not the fault of English-speaking Canadians. It was possibly the fault of French Canadians for not taking advantage of what was rightfully theirs in Confederation.

"But our English-speaking friends must realize that the greatness and prestige of Canada resides in the fact that Canada is constituted by two founding nations—two nations which are the envy of other countries."

The cultural aspirations of French Canada had to be recognized in a new constitution, Mr. Asselin said.

He asked Mr. Decarie whether the problem of the "conquest" still exists in the minds of Marchlorers.

The professor replied that on the surface it does not. But when emotions were aroused the view that the British had conquered the French comes out especially among older people.

Mr. Lachance said he did not agree with Mr. Decarie that Quebec should have a special status. Certain powers should be allowed to all provinces.

Mr. Marceau said that if Mr. Decarie is teaching his students that French Canadians feel inferior and want to restrict themselves in Quebec this is a dangerous approach.

The Instant Egg Hatched

OTTAWA (CP) — An agriculture researcher has hatched the era, of the instant egg.

Dr. Mostafa Aref of the food research institute has developed a freezing process that will allow consumers to keep egg and liquid milk products conveniently in the family freezer for an indefinite length of time.

Eggs, cream, yogurt and cheese dipped in liquid nitrogen freeze instantly, can be stored in conventional freezers and thaw in minutes.

The process has several advantages according to Dr. Aref.

"For example, frozen eggs emerge from liquid nitrogen freezing looking like popcorn. A housewife could keep the product in a plastic bag in her freezer, measuring out a tablespoon whenever she needs an egg for a recipe."

She would be assured of freshness and convenience and have more product stored over the quantity, Dr. Aref says.

Liquid nitrogen, an inert gas that is neither toxic nor corrosive, would not cause pollution or residue problems. But, since it vaporizes, higher operating costs would make freezing economical only for products that retail over 50 cents a pound.

Dr. Aref is designing a container that should eliminate some of the vaporizing problems.

Although the new products would be convenient for home-hold use, Dr. Aref says restaurants and processing industries will be the first to adopt them.

Large restaurants now must buy either "large unwieldy blocks" of frozen eggs or fresh eggs. If they thaw a large block, they have to use all of it quickly or it will spoil. As well, there's a storage problem for fresh eggs.

"With this new product, they can make up orders as they get them from customers without any losses," Dr. Aref says.

Nixon Hopes to Ease Tension

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — President Nixon flies to New York today for a major United Nations address in which he is expected to appeal to Russia to help ease tensions between the two super powers.

Hopes that U.S.-Soviet relations are turning the corner after months of cold war rhetoric were bolstered here Thursday after a 2½-hour meeting between Nixon and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko.

The White House talks were conducted in a friendly atmosphere, reported presidential spokesman Ronald Ziegler, and it was felt they were "helpful in laying the basis for improved relations between the United States and Soviet Union."

Gromyko said in a statement that the talks were interesting, and added: "I would like to express the hope that the meeting and discussion will be of positive significance for the development and improvement of Soviet-American relations."

Nixon, who will remain in New York for five hours before returning to Washington tonight, is not likely to announce any breakthrough in his UN address, which starts at 3:30 p.m. EDT and will last about 25 minutes, Ziegler reported.

Major differences, particularly over the Middle East and Indochina, have been clouded by harsh public debate in recent months.

Despite differences, the U.S. and Russia appear to be on a parallel course to preserve the Middle East ceasefire, diplomatic sources said.

On the other main issues, U.S. officials take a position in cautious terms of some improvement in the Soviet position in Berlin, of hope for progress at the strategic arms control talks which resume Nov. 2 in Helsinki, Finland, and of renewed U.S.-Soviet dialogue on Indochina.

The White House meeting was the first between the two men since the president assigned office 22 months ago. It was requested by Gromyko after U.S. hints that such a request would be welcomed by Nixon.

Robertson Still at Large

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) — With no new leads in 14 days, RCMP appealed Thursday to murder suspect Wilfred Stanley Robertson to surrender.

Robertson, a 49-year-old farmer-woodsman from the MacDowall district 25 miles south of here, has been the target of one of the largest manhunts in Saskatchewan history since Oct. 9 when two RCMP officers were shot to death.

"We hope Robertson will surrender himself," said Inspector R. B. Schramm, officer commanding the Prince Albert subdivision.

"He will be given every consideration and it goes without saying that his rights will be fully protected."

Robertson was charged with two counts of capital murder after Sgt. R. J. Schrader, 41, and Constable D. B. Anson, 25, were shot while investigating a family dispute in the MacDowall area.

RCMP scaled down their search in heavy muskeg-dotted bush near MacDowall earlier this week when they failed to find a solid clue to Robertson's whereabout. They reduced the search force to 65 from 110 men to concentrate on roadblocks and patrols.

Staff Sergeant W. H. Preston said Thursday the 65 men are being aided by two aircraft, an army personnel carrier and five dogs.

RCMP began concentrating their search in the area Oct. 10 after they recovered the slain officers' patrol car.

Half of Quebec Urbanites Economically Deprived

OTTAWA (CP) — More than half the people of Quebec who live in metropolitan areas can be classed as economically deprived, the Senate committee on poverty was told Thursday.

A brief presented by the Quebec Corporation of Professional Social Workers said Quebec has more people living on welfare than any province except Newfoundland and Nova Scotia.

Suzanne Blais-Grenier, corporation secretary, said governments must act quickly to solve the poverty problem.

"We feel it is urgent in Quebec, and has become more so recently, to settle as quickly as possible the question of disparities between different classes of society," Mrs. Grenier said.

The brief said poverty in Montreal is probably felt more keenly than in other areas of the province because of the huge gulf between extreme poverty and almost limitless wealth.

"This explains why poverty there in Montreal is nolder than elsewhere."

The social workers said the urgency of the situation demands massive infusions of money, in the form of services to the poor.

"Unless solutions are found quickly," Mrs. Grenier said, "there is great danger that the situation by 1980 will be one of misery more generalized and more dramatic" than it is today.

"Let's start now to build the just society of 1980. It's urgent."

Warrants for Three Issued By Police

Tips Total 1,700

MONTREAL (CP) — Police today sought a total of five men in the political abductions which have rocked this province of six million people.

Late Friday night provincial police issued three new warrants on a Canada-wide basis for the arrest of men wanted for conspiracy in the kidnapping of the province's labor minister, Pierre Laporte.

Mr. Laporte was abducted Oct. 10 and slain a week later by the terrorist Front de Libération du Québec. His kidnapping came five days after that British envoy James (Jasper) Cross.

Mr. Cross is believed still held by the revolutionary FLQ which seeks the release of 23 jailed or accused criminals as the price on his life.

The British trade commissioner was last heard from Sunday when police turned up a letter from him saying he was well but his life still was in jeopardy.

The new warrants call for the arrest of Francis Simard, 23, described as a laborer, Bernard Lortie, 21, a student, and Jacques Rose, 23, also a laborer.

Rose is a brother of Paul Rose, 21-year-old part-time school teacher for whom a warrant was issued last Sunday night in the two kidnappings. At that time Lortie's warrant was issued for Marc Carbonneau, 27-year-old taxi driver.

Montrealers, who have seen their public buildings under guard by machine-gun-armed soldiers for more than a week, saw Friday bow thorough the search in.

Afternoon rush-hour traffic in midtown Montreal was halted as troops searched two military establishments.

First they rushed to HMCS Donnacona, a naval reserve station on Drummond Street just north of busy Maisonneuve Boulevard. They sealed off a one-block area.

Then they moved over to the corner of Bishop and St. Catharine streets to surround the Canadian Forces recruiting centre.

Armed services officers refused to give the specific reasons for the operation, calling each a "routine security check."

Farther west on St. Catherine Street in neighboring Westmount, barbed wire was strung

House Trailer

House movers took a slightly different approach when making arrangements for moving this house on North Front Street. Instead of jacking the house and putting it on a float, wheels were attached to supporting I-beams and the residence will be "towed" to its new location in Thurlow township. House is being moved to make way for a service entrance to Cambridge Leasehold's new Quinte Mall.

Garbage Lines Roads In UK's 'Dirty Jobs Strike'

Spit-and-Polish Troops Moving London's Garbage

LONDON (AP)— The Grenadier Guards, a spit-and-polish regiment normally assigned to glittering ceremonial duties at Buckingham Palace, got a new job today: hauling piled-up garbage out of the streets of London.

It was the first time soldiers had been used in a labor dispute in London since troops delivered mail in a postal strike in 1955.

Twenty of the guards and a host a dozen Royal Engineers arrived with bulldozers at 2 a.m. in the Tower Hamlets district, where trash from the Petticoat Lane market district had lain uncollected since sanitation men went on strike almost a month ago.

Striking trash collectors carrying picket signs watched as the soldiers began removing the 10-foot piles of garbage and loading it into trucks. A dozen policemen were at the scene, but the pickets made no attempt to interfere with the work.

Residents of the area got out of bed and went to watch the operation. There were cries of "Thank God" as it began.

A pretty, dark-haired girl from a nearby apartment block kissed one of the combat-clad soldiers on the cheek as a special thank-you gesture. During brief rest breaks, the soldiers chatted about their job. Few grumbles were heard.

The defence ministry issued a statement saying the troops were deployed at the request of Home Secretary Reginald Maudling.

"The men will only move rubbish which has been declared a health hazard," a spokesman said.

John Cousins, a leader of the striking Transport and General Workers Union, said: "We did not raise objections to the use of troops because of the danger of health in the East End."

Some 70,000 municipal workers are on strike across Britain, seeking a raise equivalent to $2.60 a week on basic pay scales that range from $33 to $42.

The sanitation men walked off their jobs Sept. 29. Garbage and trash are piled on sidewalks in most parts of London, and sewage pumping stations are in danger of overflowing.

Kidnap Suspect Nabbed

BULLETIN

MONTREAL (CP) — A man called Bernard Lortie who closely fits the description of a suspect sought in the kidnappings of Labor Minister Pierre Laporte and British diplomat James (Jasper) Cross was arrested early today in Hull, Que., Quebec Provincial Police said today.

A spokesman for the Quebec Provincial Police said the man was being brought to Montreal for identification.

"He fits the description we have of the suspect—the only discrepancy being his birthdate," the spokesman said. He did not elaborate.

Circumstances of the arrest were not immediately known.

Symbol Devised

OTTAWA (CP) — Information Canada officially unveiled Friday its first major effort at instant recognition of the federal government—a symbol based on the flag which will substitute for the coat of arms or any other device on federal property.

Every letterhead, vehicle, aircraft, park sign, building director, publication and even the baby bonus cheques will proclaim the federal connection with the new symbol.

News Briefs

MONTREAL (CP) — Twelve unions representing 93,100 Quebec workers issued a joint statement Friday condemning the 250,000-member Quebec Federation of Labor for its call for withdrawal of the War Measures Act invoked Oct. 16. The statement said the unions refused to endorse the position taken by the federation because the province's largest labor group had acted "in hastily and emotionally."

Byproduct of Kidnapping

Armed Forces' Image Given Boost by Crisis

OTTAWA (CP) — The military is one segment of Canadian society for which the present kidnap crisis, grim as it is, has provided a much-needed shot in the arm.

Suddenly, instead of being something akin to pariahs, the forces are feeling wanted again. If they are not yet quite heroes to the public, they at least have gained a new respect and recognition from government.

The heady awareness of being needed when the chips are down is reported to have sent a jolt of new vigor and self-confidence through the ranks.

The forces as a professional group have not had an easy time in recent years. The unification upheaval of the mid-60s was followed by the Trudeau government's defence policy review, which resulted in a decision to reduce Canadian military strength by 10,000 men and bring home half the 10,000 fighting men stationed in Germany.

Prime Minister Trudeau spoke of the military machine as being "really not important today," and froze the defence budget for three years.

Now even Mr. Trudeau appears to have become more deferential in his references to the forces.

"It's more important to keep law and order in society than to be worried about weak-kneed people who don't like the looks of an army," the prime minister remarked last week in defending the recall of the troops.

The new defence minister, 38-year-old Donald Macdonald, who once thought tools on the portfolio in order to knock down the defence establishment still further, has looked at the forces and pronounced them "taut" in relation to their responsibilities.

A study is under way to determine whether the current rundown of 82,000 men from 98,000 should continue in view of the military duty to aid the civil power when called upon.

The present security operation is beyond comparison in Canada's peacetime history. Troops have been moved from Gagetown, N.B., to Valcartier, Que., from Valcartier to Montreal and nearby St. Hubert, from Edmonton to St. Hubert, from Camp Petawawa, Ont., to Ottawa, and from Shilo, Man., to St. Hubert.

Even the controversial CF-5 jet has been pressed into service, flying photo reconnaissance north of Montreal in an attempt to pick up the trail of kidnapped British diplomat James Cross and his abductors.

The CF-5 gained a measure of notoriety earlier when it was disclosed that many planes in a 115-plane defence department order had gone straight into storage from the production line because there was no immediate role for them.

Damages of $3.6 Million Sought by Political Party

MONTREAL (CP) — The Front d'Action Politique, a group running 31 candidates in the Montreal municipal election Sunday, initiated a $3,600,000 damage action Friday against Mayor Jean Drapeau for statements allegedly harmful to the organization and its candidates.

The lawsuit, taken on behalf of the movement—known as FRAP—by its lawyer Gaetan Robert, claims $200,000 damages to it as an organization and $100,000 each for damages to its candidates.

Copies of the legal documents concerned were delivered to newspaper, news service and broadcasting station offices with a letter from counsel Robert declaring that the FRAP organization and its defendant members "categorically denied with the greatest vigor" the alleged statements of Mayor Drapeau.

The notice of suit cited five accusations alleged to have been made by Mr. Drapeau:

1—That the Front d'Action Politique was a "para-municipal, para-electoral" movement that groups terrorists and revolutionaries in Montreal.

2—That there was no doubt FRAP was affiliated with the Front de Libération du Québec;

3—That when the basement of St. Louis de France church and Paul Sauve arena were made accessible for terrorist use, a third gesture would be opening up city hall to them;

4—That blood would run in the streets if a social-leaning party, meaning FRAP, won municipal elections next Sunday;

5—That it would take closed eyes and ears not to be aware of an affinity between FRAP and the FLQ.

Regarding the four point mentioned in the lawsuit, The Canadian Press inaccurately reported Thursday the alleged statement referred in.

A tape-recording shows that the CFQX interviewer asked:

"And you say there would be blood running in the streets and everything during the camp—?"

The last word of the question was interrupted by Mr. Drapeau's reply:

"Definitely so; definitely so."

Benson Seeking Reduced Rates

TORONTO (CP) — Speculation that there will be government pressure to reduce the chartered banks' prime interest rate affected the bond market here Friday, but the banks' reaction was reserved.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson, in response to a question in the Commons, said he believed the banks should reduce the prime rate.

A spokesman for the Bank of Nova Scotia said government action in fixing the Canada savings bond rate at 7½ per cent had put the banks in a difficult position.

The prime rate—the rate the banks charge their best customers—is now eight per cent. The rate was reduced to eight per cent in June from a record high of 8½ per cent.

The bank rate—the rate the Bank of Canada charges banks —is 6¼ per cent. That rate has been lowered three times this year from a high of eight per cent.

The Bank of Nova Scotia spokesman said it is a published fact that the banks and the prices and incomes commissions have agreed that a reduction in the prime rate would be accompanied by a reduction in savings rates. He said the Canada savings bond rate is only one-quarter of one per cent below what it was a year ago, and the current 7¾-per-cent Canada savings bond rate provides strong competition for banks.

"We feel the government has put the whole issue in the lockbox by fixing the Canada savings bond rate at such a high level," the spokesman said.

Soldier Returns

A distinguished soldier who once served at Camp Picton is now back in the Quinte area as Chief of Staff Support Services, Air Transport Command. Brigadier-General Gerald Coffin, appointed to the Trenton headquarters post September 1, is shown above in his office yesterday.

Staff Support Chief Wearer of Many Hats

TRENTON (Staff) — Integration of the Canadian armed forces has meant different things to different people. For some military men, it has brought remarkable career shifts.

One such man is Brigadier-General Gerald Coffin, since September 1, Chief of Staff Support Services at Air Transport Command Headquarters here.

The bulk of his 30 years of active service has been with the army: A Gaspesian by birth, Brigadier-General Coffin developed an artillery expertise in World War II and in 1947 was appointed chief gunnery instructor at the Royal Canadian School of Artillery, Picton.

Two decades later, he became Commander Ontario Region of the newly-integrated Canadian Armed Forces with headquarters at Oakville.

The interim saw him serve as Commanding Officer, 1 Light Anti-Aircraft Regiment, a faculty member of the Canadian Army Staff College, Chief of Army Training at Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe in Paris, the Canadian army's director of land operational requirements and Chief Superintendent of the Army Equipment Engineering Establishment.

In an interview yesterday, the Brigadier-General discussed his new job, referring to it as "a challenge" — more because of its scope than any great differences in the nature of his responsibilities.

Military problems are basically the same regardless of what the environment is," he said, although familiarization with the new environment has its demands.

The Brigadier - General, however, stressed that he and his family had grown accustomed to picking up roots and planting them again in different locales. They have done so more than 20 times, he mentioned.

"My family has become adaptable" he said, adding that the recent return to the Quinte area is a willing one. "We are delighted" he said.

Work days for the new chief of staff support services are varied. One day this week he dealt with security arrangements for two cabinet ministers, dental services at North Bay and personnel problems at Ottawa.

Organizational changes in the Canadian Armed Forces account, in part, for Brigadier-General Coffin's appointment to Air Transport Command; an appointment he welcomed.

In April, he said, General Chester Hull, Commander Air Transport Command, acquired new responsibilities previously held by regional headquarters in Oakville.

General Hull "now has responsibility for all military operations in the Province of Ontario and for the provision of military assistance within the province," he explained.

"A number of functions were on a regional basis but controlled from Ottawa. These have been decentralized," the Brigadier-General added.

Among these, other general forces services now administered by Air Transport Command Headquarters at Trenton are "medical facilities, all matters affecting civilian employees of the Department of National Defence within Ontario, as well as all dental and social welfare matters," he said.

The Brigadier-General is immediately responsible to the Commander of Air Transport Command for these matters, and the support services of the command. These include supply, food services, police and personnel activities for the string of ATC squadrons that stretch from Comox, B.C. to Summerside, PEI.

Questioned on the occasion, he voiced charge that ATC is operating as airlines. The Brigadier - General stresses that routinely scheduled flights are essential to the command's degree of preparedness. Particularly "because we have an emergency role, we have to maintain operations," he said.

Whether it be a training operation like Northern Express or Operation Reindeer, command airlifted a battalion of troops from Victoria to southern Norway or the "major troop lift" prompted by recent developments in Quebec, Air Transport Command runs smoothly with no hitches," Brigadier - General Coffin surmised.

"I have had the opportunity to observe them in action," he said and concluded that the command "really is efficient and I have thought it was and it is."

REV. LESLIE K. TARR

Guest Speaker On Anniversary

Parkdale Baptist Church will celebrate its 12th anniversary this Sunday. The speaker at both services of the day will be Rev. Leslie K. Tarr, administrator of Central Baptist Seminary in Toronto.

In addition to his responsibilities at the Baptist training school, Mr. Tarr is a journalist. His articles have appeared in major secular and religious magazines and papers in Canada and the United States. Presently he is a regular contributor to the Toronto Daily Star.

Pastor Eric Penny of the Parkdale Church extends a cordial invitation to the community to attend these services. He is looking forward to seeing many friends from the general community at the evening service.

Constable Graduates

Gerald Gibson Bennett, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray G. Bennett, 18 Craig Street, Belleville, recently graduated from the Ontario Provincial Police College in Toronto following successful completion of the Recruit Orientation Course.

Constable Bennett, who received his education at Quinte Secondary School, was posted to the Perth Detachment, number 10 district.

TV POPULAR

The Taipei, Formosa, city government said there were 192,500 television sets in the Nationalist Chinese capital, one for each two families.

New Course Under Study

PICTON (Staff) — A study course titled Human Growth and Development will provide the theme for a public meeting in Prescott School Nov. 4, sponsored by the Prince Edward County Home and School Council.

A program that has worked well in other Ontario counties, it emphasizes health, guidance safety, sex and communications.

Members of the county home and school council would like to see this program introduced in Prince Edward County schools.

A flyer circulated by the home and school council notes that two members of the program team are John Metcalfe, Kingston, Physical and Health Education consultant for Region 9 and Walker Cochrane, Hastings County curriculum consultant for physical education.

Members of the Prince Edward County Board of Education have been invited to attend this special meeting next month when public opinion of the program will be sought.

Microwave Structure

Located in Scarborough, this $8 million, 501-foot tower will be used by Bell Canada for line-of-sight transmission of telephone and television signals from Toronto to Ottawa and Montreal. This is the tallest self-supporting microwave tower in North America. Constructed by Central Bridge's Trenton plant, the unit will have an ultimate capacity of carrying more than 25,000 voice circuits.

City Hall Clock Goes Back at Six

Sunday at 2 a.m. may be the official time in Belleville for return to standard time, but the old town clock atop the city hall tower is to make the move sooner.

City personnel officer G. H. Wright said yesterday that the town clock would be turned back shortly before six o'clock this evening rather than at 2 a.m.

He said the earlier change back would be more convenient for clock custodian Gerry O'Connor.

IBM Man Addresses SIA Group

From the Hollerith punch card system of the early 1900s to the sophisticated Fortran and Cobal machines of today, the basis of data processing is the same, Kingston IBM Service man Mr. Bright, marketing representative for International Business Machines, Kingston.

In addressing the last meeting of the Quinte Chapter of the Society of Industrial Accountancy, Mr. Bright stressed the constant need in the progress of data processing. Difference has come, he said, particularly in the speed calculations are made but basics are the same.

Program theme for the Nov. 16 Ladies' Night will be "The Consumer Buyer." Guest speakers will be from the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs.

More Students In Senate

KINGSTON (CP) — The first meeting of the senate of Queen's University was held Thursday under the revised constitution with student participation increased to 12 members from four.

Students held elections earlier this month to select 11 senators. They joined two of last year's, who are continuing in their second year of office.

The remainder of the 62-man senate is made up of 11 elected faculty members and 18 ex-officio members.

Approval for the increase in student representation was given last April by the senate.

IN MEMORIAM

FERGUSON, North — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who went away Oct. 26, 1968.

Dear husband, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more,
Memories of you are always with us,
Sacred memories we keep.
Loved and remembered by the children, Mary, Jean, Ted and Ron.

BAPOS — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother who passed away October 24th, 1969.

Sweetest flowers God's garden yields,
Bloom true to touch, but all in vain,
Dear mother, we had them, in part, but not for long,
They reach your home and leave ours lonely.

But then they were not never,
Memories are treasures we keep,
Memories of you dear mother,
Are memories we keep.
—Lovingly remembered by daughters, Mary and Dorothy.

McCARTHY — In loving memory of a dear brother Raymond who passed away Oct. 24, 1968.

Only a year has been recorded,
Of a harvest soon laid to rest,
And those who loved him best,
Are those who loved him least,
They miss his cheerful smile and grave,
May mother and dear God,
Keep in their care those who loved him best.
—Sadly missed by Doug, Catherine and family.

MALLOY — In loving memory of Stewart Malloy who passed away Oct. 25, 1964.

Memories we have fallen,
In cherished memory we've graved,
A leaf from our Family Tree departed,
And become Heavenward bound.
Sadly missed by wife Alice, daughter Gwen and family.

Our love and our memories of you,
Dear Stewart,
Are as special as autumn's leaves.
—Dearly remembered by Mom, Dad and Ken.

SHARP — In loving memory of a beloved husband and grandfather who passed away Oct. 25, 1966.

Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break, but all in vain,
To have, to love, and then to part,
Is the hardest thing to bear in the heart.
The years may change but not memories.

But this they urge and never,
The memory of those happy days,
Of one we loved forever.
Always and remembered by wife Myrtle, grandchildren Robert, Barbara, Debbie and Tammy.

BLINAP — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Edward Belnap, who passed away October 25, 1962.

Though tears in my eyes do not show,
And my love is not always seen,
There is never a night or a morning,
That you're not in my dreams.
—Sadly missed by Mom, Pat and Ted.

Just plain like the wind, the sea and the sky.
We think and we know he is gone from our side,
But he'll be with God and Dad with the others.
—You dearly loved to be forgotten,
for mine, daughter and grandchildren.

The blow was great, the shock severe,
We miss you mother dear.
To see you sleeping,
Dear mother or kiss goodnight,
But we'll remember our whole lives through,
The last words we had with you.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Mary, son-in-law Bill and grandchildren Sandra and Terry.

MALLOY — In loving memory of a dear brother Stewart, who passed away Oct. 25, 1964.

Only a year has been recorded,
Of a harvest soon laid to rest,
And those who loved him best,
Are those who loved him least,
They miss his cheerful smile and grave,
May mother and dear God,
Keep in their care those who loved him best.
—Sadly missed by Doug, Catherine and family.

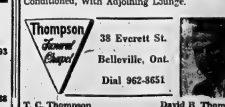
MALLOY — In loving memory of Stewart Malloy who passed away Oct. 25, 1964.

Memories we have fallen,
In cherished memory we've graved,
A leaf from our Family Tree departed,
And become Heavenward bound.
Sadly missed by wife Alice, daughter Gwen and family.

Our love and our memories of you,
Dear Stewart,
Are as special as autumn's leaves.
—Dearly remembered by Mom, Dad and Ken.

MASTERSON — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mary Ann Masterson, who passed away October 25, 1959.

Eleven years have passed since that day,
When our loved one called away,
The blow was great, the shock severe,
We miss you mother dear.
To see you sleeping,
Dear mother or kiss goodnight,
But we'll remember our whole lives through,
The last words we had with you.
—Always remembered by daughter Mary, son-in-law Bill and grandchildren Sandra and Terry.



MASTERSON — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Maurice Irvine, who passed away October 25, 1959.

Sweetly tender, fond and true,
Loving memories we keep of you.
Don't we sit there, Maurice dear to see you die,
To say goodbye or kiss goodnight.
But we'll remember our whole lives through,
The last words we had with you.
—Lovingly remembered by daughters Velma, Helen, George, Children, families.

Eric Hope at Console of Mini-Computer

Statistician's Office Is A Hospital Room

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

A fully computerized office of the federal government is opening out of Belleville General Hospital these days — appropriately, for the Department of Health and Welfare.

An automobile accident seven weeks ago started the chain of events that resulted in mathematician Eric Hope setting up the office in his hospital room.

The air pollution control division of the health and welfare department installed the mini-computer in its chief statistician's room to enable him to continue his work while he recuperates from injuries sustained in an accident near Belleville.

But the computer serves a double purpose — Mr. Hope "plays with it" to invent programs for the entertainment of the hospital staff.

Currently he has programmed the machine to match the day of the week with any date in history. And given time, he could program the computer to compose music, a feat he performed four years ago when he was a professor at the University of Bath, England.

The computer - composed music resulted in three BBC television interviews for Mr. Hope and considerable consternation on the part of the British Guild of Composers.

The computer now installed at BGH can add 1,100 numbers a second and give answers to 12 decimal places.

Mr. Hope's work in pollution control involves both pure research and analysis of data collected from the air sampling network now installed across Canada.

His results are studied for significant trends in air pollution and the increase and decrease in air-borne contaminents.

Since the computer was installed at the hospital, the statistician has been working on an analysis of the release of hydrogen sulphide from a heavy water plant.

Air pollution, if left unchecked, could have up the world, Mr. Hope says.

The temperature of the air surrounding the earth is constantly rising because of the "greenhouse effect".

The greenhouse effect arises because of the heavy concentration of carbon dioxide gas in the atmosphere. It gets there because of incomplete combustion of petroleum fuels, among other factors.

This carbon dioxide prevents the escape of infra-red rays that come to earth from the sun. Hence the temperature build-up, which could go high enough eventually to burn out the planet.

The same condition exists on the planet Venus, which has high concentrations of carbon dioxide in its atmosphere and a surface temperature of about 600 degrees.

And air pollution is a world - wide problem, Mr. Hope indicates, because jet streams in the stratosphere pick up pollution and blow it around the world at 200 miles an hour or more.

For this reason, the Canadian government, will begin monitoring the atmosphere early in 1972 from satellite based instruments.

The government is also concerned with carbon monoxide gas, sulphur dioxide, lead and a host of other dangerous substances in the air.

And "taking to the woods" to escape pollution won't work, Mr. Hope adds. American studies have revealed that superhighways pushed across the continent have resulted in increasing concentrations of carbon monoxide in rural areas.

Air pollution studies are turning up new contaminents, never before suspected, such as BJF, a substance now being investigated to find out what its affects might be on people.

Combustion byproducts can kill — many of them are cancer producing.

The car is one of the worst offenders and exhaust fumes, serious as they are, are not the only dangerous emissions.

Asbestos particles have long been known to be cancer-producing. But no one realized that automobile brake linings release asbestos particles every time brakes are applied. Clutch linings do the same — sending cancer-causing pollutants into the air every time the pedal is depressed.

The solution, says Mr. Hope, involves three factors — measurement, study and evaluations of the problem, the phase in which he is active, then emergency legislation to and finally research into means of controlling emmission of pollutants.

"Legislation is an emergency solution," says Mr. Hope. "Ultimately, clean energy must solve its own pollution problem. Until now, technology has always implied pollution, and that attitude must change.

"Alternative forms of propulsion" to replace the ICE car is one of Mr. Hope's suggestions — alternative forms that produce complete combustion of fuel. The steam engine is one form, the electric motor another.

'Enemy' Bombers Fly Next Week In Air Exercise

OTTAWA (CP) — "Enemy" planes will attempt to "bomb" Canada in North American Air Defence Command exercises scheduled for Oct. 27 - 29, it was announced Friday.

Jet aircraft simulating enemy bombers and supersonic interceptors will be controlled by the 22nd NORAD region's underground defence centre at North Bay, Ont.

The exercise, to take place over eastern Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes, will subject NORAD forces to conditions they might expect in a bomber attack against Canada.

Has Beer, Disappears

Another Warkworth Penal Institute inmate has escaped.

Robert Dale, 26, of Ottawa, serving seven years for armed robbery with 7½ months of his sentence still remaining in the words of a Belleville city police official, "decided to take a little walk yesterday".

Dale was brought to Belleville without escort on a pass to attend tutorials at Quinte Secondary School as part of his rehabilitation course.

According to police reports, the inmate found no one at the school and went to a local beverage room from where he disappeared at approximately 7:45 p.m. yesterday.

Dale stands five feet, eight inches, weighs 165 pounds, has a fair complexion and brown hair.

700 Hear Three Bands

Rock Promotion A Qualified Success

Moira Riverbottom Blues No. Three unloaded in the Belleville Arcories last night, with the promotion and the music something new and the problems of running such extravaganzas something old.

The "gig" was the first for a new Belleville company, Jersey, designed to produce rock events in Belleville and in other centres it an effort to compete with high-priced admissions supported by outside promoters from cities like Toronto.

Jersey's creator, Gordon Johnston, told The Intelligencer prior to the event that his company was designed to keep admission prices down for the patron while still providing above average rock entertainment.

The company was also designed to compete with the monopolies of "big city" promoters whose admission prices are representative of the security that no competition creates.

But local youth support for such an ideal was not demonstrated last night as Leigh Ashford from Toronto, Wright from Ottawa and Powerhouse from Ottawa entertained at their best.

Mr. Johnston said this morning that he was slightly disappointed in the turnout to Jersey's premier rock effort. Close to 700 area young people were in attendance.

Moira Riverbottom Blues No. Three did not qualify as a success like No. One which attracted 1,300 fans last January, an event in which Mr. Johnston also had a major part.

Yet the event last night was not a financial disaster for Mr. Johnston and it did not threaten future plans for his young company, the budget for entertainment and promotion for the dance being minimal early in 1971 from satellite based instruments.

The government is also concerned with carbon monoxide gas, sulphur dioxide, lead and a host of other dangerous substances in the air.

And "taking to the woods" to escape pollution won't work, Mr. Hope adds. American studies have revealed that superhighways pushed across the continent have resulted in increasing concentrations of carbon monoxide in rural areas.

Air pollution studies are turning up new contaminents, never before suspected, such as BJF, a substance now being investigated to find out what its affects might be on people.

Combustion byproducts can kill — many of them are cancer producing.

"Legislation is an emergency solution," says Mr. Hope. "Ultimately, clean energy must solve its own pollution problem. Until now, technology has always implied pollution, and that attitude must change.

"Alternative forms of propulsion" to replace the ICE car is one of Mr. Hope's suggestions — alternative forms that produce complete combustion of fuel. The steam engine is one form, the electric motor another.

Jersey also has obtained several contracts to promote gigs for commercial and municipal organizations within the city.

But Mr. Johnston was still enthusiastic about last night's premiere endeavor. He spoke favorably of all the groups that played last night.

"Leigh Ashford were really good," he said. "They've got their own style. They really got into everybody's head."

The two Ottawa groups Powerhouse and Weight, also went over well, he said.

Powerhouse was making its third appearance in Belleville in the last few weeks, playing a couple of weeks ago at Quinte and Moira Secondary Schools.

For Weight, however, Belleville was uncharted territory before the group's eight members walked on stage for their first set.

In an interview with The Intelligencer, group members confessed that Belleville was the furthest west they had been from their home town.

Yet they're not new to the travels of playing out-of-town affairs. Montreal is one of their stamping grounds not to mention centres that obtain their groups from Ottawa.

Girl's Condition Is Unchanged

PICTON (Staff) — The condition of 45-year-old Dorothy Driscoll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Driscoll of Bloomfield, remains unchanged in Belleville General Hospital.

The little girl was severely injured Wednesday at the Massassaga public school when she was crushed against the school wall by a teacher's car which was being parked.

Could Have Danced All Night

One of Belleville's gala events, the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority annual dance, saw gowned and jewelled ladies and their husbands dancing to the strains of the 6-piece orchestra Men of Note. Sorority president Mrs. Lorrie Roebuck, her husband Les, and dance convener Mrs. Marilyn Zakos and her husband Paul, started festivities with a turn around the Club Cedars dance floor.

UNICEF Campaign Beginning

The 1970 UNICEF campaign is moving into full swing now as Hallowe'en and the Christmas season move closer on this year's calendar.

The action really begins Oct. 31 when 200,000 Canadian children will visit homes in this country to search out a quantity of one-cent pieces to contribute to the work of the United Nations agency.

Already the new traditional greeting cards perfected for UNICEF are on sale in time for the Christmas season.

In Belleville, Mrs. Joyce Ralph, of 11 Rosewood Drive, has cards available for the city.

Four-car Crash Injures Two

PICTON (Staff) — Picton town police are still sorting out the details of a four-car accident on the town's main street which resulted in minor property damage and two people, sent two persons to hospital.

Danny Calrenos, 18, of Picton suffered a whiplash injury, while Gloria Bonisteel, 19, of RR3, Picton, sustained a back injury.

Police said the four-car mishap occurred about 8:30 Friday morning on Picton at Main Street service station.

Vehicles involved belonged to Mrs. Lois Bonisteel, Bloomfield, Edwin Fraser, RR3 Picton, Arthur Frank, Milford, Inc. and James Handley, RR3 Picton. Damage to the four cars was estimated at $300.

Mahoney To Address Liberals

BATAWA (Staff) — Patrick Mahoney (MP Calgary South) will be guest speaker at a Prince-Edward Hastings Liberal Association function here October 28.

The forty-one-year-old Parliamentary Secretary to Finance Minister E. J. Benson will address the President's Club 100 on a number of contemporary topics including the White Paper on Taxation.

Mr. Mahoney is currently vice-chairman of the House Committee on Transport and Communication and a member of the Committee on National Resources and Public Works.

He is vice-president of the Calgary Stampeders Football Club Ltd. and a past president of the Canadian Football League.

Robert Nixon, Ontario Liberal Leader, has also been invited to the annual club banquet and either he, or one of his lieutenants, will be in attendance.

Air Spotters

Maybe it will turn up something, maybe it will not — but essentially it is all coming too late; the authorities have known of their existence for three years or more, and did nothing.

Now to the FLQ training camps which are said to exist in the Laurentians and the decision to send photo reconnaissance flights over the mountain chain. This is how the United States uncovered the Soviet missile build-up in Cuba — and, well, we wish our people luck. We doubt if they will find any missiles pointing at the heart of Montreal, Ottawa or even cities farther afield, but they might spot some unusual activity, or remote buildings used to house dynamite, arms and ammunition.

Frankly, we suspect that any military ground force making a sweep of the Laurentians would find plenty along these lines. If the army has never conducted any maneuvers in this area, here is an opportunity.

Pedal-Cars!

There is grim — if unwitting irony — in a current radio advertisement for one of the new car products. "There is a (name of car) for all the living you do . . . there is a (car) for you." And all delivered in dulcet tones by some songstress.

The fact is that in Canada some 8,000 people die every year in traffic accidents. In the United States the figure is around 55,000. Apart from accidents, the dependence on cars contributes to the indolence and unfit state of millions of North Americans.

When Dr. Dudley White, the eminent American cardiologist, was in Ottawa recently he went so far as to suggest that man-powered cars are the vehicles of the future. They would cut down city-centre pollution, he said, and offer healthful exercise for the indolent urban dweller.

The 85-year-old Boston heart specialist, who still rides a bicycle, said he is backing efforts to develop a three-or-four-wheeled man-powered car at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

If in this day and age such a vehicle does not seem feasible (one might even regard the idea as preposterous), Dr. White is not worried. "I think it is going to come," he said. "It is the coming vehicle of the future." He said it would be about the size of a well-known European import, running on electricity produced by the pedalling occupant or occupants.

Could it be that we are heading for an age of pedal-vehicles, and hang the need to get there in a hurry? Would it be progress or decline? Is it either that, or slow death from pollution anyway?

Japanese Mosaic

One hundred million people compressed into an area the size of New York State, so crowded that cremation rather than burial, for lack of space, is the norm for citizens who have reached the end of the road. That is Japan, or rather Japan in a nutshell.

But course this pictorial giant-is much more. Where people are concerned it is also crowded cities, and a nation so populous that (as OPP Constable Bill Ryan found on his return to Belleville from Expo) Expo 70's the open countryside and spaciousness of Canada come as a relief.

Yet as Phil Walker indicated in the Kiwanis Club's first-of-the-season travelogue there are also areas of consummate beauty and tranquillity, far from the madding crowd, and many a surprising revelation — in the sphere of Western's 12th for example.

Japanese women we know are no longer the obsequious, unequal people of legend and in one respect at least they are superior to men. We refer to the attractive young women ("sea girls" as they are called) who dive for oyster and shellfish off the coast, and who are predominant in this work because (surprise!) they can stay underwater longer than the men. As in many areas of Japanese life there is an aesthetic ritualism to their work which is pleasing to the Western observer; Clad in colorful national fashion designed to be easily negrate to Japan), they are taken to the fishing grounds in an ancient tug; there they do their thing, clad now in white smocks of all things. The hours are long though in many areas are soon to have a five-day rather than six day week.

But who needs time off from such a healthy, uncomplicated, working day as this? According to Mr. Walker, the women even continue in this work at age 40 and over.

Another interesting facet of Japanese life is an educational system which puts great stress on guided tours for the school kids. The young people, in uniform for the most part, may be seen everywhere and if they have any hangups North American style, they certainly were not apparent in the youngsters we saw in this film. Rather they were fine, healthy, alert looking boys and girls who could be seen in activities ranging from the louts to baseball which, incidentally, was introduced by two americans as far back as the latter part of the last century.

Lucien Saulnier's Information Shrugged Off

Parliament Was Warned of Coming Storm A Year Ago

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — It was not as if the federal Government had not been well and truly warned, long in advance of the terror, that Quebec and all of Canada could be held ransom.

It was not just talk. Or rumor. Not mere gossip. Nor was it the product of jaundiced fear.

It was all documented.

For it was only a year ago — to be precise, Oct. 7, 1969 — that Montreal Executive Committee Chairman Lucien Saulnier brought evidence, bulging briefcases of it, to Ottawa, in the vain hope of persuading the complacent federal Government to investigate subversion, revolution, anarchy and terror then in the making in Quebec.

For three days, Lucien Saulnier and Montreal's chief leading attorney pleaded with a parliamentary committee, citing documented chapter and verse of the coming terror, to do something about it while there still was time.

But a permissive Parliament, those soft-minded MP's — of all parties including, incredibly, the Conservative Opposition — and those Cabinet Ministers who dropped around out of curiosity to hear some of the evidence, refused to open its closed mind.

What Lucien Saulnier was telling them, they smiled at each other with smug, superior, Parliament - knows - best condescension, simply was not believable.

The fact was they did not want to believe it.

For to believe it was to have believed what in their secret hearts was only the cold hard truth — that for some years they had been spending an annual $2,000,000 on the controversial Company of Young Canadians, one of whose members was an agent of anarchy working on the blueprints for revolution, first in Quebec, then worlds all of Canada.

The truth was just too galling for them to face.

They had been on the defensive ever since former Prime Minister Pearson set up the Company which quickly organized cells of militant unrest and violent protest in several sections of the country on the pretext of reform.

With a talent for instant irritation, the Company provoked such official opposition and general community objection on a scale wide enough to be issued provincial government invitations to leave Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

So Ottawa was on the defensive, dug in behind the indictment of government faith that nothing Prime Minister Pearson or his federal heirs might have done in the cause of sweetness and light could go that darkly sour.

But there was the documentary evidence before the parliamentary committee:

A "confidential memo" from a convicted Quebec terrorist and member of the Company of Young Canadians, to all colleagues of conspiracy in the underground of anarchy.

The memo was both sweepingly broad in its scope of terror and precisely detailed in the mechanics of revolution.

It outlined three steps to power. Briefly:

1. Demonstrations, propaganda, political strikes, school strikes, hardcore activist recruitment.*

2. "Organization in high schools, colleges, universities, industrial plants, slum neighborhoods and depressed rural areas of local liberation cells regionally, and finally over the whole national territory."

3. "Armed confrontation between the people and its enemies inseparably military and political in its tactics."

These were — and still are — the mechanics of fear.

And this was called on the broad general principle:

"Like the Black Panthers we must prepare all revolutionaries for the armed struggle through urban guerrilla warfare. We must fight simultaneously against capitalism, Canadian colonialism and American imperialism."

Most of what this terrorist member of the Company of Young Canadians set out in his memo has re-appeared in the so-called "Manifesto" of the FLQ kidnappers.

Both the terrorist in the Company of Young Canadians and the blackmailing kidnappers of the Quebec Liberation Front wore the mask of French-Canadian nationalism.

But it was only a mask, because for both the ideal of Quebec "independence" was less than secondary and the objective that of revolution more than primary.

A year ago, the parliamentary committee took one quick unbelieving look into Lucien's box of bombs and dynamite, kidnappings and deliberate intimidation and extortion slammed it shut. For inside it along with all the larger and heavier was the Company of Young Canadians and the $2,000,000 an incredibly naive and negligent Parliament annually had given it.

Shucks, they comforted each other, only a tiny minority of kids is involved, so why worry; and what is $2,000,000 when there is always more where that came from.

Sternly Lucien Saulnier warned them: "You may feel we have mentioned only a very small number of people. But remember that if you look into the history of revolution in the world you will find only a score of names at the bottom of each one."

Was your MP one of those who did not believe him? Ask that MP if years next time you see him.

Ottawa 1970

Only a short distance away from this scene there are people on Parliament Hill. They are chanting obscenities, flaunting placards and going through the tiresome ritual of latter-day dissent. But here in the Sparks Street mall a young couple stroll along in the mid-October sunshine. The young man's attention has been caught by something across the street but his girl continues her animated conversation. Whatever their own views of Canada's current crisis, they were content on this occasion at least with the familiar pleasure of a quiet stroll and some window-shopping. (Picture by Ian Robertson).

What About Other Employees?

Compensation During A Leave of Absence

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Please permit me to reply to the letter of Two Justified on Oct. 17 in the columns of your paper.

The new hospital administrator is able and competent to carry out the duties and responsibilities connected with his position. In order to financially assist Mr. Rickard, the previous administrator, during his year at university while on leave of absence the board retained his services in an advisory capacity, paying him $400 per month out of public funds. This is a humane and commendable action.

Only one thing comes to mind which would be still more laudable: the board should treat all its employees at the hospital with equal generosity. When a lab technician, who earns only a fraction of the administrators' salary, wishes to take a year's leave of absence to study at university and improve his professional ability and standing, does the board also retain him in an advisory capacity or assist him financially?

I have been told that many subordinate employees of the Belleville General Hospital are among the lowest paid of any hospital of equal size in the province and are trying to organize in order to better their condition. The board may be unaware of this situation and can now act humanely and generously towards them.

In our society we have two standards: one for the persons of wealth, power and influence and another one for the common, ordinary people. Prime Minister Trudeau, dedicated to his ideal of the just society raised the $18,000 indemnity of members of Parliament by $4,000 ($3,000 tax free), or better than 20 per cent. For workers he tried to limit wage increases to six per cent and for old age pensioners justice consists of a two per cent increase. Democracy is based on the principle of equal rights for all citizens, but obviously some people are more equal than others.

* * *

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I have read with interest the letters concerning the furthering of education for a hospital executive in Belleville and the decision made thus by the Board of Governors.

This brings to my mind a sermon delivered by a padre when I was in France. "If faced with a decision just stop and think. What if everybody did it." How would this be open to all employees who wished further education?

We were in France; World War II and mud all over the place, the floor, streets and so on; ceiling of the tent full of shrapnel holes, the dress for Church identical for all members of the congregation —khaki battle dress, Tilley boots, topped off with steel helmet.

The pulpit was a large ammunition box draped with the Union Jack. A very tall substantial-looking padre delivered the sermon to a congregation huddled on long wooden planks. — and the sermon is remembered probably by many more than myself 23 years after the war ended.

It has helped me with many a decision. For instance; I was too tired to make it to church this morning.*—suddenly I hear those taunting words "What if nobody makes it?" Or here it is November 11, drizzly rain and I just cannot get to the cenotaph for the Remembrance Day Service. Once again my brain whispers "What if everybody stays home?! As that padre said for instance "If thinking of going AWOL, stop, think, what if everybody did that!"

Now, in memory of those who made it possible for us to have a choice, to make a decision, I hope you will all wear a poppy this year and attend the memorial service. But for them it might have been different for all of us.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

Winter relief construction work amounting to $45,000 has been suggested in Belleville, according to information which came in now, about a month after the start, the excitement and novelty of new teachers and classrooms have given way to the inevitable drudgery which made Henry Adams remark that "the chief wonder of education is that it does not ruin everybody concerned in it, teachers and taught."

Children are also nearly as cruel as is sometimes said. They do give their teachers the benefit of the doubt at schools. They begin a new term believing that their teacher will be better than last year's: they want to believe that. For a couple of days any teacher can get along on a child's goodwill. But in October reality sets in. Parents who have been through it before come to expect the tears of October as surely as the leaves. Indeed, the seldom moment after supper when the laments of the unfairness and the oppressions of life pour out of the third - grader who a couple days had said his new teacher was "nice" because she didn't give homework.

When the classroom turns out not to be Camelot, the most disillusioned are those who had made the most enthusiastic.

The hard thing is watching school, to use Thoreau's sad metaphor, "make a straight-edged stitch of a broken thread." The quiet, "sensible" child hardly notices the problem kids who monopolize the mind it. But the special one (and for most parents, every child is that) wants to believe his own imagination. He wants life and school to be joyous. When he finds out that much of the time neither are, he can be left over the multiplication table.

The twig has to be bent, and all that. The failure or mother who instinctively takes up the child's side against the teacher is doing both a disservice in the long run. It is pure romanticism to think that little Billy can go through life an unfettered spirit, unbroken to the restraints which are a part of the civilizing process.

Most parents realize this. Yet even when they are sticking up for some unimaginative, heavy - handed teacher or preaching the dull virtue of docility, they wonder what spirit and sparks of individuality are being daily extinguished in the name of education. That is why October is often the cruellest month for parents; not because they make only find the house empty. It is the lingering sadness of watching children by the wisdom of experience.

Mayor George A. Reid received today from the Municipal branch of the Department of Highways. Of this amount the Highways pay 75 per cent. This is equivalent to more than two mills on the dollar of the city's assessment.

At the entrance examinations, Cara Moffatt, a pupil of Tweed Consolidated High School secured the highest marks this year, in Centre Hastings, nd will receive the medal in Belleville during the session of the County Council in December.

School Can Be Oppressive: Honeymoon Period Is Over For the Younger Kids

Ottawa Journal

Only non-parents or inexperienced parents make the mistake of thinking that the first days of school are the crucial ones. There may be a crisis then because of the shyness or homesickness of a four or five-year-old leaving mother for the first time. That's all. The greater trauma of the day after Labor Day is experienced by the mothers and fathers who see their youngest child leave home. Life is never really the same after that, no matter how much some mothers may think they look forward to being "free." A family collectively feels much older.

For most children the telling time is now, about a month after the start, the excitement and novelty of new teachers and classrooms have given way to the inevitable drudgery which made Henry Adams remark that "the chief wonder of education is that it does not ruin everybody concerned in it, teachers and taught."

Leadership Is Way of Life

ENGLEWOOD, N.J. (AP) — Leadership in the Methodist Church has been a way of life for Charles Coolidge Parlin.

So, when the 72-year-old millionaire-lawyer set a precedent recently by becoming the first lay president of the World Methodist Council, it was really no surprise.

Parlin, grey-haired and soft-spoken, was unanimously elected to the post by the council's 89-member executive committee in Geneva. He will fill out the term of the late Bishop Odd Hagen of Sweden.

His principal duty, he said in an interview, will be to organize and preside at the council's assembly in Denver next year. Some 2,000 persons are expected to attend.

But already Parlin is considering an extra activity for the church—a trip to Rhodesia to plead the case of a Methodist bishop whose travel, he contends, has been severely limited by the government.

Parlin's participation in the Methodist Church began years ago in Passaic, N.J., when his father, superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school, first took his four-year-old son to church.

Parlin since has distinguished himself in church activities around the world. He has been a delegate to many Methodist general conferences, a member of the executive of the World Council of Churches, a member of the nine-man delegation of the National Council of Churches which visited the Soviet Union in 1958 at the invitation of the Patriarch of the Russian Orthodox Church, and an observer-consultant to the Roman Catholic congress of the lay apostolate in 1967.

Friends say that Parlin, who will admit with a grin that he is a millionaire—"I have a very lucrative legal practice, what he preaches.

Each year Parlin and his wife, Miriam, give away about 30 per cent of their income—a good deal of it for education.

Parlin, according to traditional Methodism, never smokes or drinks alcohol or serves it in his home.

With a smile he recalled an incident when he thought his practice would prove embarrassing.

Parlin had invited Archbishop Boris of the Russian Orthodox Church to his home, a year after Parlin had been present at a banquet in Moscow in 1958.

Aware that many Orthodox clergy drink wine with their meals, he feared his guest would think he was rude if he did not serve it. Parlin decided he would explain that he belonged to "an old American sect called the Methodists," and it was one of their strict principles that no alcohol be served.

Bright Hymns Sought To Enlighten Theme

NEW YORK (AP) — Church musicologists are looking for bright, new hymns to sound the Christian theme of hope. But many of the current offerings express only a troubled note of gloom.

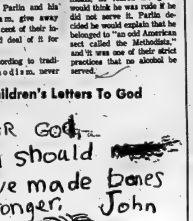
Their mood "suggests a crisis in faith," says Rev. Gilbert R. Dean of the Inter-Lutheran Commission on Worship.

Describing a recent accumulation of 100 new hymns submitted to the commission, he said the predominant feelings reflected were those of "remorse, contrition and penitence."

Preoccupation with those elements lowers "little room for the expression of joy, celebration, gratitude, hope," he added. He said most of the material offered was dogmatic and traditional "Father than personal and contemporary.

The bleak attitude found among church youth groups in America, an interdenominational survey, to carry on a special search for hymns of hope.

"We felt that there was much depression and discouragement in the spirit of the times that we should try to come forward with something that would be more uplifting," says J. Vincent Higginson, the society's president.



He says there has been a lack of hymns of hope in church music, even though the basic message of Christianity is one of trustful assurance in the face of trials and cruel fates.

"It's hard to get something that will really stand up," says Higginson. "It's particularly hard on the youth side—so much of their material just pratfalls away about their woes."

So far, the society has received about 150 entries in its call for hopeful hymns. They won't be evaluated until after the Oct. 31 deadline for submissions.

"In days gone by, there have been some pretty dark and woeful hymns," he says. But he said that the central "good news" of the faith always has characterized the solid enduring classics of church hymnody.

Family Honors Parents On 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Smith, 38 Strachan Street, Belleville, were honored recently at a family dinner held in the Hotel Quinte. Present for the event were a son Howard and his wife of Northport, and their son Jason and a daughter Mrs. Wayne Brough and Mr. Brough of Toronto; also their daughter Mrs. Harold Elmy and Mr. Elmy and their three children, Stephen of R.C. and David and Esther at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were married on Sept. 29, 1928 in Demorestville Methodist parsonage by the late Rev. Rufus Garrett. Their attendants were Mr. Duncan Smith, brother of the bridegroom and Mrs. Smith of Northport. They journeyed to Midland by train and spent their honeymoon with Mrs. Smith's cousin Mrs. A. M. Palmateer and the late Mr. Palmateer.

Mrs. Smith is the former Mary Kerr, only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Morley Kerr and was born near Ivanhoe, Mr. Smith is the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Smith of Chapman's Corners, Hastings County.

On his return from overseas following World War I, Mr. Smith farmed at Northport until 10 years ago when the couple moved to Belleville. Both are active members of the First Pentecostal Church here.

Their eldest grandson Stephen Elmy of R.C., was master of ceremonies at the family dinner and toasts were proposed to the honoured couple. He also read a number of congratulatory messages from various government officials and a plaque was presented by Dr. R. T. Potter on behalf of the Provincial Government.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Previous to her marriage, Mrs. J. A. Hall (nee Alethia May Belcher) was honoured at showers given by Caroline Hall, Marjorie Mumby, Linda Dafoe and by the CGIT group of College Hill United Church.

At a later date the couple was honored at an At Home held at the home of their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elmy where the house was atractively decorated for the occasion. Attending the guest book for the large number of friends and relatives present, was a grandson, David Elmy. Pouring tea and coffee were Mrs. Duncan Smith, Northport and Mrs. Ellwood Kerr of Picton, both sisters-in-law of the bridegroom. Those serving were Mrs. Harold Starks, Mrs. Ed Taylor and granddaughter Esther Elmy.

During the evening Rev. J. O. Moore of Picton spoke briefly and a special request duet was sung by Rev. and Mrs. Melvin Springfield of Picton. Along with a number of other gifts the couple received a beautiful floral arrangement from the Picton church; also from the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Pentecostal Church, Belleville.

Mrs. Smith also received a lovely corsage and Mr. Smith a boutonniere.

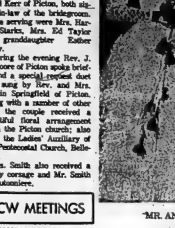
UCW MEETINGS

MOUNT PLEASANT-RAWDON UCW

Bruce Gillies, vice-principal of Quinte Secondary School, Campbellford gave a special message on drugs and alcoholism and passed pamphlets on the subject at the Oct. meeting of the Mount Pleasant-Rawdon UCW. While the church hall with an attendance of 35 people. He was introduced by the convener, Mrs. Douglas Fryear and was presented with a gift by Mrs. Jim Hagerman.

Mrs. Garth Joslin presided over the meeting and the arrangements were made to cater for an auction sale, a wedding and a banquet. The next meeting will be held on November 18. A delegate was appointed to attend the Queensboro UCW rally. Mrs. Milton Shaw, Mrs. William McMinn and the convener assisted with the thanksgiving offering.

During the social hour Mrs. Frank Bailey and Mrs. George Grills provided the refreshments.



Church Groups

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

The fall thankoffering service of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society was held in conjunction with the regular Sunday morning service.

The guest speaker, Rev. Robert K. Anderson gave an inspiring address on missions and the work of a missionary. In his message the speaker gave a clear definition of the meaning of missions and told his audience that a call to missions is a call to a change in one's life. Mr. Anderson is on furlough from Japan where he serves in the Korean Church.

On Saturday evening Mr. Anderson gave a talk on his work with the Korean people in Japan and illustrated his talk with slides. Following this refreshments were served by Mrs. H. Elvidge and her group.

"MR. AND MRS. JAMES A. HALL

Hall – Belcour

Rev. Roy Vessey officiated at the wedding ceremony in College Hill United Church recently when Alethia May Belcour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Belgour, Belleville became the bride of James Arthur Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Hall of Plainfield. Mrs. Carolyn Minion was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white lace featuring a scalloped neckline and long pointed sleeves, with the back of the dress falling into tiers of lace. A tiara headdress was caught to a three-tier veil. She carried a white Bible crested with pink carnations.

Mrs. Donna Hoskins as matron of honor wore a gown consisting of white chiffon top and sleeves, and a maroon velvet sheath skirt. She carried a nosegay of white 'mums and wore matching flowers in her hair. Miss Rowena Fero and Miss Cathy Wickens, cousin of the bride were dressed identically in the manner of honor but with lush green velvet skirts. Both wore 'mums in their hair and carried nosegays of white 'mums.

Best man was Darwin Hoskins, brother-in-law of the bridegroom and the ushers were Richard Hall, brother of the bridegroom and Glen Belcour, brother of the bride.

A reception was held at the Plainfield Community Hall, where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a gold crimplene dress with beaded trim, black accessories and a corsage of silver sparkled 'mums. Assisting, the bridegroom's mother wore a long dress with black accessories and a corsage of white 'mums.

For the wedding trip to points east, the bride chose a purple wool dress with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall will reside at Plainfield RR1.

RAILROAD HOTELS

"History is Railroad" — Thurydides — 471 - 401 B.C.

* * *

Several years ago a summer's morning brought my husband and I to the edge of the magnificent Grand Canyon, and later lunched at the Fred Harvey hotel - restaurant. Later when we arrived in Albuquerque, New Mexico, we noted the historic Fred Harvey Alvarado Railroad Hotel.

"Who," we began wondering, "is Fred Harvey?"

Our question went unanswered — until this morning. Here in a new issue of a favorite magazine is a news item about Fred Harvey, who it seems came to the States from England in 1850, to become a travel-freight-agent for a railroad — and so learned, first hand, how bad food was at train stations.

Mr. Harvey decided to do something about it. He established and opened up little station-restaurants, where passengers could be assured of a good meal. Then in 1870 he opened his first Harvey House Hotel Restaurant. The waitresses were young ladies in long black skirts and white shirtwaists who served excellent food on white linen covered tables. Needless to say the Harvey Houses grew successful, totalling a chain of 50 spread throughout the southwest.

Progress, however, began to increase the train's timetable in speed, so the days became impractical, so Mr. Harvey served food on the train, and the dining cars were ready.

"An important part of the once-day Harvey House history died here in Albuquerque with the recent closing of the Alvarado Hotel," said Fred Harvey Railroad Hotel."

Belleville's Dozter's Hotel, opposite the C.N.R. depot fits into the category of a Canadian Railroad hotel. Writes Mr. A. Mills in the History of Belleville:

"The history goes back to the 1850's when William Dozter operated the Prince of Wales Saloon near the Grand Trunk Railway depot. Also a grocery store attached where provisions could be obtained for the trip. Later in that place accommodated overnight guests, and the establishment was then known as the Prince of Wales Hotel. Later 1886 the hotel has been located at its present site, opposite the railway station. Dozter's Hotel . . . was known for its unwritten law, which permitted no loafers . . . William Dozter himself never took a drink in his own hotel and he saw to it that his guests did not drink to excess at the bar."

Aside from being an original railroad hotel, an aura of local glamor in its own right hovers over it. One of Mr. Dozter's daughters was Anna, who became a companion of Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Cuddery, who lived in Belleville. Later, when they moved to their home in Ventnor, the Isle of Wight, Anna accompanied them. There she was destined to make her home as the dear wife of Mr. Salaman, a resident there.

Upon becoming a widow, and feeling the loss of Mr. and Mrs. Cuddery through their deaths, Anna resolved to return to Belleville to live out the rest of her life.

At the sale of the Cuddery possessions, she had them sent ahead where they arrived safely at their destination in Belleville. But before the preparations necessary for her future were finished, all plans were cancelled for Anna died.

Mrs. Anna Salaman's legacy was bequeathed to the City of Belleville in 1956 and may be seen daily on display with all its beauty and magnificence at the Hastings County Museum at 240 Church Street.

Such are the treasures and momentoes of the past that have come to us by way of what is now Belleville's historic railroad hotel — Dozter's Hotel.

Get Involved, Says Quebec Woman Leader

MONTREAL (CP) — Lise Bacon, at 36 the first woman president of the Quebec Liberal Federation, is determined to prove she can be more than a symbol.

"I'm not a feminist, not aggressive," the dynamic brunette explained during an interview, "but I think I've been way to prove that we can do things as well as men is to get involved."

Miss Bacon, unopposed in presidential nominations this fall, said she was not aware of any hostility toward the idea of a woman leader.

"Perhaps I was too far away at my home in Trois-Rivieres (70 miles northeast of Montreal) to notice . . . but no, I think I would have heard about it.

"There may have been some who regarded me as a symbol—the new look of the '70s, perhaps—as if I was a new person just because I'm now president.

Miss Bacon expresses her ideas freely, in conversation sprinkled with gesture and laughter. Her opinions are given readily as the result of long and careful consideration. She refers constantly to the changes which the 1970s must bring to every facet of life.

For example, she sees changes in store for women's organizations, and particularly the Quebec Liberal Women's Federation of which she has been president for the last three years.

"Our women's workshops will be obsolete in the 1970s. We have to have some influence on the mainstream of thought and policy."

She recognizes that many of the older women in the federation are "a bit scared" of seeing their organizations absorbed or eliminated. But "there must be an evolution of thinking."

Politics have been an obsession for most of her life.

"GET INVOLVED" — Lise Bacon, 36-year-old native of Trois-Rivieres, Que., is the new president — and the first woman to serve in that position — of the Quebec Liberal Federation. Miss Bacon says she is not a feminist, but "I think the best way to prove that we can do things as well as men is to get involved." (CP Photo)

Maid of honor Miss Nancy Williams, sister of the bride wore a floor length gown of midnight blue silk velvet with wrist length Elizabethan sleeves and wedding ring collar and accented with tiny self bows. Her headdress was a matching velvet bow and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and tinted daisies.

Gary Nicholls attended the bridegroom and John Scott ushered the guests.

Mrs. D. Williams and Mrs. H. Reed received the guests at a reception held at the Maple Inn, Bloomfield.

Leaving on the honeymoon trip to points in New York State, the bride wore an avocado ensemble of green suede and leather with a corsage of yellow roses.

On return Mr. and Mrs. Reed will reside in Burlington.

Reed – Williams

MR. AND MRS. HENRY S. REED

The wedding ceremony was performed in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville recently when Susan Donna Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Williams of Oak Hills, Stirling was united in marriage to Henry Stewart Dunlop Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Reed of Belleville, RR1, Dr. H. M. Davis officiated at the ceremony, and wedding music was rendered by S. Alec Gordon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length A-line gown of peau de soie featuring elbow length bell sleeves with imported lace inserts and a boat shaped neckline. The back of the gown was highlighted with a chapel train extending from soft bows at the shoulders and bordered with matching lace and bows. A four-tier bouffant shoulder length veil was caught to a headdress of handmade rosebuds and petals centered with, tiny crystal beads.

Northern Trip Described at Meet

Mrs. M. Welch gave an account of her recent trip to Moosonee through Bancroft, Huntsville, Timmins and New Liskeard, at the Oct. 14 meeting of the Prince Edward-Belleville Ladies' Club held at the recreation centre. Mrs. Welch said she had visited the zoo at New Liskeard and from Cochrane they had taken the train to Moosonee where they visited the Hudson Bay, store.

Mrs. E. J. Morris gave a reading on Canada and the Mayflower. The story of the beginning of the Huron mission was told. Samuel de Chaplain assisted Father Joseph Le Caron, a Franciscan missionary to celebrate on August 12, 1615 the first mass to what is now Ontario.

President M. Henderson welcomed the 38 members and one visitor who attended the meeting and spoke of Al Purdy the poet whose name appears in the novelists' hall of fame. She also read two of his poems.

In charge of the program was the group led by Mrs. M. Welch and Mrs. E. J. Morris.

On Oct. 15, Mrs. M. Welch, Mrs. E. J. Morris and their group enjoyed a bus trip to Ameliasburg museum and dinner at Maple Inn, Bloomfield.

First Clock Works All Made by Hand

The use of a pendulum to regulate clocks was applied in a practical manner in 1658. By 1671 it was discovered that a pendulum 39.19 inches long had a sweep of one second. For the next hundred years most clocks were made to take advantage of this fact. They are now usually known as grandfather or long case clocks.

Clock makers made only works for clocks until mass production was introduced in the industry in the 19th century. Many clocks were "wag-on-the-wall" type set up without a case. If a case was used it was made by a cabinet-maker. Dials were made by dial - makers. If there was engraving on the dial it was done by an engraver, and if it was decorated the painting was done by an artist. Hands were cut by a metal-worker.

Clocks were made to fairly standard patterns conforming to two publications. One was by Alexander Cummings entitled The Elements of Clock and Watch Work Adapted to Practice published in London in 1766 and the other was by Charles Leadbetter, Mechanick Dialling, dated 1773, also published in London.

Clock works were all made there were individual variations, basically clock works were alike. The same situation applied to dials which were brass with a superimposed ring containing the numerals until 1770. Then iron plates painted or enamelled with painted numbers and painted decoration began to appear. After 1827 thin stamped and decorated brass was often used.

Almost at the end of the 18th century painted wooden dials began to appear with clocks with wooden works. The Twins family of clockmakers made clocks of this type in Montreal and the north-eastern United States in the early 19th century.

The clock illustrated was made at the end of the War of 1812 by Aaron Willard of Boston, one member of a famous family of clock-making Willards. The clock is an attempt to make a smaller version of a long case clock which could be securely anchored to the wall.

Aaron's brother Simon achieved fame as the inventor of the banjo clock which he patented in 1802. The reputation of the Willards was so great that many makers marked their clocks "Willard".

Simon and Aaron Willard and Eli Terry peddled their clocks from door to door and served as the models for Judge Haliburton's book, The Clockmaker, or the Sayings and Doings of Sam Slick of Slickville, published in 1838, one of the first books by a Canadian to achieve international success in America.

It is estimated that Simon Willard made 5,000 timepieces, as did his brothers Benjamin and Aaron and Aaron's son Aaron Junior. Distant relatives, Philander and his brother Alexander also made clocks making a total production of upwards of 30,000 clocks of which a large number must survive. The reverse, a lighthouse clock by Simon is quoted at $4,000.

Terry clocks sell for $200 to $500 depending on style and condition. Twin tall case clocks with wooden works are quoted at $250 to $400.

Mountain View W.I.

The Oct. meeting of the Mountain View Women's Institute was held in the home of Mrs. Frank Roblin with 33 ladies present.

Citizenship was the topic of the meeting, with Mrs. Roblin serving as convener. Guest speaker Mrs. Phyllis McIntyre of Belleville discussed her church work in coffee houses in the Toronto, Yorkville, district.

Mrs. Stanley Barber and Mrs. Jay Sprague won the tea towel and tray cloth donated by Mrs. Read of Lancashire, England.

It was reported that the area convention will be held on Oct. 28 and 29 at Club Canada, Belleville.

Following the adjournment of the meeting, lunch was served by Mrs. M. Burkholder and Mrs. S. Johnson.

Real Love Desires Only the Loved One's Joy

By DORIS CLARK

"Love is the most generous of the passions; it is the only one which listens to its dreams the happiness of someone else."

Most of our passions seem to involve behavior which benefits nobody but ourselves. Indeed, some kinds of self-expression — like an uncontrolled temper — do us harm.

Don't misunderstand me. I am not confusing love with that self - centered passion sometimes indulged in all too readily in sex behavior. I'm talking about real love, the kind which desires only the loved one's joy. This is what Shakespeare's "marriages of true minds" is all about. A sort of blending of the heart throbs and hopes of two people.

DORIS CLARK

But this can mean mother love too, or father love. From the moment they set eyes on a newly - born son or daughter, two parents begin the business of giving thought, time, energy, to meeting their little one's deepest needs; helping him to become the very best person he has it in him to become.

If the thoughtful discipline of the parent who yearns to indulge his babe's every wish isn't a token of real love, I don't know what is.

• • •

Dear Doris:—It all started when I met this guy; he's around 20. I took it for granted that he knew how old I was, but he didn't. He thought I was around 17. When my brother told him how old I really was he was terribly shocked. By the way, I'm going to be 13 this winter!

From that night on my brother kept on calling me 12½. And this guy still doesn't believe I'm only 13. When my brother started to say embarrassing things in front of visitors, all I felt like doing was hiding myself, with my face all red with embarrassment.

I don't blame this guy for thinking I'm 17 because other people thought that too. My brother is only 14 if that will help. — Twelve and a Half.

P. S. I've got bad nerves!

Dear Twelve Etc.: The fact that your brother is 14 does help me understand the bad nerves. But your main hangup is that you are not acting your age.

Better see yourself as a junior teen. Remember the make up, don't try to talk sophisticated, and take a look at the way you are dressing. You don't have to go back to being a baby; just get in the same class with boys your own age or a little older.

Then when you get to be really 17, you'll be able to handle being 17 better.

Ann Landers

Wife Excuses Spouse's Bad Memory for Dates

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Poor Rotund Rita — again! Months pregnant and no Mother's Day gift! I have a 10-month-old baby and I qualified for a gift — or at least a card — but I didn't get one either. Did it bother me? Not in the least!

Mike is the greatest guy in the world, he just happens to be no good at this sort of thing.

I am always prepared on Mother's Day, birthday and anniversary with a big beautiful plant, which I order in advance. I don't put a card in it but it comes with it if it came from Mike. I do this not for myself, but for him. I don't want him to be embarrassed about forgetting. In this case family-or-friends come over — and they always do.

ANN LANDERS

This big fat is terrific in the ways that matter. I can afford to overlook his poor memory. Print this, Ann. Some of the "forgotten wives" might feel better if they see it. — THERE WHEN I NEED HIM.

DEAR THERE: What a lovely letter! It's obvious that you are there when he needs you, too! Thanks for a day-brightener. (Take a lesson, brides.)

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS: There seems to be no precedent for this. At least we can't find anyone who knows of one. Our niece was married two weeks ago. The wedding was magnificent. (Three months of elaborate planning — flowers flown in from the Island, everything the bride's parents could think of to make it exquisite.)

Nine days after the ceremony the bride returned home. Her husband is still honeymooning. By himself. No one knows the details but the bride is suing for divorce. Question: What should be done about the wedding gifts? Some of us gave sizeable cheques, which were cashed before the wedding. Your counsel will be appreciated. — STILL NUMB IN SAN MATEO.

DEAR NUMB: The bride is entitled to the wedding gifts if she wishes to keep them. You'll come off looking mean and petty if you ask that your gift be returned. The poor girl is probably miserable and upset and she doesn't need any more aggravation. Forget it.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a junior high school student who needs somebody to figure out something for me. I've got a small allowance and my girl has a big appetite. She is eating herself out of my life.

Eunice is the only girl I like so please don't suggest I switch to somebody who doesn't eat so much. We are both 14 and we walk home from school together. This is when she gets hungry and we have to stop so she can refuel. That chick can put away two hamburgers and a malt with no trouble. There is no way I can get hold of more money. I've asked my dad for an allowance increase to keep pace with inflation and he says he is cutting back on everything and that I will have to do the same.

If Eunice was fat I'd have a talking point but she is skinny as a rail and trying to put on weight. Suggest something please, and remember I like her a lot. — POVERTY IN TOPEKA.

DEAR POV: Level with Eunice. Tell her you can't afford her appetite. If she is unable to make it home without nourishment, suggest she bring an extra sandwich and an apple to school to tide her over.

Points for Parents

Georgie: "Nobody likes me around here and I don't like anybody either. I'm going to run away."

Mother: "Well, I hope you'll come back and see us sometime."

Even though you know your small child will not run far, it's not wise to even indicate you might permit him to leave home. What he really wants to hear is that you want him to stay.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Red Taffy Apples Hit of Neighborhood

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Quite a few years ago you carried a recipe for taffy apples. I can only remember that it called for whole cloves and red food coloring — and that they were a hit if the neighborhood. Would greatly appreciate a copy. — Janet B.

ANSWER: I am glad you asked for many readers will appreciate this at Hallowe'en time.

RED TAFFY APPLES ON A - STICK

10 to 12 wood skewers
10 to 12, med.-size eating apples
3 cups granulated sugar
¼ tsp. cream of tartar
2-3 cup water
1 tsp. lemon juice
15 whole cloves
2 tsps. red food coloring

Stick skewers into stem end of washed and dried apples securely. (My butcher sold me them.) Combine sugar, juice cream of tartar, water, lemon and cloves in thick heavy saucepan (I used my heavy aluminum small pressure cooker.) Stir over heat until sugar dissolves. Add coloring. Boil hard, without stirring, to 300 F. taffy, or hard crack stage. Remove from heat. Skim out cloves. Twist apples in syrup quickly, tipping pan to coat upper shoulders of apples. Set on buttered cookie sheet, far apart, not touching. Use same day as prepared.

I will add Caramel Corn the for it is a favorite with Hallowe'en callers.

CARAMEL CORN

½ cup raw popcorn (makes 2 qts. popped)
1 1-3 cups sugar
1-4 tsp. cream of tartar
5 tbsps. plus 1 tsp. boiling water (exact measure)
1 tsp. butter
1-2 tsp. baking soda

Have popcorn ready-popped in large clean dishpan. Stir together sugar, cream of tartar and water until sugar is dissolved. Boil about 5 min. Do not stir. The instant this turns a gold color remove from heat at once — stir in baking soda and butter and at once pour over hot popcorn in fine stream. Be sure not to burn yourself, but at once toss with 2 forks to coat popped corn. As soon as coated popcorn can be handled lift out handfuls onto sheets of wax paper to cool. Break any kernels apart that cling together. This should be served the day it is made.

Issues Seem Unimportant

Montreal Goes to Polls Amid Trappings of Mini-Revolution

MONTREAL (CP) — An election bracketed by terrorist kidnappings, a political slaying and all the trappings of a mini-revolution will be held in Canada's biggest city Sunday.

If nothing else, the civic election will provide a short breathing spell for nearly two million Montrealers, preoccupied since Oct. 5 with the activities of the violent Front de Libération du Quebec (FLQ).

For some, the climate is not right. The separatist Parti Quebecois, the 255,000-member Confederation of National Trade Unions and the Quebec Civil Liberties Union feel the election should be postponed until voters are cool-headed again.

For others, like Mayor Jean Drapeau, seeking his fourth straight term as chief magistrate, there is no question that the election must be held. Mr. Drapeau is backed in this feeling by the Quebec government.

The issues in the election campaign, probably the most down-played in Montreal's history, seem unimportant. The reform-minded Front d'Action Politique (FRAP) party is busy fighting off accusations that it has links with the terrorist FLQ.

Friday, FRAP filed a $2.5 million damage suit against Mayor Drapeau which says the mayor "knowingly and maliciously" charged FRAP with harboring revolutionaries bent on overthrowing the system.

The indomitable 54-year-old mayor shrugged off the suit at a news conference an hour later, and urged the city's 700,000 voters to return his Civic Party to power.

Mr. Drapeau, mayor from 1954 to 1957 and undefeated since 1960, insisted that he is not using the turbulent situation in Quebec for political ends.

But in this period of trials, any hint of complicity with the FLQ can have a shattering effect on a young political party.

Voters will cast their ballots in a city where public buildings are patrolled by armed soldiers dressed for combat.

Nearly 700,000 persons are eligible to vote, compared with 380,000 in 1960. Polls are open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

In force is the War Measures Act, invoked in Ottawa last week to facilitate anti-FLQ operations.

Still believed in the hands of his FLQ kidnappers is James (Jasper) Cross, British trade commissioner abducted from his home Oct. 5.

And the kidnap-slaying of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte is still uppermost in the minds of all Quebecers.

In this atmosphere, Montrealers will be called upon to elect 46 aldermen to a 52-seat city council after a campaign that has been ho-hum until this week.

Also, they must choose among Jean Drapeau and six politically-unknown aspirants to the mayor's chair.

For the first time in Montreal's history, 18-year-olds will be able to vote if they have lived in the city for at least a year.

Much of this student-youth vote is expected to help FRAP, which has its 'in corner' the Parti Quebecois, citizens' committees, labor unions and even the Quebec wing of the New Democratic Party.

FRAP, largely socialist-leaning, I speaks often of "democratic participation" on the city council. It has 21 candidates in its first electoral test.

Also in the running is the Montreal Party, with 13 candidates, and two splinter groups: The Parti Ouvrier Realiste headed by colorful mayoralty candidate Dr. Claude Longtin, and Reveil de Montreal-Montreal Awakening.

Without a firm power base, these opposition parties are faced by Mayor Drapeau's Civic Party which has benefited from the mayor's popularity since 1928.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I don't think the world should have to face you today—it's in bad enough shape as it is."

Laporte's Political Skills Major Loss for Bourassa

QUEBEC (CP) — The assassination of Pierre Laporte by the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec has struck a heavy blow to Premier Robert Bourassa's five-month-old government.

Mr Bourassa now must try to replace an adviser, parliamentarian and administrator whose experience and ability stood out among the 72 Liberal members of the 108-seat Quebec national assembly.

Mr. Laporte's importance to the government was evident from the night of the April 29 Quebec general election, and it took only one week of the government's first session in power to show his importance in the assembly.

He was absent for the week of the session in June because of the death of his brother, and the experienced parliamentarians of the former Union Nationale government took advantage of his absence to harness the new Liberal ministers mercilessly.

The results were political errors such as Transport Minister Georges-a Tremblay's blurted statement that he believed the new government should give "recognition" in the form of jobs to loyal Liberal party workers.

Mr. Laporte returned to the national assembly the next week, visibly strengthening the new government in the house. His debating skill and quick wit shielded the new ministers from the Opposition's verbal darts, giving them time to learn their jobs.

Gerard-D. Levesque, minister of industry, trade and commerce, was appointed Thursday to succeed Mr. Laporte as house leader, but observers believe it will be some time before he can be as effective as Mr. Laporte.

Mr. Bourassa has said he will announce who will replace Mr. Laporte as labor minister and immigration minister by the first week of November.

Nixon Asks Peaceful Competition

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — With an outward facade of unity that barely covered the disenchantment and frustration within, the United Nations ended its 25th anniversary celebrations today.

The closing ceremonies of the 10-day special session of the 127-country General Assembly came a day after President Nixon delivered a conciliatory speech in which he called for "peaceful competition" between the U.S. and the Soviet Union to promote world peace and progress.

The key passage in the speech, one of the most substantive delivered during a commemorative session marked by disagreement over the Middle East and southern Africa, said:

"In the world today we are at a crossroads. We can follow the old way playing the traditional game of international relations, but at ever-increasing risk. Everyone will lose and no one will gain. Or we can take a road — to join in a peaceful competition, not in the accumulation of arms but in the dissemination of progress; not in the building of missiles but in waging a winning war against hunger and disease and human misery in our own countries and around the globe."

He called on the Soviet Union to join the U.S. in avoiding war in the Middle East and in developing a climate in which nations of the troubled area will learn to "live and let live."

He urged continuation of the Middle East ceasefire and the creation of confidence in which peace efforts can go forward.

To some the speech indicated a turn in the downward direction of U.S.-Soviet relations that had been in evidence of late. Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko, who talked with Nixon in Washington Thursday, sat through the speech and quietly applauded afterward.

Nixon's speech was in stark contrast to one that Gromyko delivered Wednesday blaming the U.S. and Israel for cessation of Middle East peace talks.

Police Depending Heavily on Public Tips around the building of the Royal Montreal Regiment.

Authorities said it was "to protect army vehicles from the public."

"It is just an increased security measure so people can't get too close to the building or too near the trucks," a spokesman said.

Police who issued pictures of the wanted men to television stations as well as newspapers depend heavily on public co-operation in their search.

A spokesman said 1,700 "information" calls had been received since the Cross abduction Oct. 5.

However, such telephone tips had dropped in the last few days to 25 from a daily total of about 200.

Provincial police said that up to late Friday night 107 of the 341 persons arrested under the severe War Measures Act had been released.

The act, which gives authorities extraordinary powers of search and arrest, is being used to pick up known members of the now-outlawed FLQ, sympathizers and others.

"These figures are not accurate because we are still-availing word from some of our 100 stations across the province," a QPP public relations official said.

Some of those arrested told Friday of their confinement.

Dr. Henri Bellemare, chief internist at Sacred Heart Hospital, Jean Roy, a printer, and Ronald Labelle, a photographer, were picked up in dawn raids Oct. 16, shortly after the War Measures Act was proclaimed. They were released Thursday without being charged.

Dr. Bellemare and Mr. Roy are aldermanic candidates for the Front d'Action Politique, a socialist-leaning party which opposes Mayor Jean Drapeau's Civic Party in Montreal elections Sunday.

Mr. Labelle had photographed French-Canadians at a Palestinian guerrilla training camp last June.

All three described their strictly imprisonment as a psychological shock but they said they were not ill-treated.

They complained that they were not allowed outside contacts during their detention.

Earlier this week, Justice Minister Jerome Choquette said relatives or friends of those detained had been notified although there was administrative confusion in Quebec City. Claude Samson, a lawyer picked up in the Oct. 16 dawn raids, said after his release that the QPP had prepared a list of 600 persons in that area for possible detention.

Mr. Samson, released earlier in the week, also said he had been well treated but he had heard cries from other prisoners during their confinement.

He identified one of his fellow prisoners as Jacques Poitras, a laborer, and the other as a professor of philosophy at University of Quebec.

The lawyer said he suspected his own detention was because he had defended persons facing charges connected with demonstrations.

So thorough is the search for the terrorists' lair that fighter-bombers have been used.

However, fog Friday forced cancellation of reconnaissance by CF-5s from the air base at Bagotville, Que.

The planes have been photographing the forested hills and farmland for signs of unusual activity that would indicate a woodland hideout for the kidnappers.

Meanwhile, Montrealers looked forward to their first civic election in four years.

The kidnappings took away much of the play from campaigning aldermanic candidates but in the last few days election fervor reappeared.

It was marked by controversy over a statement made by Mayor Drapeau and a threatened law suit.

FRAP took out $3,600,000 in writs against the mayor claiming damages on behalf of itself and its 21 candidates for a statement in which the mayor is said to have linked the party with the terrorists.

We've done our thing. Now you can do yours.

Our thing has always been to make the Bug solid, dependable and practical.

But lately, some people have been taking our thing, and doing their own. (Like adding cute flowers and kinky paint jobs.)

Frankly, we're delighted.

And what's more, we'd like to offer a few suggestions: like snazzy mag wheels, chrome stoneguards, driving lights, or our racy racing stripes. (You can get them at any VW dealer's.)

The beauty of it all is, that now you can take an old Beetle and put it back in the groove, or do some far out things to a new one.

We've always built the Volkswagon tough enough to survive anything anybody or any place could dish out.

Now it looks like it will even survive a whole new generation.

Played Under Protest

Terriers Win Wild 3-1 Game—Maybe

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

Fans attending last night's Senior A hockey contest between Orillia Terriers and the Belleville Mc-Hawks could be excused for leaving the arena wondering if they hadn't instead invaded a meeting of the Marlost Street Horticultural Society.

To begin with, there was referee Sandy Procter, who gained a fine crop of "treebark" with a third period call that could very well end up costing Belleville goalie Bob Moon some "cabbage."

Adding some fuels to the thriving agricultural scene was Orillia goalie Gerry McNamara, whose "rabbit ears" got him involved in several brushes with the Belleville fans.

And finally after witnessing the successful endeavors of their fellow "gardeners", Belleville's Ralph Plane and Orillia forward Dave Nicholishen decided to get into the act by just plain raking ball.

The wild finish all but obscured what was undoubtedly the finest hockey game played in Belleville for quite some time as the league-leading Terriers emerged with a 3-1 victory. Or did they?

The fireworks started at 12:32 of the third period when Orillia's Bob Cunningham blasted a 30-foot drive past a prone Bob Moon, who had made two previous stops on the play.

The Belleville goalie then charged out to argue with Procter, claiming that he had been pinned under an Orillia forward in the goal crease. While the free points of Moon's argument may have eluded Procter, the fact that the irate netminder bumped him in the argument certainly didn't.

Moon was awarded a match misconduct, which carries with it an automatic five minute penalty meaning that the Mc-Hawks would be shorthanded for most of the remaining time.

The remainder of the game was then played under protest, since the Belleville management claimed that a match penalty can only be assessed when there is a deliberate attempt to injure someone.

The protest and penalty measures along with the final outcome of the game will have to come before the OHA officials for a ruling.

After a 15-minute delay in order to allow Steve Rexe, who had come to blows with the Mc-Hawk management before the game, time to even.

Procter, further incensed the crowd when play resumed, by awarding the Mc-Hawks a bench penalty for too many men on the ice at 18.01.

During the further delay caused by fans throwing debris on the ice, McNamara became incensed with some hecklers in the crowd and had to be restrained from climbing into the stands to do battle.

Plane and Nicholishen tangled with one minute and twenty seconds remaining in the game with both drawing major penalties from the fracas.

Gary Milroy scored late an empty Belleville net at 19.56 after Rexe had been lifted for a fourth attacker.

The first two periods gave no indication of the frantic finish as the teams played fast-skating close checking hockey with only two penalties and very few stoppages of play.

Coach Dave Jones was highly pleased with his team's showing. "If they play like that for the rest of the season, we are not going to lose many more hockey games," he noted.

Belleville stuck to their game plan of forechecking the potent Orillia attack and the moves paid off, especially in the opening period when they kept the Terriers bottled in their own end for much of the 20 minutes.

Despite the fact that the Mc-Hawks poured 19 shots on the Orillia goal, bad bounces, fine goalie play and good goaltending by McNamara combined to thwart their scoring efforts.

Tom McCarthy tallied the only goal of the first frame drubbing back from Bob Moon's pads when he was left unopposed in front of the Belleville goal.

The lapse was one of very, very few the Belleville defence, which played a strong game, particularly the veteran tandem Lou Kazowski and Lionel Boily.

Dave Miller, who played a strong two way game last night, got the Mc-Hawks on the scoresheet early in the second period. The lanky right winger carried the puck down the Orillia blueline, used the defences as a screen and beat McNamara with a low, 7-footer, high to his glove side.

Moon played a strong game in the Belleville net before his ejection, turning aside 28 sohts in the first two periods.

Punch Proving Predictions As Sabres Down Detroit 4-3

Punch Imlach's a firm believer in positive thinking. He practises it.

Before the season started, the loquacious leader of Buffalo Sabres was already celebrating a playoff spot for his expansion-ist misfits in the National Hockey League's established East Division.

He rubbished those who were wide enough to remark that Imlach was probably talking through one of his celebrated fedoras.

The 11-year veteran of NHL coaching ranks with Toronto Maple Leafs, winner of four Stanley Cups, shot back with statistics, rolling out names of nearly 200 prospects, most of whom had been scouted by at least two Sabre scouts.

"We'll be there to be counted," remarked Imlach to any who would listen.

Seven games don't make a season, but the Sabres now share fourth place in the division with another newcomer to the NHL this year, Vancouver Canucks.

The Sabres and Canucks reached their lofty positions Friday night, Buffalo tripping Detroit Red Wings 4-3 while the Canucks battled St. Louis Blues, last year's West Division champs, to a 1-1 tie.

In the only other game, Pittsburgh Penguins emerged from the winless ranks with a 3-1 victory over California, leaving the Golden Seals the only NHL team without a win.

The Sabres' victory, their second of the season (they also have a tie) and first ever against an East Division club, was ignited by Ron Andersen's 58-footer while his team was shorthanded.

The clearing-type shot eluded rookie Jim Rutherford in the Detroit goal at 13:46 of the third period and followed by 3¼ minutes Buffalo's tying goal by Cliff Schmautz.

The teams traded first-period goals before Detroit moved into a 3-1 lead in the second period. Detroit's veteran captain, Alex Delvecchio, scored his 389 regular season goal before 18,008 Buffalo fans.

At Vancouver, playing in front of 15,351, the Canucks snagged a scoreless deadlock with Wayne Maki's fourth goal of the season at the 6:30 mark of the second period.

The lead stood until early in the third when veteran Jim Roberts tallied for St. Louis after rapping it behind veteran goalie Charlie Hodge when he was left uncovered in front of the Vancouver net.

Goalie Charly Hodge of Vancouver and Ernie Wakely of St. Louis were outstanding, particularly in the latter stages of the game as the offences of both teams unleashed their heavy shooters. Each goaltender was credited with 29 saves.

The tie was the second in a row for St. Louis and left them in a first-place tie in the West Division with Philadelphia Flyers.

Third-period goals by Ron Stock and Ken Schinkel snapped a 1-1 tie at Oakland and sent the Golden Seals reeling to their sixth loss of a winless season broken only by a 2-2 tie with St. Louis earlier in the week.

Schock scored while the Penguins were short-handed at 5:24 of the third period and Schinkel cashed in the insurance tally four minutes later.

Chuvalo Retains Canadian Crown

HAMILTON (CP) — John L. Smith, 28, 196 pounds, who fights under the name of Tommy Burns, was marked only by anger Friday night after his first—and likely only—shot at the Canadian heavyweight title ended in a hammering two minutes and 40 seconds.

World-ranked George Chuvalo, the Canadian title-holder, decked Burns twice in the opening round of their scheduled 15-round championship bout.

Burns went down from a right to the kidneys the first time. A punch which followed a flurry of 12 straight shots to the body. The second time, he hung on under a barrage of rights and lefts to the mid-section and fell from a right to the head.

Burns got up, but referee Tony Brandino was raising Chuvalo's hand and declaring a technical knockout.

In his dressing-room after the fight, Burns stood naked and almost alone.

"Look at me. Not a mark. The original plan was for me to move for the first three rounds. I realized after two that I couldn't make that work, so the idea was that I would come out for the second round and slug it out."

For Burns, who was nearly 30 pounds lighter than the champion, there was no second round.

"I was hosed. They shouldn't have stopped it. Never one of his punches hurt me. The referee started giving me static for leaning on him. Then he warned me for butting—how could I butt him? I'm three inches taller than he is."

Smith—or Burns—is Irish-born and lived in Hamilton and Vancouver before moving to Prince George, B.C. He claims 20 pro fights and 15 victories.

His is a rushing style. About 18 months ago he was disqualified for bicking Cliff (Tiger) Williams in the first round. Last June his fight with Bobby Woods was declared no contest in the first round after Burns flattened his opponent and kicked him.

He has fought a few near-greats such as Mac Foster of Fresno, Calif., and Tony Doyle of Tacoma, Wash., losing both.

And he wants another shot at Chuvalo.

"I'll kill him. They told me this guy could hit. He can't punch at all. I was worried for nothing. I got beat by the ref."

Over in the Chuvalo dressing-room, things were quieter and much more crowded. The champ was in the shower and manager Irving Ungerman was doing the talking.

"We wanted the fight to end as fast as possible. The way the kid was rolling his head, we were afraid of cuts from head butts.

"We've got a fight—a non-title go—in Montreal against Tony Ventura of Miami, Nov. 5. Ten rounds at the Forum. George needs a few warmup bouts. Then, maybe! in five or six months we go for a big one. It's up to George. There have been overtures to match him with Sonny Liston."

Clay Favoured Despite Lay-off

ATLANTA (AP) — There is the question of whether Muhammad Ali has retained the speed and condition he had when he ruled the boxing world. But, there is no doubt he still has his confidence and voice.

"People in Moscow want to know about me and beer what I got to say," said the deposed heavyweight champion of the world two days before his scheduled 15-round bout with Jerry Quarry.

The fight at the 5,000-seat Atlanta Municipal Auditorium will be Ali's first since stripped of his title after being convicted in 1967 of refusing induction into the U.S. Army. And, although he says he's more interested in a bodies recognize Joe Frazier as champion, there are some observers who feel Monday's fight is the first real title fight in more than three years.

One of those is Quarry, who lost to Frazier by a seven-round knockout. He's (Ali) never had the title in the ring," said Quarry.

"I'm the retired champ; Joe Frazier's the active, recognized champion," said Ali, who hasn't fought since he knocked out Zora Folley in seven rounds March 22, 1967.

The trouble with the draft—the conviction is still being appealed—has dissipated Ali's popularity, and the man who was an Olympic champion about the name of Cassius Clay is well aware of this.

"Sure, some people gonna look to see me get beat," he said.

But the long layoff for Ali, the fact that Quarry is three years younger and is tough, has not kept Ali from being rated a 7-to-5 favorite. Early Las Vegas odds had Ali on top at 3½ to 1 but there did not seem to be much gambling interest.

Ali is expected to go into the fight at 10:45 p.m. EST, weighing between 210 and 218 pounds. Quarry probably will weigh about 198.

They might want to hear about Ali in Moscow, but there has been some reluctance to pay $100 to see him in the Municipal Auditorium. The tickets are scaled from $15 to $100 and there still are some $100 to be sold.

But the live gate revenue is just a drop in the bucket compared to what the promoters expect to gain from the closed circuit television of the fight.

There are 900,000 closed circuit television seats available in the United States, and the fight also will be seen on closed circuit in Canada, Europe, Asia and South America.

Clay is guaranteed $200,000 against 45¼ per cent of the ancillary rights. Quarry's guarantee is $150,000 against 22½ per cent.

Boston Bounces Royals

Boston's Minutemen were running on time . . . and time ran out on the Cincinnati Royals.

Boston copped a furious comeback in the closing seconds, with Don Nelson contributing a key, three-point play, and the Celtics went on to beat the Royals 131-126 in the National Basketball Association Friday night.

The Celtics trailed virtually all the way until Nelson's bucket snapped a tie with 11 seconds on the clock. He then put in the clincher on the free throw, his 20th point of the game.

In other NBA games, Baltimore Bullets bounced New York Knicks 98-82; Philadelphia beat Los Angeles 127-122; Seattle crushed Portland 141-111 and Phoenix beat Cleveland 126-116.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana trimmed Texas 122-118; Pittsburgh turned back Denver 127-122 and New York Nets ran over Carolina, 117-97.

John Havlicek topped the Boston scoring with 27 points and Dave Cowens contributed 20. Tom Van Arsdale led the Royals with 25.

Baltimore went 6¼ minutes without a field goal in the final quarter but rallied in the last three minutes for their victory over the Knicks.

Barrie Flying

In Friday OHA Senior A play, Barrie Flyers beat Oakville Oaks 2-1 in overtime. Gus Hornets edged Kingston Aces by the same score, and Owen Sound Greenshirts defeated Woodstock Athletics 3-2.

John McMillan broke a 1-1 tie with 44 seconds of play remaining in the 10-minute sudden-death overtime period. Charlie Cipolla scored first for the Oaks midway in the second period.

Pete Panagabko tied the score 1-1 for the Flyers less than five minutes later.

Two goals 39 seconds apart midway in the third period at Kingston gave Galt Hornets their decision over the Aces. Bill Fleay tied the score and John Beechey fired the winner. Peter Ford gave the Aces the lead with a first period score.

A third-period score by defenceman Mickey Kay gave Owen Sound its first win of the season in four starts.

Woodstock twice held one-goal leads as Gene McLaren scored both home side goals. Mickey Donaldson and Dave McComb scored the other Owen Sound goals.

German Equestrians Ride to Easy Victory

HARRISBURG, Pa. (CP) — The strategy worked with military precision and the West German equestrian team made it look easy in winning the Nation's Cup at the 25th Pennsylvania National Horse Show.

"You might say we planned it that way," said veteran German coach Gustav Pfordte. "Our horses were well rested and they came through exactly as we expected."

"We figured to have the team championship won by Thursday, and that happened too," Pfordte said after Friday night's Nation's Cup competition. "But the Nation's Cup was the one we really pointed for."

Three of the German horses which competed Friday had been in the barn since Tuesday. On three occasions during the week, the Germans sent out only two riders. They still managed to win seven firsts, three seconds, two thirds and two fourths in rolling up a 110-36 points lead over second-place Canada.

The United States is third in team standings with 34 points followed by Ireland with 22. The Germans have won all but one of the individual titles with one more night of competition remaining.

This was the fourth Nation's Cup won by West Germany this year. Last year they captured six en route to the President's Cup, symbolic of world equestrian supremacy.

The Germans' performance was almost flawless Friday as they became the first foreign team to win the Nation's Cup here since 1960.

The four-man German team hit only one rail in two trips over the 13-jump course. The United States finished second, followed by Canada, Ireland and Mexico.

Germany's Lutz Merkel and Hartwig Steenken each made only two flawless rides. Hans Gunter had one.

Mets Cold at Hot Corner Despite 42 Player Changes

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Forty-one third basemen have come and gone in the nine adventurous seasons that New York Mets have spent in the National League. Next February, the Mets will try No. 42.

The Mets' expected winter house cleaning began Friday with the outright sale of third baseman Joe Foy to their Tidewater farm team in the International League.

Foy was the man New York had expected to solve its lagging third base problem when he was acquired last winter from Kansas City Royals for outfielder Amos Otis and pitcher Bob Johnson. But the deal backfired with Otis batting a disappointing .236. He also committed 19 errors.

So another new man, probably highly-touted rookie Tim Foli, will inherit the third baseman's job next spring and the Mets hope they'll have more success the 43rd time around.

There was a flurry of minor trades and player transactions Friday as major league teams adjusted their rosters in anticipation of next month's winter meetings at Los Angeles.

Foy's slot on the Mets' 40-man roster was taken by pitcher Tommy Joe Moore, who was purchased from Tidewater. A converted outfielder, Moore was 3-8 for New York's Pompano Beach, Fla., farm club.

Milwaukee Brewers sent three players including veteran catcher Gerry McMertney, to St. Louis Cardinals for pitcher Rudy Otilikyman Carl Taylor and pitcher Jim Ellis.

McMertney hit .243 for the Brewers last year. Also moving to the St. Louis organization in the deal are pitchers George Lauzerique and Jesse Huggins.

Taylor, who came to the Cards from Pittsburgh Pirates last winter, batted .249 in 24 at-bats.

Milwaukee also traded lefthanded pitcher Gary Timberlake to Oakland Athletics for third baseman Bill McNulty. Both spent last year in the minors, McNulty batting .295 for Iowa of the American Association and Timberlake 4-3 with Jacksonville of the International League.

Washington Senators picked up Rich Scheinblum, a longtime Cleveland prospect, from Wichita of the American Association for cash and a minor league player to be named.

Scheinblum hit .337 with 24 homers and 84 runs batted in for Wichita last season. To make room for him, the Senators sold pitcher Cisco Carlos to Denver of the American Association.

The World Champion Baltimore Orioles made their first post-season player move, selling relief pitcher Al Severinsen to San Diego Padres. Severinsen was 4-6 with Rochester and led the International League with 22 saves last year.

Atlanta Braves placed veteran outfielder Jimmie Hall on waivers and added two young pitchers, Dick Great and Tom Kelly. Hall batted .213 in 37 games for the Braves after being acquired from Chicago Cubs last June.

Chicago White Sox sent to Tucson of the Pacific Coast League pitcher Don Secrist, shortstop Jim Redmon and first baseman Ossie Blanco, and called up pitchers Dennis Deck, Ken Frailing and Stan Perzanowski.

New York Yankees purchased outfielders Rich Scheinblum and assigned Tim O'Connell and Rusty Torres to the International League team.

Detroit Tigers sold outfielder Wayne Redmond to Philadelphia Phillies for an undisclosed amount of cash, and the Phillies assigned pitcher Bill Laxton outright to Eugene, Ore., of the PCL.

Script Still Same For B. C. Lions

For British Columbia Lions, the opposition and years have changed, but the objective and script are still the same.

The Lions, who clinched a playoff berth last October with a key victory over Edmonton Eskimos, will be in Calgary Sunday for a Western Football Conference game against the Stampeders.

Weekend action opens tonight in Edmonton with the Eskimos battling last-place Winnipeg Blue Bombers. The Eskimos could extend their six-game winning streak and spread the second place for their best finish since 1961.

Edmonton, eight points behind the pennant-winning Saskatchewan Roughriders, holds second place with 18 points. Calgary is third with 14 points, two more than B.C.

The Lions are in the same fix as they were last year when they defeated Eskimos 17-14 in Vancouver to grab a share of third. The teams then split their two remaining games enabling B.C. to advance to the playoffs because of two wins and a better goal in regular-season play with Edmonton.

They face a similar situation against the slumping Stampeders, with two wins in their last six starts.

If B.C. wins Sunday and both teams lose their final game the following weekend, Lions could earn a playoff berth because of a 2-1 record against the Stampeders.

Calgary won 16-8 at home earlier this year before losing 27-13 to B.C. in Vancouver.

Calgary coach Jim Duncan says the Lions' record of one win in their last six games doesn't mean a thing.

"They're not that easy to beat, with guys like Jim Evenson, Vic Washington, Jim Young and A. D. Whitfield.

"They've been making physical mistakes, just like we've been doing."

Jackie Parker, B.C. head coach, says:

"It's the game of the year for us. If we win it, we've got an excellent chance of making the playoffs. If we don't we're out. It's as simple as that."

A possibility of three Canadian Football League records and a head-on battle for the WFC rushing race share the secondary feature at Calgary.

Stampeders' Larry Robinson of Stampeders needs a field goal to break Don Sutherin's record of 116, and two converts to set a CFL mark of 370.

Four punt return for Jim Sibbyle, Calgary's backup split end, would give him a CFL record of 1,000 yards and team-mate Rudy Linterman who set the mark in 1968.

Rookie fullback Hugh McKinnis of Calgary will be out to add to his total of 981 carries in 178 carries. Jim Evenson of the Lions is second with 959 yards after 194 carries.

In Edmonton, safety John Wydarency could set a CFL record for interceptions if he picks off one against the Bombers. He shares the season record of 11 with Sutherin.

Rookie Larry Lawrence will call the signals for Calgary Sunday. The game will be televised on the—CTV western network starting at 3 p.m. MST.

Veteran Jerry Keeling, who spent 13 days in hospital with a crushed ribs and bruised kidney, has been working out with Stampeders but likely won't see action until Nov. 9 when Calgary plays it's final game in Winnipeg.

The Edmonton-Winnipeg game will be televised on the CBC western network starting at 8 p.m. MST.

Sudden Death for Big Four

Sunday's Eastern Football Conference game at Hamilton shapes up as a sudden death clash between two or the three clubs battling for the conference lead. The loser can forget about first place.

Toronto Argos hold a statistical edge in their two previous meetings with the Tiger-Cats this year, winning 31-14 and a wide, margin in total offence—464 to 450.

But Hamilton coach Joe Restic has a philosophical appraisal of statistics.

"You can take statistics and make them prove anything," said the Tiger-Cats' mentor Friday, "but the only statistic that counts is winning or losing.

"Right now we're 7-5 and so is Toronto."

Local bookmakers have made the Argos four-point favorites for Sunday's game, to be carried on the CTV's eastern network starting at 2 p.m. EST.

Sunday's game is the first time in history they've swept three games in a season from the Ticats.

An expected record crowd of 32,300 will also see a matchup of the two teams' Shenley award nominees when Argos' Jim Coffey, Hamilton's pass catching-placekicking artist, attempts to elude Argo rover Mary Luster.

In another weekend game, Ottawa is at Montreal today. Last year's Grey Cup champion Rough Riders already have been eliminated from EFC playoffs this year.

Ottawa coach Jack Gotta says his ex-champs "have a lot of pride and I'll be watching this game the same way I would if it was the first one of the season."

Gotta said the 'Riders' final two games will enable some players who had disappointing seasons to play themselves back onto next year's team.

He plans only one change in the starting lineup that last last weekend to Hamilton, inserting Canadian rookie Terry Wellesley at halfback to replace injured Gene Wren. Wren and Charles Leigh, both new to the Ottawa backfield, managed only 40 yards rushing against the Ticats.

Montreal's main obstacle will be stopping Ottawa's Hugh Oldham.

"We'll probably try a little more man-to-man coverage this time," said Als coach Sam Etcheverry of Oldham, the Rough Riders' speedy wide receiver. "There's no question he's been tough this year—10 touchdowns worth."

Social Programs Not Working

Despite Economic Growth, Anxiety Said Gripping Country

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — The "blind drive" for economic growth is ripping Canada's social and cultural fabric more quickly than it can be mended, Reuben Baetz, executive director of the Canadian Welfare Council, said Friday.

In spite of the country's tremendous economic growth, a feeling of anxiety has become all-pervasive and youth are among its greatest victims, Mr. Baetz told a conference sponsored by the Ontario Welfare Council and the Ontario department of social and family services.

Mr. Baetz said drastic measures taken by the government under the War Measures Act were "temporary, necessary and stern steps to deal with the ugly symptoms of a serious disease."

What is of far greater importance is whether these recent events will lead us to deal more vigorously with the social and economic conditions—with the disease itself, which leads to hopelessness and despair, to bitterness, and on to terrorism and violence."

Men's skills became useless before they reached retirement age. Adults had to be retrained and frequently relocated. Those too old for retraining had to be retired.

Anxiety resulted in the flight of youth in growing numbers to the temporary comfort, security and euphoria of drugs and their refusal to respond in the predicted way to "the carefully planned persuasion of the style-and-custom makers."

The aged were channelled out of society's mainstream and the constant stimulation for ever-higher economic growth had created strains on family life.

Mr. Baetz said more adequate steps had to be taken for a better redistribution of income.

He said most of the country's costly social security programs were never designed to help those who need it most. The $320 million tax-free family allowances program was a classic example.

He suggested that a negative income-tax system would provide most help to those in greatest financial need. A federal negative income tax applied across Canada could also guarantee geographic equity, now impossible largely because welfare is a provincial responsibility.

Attorney-General Still Boss Robarts Explained

TORONTO (CP) — Premier John Robarts warded off opposition questions in the legislature Friday and said the attorney-general is responsible for the administration of justice in the province, in co-operation with the RCMP.

Opposition critics had suggested that a statement Thursday by Attorney-General Arthur Wishart on the recently-invoked War Measures Act placed the enforcement of the act upon the RCMP with the province not sharing in the responsibility.

"The attorney-general is responsible for the administration of justice in this province and he is not trying to avoid that responsibility," Mr. Robarts said. "He is not in any way trying to slide it off to someone else."

Mr. Wishart told the house Thursday that Crown attorneys had been advised that counsel appointed by the federal justice department would represent the Crown in any prosecutions under the act.

Mr. Wishart also said that all police forces in Ontario had been advised that primary responsibility for enforcing regulations under the act rested with the RCMP but that he was to be informed of all cases arising under the act.

James Renwick (NDP—Toronto Riverdale) accused Mr. Wishart of abdication of responsibility. Friday, Liberal Leader Robert Nixon asked Mr. Robarts to clarify the government's position.

Mr. Roberts said Mr. Wishart's remarks had been misinterpreted. He said the attorney-general had been trying to convey the idea that Ontario and the police forces in its jurisdiction were expected to co-operate with the RCMP in enforcing the emergency measures regulations.

In other business Friday:

—James Renwick (NDP—Toronto Riverdale) urged the government o purchase the vacated Dunlop of Canada plant and let is downtown Toronto as a site for a new housing construction. He said the 6.6 acres of land, including the building, has been put up for sale for $1.8 million.

Guidelines from Ottawa Asked

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — The federal government should provide guidelines for future direct foreign investment in Canada, the Ontario minister of tourism and information said Friday.

James Auld said the guidelines should make clear that foreign-owned companies, either situated in Canada now or in the future, "must be subject o Canadian laws and Canadian interests."

However, Mr. Auld said in a speech prepared for delivery at the opening of the Brockville campus of St. Lawrence College of Applied Arts and Technology, it is unreasonable to turn economic nationalism into anti-Americanism.

"If our independence is built merely upon anti-English, anti-French or anti-Americanism, then our independence is not more viable nor more stable than a banana republic," he said.

"It is for Canadians today to decide the policies which can balance the need for foreign investment with a desire to maintain our economic sovereignty. These policies cannot be developed in an atmosphere of hysterical emotionalism under the disguise of Canadian nationalism."

A text of the address was issued in advance of delivery.

Arrow Called Substandard Tramp

OTTAWA (CP) — The oil tanker Arrow, which brought a pollution crisis to the coast of Nova Scotia last winter, was an ancient, substandard tramp of a sort which it will be possible to ban from Canadian waters in future, Transport Minister Don Jamieson told the Commons Friday.

Mr. Jamieson's description of the Arrow came as an almost unnecessary illustration of the need for his bill to protect Canadian waters from oil pollution. No sooner than had the minister opened debate on second reading of the legislation that he was given full assurances of support from both Conservatives and New Democrats.

Mr. Jamieson said the legislation, introduced in the Commons earlier in the week as a series of amendments to the Canada Shipping Act, will enable the government to ban from Canada ships which fail to meet a detailed set of standards.

It would also, the minister said, "make the shipping community much more conscious of what I contend is its fundamental and basic responsibility."

Provisions for insurance coverage and for fines of up to $100,000 for failure to obey the law would end "any inducement for those who want to exploit the shipments of oil and the like to the maximum degree to use rotten or rusty tubs in which to carry this highly dangerous and highly polluting substance."

Mr. Jamieson added that he was particularly pleased with a part of the bill covering loss of income by fishermen as a result of pollution. The fishermen would be able to recover their losses from a maritime pollution fund built up through a levy of 15 cents a ton on oil cargoes.

Over-all, Mr. Jamieson said, the new legislation goes much farther than any other country's in order to protect the nation's coast.

"I make no apologies for that," Mr. Jamieson said. "We have seen historically the fact that the law of the sea generally has been in favor of the shipping community."

"I believe it is high time that we reversed that circumstances and attempted at least to correct the balance somewhat in our own account and in our own interest."

First to offer a general endorsation of the legislation was Gordon Aiken (P C—Parry Sound-Muskoka). His one reservation was that it might not go far enough.

Mr. Aiken was concerned in particular that the government might need more authority to take immediate action in the event of future pollution crises such as the wreck of the Arrow.

Accord also came from Mark Rose (N D P—Fraser Valley West).

One note of dissent was entered by James McGrath (PC—St. John's East). Mr. McGrath said Canada's failiire to reach an agreement with France about fishing zones left unprotected the waters off the south shore of Newfoundland. The bill applies to territorial waters and fishing zones.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Among those who attended the plowing match, near Lindsay, during the past week, were Mr. and Mrs. Austin Dunk, Mr. and Mrs. Paul McKeown, Mr. and Mrs. Jack. Spencer and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Reid and Messrs. Eldon Anderson and David Wildman.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Reid, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Gunning of Tweed at a dinner in honor of their daughter, Miss Diane Gunning, Hastings County Dairy Princess, on Saturday evening.

Crisis Not Yet Over

The Winner?

PARIS (CP) — Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa says the terrorism crisis in his province, although not over yet, has shown that public opinion is nearly unanimous in support of the democratic system.

This in Knell provides grounds for optimism, the premier said in an interview published in the Paris newspaper L'Aurore.

"It indicates that there will be greater vigilance in future on the part of citizens, and this enables us to look to the future with optimism."

Mr. Bourassa said he had "waited until the very last minute" to call in federal troops because he did not want the action to be interpreted "as a provocation" by the terrorist kidnappers of British diplomat James Cross and Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

Freight Embargo Imposed

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada placed a weekend embargo on all air freight and express from Quebec points, a spokesman said Sunday.

He said the embargo, imposed for "security reasons," was from 4 a.m. Saturday until 4 a.m. today.

The spokesman said the airline is accepting cargo but holding it until the embargo ends.

He would not elaborate on reasons for imposing the embargo. Only Quebec points were involved.

Montreal has been subject to extraordinary security precautions—including the use of troops to guard buildings and prominent citizens and officials —since the War Measures Act was proclaimed Oct. 16.

Mayor Wins Fourth Term

MONTREAL (CP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau and his Civic party crushed all opposition Sunday to register one of the most stunning electoral victories in Montreal history.

Promising "the best municipal government ever seen anywhere," the 54-year-old mayor took the victory stand to thank Montrealers for their "loud and clear voice" in extending his mandate another four years.

Left in the dust of the sweep were six mayoralty candidates and a young opposition party, the Front d'Action Politique, which failed to win one place on the 52-seat city council.

A record number of voters, slightly more than 50 per cent of the 700,000 eligible, cast ballots. This was almost as many as the 380,000 eligible to vote in the 1966 election, when 32 per cent voted.

The jump in the eligible figure resulted from population growth and extension of the vote to 18-year-olds for the first time.

Mayor Drapeau personally won 92 per cent of Sunday's vote compared with 92 cent of Sunday's vote compared with 95 per cent in 1966.

His Civic party, meanwhile, carried every council seat with support from roughly 80 per cent of the voters. Six of the seats were won by acclamation on nomination day Oct. 12.

Before Sunday's election the Civic party held 46 council seats.

Flanked by elected members of his party under hot television lights at the city hall election centre, Mr. Drapeau said in his victory speech:

"The verdict given by the people of Montreal reaches beyond this building.

"It reaches the elected members of the Quebec national assembly and, of the House of Commons in Ottawa.

Scout House Opening Saturday

Alderman Arthur Keegan officially opened the Belleville and district Boy Scout's Association Scout House at 105 John Street South in a brief ceremony Saturday. Representatives of the 1,200 cubs, scouts, and venturers and the 200 leaders in the Belleville district were on hand for the opening. (For story, see Page 2.)

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A high pressure ridge from Quebec extends southwards to the lower lakes and will give some sunny breaks over most of southern Ontario today. No significant change is expected for Tuesday except for afternoon temperatures adding a few more degrees from today's values. Fog patches and haze will likely form during the morning hours.

Bandits Holdup Airport

MONTREAL (CP) — Police were searching for two men who staged a holdup at Montreal International Airport Saturday night and fled with $138,000 in Canadian banknotes that had arrived on an overseas flight from London.

Police said the men, posing as airport freight handlers, were armed with pistols and dressed in coveralls worn by employees of General Aviation Services Ltd.

They burst into a warehouse office of the British Overseas Airways Corp., forced security guards to open the vault, bound and gagged them and fled with the money.

The employees worked themselves free about half an hour later and called police.

It was the biggest robbery in three weeks, since police doubled efforts to find those behind two political kidnappings.

It followed the hijacking Friday of a truck in suburban St. Laurent when $85,000 worth of cigarettes were stolen.

A police spokesman said "crooks have been lying low with all the security forces around."

"But now, after three weeks, they're beginning to need the bread. I'm afraid we must expect more routine criminal activity from now on.

Warning Unheeded Says Dief

REGINA (CP) — John Diefenbaker says the current situation in Quebec might have been avoided if the federal government had heeded warnings in 1969 about a revolutionary threat.

The former prime minister said Friday the government was asked last November to set up a royal commission into the activities of the FLQ and its influence on the Company of Young Canadians.

Documents were produced that called for the overthrow of Canada's democratic system and outlined how this objective was to be accomplished, he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker told a meeting of the Royal Canadian Legion that neither the federal or Quebec governments heeded the warning.

He also said Canadians should not be panicked into forming vigilante groups because of the terrorist acts.

The country faced a challenge greater than at any time since the Korean war, creating a need for Canadians to act as "responsible citizens."

De Gaulle Asked To Decry Act

LONDON (CP) — An editorial in the Sunday Express has suggested that ex-president Charles de Gaulle of France should issue a public statement expressing what the newspaper calls "the horror that he must feel in private" about the political kidnappings and murder in Quebec.

The Express, founded by Lord Beaverbrook, says de Gaulle's 1967 shout in Montreal of "Vive le Quebec Libre" gave encouragement to the French-speaking Quebec separatists.

But the paper goes on:

"There should be no attempt to attach responsibility to Gen. de Gaulle for the present agony of Canada.

"He is a man of compassion and flawless honor who recoils from violence."

Tanker Burns in Channel

Tugs surround the burning oil tanker Pacific Glory Saturday off the Isle of Wight in the English Channel. The ship carrying 70,000 tons of crude oil was involved in a collision Friday night with another tanker, the Allegro. Five sailors were killed in the accident.

Missile Setup 'World's Best'

TEL AVIV (AP) — The chief of Israel's military intelligence department claimed today that Egypt and the Soviet Union "have set up one of the most advanced missile systems in the world" along the Suez canal.

Gen. Aharon Yariv estimated that 500 to 600 missile launchers have been constructed beside the 30-mile zone just west of the canal in violation of the ceasefire.

In a rare news conference with foreign correspondents, Yariv also estimated there are about 3,000 Soviet technicians, advisers and other personnel in the standstill zone.

Army Chief Dies in Chile

SANTIAGO (AP) — The Chilean army planned a big funeral today for its commander-in-chief, Gen. Rene Schneider, as police hunted the assassins among Chile's extreme rightists.

Authorities said their investigation indicated that "persons of the ultra-right" planned the shooting Thursday morning at a downtown intersection. Schneider died Sunday morning, less than 24 hours after Congress decisively chose Marxist Salvador Allende president of the republic.

Allende's supporters claimed that rightist conspirators thought Schneider's assassination would spark an army revolt to prevent the socialist senator from taking office. Allende, 62, won a plurality only in the presidential election on Sept. 4, giving Congress the job of choosing between him and a conservative. The vote Saturday was 153 to 35.

A state of emergency suspending some civil rights was declared Thursday night to facilitate the search for Schneider's assailants. More than 150 persons have been arrested, but only about a dozen remain in jail. The rest were freed after questioning.

Tanker Rests On Sand Spit

SOUTHAMPTON, England (Reuter) — Salvage tugs began juggling the stricken tanker Pacific Glory today to prevent its disgorging 72,000 tons of oil cargo on to beaches and harbors along the south England coast.

As gale-force winds subsided this morning, tugs lined up fore and aft of the 42,000-ton Liberian-registered tanker and gently swivelled it around on the sandbank just off the Isle of Wight where it has been marooned since Friday.

The tugs edge the tanker around 180 degrees so its prow was pointed into the wind, thereby lessening any chance that fire would break out again in the vessel, or that it would break up.

A Dutch salvage firm Schmidt and Co., surveyed the vessel with a view of pumping out water and floating it off the sandbank into deeper waters. From there the oil cargo could be pumped into another vessel.

Five seamen aboard the vessel died Friday night in an explosion which followed a collision with another tanker in the English channel near the Isle of Wight. Eight members of the 42-man crew are missing.

Family, Friends Jailed

Singer Says Arrest Reinforces Her Belief

MONTREAL (CP) — Pauline Julien, well-known French-Canadian popular singer who spent eight days in jail under terms of the War Measures Act, says she is "more convinced than ever of the necessity of establishing true democracy in Quebec."

She said in an interview Sunday that when she was released from jail she discovered that her son Nicolas, 15, daughter Pascale, 18, three of their teenage friends and Miss Julien's sister Fabienne had been arrested last Friday.

"The terrible thing is that all of us were arrested for no apparent reason. No charges were laid and we were not allowed to contact a lawyer or call relatives or friends."

Miss Julien said her children, their friends and her sister were released after 24 hours. She named two of the friends as the teen-age children of actor Lionel Villeneuve and Helene Loisel.

"In my own case, I was arrested at 4 a.m. a week ago last Friday in the apartment which I rent . . . by a detachment, if both city and provincial police, who even told me that they had not come for me, but for a friend who lives with me.

"I just happened to be there at the time, so they arrested me along with my friend.

"The case of my sister and the children and their friends is even worse. My sister was at the house to make sure the children were comfortable and had enough money. She had been in the house only five minutes before police arrived.

"I heard similar stories to my own among the other 36 women held at Tanguay (women's jail) with me. I would say three-quarters of them had no political links and were either the wives or friends of men sought under the act, or were visitors at the time of their arrests."

She said one woman, from Ste. Therese, "was forced to abandon her four children, aged 9 to 15 years, and held for a week."

"Police had gone to her house to search for her husband, but he was away at the time, so they arrested her instead."

Miss Julien said she and the other women were well treated during their stay at Tanguay where, she says, about a dozen women are still held under the act.

"They had a common room where they ate and where, according to other sources, Miss Julien kept up morale with her singing.

She said that during her detention she was questioned for only five minutes, shortly after he arrived at the prison. Her only contact with the outside world was through the director of the prison, who telephoned her family on her behalf.

Miss Julien, is reported to have refused to sing before Queen Elizabeth during a royal visit to Canada in 1964.

Last year, at a French-language cultural conference in Niamey, Niger, she is reported to have shouted "vive le Quebec libre" at State Secretary Gerard Pelletier.

Car Flips, Youth Dead

POINT ANNE (Staff) — An accident at 1:30 a.m. on the Point Anne Lane claimed the life of a Belleville youth.

Dead is Brenton Miller, 20, of Front Street, Belleville when 1967 Pontiac convertible flipped over, flinging his body from the vehicle shortly before the S curve on the lane.

He was pronounced dead on the scene. Constable A. E. Barney of the Belleville OPP Investigated.

Woman Robbed

A Belleville woman was knocked to the ground and robbed late Saturday evening, police reported this morning.

Belleville City Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said that Mrs. Alice Livingston was struck on the neck from behind and her purse stolen by a man at 11.15 p.m. Saturday. It contained $35.

He said the incident occurred in front of her residence soon after she parted company with two other women who walked with her from bingo at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Police are looking for the two other women so that they can discuss what they might have seen with police.

Tape System Is Stolen

Belleville City Police are investigating the theft of a complete tape system and a number of tapes stolen from a car early this morning.

Chief Douglas Crosbie said a tape player, two rear speakers and 12 tape cartridges were stolen from a car belonging to Peter J. Green of 2145 Church Street.

The tape equipment was valued at $286.

Chief Crosbie said that the vehicle was locked at the time of the theft, between one and seven a.m. today, but that entry was gained by forcing the molding on the rear window of the vehicle.

Scouts Now Have Their Own House

The motto of the Boy Scouts, "Be Prepared" was put to good use on Saturday, when, in a brief ceremony, their new Scout House headquarters was officially opened by Alderman Arthur Keegan.

Words of encouragement were delivered by Ald. Keegan on behalf of city council.

"In my opinion, Scouts are the most wonderful group of young people in the Dominion of Canada today," he said.

With boys from the various scout troops, cub packs and venturer troops, area representatives from district headquarters.

Following the official opening, Reverend Charles Savage of Emmanuel Baptist Church dedicated the site.

All film in the district will be maintained in the new office, providing the secretary with easy access to information and assistance to the local group committees which serve more than 1,200 boys and 200 leaders.

The building at 165 John Street was made available by G. I. Wells and Son, Farm Supplies. The firm provided the vacant office at the front and their warehouse for the scouts.

Heavy Loss In Blaze

BIG ISLAND (Staff)—Fire levelled a two-storey stone house owned by O. A. Coleman, RR 7, Demorestville, Sunday morning destroying a number of valuable paintings by local artist, Donald Dawson. The blaze broke out shortly after 11 a.m. and was discovered by Mr. Coleman who opened a door leading to the rear of the house and spotted flames. The stone house, once a farm home was built on the oldest Big Island.

A fire call was answered by a truck from Mountain View but firefighters were unable to check the spreading flames. Adjoining buildings were dampened in a successful effort to confine the fire to the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Colman managed to rescue a few of their possessions from the burning house but lost almost all their furniture and clothing.

Canvases painted by Donald Dawson and stored in an upstairs room of the house were destroyed. Mr. Dawson, who is the son of Mrs. Coleman, was in Toronto at the time of the fire.

Fire losses are unofficially estimated at $30,000, to $40,000.

Sunday's fire in Sophiasburg township occured approximately six weeks before ratepayers will cast their ballots in a plebiscite concerning township fire protection. Earlier this fall Sophiasburg township council approached Picton town council seeking a fire protection agreement but was turned down when Picton councillors decided that the town lacked sufficient firefighting equipment to join in an agreement with such another municipality.

Graduates Are Urged To Retain Curiosity

Graduating students of Quinte Secondary School were urged to "retain their curiosity" by trustee Nelson McKibbon during ceremonies Saturday night.

Two characteristics of youth were mentioned by the speaker, who said they should be held onto throughout life. They were curiosity and youth's high ideals.

Valedictorian Kerry Stratton delivered an unconventional and witty valedictory address.

The ceremonies were conducted by vice-principal R. Leach in the absence of principal John Hayman due to illness. Musical interludes were provided by the school band under the direction of D. Antstine and Mr. Stretton.

Ontario Scholars were Sandra Wesse, Judy Settle, Cathryn Lalliberr, Brian Hadley, Brenda Callaghan, Robert Huffman and Cheryl Conley.

Quinte Secondary School Staff Scholarships of $100 were awarded to Lorrain McKown and Marlene Crawford.

Other major awards included the Dr. E. G. Kennedy Medical Scholarship to Brian Hadley, The Intelligencer Sjhoiarship to Judy Settle, Corby Distilleries Scholarships to Jim Ross and Rick Barkhouse, Northern Electric Prize to Fred Fieler and Hastings County Board of Education prize to Ann Kotcheson and Sandra Wesse.

Woman Injured In Two-car Crash

PICTON (Staff) — A Willowdale resident, Andria Aby, was taken to Kingston General Hospital last night following a two-car collision on county road 1, a mile west of Highway 14.

Driver of the car in which she was riding was Olga Abe, 38, of Willowdale. Driver of the second vehicle, Alberto Americks, 20, RR1, Hillier, escaped injury.

A spkesman for the Picton detachment of the OPP estimated damage to the Abe vehicle at $900.

Prepare for Nov. 11

When the Veterans of Belleville Committee decided to have the war memorial at Station Street and Cannifton Road cleaned, Bill Campbell of Campbell Monument Co. Ltd., offered his services without charge. While Bob Ricketts and Brian Witherall sandblast the monument, a Belleville Fire Department crew stood by to wash the monument down.

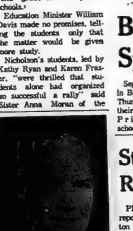
ANAF. NEWS

At a meeting last Thursday it was voted to make a donation of $50 to the Belleville Minor Hockey League in which the club is sponsoring a team in the bantam division. The president expressed the hope that the members would take a little of their time to take in some of their team's games at the Arena to encourage the lads and help out at the box office.

Friday will again see live entertainment and dancing in the Tartan Lounge. The best Mr. and Mrs. darts matches on Sat. Oct. 31 will be started earlier with entries being accepted from 8 p.m. with the first games being started at 8.30 p.m. The live entertainment will not be heard on these evenings until the end of the tournament next spring. There will be double darts each Saturday.

The shuffleboard enthusiasts are happy to see that the new shuffleboard has arrived. It is a combination of both a straight and bank board and is expected to have quite a play during the coming winter months.



Saturday morning dawned a bit foggy but by 9 a.m. the sun had come through, the temperature was rising and it was a pretty good day for the project of the Veterans of Belleville Commitee. This was to clean up and get the concrete and part shipshape for the Remembrance Day ceremony. A vote of thanks is due from all district veterans and next of kin to the Campbell Monument Co. for donating their services and doing such a splendid job of thoroughly cleaning the cenotaph. It seemed to brighten up the whole place when it was finished. Thanks also to the public works department for hooking after the water supply. It sure has improved the appearance and the cenotaph really stands out when it is floodlighted at night.

The Unit installed a Hallowe'en display especially to please the younger children and were happy to hear the young faces peering through the glass, laughing and enjoying it. Several teachers were seen with their young charges. The window will be in until next Saturday evening so, if you are down that way, take your youngsters down to share in the enjoyment.

On the sick report are Cdes. M. Switzer, 601, D. Locke, 635, B. Feather who is looking much better, and W. Turner. He has had a very serious operation and has been moved to intensive care.

DAVID JOHNSTON

KENNETH VAN BARTHOLD

Britons to Judge Music Festival

Adjudicators for the Rotary Music Festival next Feb. 23 to 26 are Britons Kenneth van Barthold and David Johnston.

Mr. van Barthold was born of Anglo-Dutch parents in Java and was educated at Bryanston school and the Paris National Conservatoire. Since arriving in England about 14 years ago he has distinguished himself in many branches of music.

His concert career has included concerto performances with the London Symphony and other orchestras, recitals, radio performances and recitals throughout Britain.

From 1964 to 1966 he was on the staff of the Trinity College of Music, resigning from the position after five years because of the pressure of outside engagements.

Mr. van Barthold is now part-time Head of Music at the City Literary Institute in London and recently has won acclaim for his television documentaries on Chopin, Schumann, Rachmaninoff and other classical composers.

David Johnston was born in London and acquired his early love of music as a cathedral chorister. After a brief business career he returned to singing. He first gained his reputation in oratorio and is now recognized as one of the leading performers in this sphere.

British audiences know Mr. Johnston well and he has been appearing increasingly in Holland and Germany. He has also appeared in recent festival opera productions, after initial training at Glyndebourne with such roles as Rodolfo in La Boheme.

Mr. Johnston has been visiting lecturer in singing to choral scholars at Magdalen College, Oxford, and has also taught at the Salisbury Cathedral choir school, Southend College of Technology, City Literary Institute in London, at the weekly Master Class in solo singing and at the R.C. Essex College of Technology and School of Art in Colchester. He was also adjudicator of solo singing classes at the Thanton and Somerset Music Festival.

Chairman of the Rotary Music Festival committee this year is U.S. native Al Summerville, of the American Superior Electric company.

Arts and Croft

The department of education integrated studies course for teachers of kindergarten through grade 8 is continuing this winter at Hillcrest Public School. Saturday's instructor was Dr. John Croft, an assistant professor at Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, who led the 108 teachers through exercises to test their organizational ability and productivity. The product for the exercise was a "house of cards" and the moment of truth came as Dr. Croft judged the teachers' efforts and rejected some of the production lines' efforts.

Local Students Join Rally

Nicholson Catholic College students, 448 strong, were among the 17,000 who rallied at Maple Leaf Gardens Sunday in support of Ontario government financial aid beyond grade 10 in separate schools.

Education Minister William Davis made no promises, telling the students only that the matter would be given more study.

Nicholson's students, led by Kathy Ryan and Karen Fraser, were thrilled that students alone had organized "a successful a rally" said Sister Anna Moran of the college this morning.

To raise money for their part in the rally, the local students ran a walkathon, 3 blitz day when they worked at odd jobs for $1 an hour, held bake sales and car washes.

Adults entered the picture only as chaperones on the eight buses carrying the students to Toronto yesterday.

The students, from points in Ontario as far away as Thunder Bay, about 850 miles northwest of Toronto, were members of the Ontario Catholic Students Federation, which represents about 34,000 students across Ontario.

Almost 3,000 students were turned away.

Federation President Jerome Collins, 18, of St. Catharines told the rally:

"We in the Ontario Catholic Students Federation are not seeking one cent for Catholic private schools. Not one cent. What we are seeking . . . is completion of the final sixth year of the separate school system."

"I really don't think this is the occasion where both sides of the story are told, where debates are held with respect for conflicting points of view," Mr. Davis said.

"I think really this is the occasion where the Catholic young people of the province are attempting to show to others, perhaps even to their fellow students, their conviction and their sincerity of purpose."

Donald MacDonald, education critic for the New Democratic Party, said education at equality for the minority of Protestants in Quebec and Catholics in Ontario was guaranteed by the British North America Act.

He said Quebec had lived up to the constitutional arrangement but Ontario had not.

Separate schools get equal government funds up to Grade 8, then elementary - level support for Grades 9 and 10.

Mr. Collins said many separate-school students dropped out of school in Grade 10 because they simply couldn't afford "steep fees" needed to finance Grades 11, 12 and 13.

Board Schedules Special Meeting

Separate school ratepayers in Belleville may get answers Thursday night to some of their queries to the Hastings Prince Edward separate school board.

The board has scheduled a public meeting in St. Michael's Auditorium Oct. 29 at 7 p.m. to reply to questions posed by the ratepayers in September.

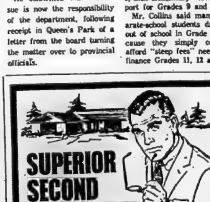
They centre around the suspension of F. B. Allore, superintendent of separate school, last May 6.

Mr. Allore's suspension must be ratified by the department of education in Toronto before his employment officially terminated. The board turned the matter over to the department Oct. 10, and said it read the ratepayers have been calling for the early intervention of the minister of education in the matter.

Last Friday, Dr. J. R. Mc Carthy, deputy minister of education, told The Intelligencer that "a decision will be made very soon".

He confirmed that the issue is now the responsibility of the department, following receipt in Queen's Park of a letter from the board turning the matter over to provincial officials.

Stolen Car Recovered



PICTON (Staff) — A car reported missing from a Picton residence Sunday morning has been recovered and is stored in the Morris Orchards, behind county road 1 and Highway 14. The car, owned by and belonging to Arthur Franklin, 52 Paul Street, was taken between 11 p.m. Saturday and 8.30 a.m. Sunday. Mr. Franklin notified the Picton police department and the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police was alerted. The car was found by Constable I. R. Knox. Investigation of the theft is continuing.

Torontonians Arrested

Two Toronto people have been charged with possession of burglary tools, Belleville City Police said this morning. Charged are John Andrew Isaiskics, 25, and Caroline Gail Massicotte, 24, who were arrested following a search of their vehicle over the weekend.

The car was on Front Street at the time.

Begin Work On New Legion Hall

Excavation for the new $300,000 Canadian Legion headquarters on Pinnacle Street was began this morning.

Welger DeJong, Stirling builder has the general contract for the new three-storey structure which is expected to be completed by May 1 next year.

The new Legion building is being erected immediately north of the present headquarters on the site formerly occupied by Holland Plumbing and Heating.

Injured Child Transferred

PICTON (Staff)—Kimberley Driscoll, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Driscoll, Fernwood Gardens, has been transferred to Toronto Sick Children's Hospital for treatment of injuries sustained in the Massassaga school yard last Wednesday.

The child was pinned between the school building and a car being parked by teacher Mrs. E. Nelson, RR2, Belleville.

The girl was rushed to Belleville General Hospital where her condition was described as critical.

It's A Dog's Life

The Belleville and District Kennel Club is holding the first point shows in the city, at Ben Bleecker Auditorium this weekend, attracting canine handlers from all across North America and one entry from Britain. One of the youngest handlers is Lynda Farnworth, 12, of 41 Jamlyn Crescent who will show her 14-month-old American Cocker Spaniel, Midnight Star.

Dog Invasion Next Weekend

Belleville will be invaded Hallowe'en by 1,140 extra bodies.

Not spooks or goblins, but dogs — the total entry in the Belleville and District Kennel Club point shows at Ben Bleecker Auditorium Oct. 31 and Nov. 1

The two shows have attracted entries from England, Newfoundland, Texas and most major points between.

The unbenched show is the first of its kind for the fledgling club, organized early in 1968.

The club has sponsored one successful sanction show (no points were awarded toward championship), and has been overwhelmed by the response of owners and breeders to its first point show.

The reason, says Lew Barks, president of the club, is the scheduling of the show, near the end of the annual show circuit and between two shows, one in Ottawa and one in Toronto.

Owners, bent on picking up enough points to make their animals champions, are registering their dogs for the Belleville show as a stopover between Ottawa and Toronto.

With so many high quality dogs making the circuit, city residents will be treated to an opportunity to see some of the finest examples of most canine breeds.

This fits in with the objectives of the Belleville club — betterment of all purebred breeds of dogs and provision of opportunities for owners to test conformation, obedience and field training of their dogs.

The club sponsors obedience training classes for purebred dogs every Monday night at the Humane Society barns and keeps dogs in the form through participation in displays in conjunction with community activities.

Right now, the two monster shows are on each day, are keeping the club members in a state of frantic activity. Three supplementary tents have to be erected outside the entrance of the Quinte Exhibition auditorium for grooming of pets, and four judging rings must be set up.

Five judges have been hired for the event, and judging will go on continuously each day from 9 a.m.

Suppliers of pet foods and grooming aids will have displays at the shows and the public is invited to attend both days to view the animals and the obedience trials.

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO

CONSTRUCTION OF A PROJECT OFFICE BUILDING AT LEANOR GENERATING STATION

SEALED TENDERS, in triplicate, addressed to the undersigned, and marked "Project Office Building" will be received up to 4.30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time on TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7th, 1972 for the construction to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of a prefabricated metal building approximately 40' x 100' x 10' high with a wood floor, to be erected on concrete slab on foot by 16 inch concrete foundation wall complete with electrical and mechanical services, at the Leanor Generating Station, Leanor, Ontario. The site is located on the Leanor Generating Station, which is situated on the Mattagami River, 50 miles north of the Lesage Dam and 30 miles south of Timmins, Ontario.

Bid documentary procedures as specified in the following paragraphs will be strictly adhered to. Bids received at the office of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Toronto Construction Section, 620 University Avenue, Toronto, Ontario, M5G 1X6 will be returned unopened to the Contractor.

Tenders must be accompanied by a Canadian chartered bank, trust company or Province of Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario bond, or by a bid bond for the amount of ten per cent (10%) of the tender, in favour of the Chairman of the Commission.

The successful tenderer may be required to furnish a performance bond, in the form approved by the Commission, and issued by a company licensed to transact such business in the Province of Ontario and acceptable to the Commission for 100 per cent of the contract price.

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

K. R. Hancock,
Secretary.

A Sanctuary

Until Canada jumped into first place in world headlines recently as a prime target of subversion and insurrection, little had been mentioned of Algeria as an auxiliary of FLQ terrorism.

Algerians close to that country's own terrorist campaign leading to independence a few years ago said recently that they never stooped to such methods as the FLQ have demonstrated. Nevertheless the fact remains that a great deal of blood was spilled in Algeria and that today it rivals Cuba and the Middle East as a sanctuary for Communist-style revolutionists.

One is Eldridge Cleaver, fugitive information minister of the Black Panthers, who as we recall fled originally to Cuba from the United States. Now he has been joined by high priest of the drug world Timothy Leary and his wife. Dr. Leary escaped September 12 from a California prison (where he was serving time for possession of marijuana) and crossed the world spirited out of the country by the Youth International Party (Yippies).

Leary says he will be working for the Black Panthers, who have set up an international headquarters in Algiers, "in their struggle in America and around the world."

Well, the United States is well rid of people like Cleaver and Leary. Perhaps they pose a threat of more subversion, by plotting to further undermine American and western society generally. To that we can only say that subversion, discent and all the rest of it could scarcely be more highly organized than it is today. For this country, and those of like mind, the price was ever is eternal vigilance. We have been caught once — in recent days — let us ensure that the same kind of thing will not be repeated.

Listening Posts

Society is going to have to adjust to the cult of modern youth, listen to what youth has to say. Yes, we have heard that all before; we have been listening, too much and too long, and look what is happening in the world today!

Some academic was quoted recently as offering this opinion; we heard it on the radio, but did not catch the gentleman's name. Otherwise we would have been tempted to write and suggest it was old hat. Certainly we are listening to youth, but are they bestowing the same attention to the adult world, for after all they will be adults themselves one day? The answer of course is that some do listen, do credit older people with the wisdom of their years. But too many unfortunately do not, and that is quite as much to adult forfeiture of responsibility as to surly, disenchanted youth deciding they know best.

Allowing young people to have their own way for too long accounts for many of the stranger manifestations of social conduct today. It is as psychiatrist Dr. Paul Shannie said at a recent Montreal conference: "Parents are at fault in many cases — or should I say most cases. Since the Second World War parents have failed to protect their children against such things as anger, refusals, disappointment. And it is now having serious repercussions."

There is more on this in adjoining columns, as reprinted from The Montreal Gazette. Youth needs motivation,we are told, and if that is a hackneyed offering too, it nevertheless makes sense.

Sky Drama

The world is so small now, so bound together by communications if not always by understanding and compassion, that what occurs in distant places is public knowledge moments after it has happened. Consequently most Canadians will know of the hijacking of a Soviet airliner to Turkey recently, and that a stewardess was killed trying to block entry of the hijackers to the cockpit. What many do not know perhaps is that only, and the attempt was only 18. The pilot ,though wounded in the chest and co-pilot, less seriously injured, brought the plane down safely in Turkey. Courage knows no national boundaries — drama, heroism and tragedy were all present on this occasion.

Women's Lib!

Here are some recent developments in the continued emancipation of women. The South African army is reported to have been deluged with applications for the hundred or so places available in the women's branch it is establishing. And in British Columbia the fire department at a Rokish (Vancouver Island) logging camp consists of 13 women ranging in age from 21 to 45. The menfolk work the rugged hillsides far from the camp so what better than that the firefighting duties be left to the women.

The Results of Letting the Young Have Their Own Way

Adrian Waller in the Montreal Gazette

What's wrong with youth?

A community conference whose delegates included doctors, teachers and social workers tried to find out recently.

They agreed on one basic fact:

Too many young people today are uncivilized.

They've also discovered in what is going on around them. They have developed false sets of values for the world in which they live.

But who is to blame?

According to psychiatrist Dr. Jalal Shamsie: "Parents are at fault in many cases — or should I say most cases. Since the Second World War we have undergone radical changes in the way we should bring up our children, changes that have been made in the face of affluence. . .

"They've been a great deal of emphasis placed upon the theory: 'Love Your Child. No one teaches that child to love back."

The conference was sponsored by the Verdun Council of Community Agencies for Children and Adolescents of which Dr. Shamsie is president.

He is also director of children's and adolescent services at the Douglas Hospital.

Dr. Shamsie explained: "Since the Second World War, parents have tended to protect their children against such things as anger, refusals, disappointment. And it's now having serious repercussions.

"Let me elaborate. A kid breaks his toy and cries. Because his parents are reasonably affluent they tell him: 'Do not cry,' Johnny, we'll buy you another toy'. So the kid stops crying, and, presumably gets his second toy.

"But is this right for the child? No, it's not. It means that the child grows up never to learn how to deal with not very basic things as anger or, in this case, disappointment.

"Parents sort of say: "Do anything, Johnny, but don't cry". They lose sight of one very important fact: That when a child is crying over the disappointment of not getting something he wants, this crying is as essential to his emotional growth as is the bread he eats to his physical growth."

Dr. Shamsie stated his theory to hinges.

"Parents will notice," he said, "that the majority of these hippies here come from upper middle-class families and they are probably such today because when they cried for what they wanted, they got it. In their affluence, their parents gave them just what they wanted. Put it another way — their parents couldn't stand them crying.

"Perhaps things might have been different had their parents taken a different line and said, 'Sit there and cry. You're not going to get your own way. You are going to have how to cope with disappointment, your anger our refusal and the unhappiness of the situation'."

In general terms, Dr. Shamsie said, hippies were hippies because they were emotionally ill-equipped to cope with life's pitfalls.

In discussion throughout yesterday, delegates agreed.

They also said:

Youth lacks motivation.

Unemployment is here, and here to stay for some time. It no longer seems to be a motivating factor. In short, a youth works no harder in the face of the possibility that he may one day lose his job. He doesn't seem to care.

Money is no longer an important value, hence youth is not motivated by the prospects of emolument.

Some delegates felt the educational system had gaps and did not therefore help youths "find themselves."

Jacques Delagrandeur, director of the Ecole Polyvalente Maurice Fenstie, a trades school, said during a panel discussion:

"In a study at the University of Ohio it was revealed that 45 per cent of high school students were being directed to a college or university education when, in fact, the labor market only required eight per cent of people with this kind of qualification and background."

They also said:

"There is a tremendous need for people with technical skills in either the college or university level and only a small percentage of students are being directed in technical fields."

"This in itself tends to make young people insecure because many of them don't know what they want to do . . . or what they are capable of. They need somewhere in which they can find themselves, as they put it."

He then suggested that two free school systems were needed.

One for the highly-motivated and super intelligent student, and in fact, the labor market only required eight per cent of people with this kind of qualification and background.

Is Ottawa Backing Off in Inflation Fight?

Vancouver Sun

The federal government is now running its 13th annual budgetary deficit in 14 years.

It expects to be $150-million in the red by next March 31 at the end of the 1970-71 fiscal year instead of $250-million in the black. So much for all its brave words and good intentions and preaching about austerity.

It is pumping out extra money to stimulate the economy. Its last June have provided for an additional $300-million in expenditures and it proposes to add $60-million more. All of this despite the fact that its revenues are running $50 - million below expectations and its ordinary outlays $80-million above estimates.

Implicit in these figures may be an admission that the government believes there was some degree of overkill in its anti-inflation measures. The fear that was on the brake is now on the accelerator.

This is an attempt to ease the rate of unemployment, particularly in the more depressed regions. The government was encouraged to move in this direction by an appreciable drop in the rate of inflation. The consumer price index released the other day showed an increase of 2.8 per cent in the year ended last month by comparison with increases up to 5 per cent in earlier years.

The bothersome fact still remains, however, that wage settlements being made this year provide even higher increases than last year's pattern without any evidence of levelling off.

"I believe," said Mr. Benson, "that the pressures in the economy emanating from this fact are most important single obstacle to the resumption of fast-

Longhairs Get Mixed Reception from Reds

Christian Science Monitor

As one might expect, some Communist countries have not taken easily to the hairy age.

The bearded and long-haired among youth who traveled to Europe this summer have now returned with varying tales. Bulgaria has relented. Romania has not. Czechoslovakia is silent. Yugoslavia is freest of all, hair-wise.

A year ago Bulgaria's police officers thought long hair and beards a sure sign of Western decadence. So they cut — in the street — hair and beards that they assessed as all extreme. But so many travelers protested that, to maintain the tourist trade, the Bulgarian gendarmerie have desisted this year.

But Romania is tougher. The "according to Ze New Leader, the police at times admonished on - the - spot tailoring, cutting and ripping clothing styles — whether bell bottoms or mini skirts — that it seemed far - fetched. But in Czechoslovakia, otherwise sad males can grow long hair and women can wear long skirts.

And Yugoslavia? It doesn't have police blitzkriegs. It has even permitted a production of the musical "Hair". Is that being devilishly revisionist, Trotskyite - Communist, or just downright free-thinking?

UK Streamlines Government

Montreal Gazette

Five ministries have been consolidated into two according to Prime Minister Heath's refreshing prescription of less government for Britain. It is a precedent that the federal and provincial governments here might study with profit. Mr. Heath is no less concerned with such pressing social issues as environment — one of the two ministries is a department of environment — but he has been able to approach them by making better use of the government's existing facilities rather than adding to them.

An even more profitable precedent may be his new Industrial Relations Bill. The Labor government has split over a bill with the same general purpose: to make the unions responsible for breaches of contract and to curb the abuses of union authority on the shop floor. Mr. Heath doesn't have to worry about a similar split in his government although he could have a difficult time obtaining union acceptance of the bill.

Mr. Heath is taking a calculated risk. In outlawing wildcat strikes, there is a danger of increasing the frequency and intensity of strikes called in support of contract demands. But these occur only on expiry of existing contracts and in the long run will be vastly less damaging to the British economy than the continuing uncertainty which it is now exposed.

What might be drawn from the bill for application in Canada are the measures for strengthening the Registrar of Trade Unions and the provision for a National Industrial Relations Court. The former does not exist as such in Canada although many of the functions are assumed by different branches of government. Possibly the desire to establish a separate agency to which the unions make the presently required returns.

The reliance of an industrial relations court for judgment as an alternative to the resort to strike action has become increasingly attractive with the strengthening recognition that no one wins in a strike. Possibly the British model will have aspects which can be adapted in Canadian use.

Ocean Life Put at 10 Years

EDMONTON (CP) — The worst October snowstorm in 40 years has crippled transportation in a large section of northcentral Alberta.

More than 10 inches of heavy, wet snow had fallen on Edmonton to 6 a.m. MST today and it was still snowing. The temperature was 29 degrees above zero.

Nine inches of snow fell Sunday, breaking the previous record for an October day set in 1919 when eight inches fell within a 24-hour period. The 1919 record was equalled in 1921 and 1922.

Trains were not delayed too much but road traffic was hazardous as heavy, wet snow piled up on highways.

Police reported dozens of cars in ditches along most major highways leading to Edmonton, many of them abandoned by their owners. Highway crews worked through the night to clear city streets and outlying highways.

Air service virtually was nonexistent during the storm. Edmonton International Airport reported only one departure and two arrivals before 5 p.m. compared with about 30 of each on a normal day.

An airport spokesman said that even if air traffic had been normal, travellers would not have been able to reach the airport 15 miles south of the city because of poor highway conditions and blocked airport access roads.

The RCMP and city police appealed to motorists not to use their cars if possible. Some cars which had left Calgary at noon, police said, took more than eight hours to cover the 190 miles to Edmonton.

Isolated power failures occurred in Edmonton and in St. Albert Northwest of the city and in the eastern suburb of Sherwood Park.

WHEN TO SEE A PSYCHOLOGIST by Lee Stuhman and Jean Taylor

This book, co-authored by a practicing psychotherapist and a skilled writer, helps to answer such questions as: how do you know whether a friend or relative needs professional counselling? Or how do your own anxieties indicate problems which a therapist can help? Symptoms and problems of this nature are described in everyday terms that a layman can understand. A specially prepared list of questions helps to determine whether or not help is needed and guidance is given on how to go about locating a therapist.

BODY LANGUAGE by Julius Fast.

Social scientists are discovering that movements of the body give off messages, of their own which may amplify or contradict verbal expression. We all know about such things as the raised eyebrow indicating surprise and the tapping foot impatience. Here the author points out that speech is often a mask and that a trained psychologist can get as much information from unconscious body movements as from what is said.

In February 1942, the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and the cruiser Prinz Eugen steamed out of Brest and through the Straits of Dover in broad daylight, defying the efforts of the British navy to halt them. Through first-hand accounts of the action, Mr. Potter tells the story of the breakout and the desperate running battle that followed. From the British point of view it is a story of tragedy; from the German, one of well - laid plans brilliantly executed.

Sydney J. Harris Says

Service Jobs Unpopular

As we get richer in resources, we get poorer in services. This is a social paradox the world has not yet faced up to.

In fact, in eras of less affluence, young people wanted jobs. Today they want goals to aim at. Dead-end jobs, simply for the sake of survival or security, no longer interest them.

This trend is most evident in the U.S., where affluence is the highest, but it can be seen all over Europe as well. For instance, the publication "Travel Agent" reports that Holland (and especially the tourist centre of Amsterdam) is facing a severe "hotel staff crisis."

The traditionally sought-after positions of cooks, waiters and kitchen staff members are no longer attracting young people; the hours are poor, and the jobs seem to hold no future for most of them.

As the world grows richer, as more youths go to college, as technology flourishes, the supply of old-time services dries up. It was once a proud and honorable thing to follow in your father's craft — if he was a barber, a cook, a mechanic or artisan of some sort. But now these functions are scorned by young people as class-ended jobs. And who can fault them for this attitude?

Much the same has happened in farming — there are only half as many farmers in the U.S. as there were a few decades ago, as more and more youths leave for the cities — but in that area we have been able to increase productivity and introduce machinery that make up for the dwindling numbers of farm workers.

In the service jobs, however, no such technology has yet made its appearance. No shoe-shining machine can equal a bootblack's; no robot can give a satisfactory haircut; no mechanical waiters can bring your food; no mechanical porters carry your bags, or mechanical maids make your bed.

Even the very rich today do much more for themselves than the ordinary middle - classes did for themselves in the 18th Century. When Karl Marx was living in London, he complained bitterly about his "servant problem" — and yet he had a housekeeper and a daily cleaning woman! Of course, their wages were outrageously low, and no one should work for so little.

But the fact remains that the very market mechanism by which capitalism offers broader opportunities to its workers at the same time reduces the pool of possible workers in the service trades, so that nobody wants to do what his grandfather was forced to do. Who will perform the distasteful tasks when every one finally goes to college?

TAKES THE METER

NEW YORK (AP) — A cat veered onto a sidewalk in Harlem Saturday, knocked over a parking meter and bit four children, slightly injuring them. Witnesses told police the driver got out of the car, picked up the parking meter, put it into his car, and drove away.

Queen's Alumni Hears Talk on Pollution

J. M. Courtwright, new vice-principal for development and information was guest speaker at the Queen's Alumni semi-annual dinner last Tuesday evening. Mr. Courtwright who has had a wide experience with the Shell Oil Company being co-ordinator of the company's environmental affairs activities concerned with pollution abatement and the protection of the quality of air, water and soil in Shell's operations across the country, is a witty and interesting speaker.

He opened with a short illustrated song by Tom Lahr projected on a screen which lamented the evils of pollution. He listed the four evils of mankind as: wars of destruction, over - population, destruction of environment, and pollution.

He stated "Pollution can only be eliminated if we eliminate life, but we can control it." He gave as an example of this, the natural gas industry of Alberta which eliminated the sulphur from its natural gas and sells this by-product to India for $70 a ton. For every pound of material there is a pound of waste and waste is anything that disturbs the environment.

He pointed out that there are three types of pollution of the air, water and land food, and this takes three forms, the real pollution, hysterical pollution and political pollution. "Real pollution can be observed by everyone," he said. Dealing with hysterical pollution he said that detergent companies are spending millions of dollars to eliminate phosphates in their products but no one knows what harm their substitutes will cause until they have been in use for some time. In regard to political pollution the speaker noted that to take a stand on pollution is as safe for a politician as to defend motherhood.

Vice-principal Courtwright who is also information officer at Queen's University also presented a few facts and figures about Queen's reporting there were 8,250 full time students, 800 members of staff, six faculties, seven schools, six centres, five institutes, ten deans, six teaching hospitals, 17 libraries and three student newspapers.

During the dinner announcement was made of the two scholarships. The Grills scholarship, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Grills of Paget, Bermuda for a girl in first year politics was won by Sarah Hill of Don Mills and the Winnifred Hay scholarship donated by the district alumni was won by Katherine Take of Trenton.

Stops Cycling

LONDON (AP) — British doctor says a childless marriage suddenly became fruitful after he advised the husband to stop cycling to work.

Dr. Ernest Sapsker said that in marginal cases of childlessness, there was a possibility that "undue cycling" could make a difference.

Hughes – Whyte

Father J. F. Grainger officiated at the recent wedding ceremony in St. Peter's Church Trenton, when Carolyn Lois Marie Whyte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence V. Whyte of Trenton was united in marriage to Gerald Michael Quinn Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy B. Hughes of Tweed. Wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Marie Rose who also accompanied the soloist Mr. William Long.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white English crimplene with empire styled waistline and bell sleeves of silver floral patterned Belgium lace. A matching scalloped cathedral train fell softly from the waistline and a waist length veil of Belgium lace was held in place with a floral lace headdress trimmed with trumpet beads and seed pearls. She carried a cascade of white carnations and ivy.

Sister of the bride Mrs. Lorne Bassett as matron of honor and bridesmaids Miss Carolyn Williams of Kingston and Miss Arlene Bourgeois of Trenton were identically attired in floor length empire styled gowns of turquoise blue knit crimplene featuring long puffed sleeves with fitted cuffs. All were white miniature carnations in their hair and each carried a nosegay of turquoise tinted white carnations. Flower girl Miss Victoria Bassett, niece of the bride was dressed similarly to the other attendants and carried a basket of white and blue carnations.

Joseph Hughes of Ottawa attended his brother, while the ushers were Leon LaBarge of Tweed, and Bruce Whyte of Trenton. Ring bearer was Christopher Bassett, nephew of the bride.

A reception was held at the Trenton Country Club where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a dress of deep rose brocaded sheer lace silk with sleeveless bracaded silk coat with matching shoes, black accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a teal blue silk ensemble with matching shoes, black accessories and a corsage of gardenias. The groom mother of the bride also received wearing a white ensemble with a corsage of red roses.

For the wedding trip to The Laurentians, the bride chose a gold English crimplene pantsuit with brown accessories and a corsage of Woburn Abbey roses.

The couple will reside in Tweed.

MR. AND MRS. LORNE ANDERSON

Anderson – Soble

Tabernacle United Church was the scene of the Oct. 10 wedding of Miss Linda Soble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Soble of Belleville, and of Lorne Westley Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Anderson of Ottawa. Rev. J. Leslie Dean was the officiating clergyman and the organist was Mr. Templer.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a full length A - line dress of white peau de soie. The sleeves, empire waist and stand - up collar were accented with lace. Her shoulder length veil was held up by a white velvet bow. Her bouquet was composed of yellow rosebuds, bronze mums, orange and yellow leaves, wheat and yellow tulle.

Jeannie Wells as maid of honor wore a chocolate brown chiffon dress with an empire waist and winter white sleeves. She wore a brown velvet bow in her hair and carried a basket of yellow and bronze mums interspersed with wine colored leaves and sheaves of wheat. Bridesmaid Linda Soble, the bride's sister was dressed identically to the maid of honor but in olive green.

The bridegroom was attended by Stanley Daly of Ottawa as best man while the ushers were Gordon Tarlault of Ottawa and Dwight Howler of Bridgeport, Connecticut.

A reception at the Shrine Club followed the ceremony. The bride's mother wore a mulberry colored sleeveless sheath dress with a plaid coat, bone colored accessories and a corsage of white carnations edged with red. The bridegroom's mother wore a pale pink sheath dress with a pink brocade coat and pink accessories. Her corsage was of pale pink carnations with red centres.

The newlyweds left for their wedding trip to Syracuse and Buffalo, the bride in a rust colored jersey pantsuit with dark brown accessories. Upon return they will reside at RR 2, Gresby.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Lorne Anderson (nee Sharon Soble) was honored at showers held in Oshawa by the sister and mother of her fiance.

METHODIST W.M.S.

MARMORA — The Women's Missionary Society meeting of the Free Methodist Church of Marmora and Beaver Creek was held in the church auditorium last week. Theme song was followed by prayer by the pastor, Rev. G. Kemp.

Mrs. Ritchie Wells, president, was in the chair. Mrs. Harry Mawer, secretary, read the minutes. There were 18 members present and several visitors.

A chapter of the study book on South America was clearly summarized by Mrs. Stewart Hardy.

A prayer session in which the V.I.S.A. program in particular was remembered, Hong Kong, Peru and the Asian church, their failures on pressing needs were prayed for, as was this country in the midst of political turmoil and unrest.

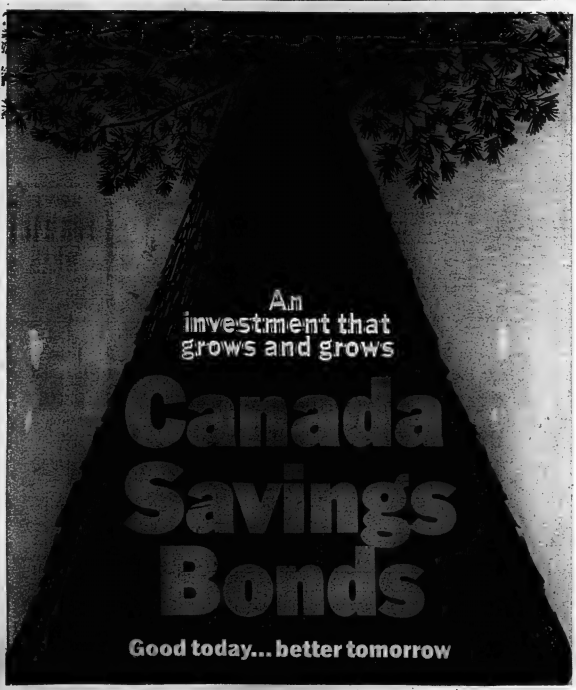
Enjoyed by all was a presentation of colored slides by Rev. W. A. McMillan who, with his wife, have just returned from a trip to Great Britain and West Germany.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

RYLSTONE WI

Twenty members of the Rylstone WI and their guests were entertained in the home of Mrs. Austin Dunk on Tuesday where their leaders, Mrs. Paul McKeown and Mrs. Austin Dunk demonstrated how to make six different desserts.

Mrs. McKeown read several excerpts from the members' pamphlet supplied by the Ontario Department of Agriculture on the advantages of using foods grown and produced in Canada.



Suggestions were made regarding balanced diets and the ladies were given the names of main dishes for different meals and asked to make up complete menus.

Mrs. McKeown made a glazed cheese cake and Mrs. Dunk demonstrated the making of apple sweet top pudding. Mrs. McKeown prepared meringue shells and lemon butter to serve with them.

After a smorgasbord dinner the ladies made pumpkin parfait and ginger pear crumble. While the desserts were baking, Mrs. McKeown and Mrs. Dunk gave readings on nutrition and meal planning.

Summary day for the above demonstrations which were held in various parts of Hastings County will be held in Stirling in January. Mrs Ernest Irwin, Mrs. Jack Watson and Mrs. Fred Fry were chosen to represent Rylstone WI.

The regular November meeting of the Rylstone WI will be held on November 4 at the WI hall with Mrs. Donald Stewart and Mrs. Carl Reid as hostesses. Mrs. Raymond Stewart, the convener for agriculture and Canadian industries will be in charge of the program. Mrs. Francis Toban of Madoc, district resident will be the guest speaker. There will be a display of bazaar articles.

Psychologist Plans Program to Aid Children with Learning Problems

OTTAWA (CP) — A significant number of Canadian children of average intelligence do poorly in school, not because of inattention or laziness, but because they just can't help it.

Prof. Robert Knights, a psychologist at Carleton University, said these are children who, because of a minor functional disorder in one of the brain areas, have been unable to learn to read, to write or to spell, or have poor motor control or behavioral problems.

They usually fall repeatedly in school, contend with unjustified expectations of teachers, become the object of teasing by classmates and are under constant pressure from parents.

Prof. Knights is engaged in a program aimed at offering new hope to many children with these problems.

A 36-year-old native of Thunder Bay, Ont., Prof. Knights began his studies with children with learning problems as a professor at University of Western Ontario in London from 1964 to 1969. He has since written more than 20 publications in conjunction with different pediatricians on his findings.

Prof. Knights graduated from Western with a BA in psychology in 1955 and returned there after getting his PhD in psychology from the University of Minnesota. He became a registered psychologist in Ontario in 1964.

With the support of an Ontario Mental Health Foundation grant, Prof. Knights has tested more than 1,000 students in the last five years.

The children, recommended to Prof. Knights because of their slowness in learning in school, are given 17 tests designed to measure various skills. The tests can take up to five or six hours, depending on the child.

He finds that one of the most common learning disorders among the children tested is inability to read, known as dyslexia.

Dyslexia occurs when the part of the brain used in the function of reading doesn't mature normally. That is why some people suddenly find reading a lot easier when they are in their late teens.

Prof. Knights suggests that the importance attached to reading should be de-emphasized. If a child can't learn to read, the alternative is to stress some activity that doesn't require reading.

A first step in dealing with children with dyslexia is to change the attitude of people involved with them, Prof. Knights said. The child's problem shouldn't be treated as a disgrace or an embarrassment.

"If you can't change the child, change his environment," is Prof. Knights' theme.

Under the grade system that still exists in many schools, the child who can't read is prone to failure. Failure is a stigma that makes the problem seem even worse for the child.

Dr. Knights advocates a non-grade system where a child can proceed at his own rate. "Children accept that there are fast learners and slow learners" in this system and slowness is no longer a stigma.

Many children with problems like inability to read, to spell or to write now may use a tape recorder to make their notes and even to do exams. Typewriters help children who can't write properly says Prof. Knights. For some undetermined reason children who can't spell seem to improve on a typewriter.

Giving a child incentive is one of the most successful ways of improving his reading, Prof. Knights said. One incentive is to "let him read what he wants to read"—even if parents don't agree with the subject matter.

There are other incentives.

One child who has a reading problem is saving up to buy a bicycle, so his mother gives him a cent for every page he reads. Another child who likes records gets a new one after a specified amount of reading.

FIX OWN ERRORS

These children should never be corrected if they make a reading mistake, Prof. Knights said. "Once they start reading well enough, they will correct their own mistakes."

One mother was skeptical about this advice. However, she didn't correct her son's mistakes and soon reported that he was going back and correcting them himself so he could understand the story.

Prof. Knights said some children with diagnosed motor problems have been helped by drugs. Others have been found to have no brain disorder but simply couldn't adjust to a school environment. But a great number have, through new approaches, been able to succeed where they had once failed.

ST. COLUMBA WOMEN

The Presbyterian Women of St. Columba Church held their regular monthly meeting on Monday, October 19.

Mrs. Pat Hasselfelt and her committee conducted the worship service, followed by a delightful skit based on Chapter 6 of the Study Book, "Community without Boundaries." Four friendly neighbors, meeting for a chat, pass a cup of tea, certainly professing to be good Christians and in many ways proving that they are in their fellowship, concern for others and appreciation for the beauties of nature, but at the same time, bringing to light so many human errors by judging others too quickly, by making excuses for not participating or by offering their services grudgingly.

Mrs. D. Taylor presided for the business meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Doreen Hackett, who unfortunately had to miss the first meeting in many months because her husband is hospitalized.

Future plans were discussed and a rewarding evening was enjoyed.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Counselling Service A Help to Unwed Mother

By MARY MOORE

Last Monday I gave you two recipes for cookies that may be made in advance and frozen — Pecan Balls and Coconut Cherry Jumbles. I promised to give you about nine of these handy type of cookie recipes for your pre-Christmas season baking.

Here are two more — also tested by my former secretary Shirley.

FROSTED ANGEL BARS (Courtesy Aunts Cora; will freeze before icing)

Basic Layer:

1¼ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 tbsps. light brown sugar
½ cup best quality shortening

Filling Layer:

1¼ cups light brown sugar
2 eggs beaten
1 cup chopped walnuts
½ cup flaked coconut
1 tbsp. flour
½ tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. vanilla

To make Basic cream together Basic Layer ingredients and press with wet hands into ungreased 9" x 9" x 2" pan. Do not bake yet.

To make Filling Layer mix together the brown sugar and eggs. Add remaining Filling Ingredients and mix well. Spread on top of base. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 40 min. Cool and if to be frozen, freeze-wrap and freeze. If to be used at once, frost while warm with plain icing. If frozen frost after thawing.

TUTTI-FRUITTI BALLS (Courtesy Shirley's mother; will freeze)

One 15oz. can condensed (not evaporated milk

2 tbsps. lemon juice
3 cups miniature marshmallows (coloured, each one in half with wet scissors
2-3 cup chopped raisins or currants
2-3 cup desiccated coconut
2-3 cup chopped walnuts
2-3 cup drained, chopped maraschino cherries
2 cups graham wafer crumbs (buy packaged crumbs)

Extra coconut for rolling

Mix together all Balls ingredients. Roll into little balls. then roll balls in extra coconut to coat them. Stand on cookie sheet to "set" in refrigerator. Freeze-wrap and freeze. If Balls are about 1 tsp. size the yield is 9½.

MONDAY

Dinner Menus

Successful Living

A Variety of Recipes for Pre-Christmas Baking

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: This spring our daughter, who is 17, went away to work and came home pregnant. I hope I am wrong but I have a feeling her boy friend skipped out on her.

Can we go after his boy and, if nothing comes of it, could you tell me where they have homes for unwed mothers?

We cannot afford to keep her at home since she has been a very hard girl to raise. The baby would have to go up for we have one of ours not get married — What To Do?

Dear What: You play with fire when you flatly declare those two alternatives. You may force her into a tragic marriage; or in deciding for her that the baby must go, you may give her years of even greater sorrow.

If she is refusing to identify the father, she may dread the idea of having anything more to do with him. At the same time, if he can be located he is obliged by law to contribute to your daughter's medical care and hospitalization, and the support of his baby.

As for adoption, this has to be your girl's decision. Unwed mothers are people, with feelings. She must be helped to make a decision she can live with. (See my leaflet, "Unwed Mothers and Their Babies" enclosed.)

Waste no time in getting to be the family counselling service in your area.

-Dear Doris: Can you crystallize rose leaves? I can remember having little candied violets a long time ago and now a friend of mine wants to do the same thing with other flowers. — Candy Cook.

Dear Candy Cook: Yes, you can. In fact, a certain Hollywood movie star, name of Zsa Zsa Plitz, has written a book about how to do this. Details to anyone writing in.

* * *

Dear Doris: I seem to have the knack of turning people on wrong. Now things I used to take for granted (saying hello, talking etc.) I get very frightened about and can't do. I think I maybe don't talk in an interesting way either.

My face turns red (or feels like it), when I'm nervous worried, frightened or some stress about nothing whatever. How can I stop this? — Nervous and Worried.

Dear N and W: And then every time you feel you have the knack of turning people on wrong. Now things I used to take for granted (saying hello, talking etc.) I get very frightened about and can't do. I think I maybe don't talk in an interesting way either.

My face turns red (or feels like it), when I'm nervous worried, frightened or some stress about nothing whatever. How can I stop this? — Nervous and Worried.

Dear N and W: And then every time you feel you have the knack of turning people on wrong. Now things I used to take for granted (saying hello, talking etc.) I get very frightened, Quite a vicious circle.

What can I say that hasn't been said many times before? It's no good to climb back into your shell and stay there, and that's for sure. Would it help to know that all of us clash with somebody, sometimes? If we keep trying hard enough, we usually muddle through.

Learn something new to talk about. How well do you read the newspaper? Do you have any hobby at all?

Let going at something maybe a night course in clay modelling or furniture finishing — deepening your inclinations — and there'll be new friendships for you, reliable ones, springing out of a mutual interest.

(Are you in doubt about the proper etiquette to use for your social occasions. Ask Doris, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for her reply.)

Ann Landers

Babysitting Uncle Flayed for Discipline

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last week my brother and his wife went on a trip. They left their 14-year-old son with us. From the beginning, the boy's behavior toward his aunt was rude and mocking. He became smart-alecky on several occasions. I warned him to watch his mouth. When he called my wife a vulgar name I warned his rump with a ping-pong paddle. From then on he was most respectful and we had no more trouble with him.

Yesterday my brother came for the boy. I told him about the incident. His reaction astonished me. He said I had no business laying a hand on his son, that I should have waited until he returned and let him administer the punishment "in his own way."

I believe a child should be punished when he misbehaves, not a week later. What do you say? — STRICT UNCLE.

DEAR UNC: The method of discipline should have been discussed before the parents left. Since it was not, there should be no criticism of the manner in which you dealt with the boy.

I have a hunch if the father had paid more attention to his son's extracurricular activities, he would not be using vulgar language with his aunt — or anyone else.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I can a pack rat who clips articles and keeps them forever. I would like to submit excerpts from an article which appeared in Harper's Magazine 18 years ago. It was written by John Fischer, then Editor-in-Chief.

"Many U.S. men die early from ulcers and high blood pressure because their wives set out to reform them as soon as the wedding ceremony is over. Most American brides regard a husband as 175 pounds of raw material. She feels it is her duty to make something out of the material even if she has to wear her tongue to the roots in the process. This undaunted approach may have something to do with the U.S. divorce rate, the murders, and the vast number of characters who sit nursing shot glasses in men's bars late at night. Nevertheless, it has made American women the envy of the world. Never before in history has a nation devoted so much of its brains and resources to the sole purpose of keeping women deodorized, corseted, enshrined in chrome cosmetic kitchens, diamond-ringed, rejuvenated and protected against all physical labor. Meanwhile the husbands of these household pets live in state agony and die mercifully from ulcers and high blood pressure."

When I clipped this article 18 years ago I was amused. Today I do not think it is funny. I see myself and I am ashamed. I hope you will print the excerpt, Ann. My wife won't recognize herself because she believes she is perfect. — COWARD.

DEAR COWARD: The excerpt is amusing but it certainly does not apply to all women. Show me a man who tolerates a "slattern who is too lazy to bathe herself" as a wife, and I'll show you a man who enjoys being taken advantage of, needs it and deserves it.

* * *

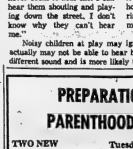
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last week I went to a party. Three people I had never seen before came up and asked me to buy raffle tickets for a benefit. Sunday I attended a wedding reception. Two casual acquaintances tried to sell me tickets to a bazaar. Last night I was invited to the home of a relative. No sooner had I entered the house than the 11-year-old son of the hostess bit up every guest for a ticket to his Sunday school play. Of course no one had the nerve to refuse. I call this high-grade blackmail. What do you call it? — PIGEON.

DEAR PIDGE: Low-grade manners.

CLUB 4-H NOTES

RYLSTONE 4-H CLUB

CAMPBELLFORD (Sps cial) — The Rylstone 4-H (Woolly Lambs) Club held their record fifth meeting in the Rylstone Women's Institute Hall with ten ladies answering roll call.



Following a brief business period a discussion on making posters for the fitting of Mrs. Douglas Brunton demonstrated the proper method of trimming a lamb's hoof and gave an example of underwhitting.

Each member was shown a the senior members gave slo to the juniors with the fitting of animals. Work continued on the girl's skirts with instruction of zippers being practised.

The next meeting will be held on Oct. 17 at the Women's Institute Hall at 1 p.m. Achievement Day will be held on Dec. 12.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "I've yelled myself hoarse, but the children never seem to hear me. I can hear them shouting and playing down the street. I don't know why they can't hear me."

Mother: "I'll ring this bell two times as a warning that it's almost time to come home. When you hear four rings, it's time to come immediately."

Noisy children at play may ignore mother's voice or they actually may not be able to hear her. The clang of a bell is a different sound and is more likely to be answered.

Lull in Kidnap Case Gives Police Breather

MONTREAL (CP) — A lull in Montreal's political kidnap developments today gave police a chance to regroup before pressing on with the search for a gang of terrorist murderers.

It was three weeks ago today that the revolutionary Front de Liberation du Quebec stepped up its reign of terror by kidnapping British diplomat James (Jasper) Cross from his uptown home.

The second kidnapping and subsequent murder of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte brought down on the country the tightest security ever experienced in peacetime.

It was under the shadow of this security that Montrealers held their civic election Sunday and they re-elected Mayor Jean Drapeau and his whole slate of Civic Party candidates.

Mayor Drapeau had joined with Premier Robert Bourassa in Quebec in appealing to the federal government to recognize a state of "apprehended insurrection" which brought proclamation Oct. 16 of the War Measures Act.

An anonymous threat to "blow up" things during the election unless four jailed FLQ members or sympathizers were released was dismissed by police as a hoax.

But it gave some electors an uneasy feeling because past Montreal election days have been turbulent and the FLQ's reign of terror started seven years ago was with a series of bombs.

However, only one man was arrested during the day's polling and police said it was the quietest election in memory.

One senior officer of the provincial police said during the weekend:

"We've just been getting our second wind. Once we've assessed what has been done so far we'll be in a better position to decide what the next course will be."

Nothing has been heard directly from the FLQ since a week ago Sunday when one of their notes turned up with a letter from Mrs. Cross saying he was well but still in danger of death from his abductors.

Some police officers, on duty night and day since the kidnappings, were given time off during the weekend but were expected to be on call.

One flurry during the weekend brought out police and troops, who have been called in to help civil authorities during the emergency period.

After an anonymous tip that Mr. Cross was being held in an apartment building of the east-end Hochelaga Street area, truckloads of soldiers and busloads of police went to the spot.

While the soldiers with fixed bayonets sealed off a three-block area, police made a house-to-house search without finding anything.

Another anonymous tip that Mr. Cross' body would be found in what Montrealers called the Back River sent police to the northeast corner of Montreal Island, but again nothing was found.

After warrants had been issued for five men wanted in the kidnappings, a man named Bernard Lortie was picked up in the Ottawa area Saturday. Provincial police said later he was not the man who was wanted although the name was the same.

Meanwhile, the roundup of FLQ sympathizers and others continued but at a slower pace than when the series of arrests started at dawn Oct. 16 with a proclamation of the War Measures Act giving police extraordinary powers of search and arrest.

Police said that by early today 152 were being held while another 230 had been questioned and released.

One of those arrested and released without charge was French-Canadian popular singer Pauline Julien, whose separatist leanings are reported to have caused her to refuse to sing for the Queen during a 1964 Royal Visit.

She was let out Saturday and came home to find that her teen-age son and daughter, her sister Fabienne and two friends had been held for 24 hours.

"I cannot believe that children of that age are a menace to the state," she said.

In Sarnia, Ont., David Lewis, deputy leader of the New Democratic Party and MP for York South, told a news conference that only about 25 of the 370 he said were jailed have affiliation with subversive groups.

However, because of the justice department's policy of refusing to name those detained it was impossible to check on the affiliations of more than the handful whose arrests have been reported in the newspapers.

In other developments:

—Air Canada placed a weekend embargo on all air freight and express from Quebec points for "security reasons." The embargo was ordered from 4 a.m. Saturday to 4 a.m. today.

—In Ottawa, Defence Minister Donald Macdonald said in a television interview that proclamation of the War Measures Act was based on a pattern of terrorism rather than the discovery of any specific terrorist plot.

He said there was "a pattern of incidents here which, given the revolutionary ideology we're talking about in other situations and in other countries, had escalated itself up into a state of disorder in which it will be virtually impossible to carry on the normal processes of government."

—In France a leading member of the Gaullist Gaullist party said the current Quebec tragedy showed clearly that Gen. de Gaulle was right in recognized, earlier than others, the wish of the Quebec people to affirm the province's own personality.

Jean Charbonnel, the party's deputy secretary-general, was speaking of the general's "vive le Quebec libre" cry when he visited Canada in 1967.

"There is no doubt that if this standpoint had been more widely shared, today's explosion would not have happened," he said.

—In London the Sunday Express said in an editorial that de Gaulle should issue a public statement expressing horror at the current events in Quebec because his cry had encouraged the province's separatists.

But the editorial added that there should be no attempt to attach responsibility to de Gaulle for the events in Quebec.

turned to Montreal today."

Reigning his fifth term as Montreal's chief magistrate, Mr. Drapeau said the result of the election shows that voters in Canada's biggest city reject "false prophets and . . . false preachers not responsible to anyone."

The mayor did not specify to whom he was referring, but last week he was handed a damage suit for saying there was a link between FRAP and the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec. FRAP categorically denied it.

The FLQ has claimed responsibility for two kidnappings and a political assassination.

There were elaborate security precautions around city hall. Reporters, male and female, were required to show a special pass issued by city hall and were frisked by burly policemen at the entrance to the election centre.

At least one reporter was refused admittance because he could not produce the pass.

Outside the massive downtown building, armed soldiers called into the city two weeks ago during the police search for FLQ kidnappers, manned their posts.

Inside the election centre, there was little doubt as to the outcome after one per cent of the vote was recorded.

Less than two hours after the polls closed at 8 p.m., Mayor Drapeau had a 30-to-1 lead over his nearest opponent. By 11:30 p.m. he had 220,627 votes while notary Andre Desmarais had 16,512.

Meanwhile, some of the losers gave brief interviews to reporters.

Manon Leger, 22, the only woman to oppose the mayor, said the election was a real farce and Mayor Drapeau won by conducting a campaign of terror." She ran third with more than 6,800 votes.

Mr. Desmarais said he and other mayoralty candidates had "no chance to expose our opinions."

"I wanted to be a serious candidate but under the abnormal situation created by the idiotic acts of the FLQ, I had no chance."

The outlawed revolutionary FLQ, seeking Quebec independence from Canada, has claimed responsibility for the abduction of British envoy James Cross and the kidnap-slaying of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

Joseph Zappia, leader of the Montreal party whose 15 candidates were buried in the landslide Drapeau win, took a calmer view.

"We have to agree with our fellow Montrealers that a very strong mayor and administration is needed to deal with the present situation.

"This is no time to wrangle or undermine the city's administration."

Paul Cliche, defeated FRAP president, said the labor-backed party, formed through a coalition of a dozen citizens' groups, is looking to the future.

"Today was the beginning," he said.

Mr. Cliche, a former newspaper man and official of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, admitted the party had failed in its primary goal: To create an opposition at city hall.

FRAP last week filed a $3.8 million damage suit against Mayor Drapeau for alleged remarks concerning infiltration of "terrorists and revolutionaries" in the socialist-leaning party.

Other aspirants to the mayor's chair were Dr. Claude Longtin, a psychoanalyst and head of the Parti Realiste Ouvrier, economist Thomas Symons and Joseph Abraham, and Dr. Jean-Guy Robillard.

Notable among the long list of losing council candidates were Dr. Henri Bellemare and Jean Ray, two FRAP members held by police for five days under the War Measures Act, and Doug Harvey, former hockey great and a candidate for the Montreal party.

Lead Singer 10-years-Old

LOS ANGELES (AP) — You're 10 years old, bubbling with energy and lead singer of a family group that is one of the fastest rising sensations on the pop music scene today.

You wear a peace ring, collect lizards, white mice and snakes, ride a mini-bike, have a ferocious-sounding German shepherd dog and giggle over letters from admiring 12-year-old girls who say their "love still lingers."

Your name is Michael Jackson and together with four brothers—Jackie, 19; Tigo, 16; Jermaine, 14; and Marlon, 11—you make up the Jackson 5.

Each of their first three records has been No. 1 on disc jockey charts, selling more than eight million copies, not including 500,000 sales of an album.

Their latest release, I'll Be There, appears headed for the top across the United States.

Has success spoiled them?

"I don't think so," says quiet-spoken Katherine Jackson, their mother and a clarinet player. They are a closely-knit deeply-religious family.

"They were brought up strictly," says Mrs. Jackson. "They weren't allowed to run the streets because juvenile delinquency was like running water in Gary."

The boys, along with three other brothers and sisters, grew up in Gary, Ind., where their father, Joe Jackson, operated a crane in a steel mill.

Last year, singer Diana Ross was in Gary to do a benefit show. She met the Jackson brothers perform, liked what she saw and introduced them to Motown, the Los Angeles-based Detroit-based recording company.

The J-5's sound is something they developed call'd "bubble-gum soul," a mixture of Pop and soul.

On stage their 45-minute act has fans, young and old, screaming, stomping and clapping.

One of their appeals is youth. "They're young boys who young people can identify with," says their father, a guitar player who never made it to the top and now is their chief advisor.

"They don't have to give a message. They are pure entertainment."

ABSURD FORBIDDEN

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — It's illegal in this city to hitch your horse to a shade tree. So says the penal code here. Likewise, you can't beat a carpet on a sidewalk, play stickball on city streets or hire a woman under 25 to work in a fruit stand —unless she's a member of your family.

At Consumers Distributing you save up to 40% on these and hundreds of other first quality name brand items you buy each year for yourself, your family, or for gift giving.

What makes Consumers Distributing savings possible? Three Secrets.

1. INCONVENIENCE. At Consumers Distributing we figure you'll trade a few frills for solid savings. So we locate away from the high rent district. Our parking space is sometimes limited. Our showrooms aren't large and can get a little crowded. You have to make out your own order, and you don't get much personal attention from our limited number of sales clerks. Results? Big savings on selling, which we pass along to you.

2. INSTEAD OF A BIG BEAUTIFUL STORE, A BIG BEAUTIFUL CATALOGUE. At Consumers Distributing we display only a fraction of our merchandise. So instead of having a big beautiful store to browse through, we give you a big beautiful catalogue to browse through. And you can take it home! The famous CD catalogue describes and illustrates in colour everything you can buy at Consumers Distributing. You select your merchandise from its pages, either in the showroom or at home.

3. VOLUME BUYING. CD's streamlined selling methods are matched by streamlined buying methods. We're the biggest customers of many of Canada's best-known manufacturers. Our big volume discounts are part of the saving you enjoy when you shop at CD.

Many people find CD's inconvenience very convenient!

At Consumers Distributing you don't get waited on hand and foot. But most people find they save time shopping at CD. You present one order at one counter and get all your merchandise from one clerk. So, for instance, you can knock off your entire Christmas shopping list at one visit. There's no wandering from floor to floor, department to department, fighting crowds all the way.

More about CD's famous catalogue

If you come and see us right now, we'll give you your own 1970-71 Consumers Distributing catalogue to take home. But you need to hurry, because we do run out. Having your own catalogue is great because you can look through it at home and make out your shopping list at leisure. (If you don't have your own, there's always a catalogue for you to use in the store.)

Besides telling you what you can buy at Consumers Distributing, your catalogue shows you exactly how much you save. Near each item is the manufacturer's suggested list price Then, to the left, is the low Consumers Distributing price in code.

Fairway First

Sponsor Earl Johnson prepares to drop the puck (?) for the official opening of the Belleville Fairways 1970-71 Eastern Ontario Junior B hockey season. Former McFarland standout Gord Bell and alderman Robin Jeffrey prepare to battle over the out-sized golf ball. The Fairways lost a 4-3 decision to Oshawa when play began in earnest.

Mo-Hawks Leg Weary in 7-2 Loss

The Belleville, Mo-Hawks found their skating legs too late after their Sunday trip to Orillia as the Terriers pumped in four unanswered goals in the opening period en route to a 7-3 OHA Senior A win.

"Skating is the name of the game," said coach Dave Jones. "We started skating in the last two periods, but by then it was out of reach."

Clare Alexander, Bob Cunningham, Garry Moore and George Westfall all pumped goals past a beleaguered Callum McPher, as Orillia outshot the losers 16-3 in the opening period.

Jones replaced his starting goalie with Steve Rexe in the second frame in order to give last season's standout some work after his late start. Rexe faced 18 shots over the last two frames allowing the final three Orillia goals.

Belleville rallied briefly in the second period after Alexander's second goal had made it 5-0 in favour of the Terriers.

Last Period Lapse Costly to Fairways

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

Belleville Fairways coach Floyd Crawford has a problem common to many of his counterparts in the hockey world — too many one-way hockey players.

Not that the Belleville Juniors won't play defence. In fact it was a strong backchecking effort by the Fairways forwards, along with superb goaltending by Ron Jury, that kept them within range in Sunday's 4-3 tie to the powerful Oshawa Crushmen.

The problem lies at the other end of the rink. It was evident in Sunday's game that aside from Danny Lapenotte and Dave Smith, Belleville's most serious offensive threat would have consisted of mailing a poison pen letter to the Oshawa goalie.

Despite their offensive problems it took a brief last-period letdown by the Fairways to allow the Crushmen to bounce back from a 3-1 deficit and gain the one-goal decision.

Belleville lead 1-0 after the opening 20 minutes, almost solely on the efforts of Jury who kicked out 17 shots as Oshawa held a wide territorial edge.

The Fairways' counter came on an individual effort by Lapenotte, who stickhandled the Crushmen dizzy, circled behind the Oshawa net and best goalie Dennis Higgins on the far side, to open the scoring at 4.41.

The second period was by far Belleville's best as the team showed good positional play with the Fairway wingers were backchecking tenaciously.

Keith McConnell made up for a missed breakaway attempt by Gary Larsh, earlier in the period when his long shot from the left wing boards hit a Crushmen player and deflected past Higgins.

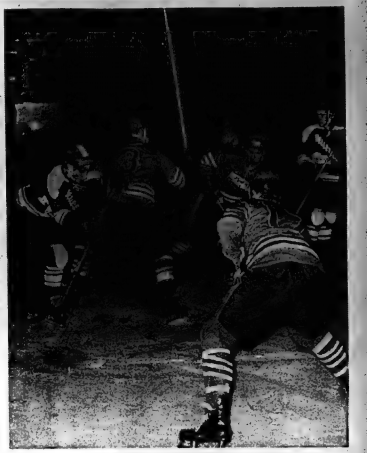
late in the period on a goal by Larry Hopkins. Jury appared to lose sight of the puck after making the initial stop on Steve West and Hopkins was able to jam the Khaw puck in the net.

The turning point in the game came early in the third period when the Fairways couldn't mount an offensive threat despite holding a man advantage for the first minute and 45 seconds.

Another missed breakaway attempt, this time by Joe Clarke and penalties to Clarke and John Mulvihill seemed to deflate the Belleville team as Oshawa scored three times within four minutes.

"They just quit skating and backchecking for about five minutes," said Crawford. "I don't know why a team goes into a shell like that, but even the best ones do it sometimes."



The Belleville defence, which played one of its poorest games to date allowed the Crushmen to walk in unmolested for scores by Steve West and Don Hudgin, on which Jury had no chance.

West tallied the winning goal on a power play effort at 6.08 of the final frame. The shifty winger carried the puck in, split the Belleville defence and beat Jury with a backhand shot.

The home team recovered to hold Oshawa off the scoreboard for the final 14 minutes but were able to muster only one offensive threat.

Doug James tipped a passout from Dave Smith just wide of the open side of the Crushmen net in the last minute of play with Belleville going with six attackers.

The winners held a 42-34 edge in shots on goal during the opening game of the Eastern Ontario Junior B league for Belleville. Sponsor Earl Johnson opened the season by dropping a kling-size golf ball at the face-off between Gord Bell and alderman Robin Jeffrey.

Oshawa Clobbers Injured Hawks

The second game in as many nights proved too much for the Trenton Golden Hawks as they received a 9-5 thrashing at the hands of the Oshawa Crushmen after dropping a 5-3 squeaker to Kingston Friday.

Injuries confused to plague Trenton as they lost the services of first line centre Chris Long with a cracked jaw and wrestle replacement Ted Brown with a six - stitch cut on his face. Already on the sidelines are stumpy winger Pete Usman who required a stitch graft to his ear after receiving a high stick Friday and lanky centre Bim McFall with a charley horse.

The male-thrive in the side of the Trenton attack Sunday was netminder Tom Christie, who robbed the Hawks of good scoring chances a half dozen times in the first period, and stymied Paul Lavender on three good scoring chances in the middle frame.

Oshawa Bounces Novice Minors

In minor hockey action Sunday, Mulroney's Sunoco Minor Novices absorbed a 15-3 pasting at the hands of Oshawa. Mark Crawford and Wayne Deighton were the only Mulroney scorers as Oshawa held a 29-13 edge in shots on goal.

Belleville Minors Hold Their Own

Despite a lack of conditioning by the Belleville all-star hockey squads the home teams were able to put up highly respectable showings as they entertained teams from Chingicousy (near Bramalea), Saturday.

In the first contest Towers Food City Novices dropped a 2-0 decision to the visitors. Mark Crowell notched the shutout with Rick Trotter and Jim Perry scoring for the winners.

In the peewee game it was Chingicousy coming out ahead once again, this time by a 3-1 margin. Bob Crawford counted the lone goal for the Belleville Rollins peewees.

The Kinsmen bantams gained some measure of revenge by overcoming a 3-1 deficit to defeat the visitors 6-4. Rick Barbeau paced the winners with a pair of goals with singles going to Bruce Sutherland, Eric Powell, Steve Kirby and Peter Crawford.

In the final contest of the afternoon, the Blake Kerr Imperial Midgets played to a 2-2 tie-off with Peir Chingicousy opposition. Outstanding goaltending highlighted the contest as Bob Moore and Bruce Clarke split the chores for Belleville, while Terry Mastin went all the way for the opposition. Robbie Foster and Paul Ackerman were the Blake Kerr goalgetters.

'Who's Winning'

Oshawa's Bob Kirk looks on as teammate Brian Genge and Belleville defenceman Tim Yohn battle for possession of the puck in Sunday's Eastern Ontario Junior B encounter in Belleville. The defending pennant winners came up with three goals in the last period to take a 4-3 decision from the Fairways, who were playing their first league game.

Public Schools Split Honors In South Hastings Soccer Tourney

No one school managed to dominate the South Hastings Public School Soccer Tournament Saturday as the four divisions produced a different winner in each.

A total of nine schools took part in the double elimination tourney played at King George and Quinte Secondary Schools.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell finished on top in the grade seven boys competition with Bronder taking runner-up honors. In the grade eight boys it was Tyendinega first and Harmony second.

Harmony managed a first in the grade seven girls play, ahead of Sir Mackenzie Bowell. Frankford copped the honors in the grade eight girls section, while Sir Mackenzie Bowell gained their third placing as runners-up.

Canuck Horsemen Improving

HARRISBURG, Pa. (CP) — The 25th annual Harrisburg Horse Show ended Saturday with a flawless performance by one Canadian rider and a promise from another that the winning West Germans may find tougher competition in the future.

The West German team made a near-sweep of the awards here, winning seven of the nine individual honors. The Germans also had four members among the top five riders and three of the four leading horses.

Before Saturday's final event, only Capt. E. V. Campion of the Irish team had been able to dent the West German domination of the five-nation competition here.

But Barbara Simpson of Calgary, the only woman in the field of 18 riders, won the International Grand Prix Saturday night with two perfect rides aboard Australis in the 13-jump event.

The West Germans finished the competition with 122 points. Canada was second with 46, the United States third with 42 and Ireland had 28. Mexico, in the midst of rebuilding its team, failed to pick up a single point.

Moffat Dunlap of Newmarket, Ont., the leading rider here last year, said:

"I don't know what they'll do in New York, but by the time they get to Canada, our horses will be ready for them and I can promise you they won't have the easy time they had in Harrisburg."

The New York show opens Nov. 3 and the Toronto competition begins Nov. 12.

Miss Simpson, a 23-year-old student at the University of British Columbia, moved up to third in the individual standings with her victory in the Grand Prix event.

Hans Gunter Winkler of West Germany placed first in the individual standings with 30 points and teammate Gerd Wiltfang was second with 26. Miss Simpson was third with 22. West Germans Lutz Merkel and Hartwig Steenken were tied with 20.

Muhammad Ali Returns to 'Job' After Three Year Lay-Off

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Muhammad Ali, lecturer; actor and fast food dealer, returns to his true profession of prize fighting tonight in a scheduled 15-round bout against Jerry Quarry.

"This is how I earn my living; this is my job," said Ali on the eve of his first fight since being stripped of his heavyweight championship following his conviction for refusing induction into the U.S. Army. The conviction still is being appealed.

During the time since he knocked out Zora Folley, March 22, 1967, Ali has lectured at colleges throughout the country, starred in the short-lived Broadway play Buck White and opened a chain of burger and french fry stands.

Despite his long absence from the ring, excepting a few exhibitions, Ali rules as the top-heavy favorite in the fight which has drawn little gambling interest.

But there is general interest for the bout because of the controversial nature of Ali who rose to the boxing heights as Cassius Clay.

The fight, starting at 10:40 p.m. EST, will be shown on closed-circuit television in the United States and Canada and will be beamed via satellite to Europe, South America, Asia and Russia.

With tickets for the 3,500-seat Atlanta Municipal Auditorium scaled from $15 to $100, and not all sold, and 900,000 seats available for closed circuit television, the projected gross for the fight is $3 million. Ali has been guaranteed $200,000 against 45% per cent of the gross which would bring him about $1.25 million. Quarry is guaranteed $100,000 against 22½ per cent.

A victory for Ali would set the stage for a big-money fight with Joe Frazier, who ascended to the title during Ali's exile. And an upset by Quarry would give the Californian another shot at Frazier who knocked him out in seven rounds June 23, 1969.

However, Frazier must first defend his title against lightheavyweight king Bob Foster Nov. 14 in Detroit.

Just getting a license to fight in Atlanta was a victory for Ali who had seen numerous attempts for fights foiled since his conviction. Gov. Lester Maddox has publicly opposed the fight but he cannot legally stop it because Georgia has no state boxing commission.

The promoters of the fight are House of Sports, Inc., whose president is State Sen. Leroy Johnson, and Sports Action, Inc.

Ali, who has reach and weight advantages over Quarry, turned to the punch-for-pay ranks after winning the Olympic heavyweight title for the United States in 1960 and has won all 29 of his pro fights, 23 by knockout.

Quarry, who considers this a championship fight since "Ali never lost the title in the ring," is expected to try to mount a body attack in an effort to tire Ali. He has a record of 27 victories, 22 by knockout; four losses and four draws. He has been knocked out twice, by Frazier and by George Chuvalo.

All, 28, won the title by stopping Sonny Liston in seven rounds when Liston quit in his corner in Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 25, 1964. His first title defence was a controversial one-round knockout of Liston in Lewiston, Me., May 25, 1965.

He then went on to defend his title seven more times, winning five of the fights on knockouts. In the other two, he scored 15-round decisions over Chuvalo and Ernie Terrell.

The 25-year-old Quarry has scored a 10-round decision over George (Scrapiron) Johnson and six-round knockouts of promising Mac Foster and Stanford Harris since losing to Chuvalo and is rated the top challenger by the World Boxing Association. Besides losing to Frazier, Quarry also lost a 15-round decision to Jimmy Ellis in the final of the WBA title tournament April 27, 1968.

Veterans Spark Bruins, Red Wings As Clubs Gain Ground in NHL East

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings used some old hands on the firing lines Sunday to make headway in the National Hockey League's East Division.

Boston defenceman Ted Green, near death a year ago from a serious head injury suffered in pre-season play, ignited a limpid Bruin offence with his first goal since returning to the lineup and Boston rallied from a two-goal deficit to a 4-3 win over Philadelphia Flyers.

The Red Wings squashed rumored trade talks when they re-united veteran Gordie Howe with linemates Alex Delvecchio and Frank Mahovlich and fought Montreal Canadiens to a 3-3 deadlock. Mahovlich and Howe each scored and drew assists on defenceman Gary Bergman's goal.

In other Sunday night games, California Golden Seals and New York Rangers settled for a 2-2 tie, Chicago Black Hawks trimmed Buffalo Sabres 4-0 on goalie Tony Esposito's second shutout in as many nights, and Vancouver Canucks extended their unbeaten string to three games in a 1-1 tie with Pittsburgh Penguins.

Saturday's action saw Montreal trim Philadelphia 3-1, Chicago blank Toronto 1-0, New York down Minnesota North Stars 4-1 and Los Angeles Kings register their first win over St. Louis Blues in 17 games, 3-1.

The league's newest entries, Buffalo and Vancouver, meet Tuesday night on the West Coast.

Green was given a minutelong standing ovation by 14,888 Bostonians after his goal at 4:28 of the second period.

He missed the entire 1969-70 season after a skull fracture 13 months ago, suffered in a stick-swinging duel with Wayne Maki of St. Louis Blues and now with Vancouver, left the left side of his face and body partially paralyzed.

He got the green light to resume skating at the start of last season few hockey people expected him to return to the form that had made him one of the most respected defencemen in the league.

But the 30-year-old St. Boniface, Man., native who now makes his home in a Boston suburb had been given every opportunity by Boston management to play his way back on to the championship team and responded in a fashion that delighted even his ardent supporters.

The Bruins, who saw their unbeaten string threatened on first-period goals by Simon Nolet and Bobby Clark, took command after Green's goal and held a 22-3 shooting edge in the second period.

Centre Phil Esposito tied the score 27 seconds after Green's goal and John McKenzie notched the winner midway through the third period.

The tie at Detroit came following meetings between players and a management disturbed over the Red Wings' slow start that had seen them win only two of their first seven starts. Howe, being tested in a defence roll this year after 24 years as an all-star right winger, joined Mahovlich and Delvecchio to start the game and the revival of the high-scoring unit was an instant success.

The tie ended a Detroit losing streak of two games, despite two power-play goals by Montreal's Yvan Cournoyer, his eighth and ninth of the season.

TED GREEN

Cournoyer's goal came after Howe had drawn a penalty for interference at 4:46 of the third period.

Sid Abel, Detroit's general manager, reported to be conducting trade negotiations with several NHL clubs, said following Sunday's game the Red Wings "played terrific."

"They played the way we know they can play.

The results left Boston in a three-way tie for first in the East with Montreal and New York, each with 11 points and five ahead of Vancouver and Detroit. Chicago leads the West Division with 12 points, followed by Philadelphia and St. Louis with nine each and Minnesota with six.

Wayne Maki for the Canucks and Bryan Hextall for Pittsburgh did all the scoring before 13,329 in Vancouver who saw several outstanding thrusts turned aside by Vancouver goalie George Gardner and his Penguin counterpart, Al Smith.

Ranger veteran Jean Ratelle's goal in the third period, after an earlier one had been called back, kept California's winless string intact. The Golden Seals have just two ties to show in eight starts.

Referee Bob Sloan ruled that Ratelle's goal had been pushed into the net. Earlier, California's Gary Jarrett had an apparent goal nullified by Sloan.

In Saturday's play, two second-period goals by centre John Wright broke open a 1-1 deadlock and sent the Kings winging to their home-ice win over St. Louis. Doug Lansanne and the Los Angeles Inia a 1-0 first-period lead but Blues' Jim Lorentz came through with the equalizer before the session ended.

Captain Jean Beliveau emptied his net goal at 19:17 of the third period provided the insurance tally at Montreal after Flyers' goalie Doug Favell had been removed in favor of a sixth attacker with Philadelphia on the short end of a 2-1 score.

Senior 'A' Favorites Continue Winning Ways

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Galt Hornets, Barrie Flyers and Orillia Terriers, favored to form a three-team struggle for first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series this season, all won during the weekend.

The Terriers, defending regular season and playoff champions as well as Allan Cup runners-up, ran their winning string to six games Sunday with a 7-2 home-ice decision over Belleville McHawks. Barrie tripped Owen Sound Crescents 6-2 and Galt defeated Woodstock Athletics 10-1 Saturday while Kingston Aces nipped Oakville Oaks 3-4 in the second Sunday game.

Orillia leads the eight-team group with 12 points from its perfect record. Barrie is two points off the pace with a 5-1 won-lost record and Galt, Allan Cup winners of two seasons ago, ranks third at 4-2, three points ahead of Kingston.

The Hornets shelled Woodstock goalkeeper Jimmy Pennington with 71 shots before a Galt crowd of 2,267 Saturday as Bruce Breier and Pete Bettiol each scored three times.

Ron Hergott, Bob Maxwell, Bob Graham and John Beecher added single goals and Pete Brennan collected five assists. Wayne Goetz scored the only goal for the Athletics, who have one win and five losses.

The Flyers scored three times without reply for their win at Owen Sound, leaving the Crescents, 1-4, tied for last place with Woodstock.

Corby Adams led the winners with three goals. Pete Stoutenburg scored twice and John McMillan once. Don Whaling and Wayne Paquette scored for Owen Sound.

Garrett Shines for Petes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

London Knights tried some quick line changes Sunday night and collected their first win of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A season.

They knocked Kitchener Rangers from a tie for fourth place into a tie for sixth with a 4-2 home-ice victory.

In other play Sunday, Ottawa 67s fired three third-period goals at Oshawa to snatch a 5-4 win from the Generals and propelled themselves into clear possession of third place.

League-leading Peterborough Petes continued their unbeaten string with a 4-2 win over second-place St. Catharines' Black Hawks at St. Catharines, while Toronto Marlboros and Montreal Junior Canadiens both came up with 6-3 wins at home — Toronto over Hamilton Red Wings and Montreal over Niagara Falls Flyers.

Don Rayner scored twice for London. The other goals came from Don Jones and Dick Decker. Tom Cassidy scored the Kitchener goals, one in the first and one in the third.

Ottawa trailed Oshawa 3-1 midway through the second but whittled away at the lead until Dennis Potvin scored the winner at 12:41 of the third.

Paul Sheard sparked Ottawa with three goals, one in each period. Wayne Merick got the other single. Gerry Methe, Don Seiling, Pete Sullivan and Laurie Gagnon replied for Oshawa.

The Pete's win was their first over the Hawks in St. Catharines in more than four years. It hung almost entirely on the skill of goalie John Garrett as the Petes were outshot 37-14.

Jim Mahon scored two for Peterborough and single goals were added by Ken Richardson and Rick Cunningham. Marcel Dionne scored both goals for the Hawks.

League Leaders

Boston's Phil Esposito continues to hold the lead in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race with 31 points, but he is being threatened by two team-mates, Ken Hodge and John McKenzie, and Yvan Cournoyer of Montreal Canadiens—all with 11 points.

The Bruins, defending Stanley Cup champions, also have two other representatives in the top 10. Wayne Cashman and John Bucyk have nine and eight points respectively.

Gabler's Kiss Ends Argos' Hopes for First Place Finish

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto Argonauts, pre-season favorites to make a runaway of the Eastern Football Conference race, were stunned 27-7 by Hamilton Tiger-Cats Sunday.

The victory sent Ticats into the conference lead with 18 points, two ahead of Toronto and Montreal Alouettes, and nullified any plans the Argos had about finishing first.

Hamilton, Toronto and Montreal were locked in a three-way struggle for first going into weekend action.

The Als, in the favorite's role at home where they had won their five previous starts this season, Saturday were sent reeling 28-13 by Ottawa Rough Riders.

Toronto went into Hamilton figured to sweep their three-game set with the Ticats but discovered early the aging Tiger defence wasn't ready to roll over and die.

Quarterback Wally Gabler, whom the Argos found expendable last year and who arrived in Hamilton at mid-season by way of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, sentenced the victory.

Gabler has seldom looked more impressive, completing 14 of 23 passes for 175 yards and two touchdowns.

He was abetted in his assault on the Argos by a superlative defence that limited the Argos to two first downs in the first half and 11 in the game, five in the late stages when the outcome had already been decided and the Hamilton defenders were content to sit back and allow Argos short yardage through the air.

Garney Henley, the Ticats' free safety who saw limited action on offence—low enough to score a touchdown the first time he carried the ball—returned an interception 76 yards in the waning seconds of the game to establish a Canadian Football League career record of 768 yards. Toronto's Dick Thornton held the previous mark of 701.

Hamilton's Tommy Joe Coffey added to his EFC scoring lead with 15 points, giving him 107 for the season. He contributed the game's first touchdown, kicked two field goals and added three converts. Dave Fleming got the other Hamilton six-pointer.

Don Jonas, who replaced Tom Wilkinson as the Toronto signal-caller in the second quarter, scored the lone Argo touchdown and converted. But it didn't come until some time after the Argos had penetrated Hamilton territory for the first time with just over five minutes left in the third quarter.

At Montreal, Ottawa coach Jack Gotta was elated with the play of his Rough Riders, already eliminated from the EFC playoff picture following a championship season in 1969.

"We've way the hell out of it, but it was a big thing," said Gotta, whose club winds up the season at Toronto next Saturday.

"A lot of the time we had a front four of all Canadians and they did a real job."

Flanker Hugh Oldham, who Montreal coach Sam Etcheverry said last week his Alouette defence would have to stop, contributed two Ottawa touchdowns. Joe Vijuk, on a 36-yard return of an Alouette fumble, scored the other Ottawa touchdown.

Ivan McMillan, with two field goals and two converts, and a two-point safety accounted for the other Rider points.

Peter Dalla Riva, on a nine-yard pass from Sonny Wade, was the lone touchdown scorer for Montreal whose other points included a field goal and convert by George Springate and a safety touch.

Etcheverry admitted next weekend's struggle against Hamilton is going to be the toughest he's faced in his rookie coaching campaign.

In order to finish first, the Als must win. Regardless of what Toronto does against Ottawa, a Montreal victory would put them into a three-way tie with the Argos and Ticats in the two-team standings.

But on the basis of their season's performance against the other two clubs, the Alouettes would be awarded first place. And should the Argos also win, they would get second spot on the strength of their two victories in three games with Hamilton this season.

Eskimos, Stamps Make It Official Playoff Spots Settled in West

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Edmonton Eskimos won their seventh straight as Calgary Stampeders thumped British Columbia Lions 29-6 in weekend games to clinch the playoff spots in the Western Football Conference.

It will be an all-Alberta semi-final, with the Stampeders in Edmonton Sunday, Nov. 8 for the sudden-death playoff to decide who meets Saskatchewan Roughriders in the final.

The Eskimos wrapped up second place Saturday night, beating Winnipeg Blue Bombers 15-11 before 30,157 fans and earning the right to play the semi-final at home.

Sunday, before 30,916 fans in Calgary, the Stampeders wiped out the Lions to clinch third place with three games still to be played in the WFC regular season.

In each of the weekend games, the defence played the key role for the winners with fullback Hugh McKinnis giving Calgary a three-touchdown scoring punch.

Uncompromising defensive play by the Stampeders relegated the Lions to a fourth-place finish, with Winnipeg far below with only two triumphs.

Rookie Larry Lawrence called signals for Calgary and completed 10 of 24 passes for 169 yards, including a touchdown throw to Herm Harrison.

Larry Robinson kicked four converts to establish a Canadian Football League career record of 768 yards. Toronto's Dick Thornton held the previous mark of 701.

Hamilton's Tommy Joe Coffey added to his EFC scoring lead with 15 points, giving him 107 for the season. He contributed the game's first touchdown, kicked two field goals and added three converts. Dave Fleming got the other Hamilton six-pointer.

Don Jonas, who replaced Tom Wilkinson as the Toronto signal-caller in the second quarter, scored the lone Argo touchdown and converted. But it didn't come until some time after the Argos had penetrated Hamilton territory for the first time with just over five minutes left in the third quarter.

Gaels Beat McGill To Retain 1st Place

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Queen's University Golden Gaels moved into sole possession of first place in Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association football standings with a 23-12 come-from-behind win over McGill University Redmen Saturday.

The Golden Gaels, with four wins and one loss for eight points, stayed one point ahead of University of Toronto Varsity Blues, who defeated University of Western Ontario Mustangs 19-4.

McMaster edged Waterloo 13-10 in another Saturday game.

At Montreal, Queen's came from behind a 12-0 deficit and scored all their points in the second half.

The Golden Gaels scored their first two touchdowns less than a minute apart in the third quarter when quarterback Art Rochette hooked into the end zone from five yards out and then hit end Tom Schultz on a 33-yard pass-and-run play.

Jim McKeen ran for a two-point conversion to make the score at the end of the third quarter 15-12 in the Golden Gaels' favor.

Doug Corac added a single when a 31-yard field-goal attempt went wide and, following a Corac interception, Rochette passed to Brian Warrender in the end zone.

Jim Evenson and each player has one game left to play.

Jim Sillye of Calgary returned eight punts for a Canadian Football League season record of 117, five more than teammate Rudy Linterman returned in 1966.

The Eskimos offence was unimpressive against Winnipeg and the defence, led by Greg Pipes, had to come up with a late stop a half-dozen scoring chances by the Blue Bombers.

Winnipeg got inside the Edmonton 25-yard line on six occasions and inside the 10 twice in the fourth quarter, but could manage only a touchdown by Charlie Bryant, a couple of singles by Gene Lakutiak and a field goal by Chuck Ealbeck.

The Eskimos did all their scoring in a span of two minutes in the second quarter, with Pipes igniting the outburst. The Edmonton defensive tackle roared in to block a punt by Ed Ulmer of Winnipeg. The ball bounced into the Bombers end zone, where John Lagrose fell on it for a touchdown.

Quarterback Don Trull then threw to Mike Eben in the left flat and the Canadian flanker ran 53 yards down the sideline for a touchdown. Terry Swarn threw a nice block to clear the road.

Tommy Joe Coffey became the first Eastern Conference player to break the 100-point mark as his Hamilton Tiger-Cats dumped Toronto Argonauts 27-7 in Canadian Football League action Sunday.

Chiefs Jeered in Loss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Duane Thomas and Bob Hayes exploded for touchdowns in the third quarter Sunday as Dallas Cowboys bounced back to whip Kansas City Chiefs 27-16.

Hayes, making his first start of the season, turned in a Grand Morton pass into an 89-yard scoring burst minutes after Thomas, a hard-running rookie, raced 47 yards for a touchdown.

"Those players were the difference," said coach Hank Stram, whose Chiefs champs were jeered by a home crowd of 51,138 as they absorbed their third setback in six gam

The victory gave Dallas a 4-2 mark and a share of first place in the National Conference's Eastern Division—one week after the Cowboys took a 56-13 pounding from Minnesota Vikings.

Fran Tarkenton's five touchdown passes led New York Giants past St. Louis 35-17, dropping the Cardinals into a tie with Dallas for the NFC East lead.

Elsewhere, 43-year-old George Blanda fired Oakland Raiders to a 31-14 victory over Pittsburgh Steelers, Baltimore Colts trounced Boston Patriots 27-3, Cleveland Browns pounded Miami Dolphins 28-6, Washington Redskins blanked Cincinnati Bengals 20-0, Detroit Lions shaded Chicago Bears 16-10, Green Bay Packers topped Philadelphia Eagles 20-17, San Francisco 49ers edged Denver Broncos 19-14, Atlanta Falcons trimmed New Orleans Saints 22-14, Buffalo Bills slipped New York Jets 10-6 and San Diego Chargers played Houston Oilers to a 31-31 standoff.

Minnesota entertains Los Angeles Rams tonight.

The Cowboys spoiled the Chiefs an early touchdown, then limited them to three Jan Stenerud field goals, the rest of the way.

Thomas, shouldering the running load after Calvin Hill went out with a muscle spasm, scored the go-ahead touchdown on a short plunge after Mike Clark booted a pair of field goals.

Tarkenton sent the Giants to their third straight victory, snapping a four-game St. Louis winning streak.

He completed all of his 16 pass attempts in the first half and was 15 for 18 over-all, with two scoring strikes to rookie Bob Tucker and one each to Aaron Thomas, Clifton McNeil and Don Herrmann.

Blanda came off the Oakland bench after Daryle Lamonica was sidelined by a pinched nerve in his back and riddled the Steelers with three touchdown passes. He also booted a field goal and four extra points.

The Colts spoiled Joe Kapp, the former Viking ace, seven times for losses and picked off three of his passes while Johnny Unitas split the Patriots' secondary for three scores.

The Colts' fourth straight victory sent them into first place in the American Conference's Eastern Division.

Bill Nelsen passed for two Cleveland scores and linebacker Jim Diff Lindsey rambled 56 yards with a pass interception for another as the AFC's Central Division leaders bettered the Dolphins before a crowd of 75,313—largest ever to see a Miami regular season game.

Washington posted its first shutout victory in six years, stopping the Bengals cold while Sonny Jurgensen and Charlie Taylor combined on a pair of touchdown strikes.

The Lions came from behind at Chicago for their fifth victory in six starts as Errol Mann booted field goals of 46, 43 and 31 yards.

Drapeau Developed Own Mystique as Vote Getter

MONTREAL (CP) — What is the essence of Jean Drapeau, accomplisher of the grandiose, elected Sunday to his fifth term as mayor of Canada's largest—and most turbulent—city?

Quite simply, as a municipal politician, he has few if any peers.

As a leader, he understands power and how to use it.

"I will speak to the people and they will understand me," he once said.

"Democratic structures are not necessary. What is needed is a voice which will make itself heard."

As mayor, he has been astute enough to announce the glad tidings for Montreal, leaving the tough talk of failures to Lucien Saulnier, chairman of the city's executive committee.

It is the mayor's name that is linked with Expo 67, the 1976 Olympics, the landing of Montreal Expos as a baseball franchise in the National League.

But it was Mr. Saulnier who got blasted out of an arena when he tried to get Montreal's 3,700 striking policemen back to work Oct. 7, 1969.

The Drapeau mystique has another aspect: If the man is distant, he stands a better chance to be looked upon in awe.

Rare are interviews for reporters, with the Drapeau gospel passed on by radio like Franklin Delano Roosevelt's pre-war "fireside chats."

There are no questions to ruffle his feathers.

Jean Drapeau is a visionary man of action to some, an aloof conservative to others—there's no in-between.

It was he who presided over the transformation of Montreal from a "city of churches" of the 1930s to the modern two-world metropolis of skyscrapers and European flavor.

Fifty years after the idea was first raised, he oversaw the construction of a 15-mile subway featuring quiet rubber wheels on the trains and attractive subway stations.

But before the election campaign critics could be ignored the city's real problems while pursuing his policies of grandeur toward the realization of making Montreal the world's greatest city.

They criticized the fact that 29 per cent of the city's population lives in "poverty"; that 40 persons live in visible ghettos in which 80 per cent of the housing is sub-standard; there is little job re-training for the city's 50,000 unemployed.

They have charged that after 11 consecutive years in power, the mayor's Civic party has provided only 3,000 housing units, while more than 350,000 Montrealers need new or improved low-rent housing.

The Drapeau administration has also been regularly under fire for not resolving the shortage of health clinics in Montreal and for not having done more to combat pollution.

Now, with another victory, Mayor Drapeau faces what must be the greatest crisis in Montreal history.

The image of Montreal is tarnished—two kidnappings with one political assassination, armed troops guarding the city, a welter of police raids to curtail the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec.

But he has pressed ahead, speaking of courage and solidarity.

Courage—he showed plenty of that as a crime-busting lawyer in vice-ridden Montreal of the 1950s.

Mr. Drapeau began his political career in 1942 when he ran unsuccessfully in a federal byelection as a candidate for the anti-conscription nationalist Bloc Populaire.

He tried again as a BP candidate for the Quebec legislature in 1944, but lost. But after serving as prosecutor in the crime-buster days, he was elected mayor in 1954 on a reform ticket.

He lost a bid for re-election in 1957 to Sarto Fournier, a Liberal senator now, but returned to power in 1960 and was re-elected in 1962 and 1966.

His election Sunday shatters the 10-year record of consecutive years served, set in 1914-24 by Mederic Martin.

Born in Montreal Feb. 18, 1916, he was educated at the University of Montreal, receiving a diploma in social studies in 1937 and a bachelor of arts a year later. He was admitted to the Bar of Montreal in 1943.

Mr. Drapeau and his wife, Marie-Claire, have three sons, Pierre, 23, Francois, 22, and Michel, 18.

Panther-Police Shootout Avoided

DETROIT (AP) — Acting Mayor Mel Ravitz, who used his body as a shield to guarantee the safe surrender of Black Panthers in a police slaying, says "patience, discipline and hardheaded common sense" kept the incident from being a "shoulders-a-holocaust."

Meanwhile, 15 Negroes were charged Sunday with murder in the shooting death of Patrolman Glenn Smith, 26, a Negro. He was shot in the head near the headquarters of the National Committee to Combat Fascism, a Panther organizing group.

Court hearings were scheduled for Friday.

Heavily-armed police waited in the shadows for nine hours Saturday night and early Sunday as black lawyers and a black newspaper woman entered the headquarters and convinced 12 of the charged youths to give themselves up.

Ravitz, white, and Councilman Nicholas Hood and state Representative James Del Rio, black, met the youths at the sidewalk of the two-storey building and escorted them to a nearby police vehicle, where arrests were made.

Three other youths decided to stay behind, but, they were routed from the building shortly afterward when police moved in and fired teargas shells. They were uninjured.

"It could have been 1967 all over again, and more," said Ravitz, referring to the Detroit riot three years ago which left 43 dead.

Ravitz, Detroit common council president who is serving as mayor in the absence of vacationing Mayor Roman Gribbs, praised black community leaders and the police for their actions in avoiding further bloodshed.

An investigation, he said, would be conducted into the events which led to the shooting of Smith and wounding of another black policeman, Marshall Emerson, 25.

Witnesses said the trouble began Saturday night when two youths who were selling Black Panther newspapers were stopped by police. A confrontation developed and the officers called for help.

Police said Emerson, a plainclothes policeman, was driving near the Panther headquarters when he was shot and wounded in the head.

Smith, a specialist in street crime who hoped to earn a law degree, then stopped his car to investigate Emerson's shooting. He was killed by a shot in the head.

Between 100 and 200 police converged in the area and blocked off streets. Occasional gunfire was heard until a grup of black citizens were given police permission to approach the house.

Oil Pollution Bill Debated

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons continues debate today on an extensive government bill aimed at limiting incidents of oil pollution from shipping in Canadian waters.

The measure provides lines up to $25,000 for failure to comply with regulations and authorizes pollution control officers to seize a ship in Canadian waters if it does not prove financial responsibility.

New Brunswick Election Finds Parties Optimistic

FREDERICTON (CP) — One hundred and fifty-two aspirants to the 58 seats in the provincial legislature receive the voters' verdict today as New Brunswick holds its 39th general election.

About 421,000 are eligible to vote, with the polls open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. AST. The weather forecast calls for mainly cloudy skies with light showers in some areas.

The Liberal government of Louis J. Robichaud, the peppery Acadian from the Bay Chaleur-wick North Shore who has been provincial premier since 1960, is seeking for a fourth straight mandate.

Three times since 1870, Liberal governments have won four elections in a row—a feat never matched here by another party. Progressive Conservatives have never won more than two straight elections and no third party has ever formed the government in New Brunswick.

Elections are traditionally two-party affairs, but this time the New Democratic Party has fielded 31 candidates.

Both the Liberals and PCs have offered full slates of 58 candidates in the 26 constituencies, most of which are multiple-member ridings with as many as five seats. Besides the 31 NDP candidates, there are five independents in the field.

Both Mr. Robichaud and freshman PC Leader Richard Hatfield have predicted victory, while NDP Leader J. Albert Richardson says his party will make a major break through, picking up all five seats in Northumberland County.

The NDP, which has never elected a candidate in New Brunswick, has been encouraged by the recent Nova Scotia election in which it won two seats, the first third-party victories in that province in 10 years.

Both Mr. Robichaud and Mr. Hatfield are veterans; McLaughlin, despite their age, Mr. Robichaud, who had his 45th birthday last week, was first elected to the legislature in 1952 at the age of 26 and eight years later he was premier of New Brunswick. In a general election later in 1960, Mr. Robichaud led the Liberals to a victory over Hugh John Fleming's Conservative government, and the Liberals repeated in 1963 and 1967.

In the 1967 election, Mr. Robichaud won 32 seats and the Conservatives, then under the fiery Charles Van Horne, won the other 26.

Mr. Van Horne went down to personal defeat in that election, and was succeeded as party leader by Mr. Hatfield, a bachelor-lawyer from Hartland.

CONSUMPTION HIGH

The average Yugoslav family spent nearly twice as much on alcohol as food last year.

UN Still Plays Vital Role: Sharp

OTTAWA (CP) — Although the United Nations is not always able to take "swift, dramatic action," its record of achievement bears out its vital role in a turbulent world, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Sunday.

Critics of the UN tend to emphasize what the organization is not, rather than what it is, Mr. Sharp said.

The UN is not a world government, it must co-exist with two super-powers—the United States and the Soviet Union, he said. It must accept the veto power of the Security Council or the super-powers would leave, he said.

Despite such conditions, the UN has contained many local conflicts, negotiated co-operative financial and trading arrangements, effected several arms control measures, identified colonialism as incompatible with human dignity and "hastened it toward its end," helped fight racial discrimination and strengthened international law.

Central Collegiate Crowns Up for Grabs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The chase for first place in both divisions of the Central Canada Intercollegiate Football Conference remains alive after six games Saturday. Three teams are tied for the top in the east while two share the high rung in the west, one point up on a third rival. All contenders won with one week of regular-schedule play remaining.

In the eastern division, Bishop's Gaiters of Lennoxville, Que., outscored Royal Military College Redmen of Kingston, Ont., 26-13; Sir George Williams Georgians whipped Macdonald Classmen 38-7 and Loyola Warriors downed University of Montreal Carabins 16-4. The Gaiters, Warriors and Georgians all have eight points with 4-1 records.

In western division action, Windsor Lancers clipped York Yeomen of Toronto 34-6, Waterloo Lutheran Golden Hawks outscored Carleton Ravens of Ottawa 39-14 and Guelph Gryphons defeated Laurentian Voyageurs of Sudbury 39-6.

Waterloo Lutheran has four wins and a tie, with one loss, for nine points and is tied, for the division lead with the title University of Ottawa Gee-Gees—four wins and a tie in five starts.

A 65-yard punt return for a touchdown by defensive halfback Rick Nienenwenki pulled Loyola away from the University of Montreal. Randy Milbourne ran six yards for the other Warriors touchdown while Bob Miele kicked both converts and Frank Benedetto gained a single point from a 50-yard punt. Jean Gauthier accounted for all the Carabins' points with a 15-yard field goal and a single point.

Al Leconteur, Ron Browne and Terry Bradley both scored two touchdowns and Mike Bookalam kicked two converts to lead the Gaiters over RMC.

Bob Bendon led the Georgians to their fourth consecutive victory with two touchdowns. Tom Dyce, Brent Terry and Pierre Lefebvre all scored one touchdown and Pierre Lamarche kicked four converts and two singles. The winners also gained two points on a safety touch.

The Classmen, held pointless and winless in their first four games, managed to break into the scoring column with a touchdown by Bob Rosenzweig and a convert by Ian Kirkpatrick.

Tom Walker sparked the Waterloo Lutheran win over Carleton with three touchdowns. Roy Arnott and Perry Harvey scored one each Place kicker Wally Parker converted all five touchdowns and kicked one field goal and Gary Jeffries kicked a single point. Scott Alexander scored both touchdowns for the Ravens and Rick Farrah earned a two-point conversion.

Carleton collected a total offence of 458 yards, 15 more than the winners. Losing quarterback Dave Montagano had a big day passing with 16 of 33 completed for 237 yards.

At Windsor, Ton D'Aloisio and Jim Wakeman combined for a total offence of 418 yards and 16 points against York. The two running backs accounted for all but 54 yards of the Lancers running game. D'Aloisio collected 112 yards on 14 carries and Wakeman 92 on 11 carries. D'Alcisio scored a touchdown and a two-point conversion on a pass from Wakeman, and Wakeman scored one touchdown and kicked two converts. Quarterback Mike Urban, Bob McNally and Barry Halliwell also scored Windsor touchdowns. Rick Frisby scored an unconverted touchdown for York.

Bob Folnsevych scored two touchdowns, Gene Wolkowski and Steve Stewart one each for Guelph. Gerry Organ accounted for the other five points with four converts and a single on a missed field goal attempt. Peter Kotyk scored the Laurentian touchdown.

Drumtop Takes Canadian Stakes

TORONTO (CP) — Drumtop, an American-owned filly, revived a foul claim at Woodbine race track Sunday to win $39,500 of the $80,000 Canadian International Championship Stakes.

A crowd of 17,025 watched Jockey Chuck Baltazar move Drumtop to the outside and take the lead 70 yards from the finish. Jungle Cove placed second in the field of six, 1¼ lengths off the pace and one length ahead of Freestico.

Drumtop covered the mile and five furlongs on a soft turf course in a slw 2:50 4-5.

Larry Adams, the jockey aboard Jungle Cove, filed the foul claim on Drumtop, saying the filly moved too close at the head of the far turn. The stewards threw out the protest after a short meeting.

Sandy Hawley won the first half of the daily double with Ringmaster and Haggis in the eighth. The two combined for a $23 daily double return.

The biggest single race win payoff was $28.20 in the fifth when Snappy Senator covered the mile in 1:35 4-5.

Saturday, Kennedy Road breezed to victory in the $24,000 Grey Stakes Handicap for two-year-olds. Hawley rode Kennedy Road to a 16-length win over 40-1 shot, Vacation Lady, covering 1 1-16 miles in 1:47 1-5.

Alcindor Leads Bucks to Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the National Basketball Association Sunday, Milwaukee downed Seattle 127-107; Phoenix defeated San Diego 126-107; Chicago turned back Portland 121-116 and Los Angeles beat Cleveland 123-96.

In games Saturday night, Milwaukee took Baltimore 122-120 in two overtimes; New York beat Cincinnati 115-102; Boston stopped Atlanta 113-109; San Diego clipped Philadelphia 118-111 and San Francisco defeated Portland 118-115.

Lew Alcindor destroyed Seattle with a 37-point performance and Bob Dandrige added 24. Dick Synder paced the Sonics with 24.

Phoenix pulled away from a two-point lead after three quarters and beat San Diego with some Tempers flared during the fourth stanza, featuring a brief scuffle between the Suns' Paul Silas and the Rockets' Rusty Tomlanovich. No fouls were called but both players were allowed to continue.

Chicago, ecstatic from the effort, hit 43 of 53 free throws to defeat Portland. Seven Bull players scored in double figures, with Bob Love leading the way with 30 points.

Will Chamberlain came on strong for Los Angeles, scoring 24 points and snaring 25 rebounds. The Lakers extended Cleveland's losing streak to seven without a victory.

Sooners Win ORFU Pennant

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ottawa Sooners gained first place in the Ontario Rugby Football Union Senior League Sunday as they knocked off Brampton Satellites 38-21 in the last regular-season game.

In another game Sunday, London Lords edged St. Catharines Rams 17-14. Michigan Indians dumped Kitchener-Waterloo-Ontario Oaks 13-1 Saturday.

Although Bramalea had two more points than Ottawa on the season, the Satellites played two more games. Sooners, therefore, were given first place on a percentage basis.

Ottawa will play third-place Michigan in a two-game, total-points, semi-final series to begin in Michigan Saturday. The second game will be in Ottawa Nov. 8.

In Ottawa, Sooners' quarterback Jim Ousley passed for three touchdowns as he completed 10 of 16 attempts for 192 yards. John Kiely scored on runs of three yards and 35 yards. Greg Moore, Greg Moses and Ken Livingstone added the other Ottawa touchdowns. Pierre Guindon converted all Ottawa touchdowns and kicked a field goal.

Dan Morenz, Pete Warren and Herman Mathews scored the Bramalea touchdowns. Morenz converting them all.

In Kitchener, Jim Powers passed to Ron Kubisek for a third-quarter touchdown and Max Whitley ran three yards in the fourth for the other.

Oaks' point came on a missed field goal.

In London, Martin Fabi led the Lords, kicking two field goals, two singles and a convert. Ernie Turek ran 11 yards for the touchdown and a safety touch rounded out the scoring.

Ted Biega went over from two yards out for the first Rams touchdown and Dave Lee completed a 35-yard pass-and-run play for the other which was converted.

Russian Sets Shooting Record

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Evgeny Petrov of Russia set the seventh world record of the 40th world shooting championships here Sunday when he broke 200 straight targets in the international skeet match.

The previous high of 199 was held by Elie Prost of France, who scored 196 Sunday. He edged out of the silver medal by Russia's Ivany Tsuranov, after four shootoffs.

The United States is responsible for three of the records, all in standard rifle. John Writer fired a 579 to surpass the 578 set by France Gerard Italy has two year in Pilsen. Margaret Murdock scored a record 571 for the women's standard record and led her team to a new women's standard of 1,683.

West Germany's Gottfried Kustermann upset the men's air rifle record, firing a 387, 1 bet-

10-day Nightmare

Montreal Doctor Knows Now What It's Like to Be Arrested

Richard E. Meyer is a member of the newsfeatures staff of The Associated Press in New York. He has been in Quebec a week assessing reaction in the province and interviewing Canadians arrested under the War Measures Act. The following story is based on one of his interviews.

By RICHARD E. MEYER

MONTREAL (AP) — The doorbell rang. It rang again. Dr. Henri Bellemare, chief of internal medicine at Sacred Heart Hospital, rolled over in bed and looked at the clock: 5:10 a.m.

In pyjamas, he padded to his front door.

"Yes, who's there?"

"Police."

He opened the door. An inspector flashed his card.

"Vous etes sous arrestation — You're under arrest."

So began a nightmare for Dr. Bellemare and for more than 370 others taken into custody in 1,600 raids since Canada suspended civil liberties 10 days ago and invoked its War Measures Act.

More than half have been released. Most described their imprisonment as a psychological shock. Some tell of police breaking doors down with-out warning. The police deny brutality. But one prisoner, a lawyer, says he heard others crying in pain: "Let me go. . . . Don't beat me."

For Dr. Bellemare the war measures meant confiscation of material he was using as a city council candidate in Sunday's election—he was defeated—and five days in jail without being charged. For his family it meant tears and worry. He wasn't mistreated. But he says he never learned the reason for his detention.

He thinks it was because he wants independence for Quebec.

Under the War Measures Act, soldiers and police can arrest without a warrant. The Justice minister can jail anyone suspicious for up to 21 days without charges or bail.

But Pierre Laporte, Quebec labor minister, and James (Jasper) Cross, Britain's senior trade commissioner in Canada, had been kidnapped by the Front de Liberation du Quebec and threatened with death. Laporte was executed.

The police entered Dr. Bellemare's house and searched him.

He asked to see their warrant.

They had none.

Then one plainclothesman and three other provincial policemen in full uniform, including shotguns and nightsticks, took him past his wife and four of his young daughters to his bedroom. The police watched while he dressed.

To Dr. Bellemare they seemed a little nervous, as if they weren't certain what they might encounter. After all, it was still early in the day; the war measures had been in force less than an hour and a half.

He asserted again: "You need a warrant." They said nothing.

Besides his medical practice in the Montreal suburb of Cartierville is the 39-year-old doctor is in the Front d'Action Politique, and was one of its candidates for the city council. FRAP did not win a seat Sunday on the 52-seat city council.

The FLQ was outlawed under the war measures but FRAP wasn't. The police took Dr. Bellemare's list of voters and some of the material his wife, a pretty woman with raven hair, had been using as she canvassed door to door for him.

Mrs. Bellemare's dark eyes followed the police as they moved from room to room in the brown brick split level house, collecting "documents on socialism and documents on left-wing views."

"I was a bit weak in the knees," she says.

The police took both telephone directories—the yellow pages and the white pages. But they left the family's personal booklet of handwritten telephone numbers and addresses.

They looked into drawers, but they didn't roll up the rug.

They opened the freezer compartment in the refrigerator, took out the ice cream and looked inside the cartons. They then left the ice cream on the table to melt.

When the children saw that, they asked: "Can we put it back?"

In the midst of the tension it sounded like a wisecrack. Dr. Bellemare told his children to hush.

As they finished in the kitchen, officers from the provincial police were joined by four from the Montreal police. The newcomers were told the kitchen had been searched. They searched it again.

Then the police looked under every mattress except the one on which little blonde Helen, 7, lay asleep and unbothered by the ruckus.

"Shall we wake her up?" the officers asked one another.

"Ah . . . No . . . No."

"What about the doctor's wife?"

Madeleine Bellemare thought it best to herself: "If I have to go, too, Hervi's mother could come over," and meanwhile Jacqueline, 14, could take care of her younger sisters.

"Ah no," said the police, "you're free to stay."

They took the doctor's portable typewriter and two green plastic garbage bags filled with the telephone directories and like other things they seized and trooped out with Dr. Bellemare into the darkness before dawn. The doctor was not handcuffed.

They drove to an office he maintains in a medical center. He rang for the janitor. Nobody else was around.

The janitor took the door, and Dr. Bellemare headed for the stairs.

He ran up four flights, two steps at a time. The police chased after him, and Dr. Bellemare shouted over his shoulder: "Inspector, we'll see what kind of shape the boys are in."

The inspector didn't laugh.

As they reached Dr. Bellemare's office, the doctor in the elevator opened, and the janitor stepped out.

"Christ! The elevator works!"

The police weren't happy.

"It was the only fun I had on the whole trip," Dr. Bellemare says.

The police searched his office thoroughly, but when they came to his filing cabinet with records of his patients, one said: "Medical records. We don't look at that."

They searched under drawers. In the crevices, behind the draperies. They took another typewriter—a big electric one.

It was after 6 a.m. when the police and Dr. Bellemare arrived at provincial police headquarters, a 13-story grey building at the east end of downtown Montreal.

He was searched again, fingerprinted, handprinted, photographed, measured and weighed. The police worked fast since the place was filling with prisoners.

They asked him administrative questions: the name of his wife, date of her birth, his name, date of his birth, whom to telephone should anything happen to him.

They they put him into a large detention cell crowded with 40 others. The prisoners sat and lay on the concrete floor. There were no chairs, no beds.

Around noon Dr. Bellemare's brother gathered some personal effects and tried to bring them to the jail. He got as far as police headquarters but was turned back.

A lawyer was to reach Dr. Bellemare but couldn't.

Madeleine Bellemare told the children that Daddy was in prison as if Daddy is here. We must have a normal life."

Monique, 11, started crying. "Daddy never did anything wrong."

Then Suzanne started crying.

"You should be very proud of your father," Madeleine said.

"For years he has fought so there would be more justice in society." That seemed to help.

In each prisoner cell was a ham sandwiches and coffee for lunch and the same for supper. Each time Dr. Bellemare couldn't finish his second sandwich. After all, it was his first time in jail.

Friday afternoon guards took him downstairs. Wardens or cers questioned him again about his date of birth, color of eyes, wife's name—and then:

"Did you participate in the kidnappings?"

"No."

"Are you an FLQ member?"

"No."

REPEAT QUESTIONS

Then back over all the administrative questions for a third time: color of hair, color of eyes, weight, measurements. It took 45 minutes to complete the paper work.

They shoved Dr. Bellemare to the 18th cell in a row of 24 on the 12th floor.

One of the guards made conversation: "Doctor, what are you doing here?"

"I don't know."

"Doctor, are you with the FLQ?"

Bellemare shook his head. "No. I have nothing to do with them."

His sheets and pillowcases were white and clean. He slept.

Lights on and breakfast came at 6:30 a.m. There was plenty of hot cereal, butter, jam and coffee, but Dr. Bellemare couldn't eat. A guard passed around order blanks. Prisoners could buy tooth-brushes, writing paper, envelopes and the like. Dr. Bellemare had 61 cents. He bought some paper and envelopes.

The prisoners began asking to see lawyers, to make telephone calls. Could they mail letters? No, no and no.

Dr. Bellemare used his writing paper to keep track of the days.

With him on the 13th floor were four union organizers, three students from junior colleges, two professors, two journalists and a student from McGill University.

Some began rattling their cell doors. The noisy ones, particularly if they were stubborn, were taken to the "cache — cland," Montreal's version of solitary confinement.

They came back telling about solid walls around a room three by six feet with a small port in its solid door, no toilet, no wash basin and a plain straw mattress.

They said they were stripped, but "if a guy said he was too cold, well, a guard would bring him his pants."

On Dr. Bellemare's floor, the cells had hot and cold running water, the food was good, the menu changed every day. And after three days the guards brought a change of sheets.

The men could shower, and every night they were allowed the use of razors and shaving creams.

Police began notifying families that their sons, husbands or brothers were in jail. They let four or five prisoners at a time walk in the jail corridor for half an hour.

The men cut out small pieces of paper and played checkers on boards painted on steel picnic tables in the corridor. They played the card game called hearts.

Some fashioned bingo cards and one called numbers.

The guards played a radio through the loudspeaker system but when news broadcasts began, they turned the radios off.

There was no word from the outside.

Monday morning prisoners on Dr. Bellemare's floor noticed through windows across the corridor that flags atop the downtown buildings were flying at half mast.

"We thought maybe someone is dead," says Dr. Bellemare. "We thought it might be Laporte."

But many didn't learn until they were released that the labor minister had been strangled by the FLQ with the electrical flex that held a medal of his faith around his neck.

Each day was much like another.

At 2 a.m. Thursday, a guard awakened Dr. Bellemare: "Quick! Get dressed! You're going home."

Dr. Bellemare dressed. Then the guard searched him, destroyed the piece of paper on which he had been keeping track of the days he spent in his downstairs.

"I have no money," he told the police at the desk. "I want to call home."

The police told him to go to a restaurant on the corner.

It was closed, and it seemed to him to take forever to find a phone. He had 40 cents left. He put in a dime and called his wife.

"I'm out and I'm taking a taxi home. Do you have any money so I can pay the taxi driver when I get there?"

"Oh, yes."

TYPICAL HOUSE

Typical farm houses in Cambodia are built on stilts with split bamboo floors, walls and woven mats and verandas. The space under the house may be a stable for chickens, pigs and water buffalo.

Self-styled Political Fugitives Form Half of FBI Wanted List

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time in its history, half of the FBI's list of 10-most-wanted fugitives comprises a roll call of self-described political revolutionaries.

Despite the enormous power and resources of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and other United States police, the political fugitives on the top-10 list—plus 33 others considering themselves political quarry—have been successful at eluding capture for many months at a time.

But one of the last to be added to the list—Angela Davis, Aug. 18—was the first of the lot to be captured. The FBI nabbed her Oct. 13 in New York.

There is no evidence of any elaborate formal network that provided aid or sanctuary for the fugitives. Yet they have managed to evade capture. How?

Largely because of an apparently amorphous underground of sympathizers, the fugitive can get food easily enough, plus driver's licences or birth certificates to be used for identification. And a fugitive stays in one place only two or three days.

Changing appearance by cutting hair or style of dress seems to be the ploy of the women. Others go underground by going "straight," or above ground.

In almost any city, there are places where one can "crash"—spend a night—without anyone asking questions. Hitch-hiking is a common means of getting about and air or highway travel has hardly any danger.

Among the fugitives and those who give them aid are people of opposed positions and attitudes. But all are bound—however obliquely or indirectly—by a common opposition to the U.S. government, which is conceived of as imperialistic, racist, dehumanized.

The FBI is finding that the traditional techniques—getting information from informers through payoffs and pressures—have failed to net fugitives who have been at large for months.

An Associated Press investigation of the hunted—who they are and how they stay free—produced these conclusions:

1. There are 43 persons who describe themselves as U.S. political fugitives. The whereabouts of most of them are unknown to officials, though Black Panther H. Rap Brown is said to be in Algeria, along with Panther Eldridge Cleaver, who jumped $50,000 bail and fled the U.S. in 1968; Dr. Timothy Leary, who was just granted political asylum by Algeria, and Bernardine Dohrn, a national officer of the Weatherman.

2. Getting out of the United States for those who want—particularly into Canada—is no more complicated than going through a revolving door. Moving around the U.S. itself is safe enough if one uses commonsense cautions.

3. The fugitives—whether they are allied with the Weatherman, the Black Panthers or so-called "peace criminals"—can count on aid from a wide variety of Americans: Open sympathizers, hundreds of the middle class who in other respects may fit the definition of silent majority, and what one Weatherman calls "a whole sea of kids."

4. There is no "underground railroad" such as existed to help runaway slaves in the 19th century, but something close to one aided the Jewish priest, Rev. Daniel Berrigan, who was captured Aug. 11.

There are those in the radical movement who realistically conclude that the FBI will one day infiltrate almost at will. It's only a matter of time. They know the FBI has a record of success, having infiltrated the Communist party, the Ku Klux Klan, the Minutemen and other political groups and causes.

"If it ever gets to the point where there really is a central movement or an underground railway," says an FBI source, "there can be sure of one thing, the chief engineer will be with the FBI."

No Master Blue Print But Pattern to Terrorism

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Donald Macdonald said Sunday in a taped television interview that the proclamation of the War Measures Act was based on a pattern of terrorism rather than the discovery of any specific terrorist plot.

Mr. Macdonald's statements were taped Friday for the CTV interview program Question Period.

He was asked whether the government had any evidence "that further outrages were planned" after the kidnapping of British trade commissioner James Richard Cross and Labor Minister Pierre Laporte whether "you caused a horrible riot or in fact whether any plans were formed which justified description of this as an apprehended insurrection, . . ."

The minister said "in the whole you had a pattern of incidents here, which gives the revolutionary ideology we're talking about in other situations and in other countries had escalated itself into a state of disorder in which it will be virtually impossible to carry on the normal processes of government. . . ."

This, he said, would "provide . . . a situation ripe for revolutionary action."

How effective this force was, he said, is not yet known.

But, he said, if he was being asked whether the government discovered "the master blue print for the take-over" then "I think the answer is no."

Inca Ransom
Rivals Search for Treasure

KITCHENER (CP) — Heinz Kuhl, 33, a Swedish adventurer, was to leave here today to search for a $7,000 million treasure in Ecuador.

The treasure, according to legend, was paid as ransom to the Spanish captors of an Inca leader nearly 400 years ago. After the Spaniards received the gold and jewels, the legend says, they killed the Indian leader.

Mr. Kuhl, of Stockholm, says the trip may be dangerous: three men who previously sought the treasure never returned.

The trip will take him through the Amazonian territory to a 13,126-foot mountain in the Andes called Hermoso Cerro, about 70 miles southeast of Quito, the capital.

He will drive to Ecuador in a van loaded with special equipment he has installed over the last two years.

Two companions will meet in Ecuador in December and Mr. Kuhl plans to return to Kitchener by march. He now is staying in the city with friends.

Adding to the excitement, says Mr. Kuhl, is a rival searching for the treasure. Sheldon Morner, a Swede who says he has spent 11 expeditions up the mountain, is leaving on another quest at about the same time as Mr. Kuhl's party.

Mr. Kuhl said he asked whether he could join Mr. Morner's search but was refused.

If the search is successful, Mr. Kuhl plans to donate 10 per cent of the fortune to the Ecuador government to help descendants of the Inca Indians.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Ordinarily the stomach is an uncomplaining organ. It goes about its work quietly and efficiently. But when it does rebel — Ouch! By nausea, vomiting, pain, gas and other reactions it can transform the most placid individual into a helpless wreck. And often unheard and unseen, the stomach deserves tremendous respect.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I've just recovered from a stomach upset. What a relief. But I still don't know what caused it. What are the usual reasons? — Mrs. L.

Comment: I'd have to know more about you. Much more. Because stomach upset embraces a wide variety of causes. You will note that I do not ask your age. For the same cup of whole milk that may upset the stomach of an infant may cause nausea or vomiting or diarrhea in a 70-year-old. In either case, the stomach walls refuse to digest milk. That's one reason for stomach upset.

Here's a woman who has nausea and gas immediately after meals — especially if they are large and contain fat. It's quite clear that her stomach upset is due to a faulty gall bladder — with or without gallstones.

Here's a man who gets severe stomach pains an hour or two after eating — relieved by taking a few sips of milk or other food. In this case the reason for his stomach-going on strike is found to be a duodenal ulcer.

Sometimes chronic pancreatitis will cause indigestion. Urine and blood tests will make possible the diagnosis.

Most people are aware that a heart attack often begins with acute indigestion. But many do not realize that upset stomach is sometimes the very first symptom of a failing heart (cardiac decompensation). In many patients, treatment with digitalis and diuretics (directed toward improvement in the heart) have cleared up the stomach problem.

I could go on and on. As you can see, Mrs. L., what's most important (if you have more stomach upsets) is finding the real cause. Perhaps it's something as simple as overeating, oversmoking or overdrinking. Or, perhaps tension.

Keep remembering that a stomach upset may be due to trouble outside the stomach as well as inside.

MEDICALETTES (Replies to Readers)

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: What is the difference between a sarcoma and a carcinoma? — I had a small lump which turned out to be a sarcoma. It was removed years ago and I have not had any recurrence. People should be made to realize that an immediate visit to the doctor can be lifesaving. — Mrs. S.

Comment: What you say is true for any illness, especially for sarcoma or carcinoma. The earlier the treatment the more likely the cure.

A carcinoma is a cancer that arises from the lining cells of organs. It can occur in any structure such as the brain, pancreas, liver, kidney, lungs, intestines, stomach, etc.

A sarcoma is also a malignant tumor, usually made up of connective tissues in the body such as muscle, bone, fat, etc.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Will you please explain what is meant by "wear-and-tear" arthritis. Mrs. O.

Comment: Osteoarthritis is sometimes called "wear and tear" arthritis. It characterizes of the knees, for example, where overweight unnecessarily reduces in order to remove unnecessary wear and tear on the joints.

Stomach Needs Great Respect

Britain's Spycatcher Dies at 65

BATH, England (Reuter) — Britain's foremost spycatcher, Det. Sgt. George Smith, 65, whose investigations led to the arrest of some of Russia's leading Soviet agents, died in hospital Saturday.

Among his successful arrests were the five-member Portland espionage ring, masterminded by Soviet spy Gordon Lonsdale. William John Vassal, a black-mailed navy clerk, and two physicists, Klaus Fuchs and Hans May, who handed Britain's atomic secrets to Russia.

Smith retired from the police force in 1964 after 26 years service.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For October 17

Your birthday today: Your year is full of sudden inspirations, occasional jolts, many sorts of lively contacts bringing fresh responses to your enterprises. Romantic interests are active — sometimes helping, sometimes competing with your vocation. Today's natives are irresistible persons willing to fight for their principles, which this year must find simpler, more direct expression.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Unplanned circumstances make today's work delicate and tense — don't rush. The needs of others are what you might assume. Relax with socially active companions this evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Erratic and impatient people are suddenly everywhere at once. Hold your peace, deliver a serious job, then let well enough alone. Impersonal approaches are best.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Plentiful opportunities appear; most of them unrealistic. Stay with what you have and make progress. Perseverance now is essential, perhaps apologies later.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): The unexpected is most likely today. Avoid provide surprises. Outside situations are easier to cope with than the comments of associates. Keep your responses brief.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): By avoiding temper and anything which may provoke anger, you can close important deals today. Associates involved on their own merits rather than on emotion.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Consult specialists, technicians, reference sources. Apply for different assignments, possible new jobs. Conferences on progress bring prompt results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): This most sensitive sign can be turned to good advantage by finesse and quick use of momentary interruptions which open the way for you. Impulsive moves overreach their goals.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Something which finds you unprepared startles you today — learn and be thankful it's not worse. An opportunity opens briefly — get busy. Important people are willing to help.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Discretion is essential. People willing to assist must be sure you will protect their interests and privacy under existing conditions. Sincerity can't be counterfeited.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): There's enough confusion now without your making it worse with hasty repair efforts. Wait to see the whole picture or until asked, then pitch in with an organized effort.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Unsettled conditions derail the best of plans. Take the nearest expedient and proceed serenely. Strangers tend to be mistrustful. Seek help from familiar authorities.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Money matters may cause concern. Temporary solutions later turn out to be good enough, perhaps permanent. Bargaining is well worth the stress and effort.

Roots of Crisis

A U.S. Reporter's View of Quebec

Sid Moody is supervising editor of newsfeatures for the Associated Press in New York. Drawing on his knowledge of French and a decade of background reporting of the Canadian scene, he spent a week in Quebec looking into the terrorist activities of the Front de Libération du Quebec and some of the social and economic conditions of the province. He presents his findings in this story.

By SID MOODY

MONTREAL (AP) — There is blood on the Maple Leaf and the stain has soaked deep into Canada's flag and her people.

"I don't think people know what to think," said a Canadian of the two kidnappings and the murder of a Quebec political leader by terrorists.

Canada is a land born in peace and ripened with pride and integrity to one of the most stable democracies in the world.

But now . . .

—She watches her soldiers, who kept the peace for the United Nations on Cyprus and Gaza, coldly eyeing their own countrymen over the muzzles of their weapons.

—She sees her prime minister, a man devoted to liberty who walked freely among his people and skied Canada's mountains and canoed her great rivers unguarded, fenced by steel in his residence in Ottawa.

—Almost within sight of the island where she gayly welcomed the world to Expo 67 three years ago, Canadians have learned one of her leaders was choked to death by a chain that held a medal of his faith.

—A nation that fought Hitler now has seen police that come in the night, and the families left behind can only suspect where their loved ones have been taken.

How has it come to this, in Canada, in 1970?

There are many threads back through the centuries but they ravel around the province of Quebec—La Belle Province—a people within a people, a culture within a culture.

Perhaps it began in 1759 on the Plains of Abraham in Quebec City where Gen. James Wolfe defeated the French and decided that Canada should be English. But it also decided that Quebec would become a pocket of French Catholicism surrounded by a different tongue and a different people.

"There was a medieval charm to the old society, the church, the family," said Frank Scott, a law professor at McGill University.

"But the whole problem goes back to the ancient concept of a clerically-conceived society attempting to protect itself by resisting invasion of material forces—the whole industrial revolution, really. The church felt it had a great civilizing mission to sustain French Catholicism in this heathen North America."

The clergy, the educated elite of the province, rose to dominance, and the church became the centre of education, society, life itself.

"But they taught that life was a struggle, that reward lay in another world," says an English Canadian who grew up among the French.

Cut off by ideology from the booming technology of English Canada and the United States, Quebec concentrated on educating an elite—doctors, lawyers, writers. No engineers graduated from a French university in Quebec until the 1940s.

"As late as 1967 when they wanted to change the charter of the University of Montreal, they had to get papal approval," said Scott.

Language, too, was an invisible barrier between the two peoples. It remains so today.

After the kidnapping earlier this month of James (Jasper) Cross, the British trade commissioner in Quebec, and Pierre Laporte, the provincial labor minister murdered Oct. 17, soldiers were assigned as bodyguards to leading politicians. One party leader asked that a French guard be substituted for his English one. His wife doesn't understand English. This speaks much of the Canadian dilemma.

Proud of her faith and her tongue, Quebec has found herself with too few tools to work her way to the top of Canada's wealthy economic structure. Of the senior management jobs in the province, English Canadians hold 61 per cent, while the French comprise more than 75 per cent of Quebec's six million people.

The average English worker has two years more education than his French counterpart. His earns 25 per cent more income. A recent commission of inquiry found that in Montreal a college degree will increase the earnings of a French-speaking Canadian by $1,200 a year; for the English-speaking graduate the increase is $4,307.

There is resentment, to be sure, but the French and English have long been neighbors.

"They have learned to set their prejudices out," said one Canadian. But the disparities remain and they rankle despite efforts by Prime Minister Trudeau, himself half French, to bring his countrymen closer.

The radicals of the Front de Libération du Quebec—FLQ—the group that kidnapped the two men, call the Quebecers the "white Negroes of Quebec." The analogy may appeal to the poor of the province, but it is not without fallacy.

"Quebec has been able to make its own laws for 100 years," said an English Canadian. "They have their own newspapers. They are free to ride anywhere on a bus."

Asked Scott: "Where have the American Negroes control of 358,000 square miles, delegations to nations around the world, freedom to spend 23.1 billion as they wish?"

The fact is that for the last 10 years Quebec has been undergoing a so-called "quiet revolution"—of faith and of economics.

Whereas a few years ago no French vice-president sat on the board of the nationalized Canadian railway, today a French-Canadian presides as chairman of Air Canada. French-run Hydro-Quebec dominates the province's giant electric system.

At the same time the church almost overnight has seen its temporal power fade away. The liberalization of the Vatican councils, the growing awareness of Quebec's anachronistic theology in the atomic age, a conviction that life can be good in this world, too, have all undermined the former unquestioned authority of the church.

Said Scott: "A Jesuit told me in the 1940s, 'We can't have the French going into business. They'll lose their faith.' Well they didn't go into business but they did lose their faith."

The outburst of social issues in Quebec as well as elsewhere has also besieged the church's entrenched position.

"You can't telephone the Holy Spirit to find out what to do about abortion, the contestation of youth, social problems," said Jean-Paul Desbiens, a Marist brother and now chief editorial writer for La Presse, Canada's biggest daily in the French language. "I think they are as baffled as governments are."

The decline of clerical authority is no better illustrated than in the almost complete silence of the church in the wake of the FLQ kidnappings and murder. At the same time there has been a recent and notable challenge to authority by young students suddenly freed from the unquestioning attitudes of their parents.

The day before Laporte's murder, 1,500 students cheered and raised their fists when the FLQ manifesto was read at a meeting by 25 year-old Pierre Vallieres, the slum-reared radical who is a symbolician of the movement.

Two days before Laporte's murder, an estimated 30 per cent of the University of Montreal's 14,000 students walked out of classes, and the University of Quebec was ordered closed following seizure of a building by FLQ supporters.

The ferment of change in Quebec has led to two parallel movements towards separation of the province from Canada. One is the FLQ—terrorists responsible for more than 250 bombings since the first crude Molotov cocktail was found agitating in the snow in Montreal in 1963. In one night five bombs exploded in Westmount, an enclave of well-to-do English Canadians. Several people have been killed.

The FLQ has increasingly adopted the tactics of American radicals—or vice versa—by striking at symbols of the establishment. Its program is vague but has a growing Marxist tinge and speaks of creating a Socialist state in Quebec as a "model to the world."

"They say they want a fraternal society or a just society and so on," says Dr. Gustave Morf, a psychiatrist who has examined many of the 23 prisoners—some convicted of murder—that the FLQ demanded be freed as ransom.

"But they have practically no idea how it would work. They believe in violence as much as a Christian believes in Jesus Christ."

"The FLQ is exploiting some legitimate gripes," said one analyst of the Quebec scene. "Unemployment, urban poverty, slowness in the courts."

Cross' Wife Makes Appeal

MONTREAL (CP) — The wife of kidnapped British Trade Commissioner James (Jasper) Cross held on to the hope today that her husband de allive and his terrorist captors will let him go.

Barbara Cross maintained, in her own words, an agonizing wait for news of her husband after she broadcast a moving entreaty Monday night for his release.

While Mrs. Cross waited, authorities prepared to relax security measures connected with a safe-conduct offer to the kidnappers.

"It is agonizing to endure the long period of waiting, but I am confident that you are still alive and well," said the blonde woman in a voice that sounded tremulous at points in her brief appeal.

She switched to French to beg the kidnappers to treat her husband well and free him.

The tape-recorded message was broadcast by radio station CKLM three weeks after Mr. Cross, 49, was taken from his home at gunpoint by members of the Front de Liberation du Quebec. He was abducted as a hostage to back their demands for the release of imprisoned cohorts.

At the time Mrs. Cross decided to broadcast the appeal it had been eight days since she had received any word that her husband was alive.

Friends of Mrs. Cross said she had decided Monday to take up a standing offer from CKLM to broadcast a message. Quebec authorities approved the move.

In the message from Mrs. Cross, first broadcast at 10 p.m., and retroadcast subsequently, she said in English:

"It is now more than a week since I have heard from you. You are constantly in my thoughts and you must know how much I long for your safe return.

"It is agonizing to endure the long period of waiting, but I am confident that you are still alive and well.

"It has been a great consolation to me to have been able to read your four letters and to have some idea of what your thoughts have been at this time of separation.

"Your letters have moved me to hope that we will soon be together again. I do hope the FLQ will continue to allow you to write to me.

"Meanwhile Susie and I are thinking of you every waking minute and you must know you have all our love always."

Susie, 24, is their married daughter.

Mrs. Cross, switching to French, concluded:

"To those holding my husband, I express the hope that, as a victim of circumstances, he will be well treated. I beg you to free him without any more delay."

Police activity under the War Measures Act entered 13 days ago proceeded Monday with at least three more arrests and reports of a series of searches in Quebec outside the main urban areas. So far, five prime suspects have not been arrested under Canada-wide warrants.

At the same time, Justice Minister Jerome Choquette of Quebec said a three-man committee would be permitted to see and talk to persons detained under the emergency regulations.

The Young Demonstrators

Belleville's Queen Mary public school students staged a demonstration yesterday, but instead of placards they wielded garden implements. In miniature anti-pollution they showed how concern mixed with enthusiasm can usefully convert what most adults consider refuse. (For details, see Page 2.)

UK Reduces Taxes

LONDON (CP) — Edward Heath's Conservative government announced today reductions in personal and corporation income taxes accompanied by a variety of measures to reduce government spending.

Duties on certain imported foods will be increased. There will be higher charges for medicines under the National Health Service. Free milk at schools will be stopped for pupils beyond the age of seven and charges for dental care and spectacles will be increased.

Amid these changes, to become effective at various dates, Anthony Barber, chancellor of the exchequer, told the House of Commons restraints will be imposed on expanding defence spending though a British military presence will be maintained in Southeast Asia.

Introducing a mini-budget as Commons members returned from their summer vacation; Barber launched the new Tory drive for lower taxation and less government.

Beginning in April, the standard rate of personal income tax —now eight shillings threepence for each £1 of taxable income —will be reduced by sixpence. Corporation income tax will be cut to 45% per cent from 45 per cent.

But the cost of getting a medical prescription filled under the national health service will be increased to four shillings from the current two shillings sixpence.

Among other steps is one to stop the nationalization of British ports and also to wind up the current system of aiding certain industrial mergers under the industrial reorganization corporation.

Voters Change Trend

FREDERICTON (CP) — Richard Bennett Hatfield waits for a telephone call today from Louis Joseph Robichaud. They will talk over a change of government for New Brunswick.

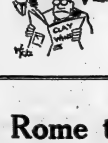
Mr. Robichaud, 45-year-old Liberal premier since 1960, was handed a sharp defeat in a provincial election Monday by Mr. Hatfield's Progressive Conservatives.

Mr. Robichaud, the peppery Acadian lawyer who emerged from defeat seemingly as cheerful as ever, promised Monday night to make the phone call and Mr. Hatfield, an unflappable 39-year-old bachelor, said he would be in his office waiting for it.

Party standings after the counting:

	1970	1967
PCs	22	26
Liberals	26	32
Doubtful	1	—
Total	58	58

The doubtful seat was undecided election night because of a shaky telephone line in Restigouche riding, where a Liberal candidate had a small 34-vote edge over his Progressive Conservative opponent with two polls unreported.



A recount appeared certain in Victoria where Conservative Joseph E. Dumont split the vote lead over Liberal Everard Daigle.

New Brunswick politics since 1879 have been a series of changeovers from one major party to the other, with no third party ever forming the government. The NDP made its biggest effort for power in the election, but managed to win only three per cent of the vote.

The future for Mr. Robichaud who had been premier since he was 34 years old—appeared unclear Monday night. Asked whether he would continue as party leader, he said: "I haven't made up my mind."

Later, he said he had no im-

General's Death 'Solved'

SANTIAGO (AP) — Gen. Emilio Cheyre says the assassination last week of Gen. Rene Schneider, Chile's army commander, is "practically solved."

Cheyre, who heads the investigation into the slaying, did not elaborate in his announcement Monday. But he said that "only a few details are lacking."

Schneider, 57, was shot last Thursday while being driven to his office. He died Sunday, less than 24 hours after Congress elected Marxist Senator Salvadore Allende to be the next president.

The general was given a hero's funeral Monday.

Chilean officials have said the assassination appeared to be the work of right-wingers seeking to block Allende from taking office Nov. 3. A state of emergency was declared after Schneider was shot, and police said Monday that more than 250 persons had been picked up for questioning. They said 30 remained in jail and that the rest had been released.

A midnight-to-dawn curfew imposed under the state of emergency remained in effect Monday night.

Ecuador Air Chief Abducted

QUITO (Reuter) — Gen. Cesar Rohe Sandoval, commander of the Ecuadorian air force, was kidnapped by unidentified men here today, police reported.

Police said the kidnappers seized the general early this morning, but declined to give further details about the abduction.

Rohe, 45, was seized shortly after attending a dinner at the British embassy here Monday night in honor of British Royal Air Force chief Sir Charles Elsworthy.

Elsworthy headed a British delegation here to take part in celebrations marking the 50th anniversary today of the foundation of the Ecuadorian air force.

Terrorists 'Don't Go to Rome to See Pope'

Richard E. Meyer is a member of the newsfeatures staff of The Associated Press in New York who has been in Quebec for more than a week assessing the impact of recent events. In the following story he writes about an interview with the mayor of Montreal.

By RICHARD E. MEYER

MONTREAL (AP) — The mayor of Montreal, who says he is marked for assassination, thinks that if political kidnapping is allowed to continue in Quebec province, it will spread to the United States.

"If we were to let them continue kidnapping our diplomats and members of government," said Mayor Jean Drapeau in an interview, "you can rest assured that those who have illegal purposes in the United States would do it.

"Someone hearing about what has happened here will start doing it."

Asked whether he or his police know of any ties between the terrorists of the Front de Liberation du Quebec and radical or terrorist groups in the United States or elsewhere, Drapeau said:

"My opinion is that these groups are full of men who do a lot of travelling. And they don't travel to Rome to see the Pope."

As two bodyguards stood nearby, Drapeau said the FLQ has prepared a list of government figures and others it wants assassinated in an attempt at revolution. "My name is on top," said the mayor, who was re-elected in a landslide vote Sunday.

The FLQ kidnapped British Trade Commissioner James (Jasper) Cross Oct. 5 and Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte five days later. The terrorists murdered Laporte Oct. 17 after the government refused to free 23 FLQ members serving prison terms or awaiting trial.

Drapeau said the FLQ would, rather have kidnapped Premier Robert Bourassa instead of Laporte, "but Bourassa was guarded more than Pierre Laporte, so they kidnapped Pierre Laporte."

Drapeau said it is possible for "a small group of determined men and women to take over a government because when people are scared, or people are indifferent, or people are afraid, they accept as a matter of fact a new government.

"When a revolution is starting, there are people of good faith who suggest that as a way to prevent the worst the government should resign and a new one be accepted and become a provisory government. . . . Conversations were held not only in Montreal, but in other parts of the province. . . . People were thinking of establishing a provisory government. . . . A provisory government is not a government that is constitutional but a government which is used by the revolutionists."

City, provincial and federal police are convinced, Drapeau said, that until Prime Minister Trudeau granted requests from him and Bourassa to send in federal troops and put the War Measures Act into effect, "the revolution had everything to succeed."

Donald R. Young Among Graduates

Donald Raymond Young, 72 Rollins Drive, will receive his professional designation as a registered industrial accountant at the 37th convocation of the Society of Industrial Accountants of Ontario No. 7 in Toronto.

Mr. Young is accounting supervisor with Union Carbide Canada Ltd. in Belleville. His graduation marks completion of the society's five-year management accounting education program.

He is part of the 1970 graduating class of 170 students who have completed their studies by attending evening lectures or by correspondence studies.

The five-year program includes courses in accounting, managerial statistics, auditing, cost accounting and commercial law.

Post Office Plan Will Go to Vote

TRENTON (Staff) — Council gave third and final reading last night to a by-law that will allow town taxpayers to decide the fate of the old post office on Dundas St. West.

When voters go to the polls here to elect a new mayor and council, they will also determine by a simple "yes" or "no" whether or not an estimated $251,000 should be spent to convert the old federal building site.

Submitting the home to the people was the recommendation of J. A. Kennedy, chairman of the Belleville Trapal Board, with whom a Trenton delegation met on Oct. 23 to discuss the project.

If popular assent is given to the scheme, the town corporation will develop the mid-town site along with private interests.

Municipal offices will be moved from the present east side location to be housed on one floor of the renewed building, hinds child of McIvoni architect, David K. Linden. The $251,000 cost to the town is broken down in two segments $187,000 for renovations and additions to the post office and $64,000 for services and landscaping.

Taxpayers would pay for the scheme through a series of 10-year debentures.

Residents Could Discourage Mill - - - Commissioner

PICTON (Staff) — William Duggan, industrial commissioner for Prince Edward County, yesterday warned chamber of commerce members that the CIP could decide to locate its pulp mill elsewhere if residents "overstep the line with inquiries and try to bully them."

He remarked that the CIP is "a very large company with a number of choices for location" and indicated that continued criticisms could spur withdrawal of their interest in a Prince Edward County site.

Mr. Duggan, attending the meeting as a guest, told chamber members his new duties could be outlined in four categories. He will be responsible for providing maps of the area and required statistics and for compiling an overall industrial report of the community. The new industrial commissioner will also analyze market reports and recommend distribution of promotional material for the county.

The department of education is dumping down on government grant formulas for 1971, Hastings county trustees learned last night.

Education Minister William Davis warned, in a letter read at the board meeting at Frankford Public School, that grants will be raised no more than nine per cent per elementary school pupil and six per cent per secondary school pupil in 1971.

In effect, the formula will restrict Hastings county's grant increase to 18 per cent per pupil, or an increase of $1.7 to $1.8 million over the $17.9-million budget for 1970.

"The increase will leave little room for new programs; it will be taken up by salary and supply cost increases," business administrator Kenneth Wormald told the board.

Maximum grants per pupil will increase by $545 from $500 for elementary school and to $1,090 from $1,000 for secondary school, the minister said in his letter to all school boards.

But many boards, including Hastings county, could raise per pupil expenditure in 1970 to less than the maximum funding allowed by the government.

In these cases, the 1971 increase cannot exceed $75 per pupil.

This year, Hastings county was allowed a maximum per pupil expenditure for ordinary elementary expenses of $465, and secondary of $565, an amount by $6.

The maximum allowable per secondary school pupil was $627 here, and the board actually spent the amount by $3. The difference was paid from the local property tax levy.

The minister's letter failed to indicate whether the $75 maximum increase allowed will be paid on the 1970 allowable maximums or on the 1970 actual per pupil expenditures.

While commending the government for giving some prior warning of the 1971 grant structure, the board directed its business administrator to seek clarification of his letter from the minister.

This year, the province's share of per-pupil costs averaged 51 per cent and the province has said it intends to increase this to 60 per cent by 1972.

However, Hastings county this year will receive 66 per cent of its revenue from the provincial government.

The board greeted the minister's letter with some dismay. It has gone on record in the past as regarding the department as somewhat insensitive to the need for rural boards to catch up to metropolitan boards that have operated on a broader tax base in many cases.

The ceilings placed on increases, the board has said, result in penalties boards that have kept expenditures low in the past, and reward boards that have been extravagant.

In his letter, Mr. Davis told chairmen: "I cannot emphasize too strongly the need for every possible economy in the light of the economic pressures which prevail at the present time."

He told boards that exceeded the designated per-pupil costs this year to end in half their over-expenditure in 1971, and to do away with it altogether in 1972.

Review After Jan. 31, 1971

Late School Buses to Get Trial Run

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Late buses will operate from county secondary schools to permit students to take part in extra-curricular activities, the board of education decided last night.

The buses will begin operating as soon as possible, probably by the end of the month, and will continue until May 15.

But the 24 new bus routes will be set up on a trial basis only, subject to review after Jan. 31, 1971, to determine if the response from pupils and parents warrants continuation of the service.

Cost of the remainder of 1970 would be $6,000, and for all 1971 would be $41,761.

Sufficient money remains in the transportation budget to handle the 1970 cost, manager of transportation John Bancroft told the board.

The buses would leave the schools at times ranging from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. to allow students to remain after school to participate in sports practices and events and take part in club activities.

The buses will travel only on main highways, leaving it up to parents to meet students at designated pick-up points.

Tenders will be called for the new routes so all the operators now supplying transportation will have an opportunity to bid.

But the buses leaving two schools, Moira and BCI, depend upon agreements with the Department of Indian Affairs and Prince Edward county board of education.

Sixty per cent of the students using the Moira late bus come from the Tyendinaga Reserve, and the board will ask the department of Indian Affairs to pay 60 per cent of the cost.

The bus leaving BCI would carry Ameliasburg students, whose transportation is the responsibility of Prince Edward county board. That board will be asked to assume the cost of a late bus for its Ameliasburg pupils.

That board now operates four bus routes out of Picton Collegiate.

Mr. Bancroft said the district of Hippisley board is not interested in paying for a late bus for its 10 students now attending North Hastings High School in Bancroft.

Open Explanation Requested For Water Ambulance Ruling

Motorbike Passenger Killed

PICTON (Staff) — A Prince Edward County student was killed yesterday morning and his companion injured when the motorbike they were riding spun out of control on county road 7 and slid across the highway striking a guidepost.

Dead is Martin Thissen, 17, RR4, Picton, a passenger on a new model bike driven by David Whattam, 17, RR4, Picton.

County coroner Dr. C. R. Richmond pronounced Thissen dead at the accident scene. David Whattam was taken to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital by ambulance.

The fatal mishap occurred at approximately 9 a.m. as the boys, both students at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, were riding to school. The motorbike went out of control on a grade known as Lake - on - the - Mountain Hill near the approach to Glenora ferry.

A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial police said that Thissen is believed to have died from a skull fracture. Both riders were wearing crash helmets at the time of the accident. It is not yet known whether an inquest will be held into Thissen's death.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Thissen, a brother, Lisle, and sisters Thea and Sharon, all at home. The body is resting at the Whattam Funeral Home in Picton. A time for the funeral service this evening will be fol-

Questionnaire Is Proposed

PICTON (Staff) — Ronald Scott, president of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce told a directors' meeting yesterday that the "hot debate" between merchants and hosts may be solved by a consumers' survey.

At meeting among local merchants to discuss a uniform store hour policy which this fall failed to provide a satisfactory program for business hours.

Mr. Scott reported that a Prince Edward Collegiate Institute student familiar with surveys has agreed to organize a poll of residents in Picton, Bloomfield and Wellington.

Consumers will be questioned about when they usually shop, what products they buy and what types of businesses they would like to see in the county. The results of the survey will be passed to local merchants for their review.

water ambulance was cut off last summer on the direction of the Emergency Health Services which states the water length used was reserved for land use only.

Since then the matter has been before council on several occasions, with council's last action being to invite Dr. McNally to come to Belleville to explain the action taken in connection with the water ambulance radio.

Dr. McNally's reply was that he was prepared to attend a meeting in Belleville but he would prefer to meet with a small committee made up of members of council and other interested parties.

"What Dr. McNally is really asking for is a private caucus meeting," objected Mayor H. Russell Scott.

"But everybody is interested and he should be prepared to say in an open meeting what he has done and why."

Council moved that Dr. McNally be asked to attend a meeting of Council to answer questions regarding the water ambulance radio matter.

Emergency Health Services head, Dr. N. H. McNally, will be asked to attend the open meeting of council to explain why radio control of the water ambulance service operated by Stu Neeks was revoked, council decided.

Canadian Cement Workers Withdraw Independence Motion

PICTON (Staff) — A resolution seeking withdrawal of Canadian members of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union, forwarded by Picton based Local 387 was withdrawn at the union convention in San Diego, California.

Divided support among the 26 Canadian delegates attending the convention forced local 387 President Andrew Hall and District Secretary Earl Robson to withdraw the motion at the convention.

Earl Robson, Picton, said the Picton Local representing about 150 workers at the Lake Ontario Cement Ltd. here, had responded to increasing public concern over control of Canadian industry by local unions in the United States.

The International Union represents approximately 20,000 workers across North America other than 4,500 in Canadian locals.

Mr. Robson stated Canadian delegates from the Western provinces and Quebec hesitated to endorse the resolution strongly supported by Ontario delegates.

"Unfortunately there is provincialism in Canada itself," he remarked.

He indicated that to effectively forward the resolution in future, complete Canadian unity would be necessary.

Mr. Robson said that the 275 American delegates attending the convention unanimously opposed the resolution while the other half strongly supported it.

The five-day convention of the international union ended last Friday.

Canadian Delegates Constantly Oppose Prisoner Shuttle Concerns Council

TRENTON (Staff) — Transporting prisoners to the new regional jail in Napanee will be expensive and cumbersome, council last night to ask the Attorney General's Department to do something about it.

In last night's special meeting, town solicitors received a petition he sent to Queen's Park requesting that the Ontario Provincial police assume the responsibility for driving prisoners from the local lockup to the new Napanee compound, scheduled to open in the spring.

Mayor Duncan McDonald told council that Belleville will be asked to pay for the shuttling of prisoners in the first year of the new centralized prison's operation.

He added that those arrested here will only be held overnight in the town jail and then must be transferred to Napanee, being driven back and forth for each court appearance.

Public School Students Join in Pollution Fight

There are times when even they do something about it.

Out on the front lawns grade 5-6 students were raking and spaded in a miniature operation that capsulized the conservation theme.

One of its originators, 11-year-old Debbie Howell, outlined the reasons behind the project:

"This fall, as usual, the trees shed leaves and — as usual — the school caretaking staff prepared to burn them.

"However, this is the year when new emphasis has been placed on pollution and Debbie and other Queen Mary students belong to a school pollution study group as part of a science project.

Burning leaves may unnecessarily smoke up the environment, they decided. Not only that, the leaves could be made to work for said environment.

Burying the leaves instead of burning them would create a fertilizing mulch for a future flower bed.

Mr. Carswell not only approved the project. He also applauded it in writing in a letter to the students:

"We hear many people talk of pollution. Many people quite us what we should do about pollution. Many people say we will all die if the pollution of our air and water is not controlled. But few people do anything about the problem.

"We still drive our cars, we still pour sewage and contaminants into the lake. Mr. Wells still throws our paper wrappings, bottles, and cans on the ground — we still burn our leaves . . ."

Such encouragement bore fruit yesterday as the students energetically raked the leaves before them into a prepared pit.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Irene Johnston wish to express their sincere thanks to relatives and friends for floral tributes, cards, and all the acts of kindness shown during the illness and death of our dear wife, mother and grandmother. Special thanks to ward 2E Manor Nursing Home, for the wonderful care and kindness shown to him during his stay there, and John Thomas, Undertaker.

SS Ratepayers Present Case

A delegation of separate school ratepayers from Belleville met with four members of the department of education in Toronto yesterday to present information concerning the suspension of superintendent, F. B. Allore.

Mrs. Douglas Boyle, spokesman for the group declined to give any details of the meeting, saying only that the group presented information resulting from "months of research" and told the department officials "how ratepayers thought the matter should be handled".

Mrs. Boyle told the Intelligencer this morning that the ratepayers' group is preparing a new and "stronger" brief to be presented to trustees at the public meeting Thursday night at 7 p.m. in St. Michael's Academy auditorium.

Prison Visits More Relaxed

PICTON (Staff) — Penitentiary inmates today are permitted a "somewhat improved visiting system," according to William McCabe, executive secretary of the John Howard Society, Kingston. He remarked that distance presents a problem in prison visitation and a more relaxed attitude has helped in overcoming this drawback.

The social worker noted that inmates who are visited only occasionally by friends or family arriving from distant points are allowed to see them periodically during a three-day period. Inmates are permitted to have regular visitors twice a month for half-hour periods, or once monthly for an hour.

If the visiting room is not crowded or should an inmate have infrequent callers, guards use their discretion in lengthening the visiting time.

Letters now can be written by inmates as often as they wish but only one letter a week is stamped by the government. Formerly, prisoners were allowed to send out just one letter a week.

Mr. McCabe asserted that the greatest improvements in the penitentiary conglomerate at Joyceville, Collins Bay and the farm annexes. He explained that in these detention centres "the old grill and the mouth pieces have gone." Wives who visit their husbands can bring a picnic lunch and conversation is not strained. There is much greater freedom," said Mr. McCabe.

Countdown to Takeoff

Cabin Crew Personnel Play Important Role

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Every day planes streak down the runways of the Canadian Forces Base here for a multitude of destinations.

Commitments are heavy, the miles logged are numerous but the safety procedures are rigid.

Not only are the flight crews involved in the extensive pre-flight checks, cabin crews are also.

Previous to departure, all planes carrying service personnel are given thorough cabin examinations by service crews.

Then two hours before take-off, the safety chutes, oxygen systems, emergency lights, fire extinguishing equipment are checked again by the cabin staff under the direction of the loadmaster for the flight.

On a CC 137 (Boeing 707) passenger flight, a check is also made to see that each seat has a Mae West and that it is properly seated.

As flight time approaches, the loadmaster collectives two essential pieces of information for the flight engineer — the takeoff weight of the aircraft and its centre of gravity.

The plane has a basic weight to which the loadmaster adds items for the meal, passengers and cargo.

Even the weight of the buckets carried is important and as it is constant, the centre of gravity of the aircraft alters.

Knowledge of the weight and balance are essential to the flight crews and the safety of the aircraft. It is from the matters of the centre of gravity that the flights engineer sets the stabilizer trim of the jet.

Again from the findings of this loadmaster, the fuel burn-off pattern is set. Emptying of certain fuel tanks tends to make a plane front - heavy, others tail - heavy. Thus, the pattern or burn-off is a factor in stability of the aircraft.

The loadmaster not only reports on the distribution of the load, he is responsible for its distribution. The arrangement aboard the plane is determined by him to establish the most favorable cabin situation for flight. If a load is improperly distributed it can reduce the range of an aircraft.

Tackling out for takeoff, the CC 137 has undergone an extensive safety examination. The methods of which were taught to her crew at 4 (Transport) Operational Training Unit here.

Also taught at Trenton's 4 OTU are emergency procedures — what to do in case of cabin fire, crash — any crisis.

All members of the crew are authorities on both safety and emergency drills. Each has an emergency station on the aircraft and, in the event of a crash, each is master of one 25-man dinghy.

Eight evacuation dinghys are stored in the ceiling of a CC 137 cabin. These are filled with survival kits. Also all crew members know how to use.

Training is a painstaking operation at 4 OTU and it is constantly being revised and updated. Furthermore, the education is never finished.

There are annual safety equipment lectures, safety chute trials and an evaluation team submits each member of the crew to a yearly spot-check.

Flying the CC 137 is pleasant. It reflects not only on the competence of her flight crew but also her cabin staff that this is the case.

Service personnel travelling in the new transport can have confidence in the fact that 4 OTU has prepared them for any eventuality.

MS Society Receives Wheelchair

A patient member of the Quinte Chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society received a wheel chair recently, donated by the CNR Yardmen Benefit Fund.

The presentation was made at the regular meeting of the society chapter at Harry J. Clarke Public School.

Anticipating the arrival of Christmas, the Multiple Sclerosis Christmas Cards are now on sale at 5 for $1.00.

The cards are designed to raise funds for the organization and its fight against the disease.

Adjustment to Free Life Difficult for Ex-prisoners

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prison inmates' preparations for adjustments to mainstream life highlighted an address to Picton Kiwanians presented by Wilf Ham McCabe, executive secretary of the John Howard Society, Kingston.

A graduate of the University of Manitoba, and a trained social worker, Mr. McCabe declared his basic belief that all men possess the potential for change. This potential however, must be accompanied by motivations for change which are frequently encouraged through social workers' efforts.

The speaker observed that inmates who discuss future plans and problems awaiting them "outside" seem to achieve the greatest success in rehabilitation programs. Prerelease work with penitentiary inmates tests, their reactions to thoughts of a future beyond prison walls.

"Does the inmate have a family waiting for him or will he step off a bus to look for a room," asked Mr. McCabe. This question typifies the individual problems facing parolees awaiting release. Following term prisoners who left behind relatives or married members of the John Howard Society work to understand their possible reactions to a world that has altered remarkably since their imprisonment.

Mr. McCabe explained that a prisoner who has indicated he will return to a large city such as Toronto might first be introduced to urban living in a smaller centre like Kingston. The inmate remains under supervision as he becomes acquainted with a changed world and becomes familiar with the city's Manpower Office.

Reassurance was described by the social worker as a vital need of parolees and of inmates in their first months out of prison. He remarked that the importance of daily living can become serious problems for these men unless understanding is provided. Mr. McCabe commented that as the ex-inmate meets the problems of being responsible for himself, he often grows unsure and begins to grasp for the security of prison.

The average prisoner was described by Mr. McCabe as "a man in his early 30s who has a low educational background and is unskilled in any trade." He is usually an urban dweller and could be in prison as a first offender.

The speaker noted that one aspect of the past that penitentiaries have had no previous criminal experiences. He added that, ironically, the criminal code demands that a man must go into a penitentiary for convictions and first offences. Embezzlers sometimes are sent there as examples. Life sentences are handed down for non-capital murder convictions and if a sentence involves more than two years' imprisonment for any offence, the convicted man is sent to a penitentiary. Mr. McCabe revealed that seven per cent of all "pen" inmates are serving sentences of 15 years or longer. "Many are serving life, and don't let American television programs show you that life is fine," said the speaker. "In Canada, life is life, and quite possibly a lifer spends his life in prison."

Mr. McCabe criticized long prison terms, stating that they do not fit men to live in society. He found it paradoxical that a man is banished from society in order to learn how to live in it.

Ex-inmates seldom recognize their problems out of prison until they have become too large to handle. Mr. McCabe discovered this as a common condition among the men he has worked with in his career. Fear of achieving things through the proper channels in one instance led to a legal charge against a former inmate who failed to handle his difficulties when they arose.

Mr. McCabe told Kiwanians that ex-inmates should not be forced to deal with a whole set of "new services" but should be helped in using the services others use.

In pre-release preparations inmates learn to discuss their problems individually and in groups. Some are sent while still serving sentences to a supervised residence in Toronto where they can check in and out in a sheltered environment, gradually adjusting to personal responsibility.

An enthusiastic social worker, Mr. McCabe described the John Howard society as an organization with approximately 80 per cent of its finances drawn from United Funds in the cities of its operations. Members remain accountable to a board of directors.

"The location of a John Howard Society in a community is none evidence that a community cares about what happens to ex-inmates," observed Mr. McCabe.

Obituaries

MRS. MARTIN HART

Mrs. Mary Jane Hart formerly of Deseronto, a resident of St. Mary's of the Lake Hospital in Kingston, died Monday at the hospital after being ill for 15 years. She was in her 89th year.

Born in Marysville, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Callaghan. She spent most of her life in Deseronto.

Mrs. Hart was a member of St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church in Deseronto. She was a past president and member of the Catholic Women's League.

She is survived by two cousins, Joe Brennan of Marysville and Edward Brennan of Deseronto. She was predeceased by her husband, Martin.

The body is resting at the White and Morris Funeral Home. Requiem Mass will be held Thursday morning in St. Vincent de Paul Church. Rev. C. Sneyers will officiate. Interment will be in the St. Vincent de Paul Cemetery.

Mrs. Ronnie Iona McInroy of 91 West Street died today in the Belleville General Hospital. She was in her 69th year.

Born in Madoc, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Johnston. She resided in Belleville for 20 years, living in Madoc prior to that.

Mrs. McInroy is survived by her husband, George; four sons, Douglas of Toronto, Donald of Belleville, Keith of Ottawa, and Alex of Belleville; two brothers, Sidney Johnston of Madoc and Alec Johnston of Belleville; and eight grandchildren.

She was predeceased by one daughter.

The body is resting at the Thompson Funeral Home where service will be held Thursday afternoon. Rev. Laurie Sutherland will officiate. Interment will be in the Belleville Cemetery.

Belleville Group Seeks Family Planning Unit

Limitation of population growth in a country such as Canada, where 90 percent of the land area is still unexcupied, has been termed as "ridiculous" by Bellev 111e Mayor J. Russell Scott.

The comment was made at yesterday's city council meeting following receipt of a letter from the Belleville chapter of Zero Population Growth urging establishment of a local family planning unit.

Mayor Scott said that although he was not opposed to family planning, any suggestion of zero population growth for a country such, as Canada had to be a joke.

The letter from the Zero Population Growth group indicated concern about the erosion and decay of the environment and suggested that any successful solution must incorporate a prompt halt or reversal of the present alarming rate of population increase.

But Alderman Robin Jeffrey didn't share the mayor's feelings about zero popula t o n growth.

"I don't think it is a joke at all," she said, adding that in her opinion there was a need for family planning.

Alderman Donald Souster said he thought it would be a progressive step to have a family planning unit in the city.

The request of the l o c a l branch of Zero Population Growth was referred to the county health unit and the social services committee.

REAL ESTATE

DOES AN OWNER NEED A REALTOR TO BARGAIN FOR HIM ?

ED McKECHNEY'S
R.R. 2, Belleville
Ranchy Ltd.

He wouldn't, if it weren't for a few "ifs".

If human beings did not have feelings; and if they did not have preconceived ideas (about the worth of property); and if they had knowledge of the legal pitfalls to avoid; and if a dozen other problems did not exist — then everything would be smooth sailing.

A Realtor is a neutral expert linking seller and buyer, and owes an obligation of integrity to both. This position enables him to act as a go-between and advisor to both parties. He becomes a buffer against hurt feelings and misunderstandings.

When a prospective buyer makes an offer — usually below the asking price — the seller dealing directly with the buyer can find it difficult to negotiate such things as price, terms and possession.

When to concede a point and when to remain firm are decisions that simply need an expert. This kind of expertise comes only from experience, knowledge of the market, study of real estate law and considerable skill in all-important human relations.

Spy Activities

The legend of the beautiful spy is one that dies hard — and every now and again legend and fact seem to become reality. It happened before in Canada, five years or more ago in the case of Gerda Munsinger. Now a 26-year-old South African woman has sprung into the headlines as having spied for Cuba, while living and working in Toronto and Washington. She is said to have had connections with both the FLQ and the Black Panther movements.

The young woman, described variously as "a traffic-stopping . . . startlingly attractive blonde," was permitted to leave the United States recently after making a full statement to the FBI. Two Cuban diplomats were expelled from Washington as a result and the woman is now reported to be in hiding in her native South Africa.

What motivates such an attractive young woman to serve the interests of a foreign power — one whose ideology is as alien to that of her own country and that of Canada and the United States? From her picture she is certainly not a typical looking Marxist. Yet a friend from Toronto days is quoted as saying her apartment had pictures of Castro and Che Guevara, that she had worked in the sugar fields in Cuba and held Marxist views. She had a high moral code, he said, yet the FBI is reported to have the names of more than 100 men dated by the girl while she worked for Cuban intelligence.

There are other contradictions, among them a statement by a Toronto official of the Fair Play for Cuba organization that the girl's spy image surprised him, for he recalled when she returned from Cuba she was "rather disillusioned."

A Toronto executive for whom she worked as a private secretary recalled that she was a "very loveable, outgoing person, sparkling personality, well-liked . . ." She never discussed politics with him, but he remembered her as sympathizing strongly with "any little cause that would turn her on . . . anything she thought was being oppressed. "Idealistic . . . naive" were other descriptions he gave of the young woman's personality.

On returning home last month the young woman was reported to have worked briefly as a secretary for a carpet concern in Johannesburg, but quit the job in the wake of the FBI revelations. Her job prospects must now be virtually nil and she is believed to have been taken into hiding by the South African security people. It all adds up to one of the most intriguing stories of this unsettled time in the world's history and it is unlikely that we have heard the end of it.

Challenged to Duel

If Parliamentarians were obliged to fight a duel every time they touched a sore point in their opponent's armor there would be a lot of dead bodies around.

Fortunately, dueling is against the law in Canada (the last fatal duel fought in Ontario, as we recall, was in Perth in the last century), otherwise we could long since have had old political rivals like Prime Minister Trudeau and Prime Edward-Hastings MP George Hees challenging each other.

Despite such a ban, however, we note that Regional Expansion Minister Jean Marchand has been told to choose his weapons by Claude Longtin, a defeated Montreal mayoral candidate. The latter accuses Mr. Marchand of linking his party with the FLQ.

It is a nasty situation. A man does not want to be branded a coward, so what is Mr. Marchand to do, apart from citing the law? Perhaps he can evoke the War Measures Act as a means of settling this matter honorably? Or better still, Mr. Longtin would be better settling for some less extreme means of achieving the same end.

Ever Onward

These are mild enough days for the time of year. They are the kind of days we could have expected much earlier in the month — and return a little more next week, we hope. But daylight saving is over for another spell and we are edging closer to winter. Get out in time, though, and you can still get a little golf, and brisk autumnal air. Even the beaches attract their quota of those who take to the outdoors at all costs. Thus the old cycle continues, and one is reminded of some words of Cecil Rhodes: "So much to do, but so little time in which to do it."

Drapeau Wins

Mayor Jean Drapeau's overwhelming victory in the Montreal election is one bright spot in the difficult times the city is experiencing. His return is a vote for law and order, progress and stability, at a time when evil forces are determined to create anarchy both in the city and throughout Quebec.

Bleeding Hearts, Kooks and Creeps on Parliament Hill

Mounties Firm Against Hysteria of Dissent

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — In all the tight-wound tension and sick horror of these weeks of terror, the RCMP was there on Parliament Hill in their scarlet - coated scores.

And looking finer than ever.

The core of confrontation, too, both constitutionally politic and within the chamber of the House of Commons and other Hill-top activist, militant and even riotous outside on broad walks, driveways and lawns at the foot of the Peace Tower.

And never as both emotional confrontation, electric in its charge, on the dreadful weekend of the FLQ beating, torture and killing of Pierre Laporte.

There on one side were the bleeding hearts whining about civil rights and the War Measures Act, with never a word about the monstrous murder of the helpless man put slowly and painfully to death bound hand and foot. Nor a mention of the agony of his family. Nor one thing about the suffering, the rage, the frustration and the shame of the nation.

Allied with the bleeding hearts were, well, what other word is there for them but the kooks . . . the student nuts from the campuses with their insane pickets' signs of support for the FLQ.

In this very strange company indeed were other double domes from the intellectually arrogant self-anointed academe, in emotional shock at the sight of the soldiery, and in hysteria about freedom's repression at gunpoint — neglecting to specify whose gun, the Government's or the terrorists'.

And there were unspeakable young creeps crying out their four-letter obscenities at Prime Minister Trudeau as he came and went from emergency Cabinet sessions.

Arrayed against them, and far outnumbering the bleeding hearts, the pointy-heads, the kooks and the creeps, were just people.

Deeply stirred emotionally to the pitch of applauding and cheering the Prime Minister, and singing O Canada.

Deeply emotional, you ask?

Yes, for usually unmoved and completely unconcerned Ottawa crowds, again yes.

This time, though, there was no shrugging disinterest.

Some, in fury, could have been stoned to rage that queer gang of dissenting oddballs off the Hill.

But there between the two groups, and the crowds ranged from a few hundred to several thousands back during the dark and daylight hours, stood the RCMP.

They had their sidearms, of course, but holstered and buttoned down as usual, and their walkie-talkies.

But they did not have to say, or much less do anything more than just stand there, as cool and calm as on a summer morning when they stand and smile with groups of tourists for the cameras.

What makes them so good when, after all, to hear it and see it and read it, they are "pigs?"

Perhaps it is like their new commissioner, William Leonard Higgist, says.

They are special.

They have a tradition going back 97 years to 1873 when they were formed, and as a light cavalry unit became key, order and representation of the government of the new nation to the vast grasslands rolling westward from just beyond the Great Lakes to the Rockies.

And they have an elan unbanished through all that time.

They have changed their horses for cars, their dog teams for snowmobiles, and their canoes for aircraft.

But they have not changed their spirit, the broad-brimmed Stetson, the scarlet tunic, the blue breeches with the gold stripe, the cavalry boots and spurs.

For a short time there was a threatened change of RCMP fashion, green instead of scarlet on patrol, unspurred boots in the cruisers.

"But recently," says Commissioner Higgist, "I have directed our men to get back into their scarlets, breeches, boots and spurs particularly when, more frequently, we come increasingly into the public eye and conscience."

The Commissioner did not argue that Canadian our uniform and more, are coming to value the RCMP as a sort of elite semi-military symbol.

"It is possible," he says, "that we are not an ordinary police force, I think we have a special responsibility to all Canadians, and in carrying it out with honor I think our uniform is important to what I think many people regard as our mystique."

There was something very comforting to see Commissioner Higgit striding beside Solicitor General George McIlraith, that soft-voiced, genial - mannered but hard-as-a-rock parliamentary veteran of 30 years on their way to those crisis conferences of the special Cabinet Committee on Security.

Michael Servetus, Spanish doctor, was burned alive at Champel, near Geneva, 417 years ago today—in 1553—for heresy. Denial of the theological doctrine of the Trinity and the eternity of Christ's existence made him a heretic to both Roman Catholics and Protestants. He had escaped from the Inquisition only three months before Calvinists seized him. At the time of Servetus's execution, Swiss law provided only for banishment and not death as the maximum punishment for religious offences.

An Open Line and the Events of the Day

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

8:25a morning Monday to Friday. CJBQ with its open line program "What do you think?" — posing the question as an invitation to listeners to call in and comment on the station's interest.

Listeners enduring moderator Milt Johnston's daily doze of nasal incantation may be excused if they feel a more appropriate name for the program might have been "what I think", as what Mr. Johnston thinks usually dominates it.

With remarkable verbal adroitness, Milt fields questions from callers covering a wide range of subjects. Most fall into the category of relatively unimportant; every day aggravations or misunderstandings that can be easily explained or resolved. In such cases, the caller is usually left off the hook without Mr. Johnston having to use his armory of sarcasm.

However, when faced with an articulate knowledgeable caller who declines to capitulate to his abrasive personality, Mr. Johnston retires behind a barrier of petulant silence, "um" or "er", or finds it necessary to "pause for a commercial".

As the grave events of the past week unfolded in Canada, it was natural that many people would make use of a program such as this to express their point of view.

It was apparent that 99 per cent of those calling fully supported the government's action in invoking the War Measures Act.

This did not please Mr. Johnston at all, and he supercilously categorized them as "rightists" while shedding copious crocodile tears in an endeavor to persuade listeners they had lost their civil liberty and Canada had become, overnight, a police state.

Yet, in this police state of Mr. Johnston's imagination, he was able to sit behind a microphone, unfettered, free to utter inane and irresponsible comments on the government's stand. If Mr. Johnston talked with some of our new Canadians he might learn what a police state really is.

Since the War Measures Act was implemented, thousands of people, unhindered, have entered and left this country — there are no curfews even a troubled Quebec, and for most people in the greater part of the country, including Mr. Johnston, things are much the same as before.

Under the act, some innocent people have been inconvenienced and some have been detained. The same thing occurs daily in the routine process of law enforcement across the country without arousing Mr. Johnston's ire. Yet when anarchy and terrorism threaten to deprive us of all liberties Mr. Johnston has the temerity to suggest we are living in a police state.

Our government was democratically elected, by a majority of the people, and, in this instance, has acted as it saw fit to protect the interest of those people. Canadians, as a people, are unlikely to tolerate any unnecessary restriction of their freedom for very long.

We have a vigilant, and vociferous opposition who will see that the government is not tardy in lifting the restrictions as soon as possible.

In the meantime, there are too many newspapermen and broadcasters with a penchant for distorting the truth with exaggeration, replacing fact with fiction while they use the dramatic freedoms of this country to weaken and destroy it.

The poor and underprivileged of this country are more than ever aware of the inequitable distribution of the countries' wealth, and all forms of government, must, immediately take massive and continuous measures to correct this great social injustice. The seeds of insurrection and revolt cannot germinate when cast upon barren soil.

The government is now treating the effects of the malady that afflicts the country — only when they treat the cause can we be assured of a just society.

Bargaining Counter for Russians?

U.S. Generals' Plane Strays Into Soviet Union

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In its search for political weapons against Turkey, the Soviet Union may have difficulty resisting the tempting little contract all possible benefits from the inadvertent landing of two United States generals on the Russian side of the mountainous Turkish frontier.

Because it is a NATO member and a close ally of the United States, Turkey is a barrier against Soviet military strategy, imposing a geographic problem on the Russians expand their influence and military operations in the Mediterranean and the Middle East.

The Turkish shoreline provides a broad and imposing view of Soviet naval activities in the Black Sea and effective means of spying on Soviet naval power shifting from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean.

Probably more intensive is the electronic spying game on the rugged eastern frontier where both sides are known to maintain a constant watch through radar and specially-equipped high-flying planes.

It was from a southern Turkish base that American U2 pilot Gary Powers set out on his ill-fated spying mission in 1960. American missiles in Turkey also figured in Nikita Khrushchev's argument in attempting to establish nuclear missiles in Cuba in 1962. The late president Kennedy quietly removed pressure of the land-based U.S. missiles when Khrushchev dismantled and withdrew the weaponry in Cuba.

More recently the Russians showed annoyance and anger when the Turks refused to yield two Lithuanians who hijacked a Soviet plane in which a Russian stewardess was killed.

The immediate speculation is that the Russians may want to strike a bargain, to trade the two generals, along with their companions, for the two Whited Soviet citizens or perhaps to extract political or military concessions from both Turkey and the U.S.

Indeed, there is the intriguing question of whether the American plane flying close to the frontier may not have been lured to the Soviet side by fake radio signals though the more obvious explanation is that the plane simply ran into bad weather and had to land whenever possible.

Whatever the cause, the presence of two American generals in Soviet "captivity" is an embarrassment to the American leadership. One of them, Maj.-Gen. Edward Scherrer, is head of the U.S. military mission in Turkey. The other, Maj.-Gen. Claude McQuarrie, is a military aide at the U.S embassy at Ankara.

Between them they have a wealth of military information which would be of great value to the Russians. The risk of yielding to temptation to extract as much information out of the situation as possible may involve jeopardizing the increasing cordiality in Soviet-American relations.

Soviet officials have accused the U.S. administration of raising "cold war" ghosts as part of American electioneering. The manner in which the Russians handle the affair of the two generals can throw more light on real Soviet intentions.

New Brunswick Conservatives Post Surprise Victory at Polls

mediate plans to step down. He brushed off suggestions he will be appointed to the Senate.

He admitted he was "somewhat surprised" by the PC victory, an almost exact reversal of the 1967 results. During the campaign he predicted the Liberals would win as many as 43 of the 58 seats.

The PCs gained six seats from the government. The fallen Liberals included Finance Minister L. G. DesBrisay in Moncton and Resources Minister William H. Duffie in Sunbury. Those two constituencies, with a total of five seats, proved the key to the Conservative victory.

Mr. Hatfield said he would be in his office in Fredericton early today beginning to "tackle the job ahead of me."

One early item on the Conservative leader's agenda will be to seek a meeting with Prime Minister Trudeau. During the campaign he promised to arrange such a meeting to discuss the province's problems.

The PCs gained 10 per cent of the popular vote on the basis of 74 per cent of the polls reported. The Liberals took 47 per cent.

In the 1967 election, the Liberals received 53 per cent and the PCs 41.

Mr. Robichaud said the change-over will take place as soon as possible "and as peacefully as possible. . . . This is democracy in action."

The election followed a campaign which was low-key through its first few weeks. It warmed up in the final 10 days with Mr. Hatfield accusing Mr. Robichaud of "threatening" the voters by suggesting a Liberal government here could deal more effectively with the federal Liberals.

However, at no point did the campaign become as bitter as the one in 1967 when Mr. Robichaud clashed with then PC leader, J. C. Van Horne.

Both major parties and the NDP stressed economic development, with all three promising to provide thousands of jobs over the next 10 years. All parties also pledged to lower the voting age to 18 from the present 21.

The Liberals campaigned on their record, with Mr. Robichaud pointing to the last decade as a period of "exceptional industrial, economic and social progress."

Mr. Hatfield said it was time for a change. "The switch is on to a new government."

Mr. Hatfield promised to hold the line in taxes, and eliminate the eight-per-cent sales tax on building materials and children's clothing.

The two leaders preached a contrast following the election. The defeated Mr. Robichaud was his usual bouncy self, while the victorious Mr. Hatfield was deadly serious.

The Liberals were aiming for a fourth straight victory, a feat three times accomplished by Liberal governments since 1878. The PCs have never won more than two elections in a row.

Mr. Hatfield is a rangy, sandy-haired bachelor, born in Hartland in the province's potato belt, the son of Heber Hartfield Hatfield, a former PC member of Parliament. He grew up with politics. His second name is Bennett after the late federal Tory leader from New Brunswick—R. B. Bennett, later Lord Bennett.

He got to know national PC Leader Robert Stanfield when Mr. Hatfield was a law student in Halifax, and he worked in Mr. Stanfield's Colchester constituency in Nova Scotia in 1958 when the PCs ended 22 years of Liberal rule in that province.

After a year in Ottawa as executive assistant to the federal trade minister, he returned to New Brunswick in 1958 to become sales manager of the family potato-chip business in Hartland, a firm which has since been sold.

He entered provincial politics to win a 1961 byelection in his home constituency of Carleton, a riding he has held since.

With his eye on the party leadership from the day he entered the legislature as a backbencher, Mr. Hatfield challenged Charlie Van Horne for the job in 1966, but lost. When the flamboyant Mr. Van Horne suffered personal defeat in the 1967 election and left the province, the way was open for the Carleton County lawyer with the low-key style.

Mr. Van Horse reappeared in 1968, winning a provincial byelection and returning to the legislature with all his former thunder. But at the PC party leadership convention in June, 1968, Mr. Hatfield emerged the winner on the first ballot.

Between that convention and Monday's election, he logged thousands of miles, visiting every corner of the province and maintaining constant contact with constituency workers.
